

Indian Regulatory framework

• What is Law?

⇒ Law is a set of obligations and duties imposed by the government for securing welfare and providing justice to society. India's legal framework reflects the social, political, economic and cultural aspects of our vast and diversified country.

• Source of law.

⇒ The main source of law in India are the Constitution, the Statutes or laws made by parliament and State Assemblies, precedents or the Judicial Decisions of various Courts and in some cases established customs and usages.

• Constitution of India, 1950.

⇒ It is the foremost law that deals with the framework within which our democratic system works, and our laws are made for the people, by the people. The Constitution also provides for and protects certain fundamental rights of citizens. It also lays down fundamental duties as well as the powers and duties of Governments, both Central and State. The laws in India are inter-connected with each other forming a hybrid legal system.

The people who wrote the Constitution decided to divide the law-making power between the Central Government and the various State Governments. So, the Indian Constitution has three lists viz., Central list, State list and Joint list.

• The Process of Making a Law.

When a law is proposed in parliament it is called a Bill. After discussion and debate, the law is passed in Lok Sabha. Thereafter, it has to be passed in Rajya Sabha. It then has to be obtain the assent of the President of India. Finally, the law will be notified by the govt. in the publication called the official Gazette of India. The law will become applicable from the date mentioned in the notification as the effective date. Once it is notified and effective, it is called an Act of Parliament.

- Types of laws in the Indian legal system.

- Criminal Law :-

⇒ Criminal law is concerned with laws pertaining to violations of the rule of law or public wrongs and punishment of the same. Criminal law is governed under the Indian Penal Code, 1860 (IPC), and the Code of Criminal procedure, 1973 (CPC). The Indian penal code, 1860, defines the crime, its nature, and punishments whereas the criminal procedure code, 1973, defines exhaustive procedure for executing the punishments of the crimes.

Murder, Rape, theft, fraud, cheating and assault are some examples of criminal offences under the law.

- Civil Law:-

⇒ Matters of disputes between individuals or organisations are dealt with under civil law. Civil Courts enforce the violation of certain rights and obligations through the institution of a Civil Suit. Civil law primarily focuses on dispute resolution rather than punishment. The act of process and the administration of Civil law are governed by the Code of civil procedure, 1908 (CPC). Civil law can be further classified into law of contract, family law, property law and law of tort.

Some examples of civil offences are breach of contract, non-delivery of goods, non-payment of dues to lender or seller, defamation, breach of contract, and disputes between land lord and tenant.

• Common law :-

⇒ A judicial precedents of a case law is common law. A judgment delivered by the Supreme Court will be binding upon the courts within the territory of India under Article 141 of the Indian constitution. The doctrine of stare decisis is the principle supporting common law. It is a latin phrase that means "to stand by that which is decided". The doctrine of stare decisis reinforces the obligation of courts to follow the same principle or judgement established by previous decisions while ruling a case where the facts are similar or "on all four legs" with the earlier decision.

• Principles of Natural Justice:-

⇒ Natural justice, often known as Jus naturalis deals with certain fundamental principles of justice going beyond written law. Nemo judex in causa sua, i.e. No one should be made a judge in his own cause, and its a rule against Prejudice, audi alteram partem; i.e. hear the other party or give the other party a fair hearing, and reasoned decision are the rules of Natural Justice. A judgement can override or alter a common law, but it cannot override or change the statute.
