Q. 20

State with reasons whether the following statement is Correct or Incorrect:

- (i) If an offer is made in the form of a promise in return for an act, the performance of that act even without any communication thereof, is to be treated as an acceptance of the offer,
- (ii) Counter offer to an offer does not make the original offer lapse. (2 marks each; 1995 - May)

Answer:

(i) Correct:

As per the provisions of the Indian Contract Act, as contained in Section 8, when the performance of the conditions of a proposal takes place, or some required act is done, it shall constitute an acceptance to the proposal.

(ii) Incorrect:

In order to make a binding contract, there must be an absolute and unconditional acceptance of terms of the offer. A counter offer is a rejection of the original offer and constitute a new offer. Therefore, the original offer shall lapse on making a counter offer by the other party.

State with reasons whether the following statement is True or False:

Acceptance can be made even without the knowledge of the offer.

(2 marks; 1995 - Nov)

In order to constitute a contract, offeree must have the knowledge of the offer, and there can be no acceptance without it. (Lalman v. Gauri Dutt, 1913.)

Q. 22

State with reasons whether the following statement is True or False:

An agreement with intention to create legal liability is not enforceable in law.

(2 marks; 1996 - May)

Answer:

Incorrect:

Section 2(h) of the Indian Contract Act, 1872 requires an agreement to be worthy of being enforceable by law. The parties to a contract must have the intention to impose a legal duty on the promisor to fulfill the promise and bestow a legal right on the promisee to claim its fulfillment. An agreement without intention to create legal obligation is no contract.

(2 marks; 1997 - May)

Answer:

Correct:

An offer must be accepted in the manner prescribed by the offeror. Where it is not so made, the offeror can treat it as lapsed, but he should inform the offeree about his decision. If he does not inform the offeree about his rejection, the offer does not stand lapsed. (Felthouse v. Bindley, 1862).

Q. 24

State with reasons whether the following statement is correct or incorrect:

- (i) All kinds of obligations created between the parties form part of the contracts.
- (ii) A contract to purchase a black horse, which was dead at the time of bargain, is voidable.

(2 marks each; 1998 - May)

Answer:

(i) Incorrect:

An agreement should give rise to a legal obligation i.e. obligation which is enforceable at law [Section 2(h)]. Agreement which give rise only to social, moral or domestic cannot be termed as contracts. [Balfour v. Balfour 1919].

(ii) Incorrect:

According the Section 20 of the Indian Contract Act, where both the parties to an agreement are under a mistake as to a matter of fact essential to agreement, the agreement is void. Since, neither party was aware of the fact that the horse was dead at the time of bargain, the contract is void, and not voidable.

Q. 25

State with reasons whether the following statement is Correct or incorrect:

Communication of an offer is complete when the letter is posted though it has not reached the person to whom the offer is made.

(2 marks; 1998 - Nov)

Answer:

Incorrect:

(2 marks; 1999 - May)

Answer:

Incorrect:

Where the mode of acceptance is prescribed in the proposal, it must be accepted in that manner. Section 7(2) of the Indian Contract Act, 1872 lays down that if the proposal prescribes the manner of acceptance and the acceptance is not made accordingly, the proposer may within a reasonable time, insist to follow the mode of acceptance prescribed and not otherwise.

Q. 27

State with reasons whether the following statement are correct or incorrect:

A proposal when accepted becomes a contract.

An illegal contract is fatal to the main contract, but not to collateral transactions.

(2 marks each; 1999 - Nov)

Answer:

(i) Incorrect:

Section 2(b) of the Indian Contract Act, 1872, which defines the term 'acceptance' state that proposal when accepted becomes a promise. Thus, acceptance creates the promise and not a contract because to create a contract, the element of enforceability is necessary.

(ii) Incorrect:

An illegal agreement is one, which has been expressly declared as the unlawful. Such an agreement is a nullity and hence cannot be enforced. When an agreement is illegal, collateral agreements to such illegal agreements are also illegal. Hence the question of their enforcement does not arise.

Q. 28

State with reasons in brief whether the following statement is correct or incorrect:

Every agreement is necessarily regarded a contract.

(2 marks; 2000 - May)

Answer:

The statement is incorrect:

As per Section 10 of the Indian Contract Act, 1872, an agreement is regarded as a contract when it is enforceable by law. In other words, an agreement that the law will enforce is a contract. Hence, every agreement cannot essentially be regarded as a contract, but every contract is an agreement.

State with reasons in brief whether the following statement are correct or incorrect:

The communication of a proposal is complete when it comes to the knowledge of the person to whom it is made (Section 4 of Indian Contract Act, 1872).

(ii) Correct:

Q. 30

State with reasons in brief whether the following statement is correct or incorrect:

Q. 32

State with reasons in brief whether the following statement is correct or incorrect:

Offer may be revoked after the letter of acceptance is posted by acceptor. (2 marks; 2002 - Nov)

Q. 33

State with reason(s) whether the following agreements are valid or void:

X offers to sell his Maruti Car to Y. Y believes that X has only Wagon R Car but agrees to buy it.

(1 mark; 2021 - July)

Answer:

Void: Consent is one of the essential elements of a valid contract. If there is no consent, there is no contract. TWO or more persons are said to consent when they agree upon the same thing in the same sense i.e. they are at consensus-ad- idem. In this case agreement is void, since, parties have not understood same thing in same sense.

Q. 34

Write short note on "Voidable Agreement".

(5 marks; 1995 - Nov)

Answer:

Voidable Agreement:

A contract the consent to which is caused by coercion, undue influence, fraud or misrepresentation is voidable at the option of the party whose consent was so caused (Bishandeo Narain v. Seogero Rai AIR 1951 SC 280).

Thus, the aggrieved party has the option either to avoid the contract or alternatively, to affirm it. The burden of proving the said elements is on the plaintiff [Hims Enterprise v. Ishak Bin Subari (1992) 1 CLJ 132]. He can exercise his option only once. If the contract is affirmed, it becomes enforceable and if avoided it becomes void [Easf India Commercial Company v. Collector of Customs AIR 1962 SC 1893]. It continues to be valid and enforceable till it is repudiated by the aggrieved party. The application of option by aggrieved party is subject to certain restrictions:

1. When the party, aware of his right to rescind, affirms the contract, the right of rescission is lost.
2. When a party at whose option a contract is voidable rescinds it, the other party thereto need not perform any promise therein contained in which he is promisor.
3. Rescission must be claimed within reasonable time.
4. The right of rescission is lost when a third party, acting in good faith, acquires right in the subject matter of the contract.
5. Rescission is subject to the condition that the party seeking rescission must be in position to restore the benefits he may have obtained under the contract.

Section 19A deals with the contracts affected by undue influence which have been declared as voidable at the option of aggrieved party. Such contracts may be set aside absolutely or partly. Court enjoys discretion.

Q. 35

Write short note on "Acceptance by conduct".

(5 marks; 1996 - Nov)

Answer:

Acceptance by Conduct: Section 2(b) of the Indian Contract Act states that when a person to whom a promise is made, signifies his assent thereto, the proposal is said to have been accepted. The assent means that acceptance has been signified either in writing or by word of mouth or by performance of the act. Thus, acceptance may be in writing, oral or by conduct. Thus, where a person performs the act intended by the proposer as the consideration for the promise offered by him, the performance of the act constitutes acceptance. To illustrate it, a tradesman receives an order from a customer and executes it by sending the goods, the customer's order for goods constitute the offer which has been accepted by the tradesman subsequently by sending the goods. This example is a case of acceptance by conduct.

In fact, where the offeror invites acceptance by the performance of the act, the performance of the act becomes a valid acceptance of the offer. On this account it is provided in Section 8 that the performance of the condition or conditions of a proposal or the acceptance of any consideration for a reciprocal promise which may be offered with a proposal, constitutes an acceptance of the proposal. A bus conductor shouting that the bus is going to a particular place invites passengers to board the bus. A passenger boards the bus and pays the fare. Boarding and paying the fare amounts to acceptance by conduct on the passenger.

But performance of the act without knowledge of the offer, does not amount to a valid acceptance. Lalman Shukla v. Gourie Dutt and Crown v. Clarke are the cases on this point.

Q. 36

Write short note on "Kinds of offer".

(2 marks; 1998 - May)

Answer:

The kinds of offer may be discussed as follow:

- (i) General Offer: It is an offer made to the public at large and hence anyone can accept and do the desired act (Carlill v. Carbolic Smoke Ball Co. 1893). For instance, an offer to give reward to any body who finds a lost dog is a general offer. Although a general offer is made to the public at large, the contract is concluded only with that person who acts upon the terms of the offer.
- (ii) Specific Offer: When the offer is made to a specific or an ascertained person it is known as a specific offer. Specific offer can be accepted only by that specified person to whom the offer has been made (Bottom v. Johns).
- (iii) Cross Offer: When two parties exchange identical offers in ignorance at the time of each others offer, the offers are called Cross Offers. There is no binding contract in such a case because offer made by a person can not be treated as an acceptance of the another's offer [Tinn v. Hoffman and Co. (1873) 29 L.T. 271].
- (iv) Counter Offer: When the offeree offers to qualified acceptance at the offer subject to modifications and variations in the terms of original offer, he is said to have made a counter offer. Counter offer amounts to rejection of the original offer (Hyde B. v. Wrench 1840).
- (v) Standing Open or Continuing Offer: An offer which is allowed to remain open for acceptance over a period of time is known as a standing, open or continuing offer. Tender for the supply of goods is a kind of standing offer.

Q. 37

Write short note on the "Executed and executory contracts".

(2 marks; 1999 - May)

Answer:

Executed and Executory Contracts: On the basis of execution or performance, contracts may be classified into two groups i.e. executed and executory.

Executed contract is a contract where both the parties have fulfilled their respective terms and obligations, and where in nothing remains to be done by either party. Thus, executed is a contract which has reached to its maturity of performance and completion of contractual obligations. On the other hand executory contract is a contract where both the parties have still to perform their respective contracted obligations. In such contracts, some act remains to be performed at a future date.

Q. 38

Write short note on "Offer and invitation to offer".

(2 marks; 1999 - Nov)

Answer:

Offer and Invitation to Offer: When one person signifies to another his willingness to do or to obtain from doing anything with a view to obtaining the asset of that other to such act or abstinence, he is said to make an offer or proposal [Section 2(a) Indian Contract Act, 1872]. A valid offer must meet the tests of (1) contractual intention of definiteness and (2) communication to offeree.

Offer is different from an invitation to offer. In an offeror expresses his willingness to contract in terms of his offer with such finality that the only thing to be awaited is the assent of the other party. Where a party without expressing his final willingness, proposes certain terms on which he is willing to negotiate, he does not make an offer. He only invites the other party to make an offer on those terms. An invitation to traders to make tenders, an invitation by a company to the public to subscribe its shares, display of goods for sale in shop windows, auction sales, quotation of prices in reply to a query, are all examples of invitation to offer - buy or sell as the case may be.

Q. 39

Write short note on "Void Contracts".

(5 marks; 2001 - May)

Answer:

Void Contracts (read as void agreements): An agreement which is not enforceable by law is void. Such an agreement has some legal defect and therefore cannot be enforced in a Court of Law. Section 2(i) defines a void contract as, "a contract which ceases to be enforceable by law becomes void when it ceases to be enforceable."

Thus, a void agreement does not have any legal effect i.e., the party not performing his part of the promise under a void contract cannot be sued in a law court, rather does not have any legal obligations.

Examples of Void Contracts:

1. A contract vitiated by mistake as to fact and both the parties are mistaken as to the identity, existence of the subject matter of the contract etc. (Section 20)
2. Where the consideration or object of the contract is unlawful (Section 23).
3. Where the contract is not supported by consideration.
4. Agreements declared expressly void by the Contract Act, such as:
  - Agreement in restraint of marriage (Section 26)
  - Agreement in restraint of trade (Section 27)
  - Agreement in restraint of legal proceedings (Section 28)
  - Agreement by way of wager (Section 30).

There may be cases of such contracts where in the beginning they are valid but later on become void due to impossibility of performance due to operation of law.

Q. 40

Write short note on the following:

- (a) When is the communication of an offer and acceptance through post complete? (2 marks; 2001 - Nov)

Answer:

Communication of an offer is complete through post when it comes to the knowledge of the person to whom it is made i.e., when the letter containing the offer reaches the offeree. (Section 4 Indian Contract Act, 1972).

Communication of acceptance has two aspects:

- (i) As against the proposer.
- (ii) As against the acceptor.

Against the proposer, the communication of acceptance is complete when it is put in the course of transmission to him, so as to be out of the prior of the acceptor, but it shall be complete as against the acceptor when it comes to the knowledge of the proposer, e.g. A proposer by letter to sell a house to B at a certain price. B accepts A's proposal by a letter sent by post. The communication of acceptance is complete;

- (a) As against A, when the letter is posted by B.
- (b) As against B, when the letter is received by A.

Thus, an offer can be revoked till a duly addressed letter of acceptance is put in the course of transmission and not thereafter. It is immaterial whether the letter of acceptance reaches the other party or is lost in transit. The acceptance can, however, be revoked till the letter of acceptance actually reaches the offeror and he learns of its contents.

Q. 41

Write short note on "Executed and Executory contracts.

(2 marks; 2002 - May)

Answer:

An executed contract is one in which both the parties have performed their respective obligations. In other words, if the consideration for the performance of obligation is paid, it is a contract for executed consideration. For example, A agrees to write an article to B for Rs. 5,000. When A writes the article and B pays the price, i.e. when both the parties have performed their obligations, the contract is called an 'Executed' Contract. An executory contract is one in which both the parties have not yet performed their obligations. In other words, if the consideration to the performance of obligations is still to be payable, the contract is known as contract for executory consideration. Thus, in the above example the contract is executory if A has not yet written the article and B has not paid the price.

Q. 42

Write short note on the "Rules regarding acceptance".

(5 marks; 2002 - Nov)

Answer:

Rules relating to Acceptance of Offer:

The following are the Rules relating to Acceptance of Offer:

- (i) Absolute and Unqualified: As per Section 7 of the Indian Contract Act, 1872, an acceptance is valid when it is absolute and unqualified and is expressed in some unusual and reasonable manner, unless the proposal prescribed the manner in which it is to be accepted.
- (ii) Communicated to Offeror: An acceptance with a variation is no acceptance. It is simply a counter proposal, which shall have to be accepted by the original proposer before a contract can be deemed to have come into existence. A counter proposal is the offer by the offeree and can result in a contract only if the other party accepts it. It must further be remembered that an acceptance must specifically relate to the offer made. An offer made by the intended offeree without the knowledge that an offer has been made to him cannot be deemed as an acceptance thereto.
- (iii) Mode Prescribed: Where the mode of acceptance is prescribed in the proposal, it must be accepted in that manner. But if the proposer does not insist on the proposal being accepted in the manner prescribed after it has been accepted otherwise, i.e. not in the prescribed manner, the proposer is presumed to have consented to the acceptance.
- (iv) Reasonable Time: Acceptance must be given within a reasonable time and before the offer lapses.
- (v) Mere Silence is not Acceptance: Acceptance may be expressed or implied. Acceptance must be given after knowing the offer. Acceptance must be given by the person to whom the proposal is made.
- (vi) By Conduct Also: The assent means that acceptance has been signified either in writing or by word of mouth or by performance of some act. Therefore, when, a person performs the act intended by the proposer as the consideration for the promise offered by him, the performance of the act constitutes acceptance.

Q. 43

Distinguish between "General offer and Specific offer".

(5 marks; 1995 - Nov)

Answer:

General and Specific Offer: When offer is made to a definite person, it is known as specific offer and such offers can be accepted only by that specified person [Bottom v. Johns]. On the other hand general offer is an offer made to the public in general and hence anyone can accept and do the desired act. In Carlill v. Carbolic Smoke Ball Co. (1893) The Court accepted that an offer could be made to the world at large.

Section 8 of the Indian Contract Act points out that performance of the conditions of a proposal is an acceptance of the proposal. Where a general offer is of continuing nature, it will be open for acceptance to any number of persons until it is retracted.

Q. 44

Distinguish between "Offer and invitation to an offer".

(2 marks; 1996 - May)

Answer:

Offer and Invitation to an Offer: An offer is the final expression of willingness by the offeror to be bound by his offer, should the other party choose to accept it. On the other hand offers made with the intention to negotiate or offers to receive offers are known as invitation to offer. Thus, where a party without expressing his final willingness proposes certain terms on which he is willing to negotiate he does not make an offer, but only invites ' the other party to make an offer on those terms.

In order to ascertain whether a particular statement amounts to an offer or an invitation to offer, the test would be intention with which such statement is made. The mere statement of the lowest price which the vendor would sell contains no implied contract to sell at that price to the person making the inquiry.

Examples: Quotations, Catalogues and Price lists cannot be considered as offers.

Q. 45

Distinguish between “Void and Voidable Contract”.

(5 marks; 1996 - Nov)

Answer:

Void and Voidable Contracts: The two can be distinguished on the basis of:

- 1. Definition: A contract which ceases to be enforceable by law become void when it ceases to be enforceable. A voidable contract is an agreement which is enforceable by law at the option of one or more of the parties thereon, but not at the option of other or others.
- 2. Nature: A void contract is valid when it is made but subsequently becomes unenforceable on certain grounds such as supervening impossibility, subsequent illegality, repudiation of a voidable contract, a contingent contract depending upon happening of a uncertain event when occurrence of such event becomes impossible. A voidable contract on the other hand, is voidable at the option of the aggrieved party.
- 3. Rights: A void contract does not provide any legal remedy for the parties to the contract. They even cannot get it performed when they so desire. The aggrieved party in a voidable contract gets a right to rescind the contract. When such a party rescinds it, the contract becomes void. In case the aggrieved party does not rescind the contract, within a reasonable time, the contract remains valid.
- 4. In Case of void agreements, restitutions is always allowed unless the illegality on the void nature of the agreement was known to the parties at the time of making of the agreement. In voidable contracts, when they are rescinded benefit will be restored as far as possible.
- 5. A voidable contract does not affect the collateral transactions. But where the agreements is void on account of illegality the collateral transactions will also become void.

Q. 46

Distinguish between “Void agreement and an Illegal agreement”.

(2 marks; 1997 - May)

Answer:

DISTINCTION BETWEEN VOID AND ILLEGAL AGREEMENTS: According to Section 2(g) of the Indian. Contract Act, 1872, an agreement not enforceable by law is void. Both the agreements are not enforceable by the law courts. The points of distinction, however, of both these agreements can be made on the following basis:

- 1. Scope: An illegal agreement is always void while a void agreement is not always illegal being void due to some other factor e.g., an agreement in which the terms of the agreement are uncertain.
- 2. Effect of collateral transactions: If an agreement is merely void and not illegal, the collateral transaction to the agreement may be enforced for execution, but collateral transactions of an illegal agreement cannot be enforced since they are also declared to be illegal.
- 3. Punishment: Illegal agreements are punishable under the Indian law, while void agreements are not.
- 4. Void-ab-initio: Illegal agreements are void from the very beginning, but sometimes void agreements are not. Sometimes a valid contract may be subsequently void e.g. doctrine of supervening impossibility may apply.

Q. 47

Distinguish between “Wagering agreements and contingent contracts”.

(5 marks; 2000 - Nov)

Answer:

Wagering Agreements and Contingent Contracts: The two can be distinguished below:

1. A wagering agreement is a promise to give money or moneys worth upon the determination or ascertainment of an uncertain event. A contingent contract on the other hand, is a contract to do or not to do something if some event, collateral to contract does or does not happen.
2. A wagering agreement consists of reciprocal promises, while a contingent contract may not contain reciprocal promises.
3. In a wagering agreement the uncertain event is the sole determining factor, while in a contingent contract the event is only collateral.

4. A wagering agreement is essentially of a contingent nature whereas a contingent contract may not be of a contingent nature.
5. A wagering agreement is void, while a contingent contract is valid.
6. In a wagering agreement the parties have no other interest in the subject matter of the agreement except the winning or losing of the amount of the wager. In other words, a wager is a game of chance, but this is not so in case of a contingent contract.

Q. 48

Distinguish between "Offer and an Invitation to Offer".

(5 marks; 2001 - Nov)

Answer:

Offer and an Invitation to Offer: When a person communicates to another his willingness to do or abstain from doing something with a view to obtain the assent of that other person towards the act or abstinence, the person making the communication is said to be making an offer. An invitation to offer is a mere statement of intention inviting a person to come and negotiate. Therefore, it is prelude to an offer. It is devoid of any legal effects., e.g.,

- (a) Goods displayed in show window with price tags thereon.
- (b) Prospectus issued by a company inviting the public to apply for shares.
- (c) Price lists or catalogues,
- (d) Circulars sent to potential customers.
- (e) Tender notice.
- (f) Auction notice.

Q. 49

Comment on the following:

- (a) Acceptance is to a proposal what a lighted match is to a train of gunpowder.

(5 marks; 1994 - Nov)

Answer:

Offer is lighted match while acceptance is a train of gun powder: It is a cardinal rule as regards to acceptance that once the acceptance has been made to an offer the contract is complete. According to Sir William Anson "Acceptance is to offer what a lighted match is to a train of gun powder". The effect is that the acceptance produces something which can not be recalled or undone. But the man who led the train may remove it before the match is applied. So an offer may lapse for want of acceptance, or be revoked before acceptance. Acceptance converts the offer into a promise and then it is too late to revoke it. This means that as soon as a lighted match is brought in contact with a train of Gun Powder the gun powder explodes. Offer is compared to gun powder and acceptance to a lighted match. Gun Powder (i.e. The Offer) by itself is inert, it is the lighted match (i.e., the acceptance) which causes the gun powder to explode. The meaning is that an offer by itself cannot create legal relations between the parties, but as soon as it is accepted by the offeree, legal relationship is established between the parties. Once an offer is accepted it becomes a promise and cannot be revoked or withdrawn.

Q. 50

What agreements are expressly declared void by the Indian Contract Act?

(5 marks; 1994 - Nov)

Answer:

Void contract, in effect, is no contract at all. Usually the word void means not binding in law. As such void contract means a contract which has no legal effect at all, it is a nullity and will not create any legal rights between the parties. A contract may be void from its very inception or it may become void subsequently. The Indian Contract Act specifically declares the followings agreements as void:

1. Agreements entered by parties incompetent to contract such as minor, lunatic, persons of unsound mind, alien enemy, sovereign States, Ambassadors and Diplomatic Couriers.
2. Agreements with an unlawful consideration and object in full or in part (Sec. 23).
3. Agreements made under a mutual mistake of fact by both the parties to the contract (Sec. 22).
4. Agreements without consideration (Sec. 25).
5. Agreements in restraint of marriage, trade, or legal proceedings etc.
6. Agreements the meaning of which is not certain. But where the meaning thereof is capable of being made certain, the agreement shall be a valid one (Sec. 29).
7. Wagering agreements i.e., agreements involving a payment of a sum of money upon the determination of an uncertain event and where none of the parties to the agreement has a legitimate interest in the subject matter of the agreement.

Q. 51

What are the essential elements of a valid contract?

(5 marks; 1996 - May)

Answer:

The examination of the provisions of Section 10 of the Indian Contract Act, 1872 disclose the following essentials of a valid contact:

1. There must be an agreement between the parties to the contract with an intention to create legal relationship. An agreement consists of offer and acceptance, which is enforceable by law.
2. There must be consideration and its object both must be lawful and not prohibited by law.
3. The parties must have capacity to make a valid contract so as to be not affected by the provisions of Section 11.
4. The consent of the parties must be free so as not to be covered by the provisions of Section 14.
5. The agreement must not be one which the law declares to be either illegal or void.
6. The agreement must be in writing and registered if so required by the law for the time being in force.

Q. 52

Comment on the following:

A proposal can be revoked otherwise than by communication.

(5 marks; 1996 - Nov)

Answer:

A proposal can be revoked otherwise than by communication: A proposal may be revoked not only by the communication of the notice of revocation by the proposer or by his authorised agent to the other party but also:

1. By lapse of time fixed for acceptance or lapse of reasonable time, if not acceptance has been specified [Section 6(2)]: A proposer is not bound to keep his proposal open indefinitely, the reason being that it would amount to a promise without consideration and such a promise is unenforceable. (Ramsgate Victoria Hotel Co. Vs. Montefiore).

2. By the failure of the acceptor to fulfil a condition precedent to acceptance: Section 6 of the Act contains the law on this subject. A proposal is also revoked by the failure of the acceptor to fulfil condition precedent to acceptance, e.g. A agrees to execute a certain document in favour of B, if B deposits Rs. 5,000/- as earnest money.

3. By the death of insanity of the proposer: Death or insanity of the proposer under the law operates as the revocation of the proposal, only if the fact of the death or insanity has come to the knowledge of the acceptor.

Q. 53

Answer in brief on the following:

(a) What is an illegal agreement? State the effects of illegality.

(5 marks; 1997 - May)

Answer:

The illegal agreements are those which involve committing of a crime or act of moral turpitude or acts opposed to public morals. An illegal agreement is not only void as between the immediate parties; but its collateral transactions are also illegal.

Effects of illegality: Generally in law, no action is allowed on an illegal agreement so that people will be discouraged from entering into an illegal agreement. Thus, no action can be taken for recovery of money paid or property transferred under an illegal agreement and for breach of illegal agreement.

In case of equal guilt in an illegal agreement, the position of defendant is better than that of plaintiff. However, the plaintiff may sue on an illegal agreement than where he was induced to enter into an agreement by fraud or undue influence and where an essential part of the agreement has not been carried out and he is truly repentant.

Q. 54

Comment on the following:

Counter offer to an offer lapses the offer.

(5 marks; 1997 - Nov)

Answer:

When the offeree offers to qualified acceptance of the offer subject to modifications and variations in the terms of original offer, he is said to have made a counter offer. Counter offer amounts to rejection of the original offer. (Hydev. Wrench, 1840)

The rule is based on the principle that unless the parties have consensus-ad-idem i.e. are of one mind there cannot be agreement between them. The rule is in itself obviously necessary for words of acceptance which do not correspond to the proposal actually made are not really an acceptance of anything and therefore, can amount to nothing more than a new proposal, or, as it is frequently called a counter offer. Making a counter offer amounts to a rejection of the original offer, which offer can not be thereafter accepted.

Q. 55

Define the term 'Acceptance'. Discuss the legal provisions relating to communication of acceptance.

(10 marks; 1997 - Nov)

Answer:

According to Section 2(b), the term 'acceptance' is defined as follows:

"When the person to whom the proposal is made signifies his assent thereto, the proposal is said to be accepted. A proposal, when accepted, becomes a promise."

An acceptance in order to be valid must be absolute, unqualified, accepted according to the mode if any prescribed within reasonable time and communicated to offeror. Acceptance can also be made by way of conduct. The legal provisions relating to communication of acceptance are contained in Section 4.

The communication of a proposal is complete when it comes to the knowledge of the person to whom it is made.

The communication of an acceptance is complete:

- (a) As against the proposer, when it is put in a course of transmission to him, so as to be out of power of the acceptor;
- (b) As against the acceptor, when it comes to the knowledge of the proposer.

Illustrations: A proposes, by letter, to sell a house to B at a certain price:

(1) The communication is complete when B receives the letter.

(2) B accepts the proposal by a letter sent by post. The communication is complete:

As against A, when letter is posted.

As against B when the letter is received by A. Section 3 of the Act prescribes, in general terms, two modes of communication, namely: (1) by any act or (2) by omission, intending thereby to communicate to the other or which has the effect of communicating it to the other. This first method would include any conduct and words whether written or oral. Written words would include letters, telegrams, telex messages, advertisements, etc. Oral words would include telephone messages. Any conduct would include positive acts or signs so that the other person understands what the person acting or making signs means to say or convey. Omission would exclude silence but include such conduct or forbearance on one's part that the other person takes it as his willingness or assent. These are not the only modes communication of the intention of the parties. There are other means as well, e.g., if you as the owner, deliver the goods to me as the buyer thereof at a certain price, this transaction will be understood by every one, as acceptance by act or conduct, unless there is an indication to the contrary.

The phrase appearing in Section 3 "which has the effect of communicating it", clearly refers to an act or omission or conduct which may be indirect but which results in communicating an acceptance or non-acceptance. However, a mere mental but unilateral act of assent in one's own mind does not tantamount to communication, since it cannot have the effect of communicating it to the other.

Who is competent to accept an offer? Explain the rules relating to an offer, as provided in the Indian contract Act, 1872.

(10 marks; 1998 - Nov)

Answer:

Who can accept an offer?

When an offer is made to a particular person it can be accepted by him alone. If it is accepted by any other person, there is no valid acceptance. However, in case of general offer, it can be accepted by any one, who has the knowledge of the offer. The persons who wants to accept the offer must be competent to enter into contract, as per requirements of the Indian Contract Act.

Legal Rules relating to an offer:

- (i) Offer must be such as in law is capable of being accepted and giving rise to legal relationship. A social invitation, even if it is accepted, does not create any relation because it is not so intended.
- (ii) Terms of offer must be definite, unambiguous and certain and not loose and vague.

- (iii) Offer must be distinguished from: (i) a declaration of intention and an announcement and (ii) an invitation to make an offer or do business.
- (iv) Offer must be communicated, otherwise there can be no acceptance of it. An acceptance of the offer, in ignorance of the offer, is no acceptance and does not confer any right on the acceptor.
- (v) Offer must be made with a view to obtaining the assent of the other party addressed and not merely with a view to disclosing the intention of making an offer.
- (vi) Offer should not contain a term the non-compliance of which may be assumed to amount to acceptance. Thus, a man cannot say that if acceptance is not communicated by a certain time, the offer would be considered as accepted.
- (vii) A statement of price is not an offer.

Q. 57

Comment on the following:

Offer is lighted match while acceptance is a train of gunpowder.

(5 marks; 1999 - May)

Answer:

It is a cardinal rule as regards to acceptance that once the acceptance has been made to an offer the contract is complete. According to "Sir William Anson" Acceptance is to offer what a lighted match is to a train of gunpowder". The effect is that the acceptance produces something which cannot be recalled or undone. But the man who led the train may remove it before the match is applied. So an offer may lapse for want of acceptance, or be revoked before acceptance. Acceptance converts the offer into promise and then it is too late to revoke it. This means that as soon as a lighted match is brought in contact with a train of gunpowder, the gun powder explodes. Offer is compared to gun powder and acceptance to a lighted match. Gun powder (i.e. the offer) by itself is inert, it is the lighted match i.e. the acceptance Which causes then gunpowder to explode. The meaning is that an offer by itself cannot create legal relations between the parties, but as soon as it is accepted by the offeree, legal relationship is established between the parties, Once an offer is accepted it becomes a promise and cannot be revoked or withdrawn.

Q. 58

When the revocation of a proposal may be made otherwise than by communication?

(5 marks; 1999 - May)

Answer:

Revocation of proposal otherwise than by communication: A proposal may be revoked not only by the communication of the notice of revocation by the proposer or by his authorised agent to the other party but also;

- (i) By lapse of time [Section 6(2)]: Proposer is not bound to keep his proposal open indefinitely the reason being that it would amount to a promise without consideration, and such a promise is unenforceable (Ramsgate Victoria Hotel Co. V. Montefiore 1866).
- (ii) By non-fulfilment by the offeree of a condition precedent to acceptance [Section 6(3)]: A proposal is also revoked by the failure of the acceptor to fulfil condition precedent to the acceptance. A condition precedent is a condition which prevents an obligation to come into existence until the condition is satisfied. An offeror may impose condition such as executing a certain document, or deposition of certain amount as earnest money. Failure to satisfy any such condition shall make a proposal lapse.
- (iii) By the death or insanity of the proposer: Death or insanity of the proposer, under the Indian law, operates as the revocation of the proposal, only if the fact to the death or insanity has come to the knowledge of the acceptor. If the acceptor accepts an offer in ignorance of the death or insanity of the offeror, the acceptance is valid.
- (iv) If a counter offer is made to it: The counter offer lapses the offer made by the offeror.
- (v) If an offer is not accepted according to the prescribed or usual mode, provided the offeror gives notice to the offeree within a reasonable time that the acceptance is not according to the prescribed or usual mode. If the offeror keeps quiet, he is deemed to have accepted the acceptance [Section 7(2)].

An offer can, however, be revoked subject to the following rules:

- (i) It can be revoked at any time before its acceptance is complete as against the offeror.
- (ii) Revocation takes effect only when it is communicated to the offeree.
- (iii) If the offeror has agreed to keep his offer open for a certain period, he can revoke it before the expiration of the period only.

- a. if the offer has in the meantime not been accepted or
- b. if there is no consideration for keeping the offer open.

Q. 59

Comment on the following:

An acceptance must be made before the proposal lapses.

(5 marks; 2000 - May)

Answer:

Under Section 5 of the Indian Contract Act, 1872, a proposal may be revoked at anytime, before the communication of its acceptance is complete as against the proposer but not afterwards. An acceptance may be revoked at any time before the-communication of acceptance is complete as against the acceptor but not afterwards. Therefore an acceptance must be made before the offer lapses or is revoked.

Q. 60

What are implied contracts? State the various implied contracts.

(10 marks; 2000 - May)

Answer:

Under certain circumstances, a person may receive a benefit to which the law regards another person as better entitled, or for which the law considers he should pay to the other person, even though there is no contract between the parties. Such relationships are termed as "Quasi-Contracts" or Implied Contracts. A quasi contract rests on the ground of equity that a person shall not be allowed to enrich himself unjustly at the expense of another. Sections 68 to 72 of the Indian Contract Act, 1872 have prescribed the following relationships creating quasi-contractual relationship:

1. Supply of necessaries: Under Section 68, if a person, incapable of entering into a contract, or anyone whom he is legally bound to support, is supplied by another person with necessaries suited to his conditions in life, the person who has furnished such supplies is entitled to be reimbursed from the property of such incapable person.

2. Payment by an interested person: It has been laid down in Section 69 of the Indian Contract Act that a person who is interested in the payment of money which another is bound by law to pay, and who therefore pays it, is entitled to be reimbursed by the other.

3. Obligation to pay for non-gratuitous Act: Section 70 of the Indian Contract Act states that where a person lawfully does anything for another person or delivers anything to him not intending to do so gratuitously, and such other person enjoys the benefit thereof, the latter is bound to make compensation in respect of or to restore, the things so done or delivered.

4. Responsibility of finder of goods: Under Section 71 of the Act, a person who finds goods belonging to another, and takes them into his custody, is subject to the same responsibility as a bailee.

5. Case where money is paid by mistake or under coercion: Finally, Section 72 of the Indian Contract Act provides that a person to whom money has been paid, or anything delivered, by mistake or under coercion, must repay or return it. Thus, quasi-contractual right is always a right to money and generally, though not always to a liquidated sum of money. It does not arise from any agreement between the parties concerned, but is imposed by the law. It is a right which is not available against whole world but against a particular person or persons only. There is no contract between the parties in cases of quasi contracts, yet they are put in the same position as if there were a contract between them.

Q. 61

State the rules relating to acceptance of a Contract.

(10 marks; 2000 - Nov)

Answer:

Rules Relating to Acceptance of a Contract: The Indian Contract Act, 1872 specifies the following rules relating to the acceptance of a contract. It means that a valid contract can be made only by adhering to the following rules relating to the acceptance of an offer. These are:

1. Acceptance must be absolute and unqualified: Acceptance shall be valid only when it is absolute and unqualified and is expressed in some usual and reasonable manner, unless the proposal prescribes the manner in which it is to be accepted.

2. Acceptance must be communicated to the offeror: Acceptance must be brought to the knowledge of the offeror. Unless the offeror knows about the acceptance, he can not be bound by the acceptance given by the offeree. Mere silence is no acceptance.

3. Acceptance must be in the mode prescribed: Where the mode of acceptance has been prescribed in the proposal, it must be accepted in the manner prescribed, otherwise it shall not bind the offeror. However, the offeror may later on waive this condition and bound himself from the acceptance not given in the prescribed mode.

4. Time: Acceptance must be given within the prescribed time and where no time is prescribed, within the time which is reasonable and does not allow the offer to lapse.

5. Acceptance may be expressed i.e. words of mouth or in writing, or even implied i.e. by conduct of the party concerned.

6. Acceptance must be made by the person to whom the offer is made: Acceptance given by some other person or even on behalf of the person to whom the offer is made, is not valid acceptance.

7. It cannot precede an offer. If it does, it is not a valid acceptance and does not result in a contract.

8. It must show an intention on the part of the acceptor to fulfil the terms of offer.

9. It must be given before the offer lapses or before the offer is withdrawn.

Q. 62

When does an offer come to an end?

(5 marks; 2002 - May)

Answer:

An offer may come to an end by revocation or lapse or rejection. According to Section 6 and 7 of the Indian Contract Act, 1872, an offer comes to an end in the following cases:

1. If the offerer revokes his offer before it has been accepted by the offeree, the offer comes to an end.

2. The offer comes to an end if it is not accepted within the time fixed in the offer, or within a reasonable time as the case may be. What is a reasonable time is a question of fact.

3. If there is a condition mentioned in the proposal, before the fulfilment of which the acceptor can not accept the proposal, the offer will automatically be revoked if the acceptor fails to fulfil that condition precedent.

4. If the fact of the death or insanity of the proposer comes to the knowledge of the acceptor before acceptance, the offer of proposal is revoked. (Section 6)

5. Sometimes, the mode of acceptance is specifically prescribed in the offer. In such a case, if the proposal is not accepted in the prescribed form or method, it stands revoked. [Section 7(2)]

6. An offer comes to an end as soon as it is rejected by the offeree.

7. An offer lapses if it becomes illegal before it is accepted.

Q. 63

Comment on the following:

All contracts are agreements, but all agreements are not contracts.

(5 marks; 2002 - Nov)

Answer:

"All contracts are agreements, but all agreements are not contracts":

An agreement comes into existence when one party makes a proposal or offer to the other party and that other party gives his acceptance to it. A contract is an agreement enforceable by law. It means that to become a contract an agreement must give rise to a legal obligation i.e. duty enforceable by law. If an agreement is incapable of creating a duty enforceable by law, it is not a contract. There can be agreements which are not enforceable by law, such as social, moral or religious agreements. The agreement is a wider term than the contract. All agreements need not necessarily become but all contracts shall always be agreements.

All agreements are not contracts: When there is an agreement between the parties and they do not intend to create a legal relationship, it is not a contract. For example, A invites B to see a football match and B agrees. But A could not manage to get the tickets for the match, now B cannot enforce this promise against A i.e. no compensation can be claimed because this was a social agreement where there was no intention to create a legal relationship.

All contracts are agreements: For a contract there must be two things (a) an agreement and (b) enforceability by law. Thus existence of an agreement is a pre-requisite for existence of a contract. Therefore, it is true to say that all contracts are agreements.

Thus, we can say that there can be an agreement without it becoming a contract, but we can't have a contract without an agreement.

Q. 64

Explain the modes of revocation of an offer as per the Indian Contract Act, 1872.

(5 marks; 2018 - Nov)

Answer:

The modes of revocation of an offer as per the Indian Contract Act, 1872 are:

- (i) By notice of revocation
- (ii) By lapse of time: The time for acceptance can lapse if the acceptance is not given within the specified time and where no time is specified, then within a reasonable time. This is for the reason that proposer should not be made to wait indefinitely.
- (iii) By non-fulfilment of condition precedent where the acceptor fails to fulfil a condition precedent to acceptance the proposal gets revoked. This principle is laid down in Section 6 of the Act. The offer or for instance may impose certain conditions such as executing a certain document or depositing certain amount as earnest money.
- (iv) By death or insanity
- (v) By counter offer
- (vi) By the non-acceptance of the offer according to the prescribed or usual mode
- (vii) By subsequent illegality.

Q. 65

Define the term acceptance under the Indian Contract Act, 1872. Explain the legal rules regarding a valid acceptance. (7 marks; 2021 - Jan)

Answer:

Definition of Acceptance:

In terms of Section 2(b) of the Indian Contract Act, "the term acceptance" is defined as follows:

"When the person to whom the proposal is made signifies his assent thereto, proposal is said to be accepted. The proposal, when accepted, becomes a promise".

Analysis of the above definition

1. When the person to whom proposal is made - for example if A offers to sell his car to B for ? 2,00,000. Here, proposal is made to B.
2. The person to whom proposal is made i.e. B in the above example and if B signifies his consent on that proposal., then we can say that B has signified his consent on the proposal made by A.
3. When B has signified his consent on that proposal, we can say that the proposal has been accepted.
4. Accepted proposal becomes promise.

Legal Rules regarding a valid acceptance

(1) Acceptance can be given only by the person to whom offer is made: In case of a specific offer, it can be accepted only by the person to whom it is made. [Boulton vs. Jones (1857)] Case Law: Boulton vs. Jones (1857)

Facts: Boulton bought a business from Brocklehurst. Jones, who was Brocklehurst's creditor, placed an order with Brocklehurst for the supply of certain goods. Boulton supplied the goods even though the order was not in his name. Jones refused to pay Boulton for the goods because by entering into the contract with Brocklehurst, he intended to set off his debt against Brocklehurst. Held, as the offer was not made to Boulton, therefore, there was no contract between Boulton and Jones. In case of a general offer, it can be accepted by any person who has the knowledge of the offer. [Carlill vs. Carbolic Smoke Ball Co. (1893)] (2)

(2) Acceptance must be absolute and unqualified: As per section 7 of the Act, acceptance is valid only when it is absolute and unqualified and is also expressed in some usual and reasonable manner unless the proposal prescribes the manner in which it must be accepted. If the proposal prescribes the manner in which it must be accepted, then it must be accepted accordingly.

M offered to sell his land to N for £280. N replied purporting to accept the offer but enclosed a cheque for £ 80 only. He promised to pay the balance of £ 200 by monthly instalments of £ 50 each. It was held that N could not enforce his acceptance because it was not an unqualified one. [Neale vs. Merret [1930] W. N, 189].

A offers to sell his house to B for Rs. 1,00,000/-. B replied that, "I can pay Rs. 80,000 for it. The offer of "A" is rejected by "B" as the acceptance is not unqualified. B however changes his mind and is prepared to pay Rs. 1,00,000/-. This is also treated as counter offer and it is upto A whether to accept it or not. [Union of India v. Bahulal AIR 1968 Bombay 294].

Example: "A" enquires from "B", "Will you purchase my car for Rs. 2 lakhsRs." If "B" replies "I shall purchase your car for Rs. 2 lakhs, if you buy my motorcycle for Rs. 50,000/-, here "B" cannot be considered to have accepted the proposal. If on the other hand "B" agrees to purchase the car from "A" as per his proposal subject to availability of valid Registration Certificate / book for the car, then the acceptance is in place though the offer contained no mention of R.C. book. This is because expecting a valid title for the car is not a condition. Therefore, the acceptance in this case is unconditional.

(3) The acceptance must be communicated: To conclude a contract between the parties, the acceptance must be communicated in some perceptible form. Any conditional acceptance or acceptance with varying or too deviant conditions is no acceptance. Such conditional acceptance is a counter proposal and has to be accepted by the proposer, if the original proposal has to materialize into a contract. Further when a proposal is accepted, the offeree must have the knowledge of the offer made to him. If he does not have the knowledge, there can be no acceptance. The acceptance must relate specifically to the offer made. Then only it can materialize into a contract. The above points will be clearer from the following examples: Brogden vs. Metropolitan Railway Co. (1877)

Facts: B a supplier, sent a draft agreement relating to the Supply of Coal to the Manager of Railway Co. viz, Metropolitan Railway for his acceptance. The manager wrote the word "Approved" on the same and put the draft agreement in the drawer of the table intending to send it to the company's solicitors for a formal contract to be drawn up. By an over sight the draft agreement remained in drawer. Held, that there was no contract as the manager had not communicated his acceptance to the supplier, B.

Where an offer made by the intended offeree without the knowledge that an offer has been made to him cannot be deemed as an acceptance thereto. (Bhagwandas v. Girdharilal)

A mere variation in the language not involving any difference in substance would not make the acceptance ineffective. [Heyworth vs. Knight [1864] 144 ER 120].

Example: A proposed B to marry him. B informed A s sister that she is ready to marry him. But his sister didn't inform A about the acceptance of proposal.

There is no contract as acceptance was not communicated to A.

(4) Acceptance must be in the prescribed mode: Where the mode of acceptance is prescribed in the proposal, it must be accepted in that manner. But if the proposer does not insist on the proposal being accepted in the manner prescribed after it has been accepted otherwise, i.e., not in the prescribed manner, the proposer is presumed to have consented to the acceptance.

Example: If the offeror prescribes acceptance through messenger and offeree sends acceptance by email, there is no acceptance of the offer if the offer or informs the offeree that the acceptance is not according to the mode prescribed. But if the offer or fails to do so, it will be presumed that he has accepted the acceptance and a valid contract will arise.

(5) Time: Acceptance must be given within the specified time limit, if any, and if no time is stipulated, acceptance must be given within the reasonable time and before the offer lapses. What is reasonable time is nowhere defined in the law and thus, would depend on facts and circumstances of the particular case.

Example: A offered to sell B 50 kgs of bananas at ? 500. B communicated the acceptance after four days. Such is not a valid contract as bananas being perishable items could not stay for a period of week. Four days is not a reasonable time in this case.

Example: A offers B to sell his house at ? 10,00,000. B accepted the offer and communicated to A after 4 days. Held the contract is valid as four days can be considered as reasonable time in case of sell of house.

(6) Mere silence is not acceptance: The acceptance of an offer cannot be implied from the silence of the offeree or his failure to answer, unless the offeree has in any previous conduct indicated that his silence is the evidence of acceptance.

Case Law: Felthouse vs. Bindley (1862)

Facts: (Uncle) offered to buy his nephews horse for £30 saying "If I hear no more about it I shall consider the horse mine at £30." The nephew did not reply to F at all. He told his auctioneer, B to keep the particular horse out of sale of his farm stock as he intended to reserve it for his uncle. By mistake the auctioneer sold the horse. F sued him for conversion of his property. Held, F could not succeed as his nephew had not communicated the acceptance to him.

Example: "A" subscribed for the weekly magazine for one year. Even after expiry of his subscription, the magazine company continued to send him magazine for five years. And also "A" continued to use the magazine but denied to pay the bills sent to him. "A" would be liable to pay as his continued use of the magazine was his acceptance of the offer.

(7) Acceptance by conduct/Implied Acceptance: Section 8 of the Act lays down that "the performance of the conditions of a proposal, or the acceptance of any consideration for a reciprocal promise which may be offered with a proposal, constitutes an acceptance of the proposal. This section provides the acceptance of the proposal by conduct as against other modes of acceptance i.e. verbal or written communication. Therefore, when a person performs the act intended by the proposer as the consideration for the promise offered by him, the performance of the act constitutes acceptance.

Example: when a tradesman receives an order from a customer and executes the order by sending the goods, the customer's order for goods constitutes the offer, which has been accepted by the trades man subsequently by sending the goods. It is a case of acceptance by conduct.

Example: When a cobbler sits with a brush and polish, a person giving his shoes for polishing constitutes as acceptance by conduct.

Q. 66

(i) Mr. Ramesh promised to pay Rs. 50,000 to his wife Mrs. Lali so that she can spend the sum on her 30th birthday. Mrs. Lali insisted her husband to make a written agreement if he really loved her. Mr. Ramesh made a written agreement and the agreement was registered under the law. Mr. Ramesh failed to pay the specified amount to his wife Mrs. Lali. Mrs. Lali wants to file a suit against Mr. Ramesh and recover the promised amount. Referring to the applicable provisions of the Contract Act, 1872, advise whether Mrs. Lali will succeed.

(3 marks; 2018 - Nov)

(ii) A shop-keeper displayed a pair of dress in the show-room and a price tag of Rs. 2,000 was attached to the dress. Ms. Lovely, looked at the tag and rushed to the cash counter. Then she asked the shop-keeper to receive the payment and pack up the dress. The shop-keeper refused to hand-over the dress to Ms. Lovely in consideration of the price stated in the price tag attached to the dress. Ms. Lovely seeks your advice whether she can sue the shop-keeper for the above cause under the Indian Contract Act, 1872.

(3 marks; 2018 - Nov)

Answer:

(i) Parties must intend to create legal obligations: There must be an intention on the part of the parties to create legal relationship between them. Social or domestic type of agreements are not enforceable in court of law and hence they do not result into contracts.

In the given question, Mr. Ramesh promised to pay Rs. 50,000 to his wife so that she can spend the same on her birthday. However, subsequently, Mr. Ramesh failed to fulfill the promise, for which Mrs. Lali wants to file a suit against Mr. Ramesh. Here, in the given circumstance wife will not be able to recover the amount as it was a social agreement and the parties did not intend to create any legal relations.

(ii) According to the facts of the case this case qualifies as a typical example covered within the definition of a General offer that means an offer made to public at large and hence anyone can accept and do the desired act. In this case, Ms. Lovely had accepted the general offer by seeing the price tag and when she moved to purchase that she was refused by the shop-keeper who had himself previously made the general offer by putting the dress on display with the price tag. Hence it can be concluded that Ms. Lovely can certainly sue the shop-keeper.

Q. 67

Mr. B makes a proposal to Mr. S by post to sell his house for Rs. 10 lakhs and posted the letter on 10th April 2020 and the letter reaches to Mr. S on 12th April 2020. He reads the letter on 13th April 2020. Mr. S sends his letter of acceptance on 16th April 2020 and the letter reaches Mr. B on 20th April 2020. On 17th April Mr. S changed his mind and sends a telegram withdrawing his acceptance. Telegram reaches to Mr. B on 19th April 2020. Examine with reference to the Indian Contract Act, 1872:

(i) On which date, the offer made by Mr. B will complete?

(ii) Discuss the validity of acceptance

(iii) What would be validity of acceptance if letter of revocation and letter of acceptance reached together?

(6 marks; 2021 - Jan)

Answer:

(i) Offer made by Mr. B will be completed on 13 April, 2020. (when it comes to the knowledge of Mr. S)

(ii) Here, acceptance is not valid as he revoked his acceptance by telegram before letter of acceptance reaches Mr. B.

(iii) If letter of acceptance and letter of revocation reaches together than two situation may arise.

- a. It will be decided on the basis of the letter which he reads first like if he reads acceptance than acceptance is valid and if revocation first than acceptance is revoked.
- b. In absence of any such information revocation is absolute.

Q. 68

X agrees to pay Y Rs. 1,00,000/-, if Y kills Z. To pay Y, X borrows Rs. 1,00,000/- from W, who is also aware of the purpose of the loan. Y kills Z but X refuses to pay. X also refuses to repay the loan to W. Explain the validity of the contract.

- (i) Between X and Y.
- (ii) Between X and W

(4 marks; 2022 - Dec)

Answer:

(i) Between X and Y:

As per the provisions of Section 19 of the Indian Contract Act, 1872:

- (a) A contract induced by coercion is voidable at the option of the party whose consent was so obtained.
- (b) As to the consequences of the rescission of voidable contract, the party rescinding a void contract should, if he has received any benefit, thereunder from the other party to the contract, restore such benefit so far as may be applicable, to the person from whom it was received.
- (c) A person to whom money has been paid or anything delivered under coercion must repay or return it (Section 72)

In the given case X agrees to pay Y Rs. 1,00,000/- if Y kills Z. To pay Y, X borrowed Rs. 1,00,000 from W, who is also aware of the purpose of the loan. Y kills Z but X refuses to pay. X also refuses to repay the loan to W.

The contract between X and Y is a contract which is voidable at the option of Y because Y's consent is not free as it has been obtained by coercion.

(ii) Between X and W:

As per the provisions of Section 23 of the Indian Contract Act, 1872: those agreements are void which have unlawful considerations. The consideration or object of an agreement is lawful, unless it is forbidden by law, or is of such a nature that, if permitted, it would defeat the provisions of any law, or is fraudulent, or involves or implies, injury to the person or property of another, or the court regards it as immoral, or opposed to public policy.

In the present case, the consideration of the agreement between X and Y is to murder Z which is in itself an illegal and forbidden act and defeat the provisions of law and hence this agreement cannot be enforced by W due to illegality of the consideration.

UNIT – 2

CONSIDERATION

Q. 69

What is consideration?

Answer:

- Consideration should be something that is lawful.
- A mere promise is not enforceable at law.
- It means "Quid Pro Quo" i.e. "something in return".
- As per Section 2(d), when at the desire of the promisor, the promisee or any other person has done or abstain from doing, or
- does or abstains from doing, or
- promises to do or abstains from doing, such actor abstinence or promise is called as consideration of promise."
- As per Section 2(e) "Every promise and every set of promises, form'ng the consideration for each other, is an agreement"
- General Rule is - ."NO CONSIDERATION, NO CONTRACT"
- Consideration may move at the desire of the promisor and not at the desire of the third party.
- There may be stranger to consideration but not stranger to a contract.
- Under English Law, it must move from the promisee or any other person. Thus, stranger cannot sue on the contract.
- Under Indian Law, however a stranger to consideration can file a suit.

Q. 70

Describe the Legal Rules Regarding Consideration.

  - It may be past, present or future.
  - It must be real and not vague.
  - It must be legal.
  - It need not be adequate (But if not adequate then consent must t free).
  - It must be something more than the promisee is already bound to c for the promisor.
  - It may not be illusory.

Q. 71

What do you understand Suit by a third party to a contract?

Answer:

- Doctrine of Privity of Contract: It means that only those persons who are the parties to contract, can sue and be sued upon the contract.
- It is different from stranger to consideration.
- It refers to the relationship between parties who have entere into the contracts.
- The third party cannot sue upon it, even though, the contra may be for his benefits.

Thus, 'a stranger to the contract' cannot bring a valid si under the contract'.

Relevant Case Law -

- Dunlop Pevmatic Tyre Co. V/s Selfridge Ltd.
- Tweddle V/s Atkinson
- Stranger to contract how right to sue in the following cases :

- (f) Covenant running with the land. The purchaser of immovable property is bound by several* conditions created by an agreement affecting the land, even though he is not a party to the original agreement.
- (g) Where the promisor by his own conduct is estoppel from denying his liability to perform the promise, the person who is not a party to the contract can sue upon to make the promisor liable.

- A promise to pay, wholly or in part, a debt, which is barred by law of limitation can be enforced if -
- It is in writing.
- It is signed by the debtor or his authorised agent.

Note - A debt barred by limitation cannot be recovered, a promise to pay such debt is without any consideration.

- It does not applies to completed gifts i.e. gift given and accepted.
- Consideration is not required to effect a valid bailment of goods i.e. gratuitous bailment.
- Not required to create an agency.
- If a person promised to contribute any thing to a charity and on his faith, the promisee undertakes a liability to that extent, the contract shall be valid. [Relevant case law: Kedarnath V/s Gorie Mohammed].

Q. 83

When is a contract valid even without consideration?

(5 marks; 1994 - Nov)

Answer:

The general rule is that an agreement made without consideration is void (Sec. 25). In every valid contract consideration is very important. A contract may only be enforceable when there is adequate consideration is there. However, the Indian Contract Act contains certain exceptions to this rule. In the following cases, the agreement though made without consideration, will be valid and enforceable.

1. Natural Love and Affection: A written and registered agreement based on natural love and affection between the parties standing in near relation (e.g., husband and wife) to each other is enforceable even without consideration. A contract in writing, registered on account of natural love and affection between parties standing near relation to each other are the essential requirements for valid contract though it is without consideration (Rajlukhee Devee vs. Bhootnath).

2. Compensation for past voluntary services: A promise to compensate, wholly or in part, a person who has already voluntarily done something for the promisor, is enforceable under (Sec. 25(2)). In order that a promise to pay for the past voluntary services is binding, the following essential factors must exist:

- (i) The services should have been rendered voluntarily.
- (ii) The services must have been rendered for the promisor.
- (iii) The promisor must be in existence at the time when services were rendered.
- (iv) The promisor must have intended to compensate the promisee.

3. Promise to pay time barred debt: Where a promise in writing signed by the person making it or by his authorised agent, is made to pay a debt barred by limitation it is valid without consideration (Sec. 25(3)),

4. Agency: According to section 185 of the Indian Contract Act, no consideration is necessary to create an agency.

5. Completed gift: In case of completed gifts, the rule no consideration, no contract does not apply. Explanation (1) to Section 25 states "nothing in this section shall affect the validity as between the donor and donee, of any gift fully made." Thus, gifts do not require any consideration.

Q. 84

What is Consideration? Discuss briefly the legal requirements of valid consideration.

(10 marks; 1995 - Nov)

Answer:

Meaning of Consideration:

Consideration is an essential element of a valid contract. It is a technical word meaning thereby quid pro quo i.e. something in return. A valuable consideration in the sense of the law may consist either in some right, interest profit or benefit accruing to one party, or some forbearance, detriment, loss or responsibility given, suffered or undertaken by the other. Thus, consideration must result in a benefit to one party and a detriment or loss to the other party or a detriment to both.

Thus, if A agrees to sell his books to B for Rs. 100, B's promise to pay Rs. 100 is the consideration for A's promise to sell his books and A's promise to sell the books is the consideration for B's promise to pay ? 100.

Section 2(d) of the Indian Contract Act defines consideration as under:

"When, at the desire of the promisor, the promisee or any other person has done or abstained from doing, or does or abstains from doing, or promises to do or to abstain from doing something, such act or abstinence or promise is called a consideration for the promise."

For every valid contract consideration is very essential. But there are certain exceptions to this rule which have been incorporated under Section 25 of the Indian Contract Act.

Legal requirements of valid consideration may be enumerated as under:

- (i) Section 2(d) of the Indian Contract Act emphasises that consideration must move at the desire of the promisor. Any act done at the desire or request of the third party or voluntary acts would not constitute a valid consideration.
- (ii) Consideration must be lawful and should not be forbidden by law.
- (iii) Consideration must be real and not illusory. If it is physically impossible, vague or legally impossible, the contract cannot be enforced.
- (iv) Consideration must be of some value in the eyes of law. The Supreme Court has laid down consideration shall be something which not only the parties regard but the law can also regard as having some value.
- (v) The consideration must not be the performance of existing duties e.g. (i) legal obligations or (ii) contractual obligations.
- (vi) The consideration need not be adequate. In other words, an inadequate consideration does not render a contract void.

- (vii) The consideration may be furnished by the promisee or any other person. So long as there is consideration for a promise, it is immaterial who has furnished it.
- (viii) The consideration must be either positive or negative (See definition).
- (ix) Consideration may be forbearance to use.
- (x) The consideration may be past, present or future.

2. If it is of such nature that if permitted it will defect the provision of any law.
3. If it implies or involves injury to the person or property of another.

5. If the court regard it as immoral.
6. If it is opposed to public policy.

According to Section 24, where consideration and object of an agreement is unlawful in part the whole agreement is void.

5. Agency: An agreement containing agency may be without consideration."

Q. 88

Comment on the following (Give brief answers):

To form a valid contract consideration must be adequate.

(5 marks; 1999 - May)

Answer:

The law provides that a contract should be supported by consideration. So long as consideration exists, the Courts are not concerned as to its adequacy, provided it is of some value. The adequacy of the consideration is for the parties to consider at the time of making the agreement, not for the Court when it is sought to be enforced. (Bolton v. Modden). Consideration must however, be something to which "the law attaches value though it need not be a equivalent in value to the promise made.

According to Explanation 2 to Section 25 of the Indian Contract Act 1872, an agreement to which the consent of the promisor is freely given is not void merely because the consideration is inadequate but the inadequacy of the consideration may be taken into account by the Court in determining the question whether the consent of the promisor was freely given.

Q. 89

Write short notes on "No consideration, no contract".

(5 marks; 2000 - May)

Answer:

No consideration, no contract:

All contract, contain two parts: (i) the promise, and (2) the consideration for such promise. A promise without consideration is purely gratuitous. Such promise can not create a legal obligation, no matter that it is highly sacred and morally binding (Abdul Aziz v. Mazum Ali -AIR 1914, 36 All 268). Thus, the rule of law is that no consideration, no contract. Section 25 of the Indian Contract Act, 1872 embodies the rule that an agreement without consideration is void. However, there are certain exceptions to the general rule:

- (1) If an agreement is expressed in writing and registered and is made on account of natural love and affection, it is a valid contract without consideration.
- (2) A promise to compensate a person for something which has already been done voluntarily for the promisor, is valid without consideration, and creates a contract.
- (3) A promise by a debtor to pay a time-barred debt is Valid provided that it is made in writing and is signed by the debtor or by his authorised agent in this behalf.
- (4) The rule 'no consideration, no contract' does not apply in case of a completed gift.
- (5) No consideration is necessary to create an agency.

Q. 90

Explain the following (Give brief answers): Unlawful consideration

(5 marks; 2002 - May)

Answer:

Unlawful Consideration: One of the essential element of consideration is that it must be lawful. An agreement becomes void, if it is based on unlawful consideration. The consideration of an agreement becomes unlawful when:-

1. It is forbidden by law or
2. If it is fraudulent or
3. If it defeats the provision of any law or
4. If it involves or implies injury to the person or property of another or
5. The court regards it as immoral or opposed to public policy.

Q. 91

What is Consideration? Give its characteristics.

(5 marks; 2002 - Nov)

Answer:

Characteristics

2. Consideration must be at the desire of the promisor.
3. Consideration may move from one person to any other person.
4. Consideration may be past, present or future.
5. Consideration need not be adequate but should be real.

Q. 92

State the exceptions to the rule "An agreement without consideration is void".

(5 marks; 2018 - May)

Answer:

The general rule is that an agreement without consideration is void. However, there are certain exceptions to this rule. In the following cases, the agreement though made without consideration, will be valid and enforceable.

1. Natural love and affection:

A written and registered agreement based on natural love and affection between the parties standing in near relation (e.g. husband and wife) to each other is enforceable without consideration.

2. Compensation for past voluntary services: A promise to compensate wholly or in part, a person who has already voluntarily done something for the promisor, is enforceable, although it is without any consideration today.

3. Promise to pay time barred debt:

Where a promise in writing signed by the person making it or by his authorised agent is made to pay a debt barred by limitation it is valid and binding even though without consideration.

4. Agency:

No consideration is necessary to create an agency.

5. Completed Gift:

In case of gifts the rule no consideration, no contract is not applicable.

6. Bailment:

No consideration required for this.

7. Charity:

If one promises to undertake liability to contribute to charity, the contract shall be valid even though without consideration.

Q. 93

Define consideration. What are the legal rules regarding consideration under the Indian Contract Act, 1872?

(7 marks; 2019 - Nov)

Answer:

Section 2(d) of the Indian Contract Act, 1872 defines consideration as follows:

"When at the desire of the promisor, the promisee or any other person has done or abstained from doing, or does or abstains from doing or promises to do or abstain from doing something, such an act or abstinence or promise is called consideration for the promise".

It is defined as "quid-pro-quo", i.e. "something in return". This something need not to be in terms of money, as stated, it is some right, interest, profit or benefit accruing to one party or some forbearance, detriment, loss or responsibility, given suffered or undertaken by the other". However, it must have some value in the eyes of law and must not be vague or illusory.

Legal Rules Regarding Considerations:

1. Consideration must none at the desire of the promisor:

An act done at the desire of a third party is not a consideration.

2. Consideration may move from promisee or any other person: There can be a stranger to consideration but not a stranger to a contract.

3. Executed and Executory Consideration:

When consideration consists of an act it is executed but when it consists of a promise it is executory.

4. Consideration may be past present or future.:

The words "has done or abstained from doing" are a recognition of the doctrine of past consideration.

5. Consideration need not be adequate:

It need not be of any particular value, but it must be something.

6. Performance of what one is legally bound to perform, cannot be treated as consideration.

7. Consideration must be real and not illusory.

8. Consideration must not be unlawful, immoral or opposed to public policy.

Q. 94

The general rule is that an agreement without consideration is void. Discuss the cases where the agreement though made without consideration will be valid and enforceable as per Indian Contract Act, 1872.

(5 marks; 2021 - Jan)

Answer:

No consideration no contract:

The general rule is that an agreement made without consideration is void (Section 25 of Indian Contract Act, 1872). In every valid contract, consideration is very important.

A contract may only be enforceable when consideration is there. However, the Indian Contract Act contains certain exceptions to this rule. In the following cases, the agreement though made without consideration, will be valid and enforceable.

1. In case of an agreement on account of natural love and affection:

An agreement on account of natural love and affection will be valid if it:

- Written
- Registered
- Based on Natural Love affection
- Parties stand in near relation with each other (e.g.- husband and wife)

Example: A husband, by a registered agreement promised to pay his earnings to his wife. Held the agreement though without consideration, was valid.

2. Agency: In case of contract of agency the consideration is not required.

3. Bailment: In case of contract of bailment the consideration is not required.

4. Completed gift: Completed gift means a gift actually handed over. Thus, gifts actually made by a donor and accepted by the donee are valid even without consideration.

Example: On A's birthday, B gives him a gold chain as birthday gift in this case B cannot demand back the chain on the ground that there was no consideration.

5. Charity: A mere promise for charity is void because it is without consideration. But if a person promises to contribute for charity and the promisee undertakes liability i.e. incur liability then the contract will be valid up to the extent of the subscription promised.

(Kadarnath V. Gorie Mohammad) Note: In case of charity, the promisee is liable to pay the amount of incurred liability but upto promised amount.

6. Compensation for Past Voluntary Service: When a person has already voluntarily done something for the promisor then a promise to compensate either wholly or partly will be binding when:

- (a) The services should have been done voluntarily (but not involuntarily)
- (b) The services should have been rendered for the promisor
- (c) The promisor must be in existence at the time when services were rendered
- (d) The promisor must have intended to compensate.

Example: P finds R's purse and gives it to him. R promises to give P Rs. 1,000. This is a valid contract.

7. In case of Promise to Pay time barred debt: Time barred debt or a debt based by limitation refers to an amount which has remained unclaimed beyond a time period of 3 years.

A promise to pay time barred debt is valid if:

- It is in writing
- Signed by the person making promise or by his agent.

Example: A is indebted to C Rs. 6,000 but the debt is barred by the Limitation Act. A signs a written promise now to pay Rs. 5,000 in final settlement of the debt. This is a contract without consideration, but enforceable.

Q. 95

"The general rule is that an agreement made without consideration is void". State the exceptions of this general rule as per the Indian Contract Act, 1872. (7 marks; 2022 - June)

Answer:

The general rule is that an agreement made without consideration is void. However, the Indian Contract Act contains certain exceptions to this rule. In the following cases, the agreement is valid even though it is made without consideration, yet it will be valid-

(1) Natural Love and Affection- A promise which is made out of natural love and affection is enforceable even though it is without consideration, if all the below stated conditions are satisfied :-

- (i) It must be made out of natural love and affection between the parties.
- (ii) Parties must stand in near relationship to each other.
- (iii) It must be in writing.
- (iv) It must be registered under the Law. In other words, a written and registered agreement based on natural love and affection between the parties standing in near relation (eg: husband and wife) to each other, is enforceable even without consideration.

(2) Compensation for past voluntary services:

A promise to compensate, wholly or in part, a person who has already voluntarily done something for the promisor is enforceable even without consideration, if all the below stated conditions, are satisfied-

- (i) The services should have been rendered voluntarily.
- (ii) The services must have been rendered for the promisor.
- (iii) Promisor must be in existence at the time when such services were rendered.
- (iv) Promisor must have intended to compensate the promisee.

(3) Promise to- pay Time Barred Debt-

A promise to pay a debt which is barred by limitation is valid even without consideration, if all the below stated conditions are satisfied:

- (i) It must be made in writing.
- (ii) It must be signed by the person making it or by his authorized agent

(4) Contract of Agency:

Consideration is not necessary to create an agency.

(5) Completed Gift:

- (i) Nothing in this section shall affect the validity of gifts actually made in between donor and donee.
- (ii) Completed gifts do not require any consideration.
- (iii) If a person transfers some property by a duly written and registered deed as a gift, he cannot claim back the property subsequently on the ground of lack of consideration.

(6) Contract of Bailment:

- (i) Consideration is not required to affect a contract of bailment.

(7) Promise to contribute to charity:

If a promisee undertakes the liability on the promise of the person to contribute to charity, these the contract shall be valid.

Q. 96

Explain the following statements in the light of provisions of Indian Contract Act, 1872:

- (i) "Agreements made out of love and affection are valid agreements."
- (ii) "Promise to pay a time barred debt cannot be enforced." (7 marks; 2022 - Dec)

Answer:

The general rule is that an agreement made without consideration is void (Sec. 25). In every valid contract consideration is very important. A contract may only be enforceable when there is adequate consideration is there. However, the Indian Contract Act contains certain exception to this rule. In the following cases, the agreement though made without consideration, will be valid and enforceable,

- (i) "Agreements made out of love and affection are valid agreements" A written and registered agreement based on natural love and affection between the parties standing in near relation (e.g., husband and wife). A contract in writing, registered on account of natural love and affection between parties standing near relation to each other are the essential requirements for valid contract though it is without consideration (Rajlakhee Devi vs. Bhootnath). Hence, the given statement is correct,

- (ii) "Promise to pay a time barred debt cannot be enforced." Where a promise in writing signed by the person making it or by his authorized agent, is made to pay a debt barred by limitation it is valid without consideration (Sec. 25 (3)). Hence, the given statement is incorrect.

Q. 97

Mr. Sohanlal sold 10 acres of his agricultural land to Mr. Mohanlal on 25th September 2018 for Rs. 25 Lakhs. The Property papers mentioned a condition, amongst other details, that whosoever purchases the land is free to use 9 acres as per his choice but the remaining 1 acre has to be allowed to be used by Mr. Chotelal, son of the seller for carrying out farming or other activity of his choice. On 12th Oct 2018, Mr. Sohanlal died leaving behind his son and wife. On 15th Oct 2018, purchaser started construction of an auditorium on the whole 10 acres of land and denied any land to the son.

Now Mr. Chotelal wants to file a case against the purchaser and get a suitable redressed. Discuss the above in light of provisions of Indian Contract Act, 1872 and decide upon Mr. Chotelal's plan of action?

(4 marks; 2019 - June)

Answer:

In India, consideration may proceed from the promisee or any other person who is not a party to the contract. According to the definition of consideration as given in Section 2(d), when at the desire of the promisor, the promisee or any other person does something, such an act is consideration. In other words, there can be a stranger to a consideration but not stranger to contract. [Chinnaya vs. Ramayya]

In the given case between defendant (Mr. Mohanlal) and plaintiff (Mr. Chotelal) the consideration has been furnished on behalf of the plaintiff (Mr. Chotelal) by his father (Mr. Sohanlal). Although, the plaintiff was a stranger to the consideration but since he was a party to the contract he could enforce the promise of the promisor, since under Indian law, consideration may be given by the promisee or anyone on his behalf vide Section 2(d) of Indian Contract Act.

Thus, consideration furnished by Mr. Sohanlal to Mr. Mohanlal constitutes sufficient consideration for the plaintiff (Mr. Chotelal) to sue the defendant on the promise. Held, Mr. Chotelal was entitled to a decree for the right to use that 1 acre of land.

Q. 125

Write short notes on the "Voidable Agreement".

(5 marks; 1995 - Nov)

Answer:

Voidable Agreement:

A contract the consent to which is caused by coercion, undue influence, fraud or misrepresentation is voidable at the option of the party whose consent was so caused. (Bishandeo Narain v. Seogero Rai AIR 1951 SC 280).

Thus the aggrieved party has the option either to avoid the contract or alternatively, to affirm it. The burden of proving the said elements is on the plaintiff. [Hims Enterprise v. Ishak Bin Subari (1992) 1 CLJ 132]. He can exercise his option only once. If the contract is affirmed, it becomes enforceable and if avoided it becomes void (East India Commercial Company v. Collector of Customs AIR 1962 SC 1893). It continues to be valid and enforceable till it is repudiated by the aggrieved party., The application of option by aggrieved party is subject to certain restrictions:

1. When the party, aware of his right to rescind, affirms the contract, the right of rescission is lost.
2. When a party at whose option a contract is voidable rescinds it, the other party thereto need not perform any promise therein contained in which he is promisor.
3. Rescission must be claimed within reasonable time.

4. The right of rescission is lost when a third party, acting in good faith, acquires right in the subject matter of the contract.

5. Rescission is subject to the condition that the party seeking rescission must be in position to restore the benefits he may have obtained under the contract.

Section 19A deals with the contracts affected by undue influence which have been declared as voidable at the option of aggrieved party. Such contracts may be set aside absolutely or partly. Court enjoys discretion.

A party to the contract is owing no gratitude to disclose the whole truth to the other party. The Rule of Caveat Emptor is applicable here that is Buyer Beware principal. This principle means that the buyer should be aware of things while making the contract. In these cases there is no duty to speak and silence does not result to fraud. When both the parties are aware of the contract, there is no duty to disclose the facts.

Hence, silence does not amount to fraud. These are two exception to the rule. These are:- (i) where circumstances create a duty the part of the . person keeping silence to speak and (ii) where silence in itself is equivalent to speech.

Distinguish Between "Fraud and Misrepresentation".

(5 marks; 1994 - Nov)

Misrepresentation is incorrect or false statement or breach of duty giving an advantage to the person committing it but the fallacy or failure is not due to any desire to deceive the other party.

The main points of distinction between the two are as follows:

- (a) Intention: In Fraud the intention of the party committing fraud is to deceive the other party, while in Misrepresentation the intention of the party is not to deceive. Misrepresentation is innocent, while fraud is deliberate or willful.
- (b) Belief: In fraud the person making the suggestion does not believe it to be true, while in misrepresentation, the party making such suggestion believes it to be true.
- (c) Rescission and damages: In misrepresentation, the aggrieved party can rescind the contract or sue for restitution (Sec. 64). But he can not file a suit for damages. In fraud, the remedy available to the aggrieved party is not limited to rescission only, but to damages also.

Q. 137

Comment on the following:

Wagering agreements do not cover insurance contracts.

(5 marks; 1994 - Nov)

Answer:

Wagering agreements do not cover insurance contracts: Sec. 30 of the Indian Contract Act defines a wager as an agreement between two parties by which one promises to pay money or money's worth on the happening of some uncertain event in consideration of the other party's promise to pay if the event does not happen.

Contract of Insurance also has a resemblance with wagering agreements, since the insurance companies have to pay the insured a certain sum of money after the occurrence of a certain event. But wagers and insurance contracts have a superficial resemblance. As a matter of fact, the two have differences in basic characters. The difference of the two lies in the following:

In Insurance contracts, the insured has an insurable interest in the subject-matter of the insurance, such an interest is not there in the wagering agreements. Further in insurance contracts, the insured as well as the insurer both, are interested in the safety of the subject-matter, but in wagering agreements, only one party may be interested in the safety of the subject-matter, if any and not both. Moreover in wagering agreements the sum payable is ascertained at the time of making the agreement, but in insurance contracts the insured is indemnified only and is not allowed to take a benefit out of the contract. Further, insurance is beneficial to the public at large, but wagers are not. Last but not the least, the amount of premium (consideration) payable by the insured to the insurance company is based on scientific calculations, which is not the case in wagers. On the basis of the above explanation, it can safely be said that wagering agreements do not cover insurance contracts. However, if the insured does not have an insurable interest in the subject-matter insured, then, in such cases such insurance contracts shall have no distinction with wagering agreements.

An agreement entered into by a minor cannot be enforced at law.

An agreement entered into by a minor cannot be enforced at law:

Section 11 of the Indian Contract Act provides that "every person is competent to contract who is of the age of majority". This clearly means that a minor is not capable of making a valid contract as he is incompetent to contract. An agreement made with a minor is void ab initio (Mohri bibi vs. Dharma Dass Ghose 1903) and can not be ratified subsequently but this proposition does not apply to the case in which a contract is entered into by persons of full age on behalf of a minor in a joint family, or when it is entered into by his de facto guardian for the benefit or necessity of a minor (Jwala Parsad vs. Raghbir). So when a contract is entered into by the guardian of a minor on behalf of and for the benefit of the minor, the minor is liable to be sued on the contract. But the price for these necessities can be recovered from the estate of the minor as he is not liable personally. A contract by a manager or guardian can be specifically enforced by or against the minor if they are competent to make it and it is for the benefit of the minor (Gopal Krishna vs. Tukaram 1956). However, the manager or guardian is not competent to enter into a contract for the purchase of immovable property on behalf of the minor (Hari charan vs. Kanti Rai). Moreover, a contract for personal service by minor is void under the Indian law. Under the partnership Act, a minor cannot be a partner in a firm, although he may be admitted to the benefits of partnership.

Q. 139

When is the 'Consent said to be not free?

(5 marks; 1995 - May)

Answer:

When consent is not freely given: Section 13 of the Indian Contract Act, 1872, defines the term 'consent' as, "two or more persons are said to consent when they agree upon the same thing in the same sense". It means that the contracting parties must have identity of minds i.e. consensus - ad idem. Section 10 of the Act says that all agreements are contracts if they are made by the free consent of the parties competent to contract for a lawful consideration and with a lawful object. It means that not only there should be consent, but the consent of the parties must also be free. The consent is said to be not free when it is vitiated by coercion, undue influence, fraud, misrepresentation or mistake. In such a case the contract becomes voidable at the option of the party whose consent is not free. Various factors which may affect free consent are discussed below:

Coercion: Coercion is the committing or threatening to commit any act forbidden by the Indian Penal Code or the unlawful detaining, or threatening to detain, any property, to the prejudice of any person whatever, with the intention of causing any person to enter into an agreement. (Section 15).

Undue Influence: A contract is said to be induced by "Undue influence" where the relations subsisting between the parties are such that one of the parties is in a position to dominate the will of the other, and uses that position to obtain an unfair advantage of another.

Fraud: "Fraud" exists when it is shown that a false representation has been made (i) knowingly, or (ii) without belief in its truth, or (iii) recklessly, not caring whether it is true or false and (iv) the maker intended the other party to act upon it. It also exists when there is a concealment of a material fact (Section 17).

Misrepresentation: Misrepresentation is a misstatement of a material fact made innocently with an honest belief as to its truth or non-disclosure of a material fact, without any intent to deceive the other party (Section 18).

Mistake: Mistake is a misconception or error. A mistake means that parties intending to do one thing, by error do something else. When an agreement is made under a mistake, it may be a mistake of fact or law.

Q. 140

Comment on the following:

All agreements in restraint of trade are void.

(5 marks; 1995 - Nov)

Answer:

Agreements in Restraint of Trade: All agreements in restraint of trade are void. Section 27 of the Indian Contract Act lays down that every agreement by which anyone is restrained from exercising a lawful profession, trade or business of any kind, is to that extent void. However, the following restraints which are exceptions to the aforesaid general rule are considered as valid in the agreement of trade and do not affect the validity of an agreement.

(i) Exception under Section 27 of the Indian Contract Act: One who sells the goodwill of a business may agree with the buyer to refrain from carrying on a similar business, within specified local limits, so long as the buyer, or any person deriving title to the goodwill from him, carries on a like business therein; provided that such limits appear to the court reasonable, regard being had to the nature of business.

(ii) Exceptions under Partnership Act, 1932:

(a) Agreement requiring a partner not to carry on any business other than that of the firm while he is a partner [Section 11 (2)].

(b) Restraining an outgoing partner from carrying on a similar business as of the firm [Section 36(2)].

(c) Partners may, upon or in anticipation of the dissolution of the firm, make an agreement that some or all of them will not carry on a business similar to that of the firm within a specified period or within specified local limits if the restrictions imposed are reasonable (Section 54).

(d) Any partner may, upon the sale of goodwill of a firm, make an agreement with the buyer that such partner will not carry on any business similar to that of the firm within a specified period or local limits, if the restrictions imposed are reasonable [Section 55(3)].

(iii) Exceptions under judicial decisions e.g. restraining an employee not to serve elsewhere during his employment or agreement entering into trade combination.

Q. 141

Comment on the following:

Mere silence is not a fraud.

(5 marks; 1995 - Nov)

Answer:

Silence is not a fraud: It is a rule of law that mere silence does not amount to fraud. A contracting party is not duty bound to disclose the whole truth to the other party or to give him the whole information in his possession affecting the subject matter of the contract.

The rule is contained in explanation to Section 17 of the Indian Contract Act which clearly states the position that mere silence as to facts likely to affect the willingness of a person to enter into a contract is not fraud.

To this rule the following two exceptions are provided:

- (i) Where the circumstances of the case are such that, regard being had to them, it is the duty of the person keeping silence to speak. Duty to speak arises when one contracting party reposes trust and confidence in the other or where one party has to depend upon the good sense of the other (e.g. Insurance Contract).
- (ii) Where the silence is in itself, equivalent to speech.

Q. 142

When may a person be treated as of unsound mind to form a contract?

(5 marks; 1995 - Nov)

Answer:

Person of unsound mind:

A person is said to be of unsound mind for the purpose of making a contract, if at the time when he makes it, he is not capable of understanding it, and of forming a rational judgement as to its effect upon his interests.

According to Section 12 of the Indian Contract Act a person may be treated as of unsound mind to form a contract if he is:

Q. 143

Comment on the following:

"A minor is liable to pay for the necessities of life supplied to him".

(5 marks; 1997 - May)

Answer:

Section 68 of the Contract Act, deals with the cases of necessities of life supplied to a minor. The Act provides that "if a person incapable of entering into a contract or anyone, when he is legally bound to support is supplied by another person with necessaries suited to his condition in life, the person who has furnished such supplies is entitled to be recovered from the property of such incapable person."

Thus, a minor is not personally liable for the payment of necessities supplied to him, the payment for such necessities can be recovered only out of the property of the minor. The supplier will lose the price of necessities, if the minor does not possess any property. What constitutes necessities shall be determined with reference to the status and the circumstances of a particular minor.

Simple example of necessities are food, clothing and shelter but necessities will also include minor's medical expenses, cost of defending a minor's civil or criminal proceedings, provisions for education etc. Loan taken by minor to obtain necessities also bind a minor.

The point to be noted is that the parent or guardian of a minor cannot be made responsible for any good supplied to a minor unless these goods are supplied to a minor as the agent of the parent or guardian.

Q. 149

What is meant by agreement in restraint of trade? Describe in brief the various exceptions thereto.

(10 marks; 1998 - May)

Answer:

According to Section 27 of the Indian Contract Act, 1872 an agreement seeking to hold a person from exercising a lawful profession, trade or business of any kind is void to that extent. Public policy wants that every person be at freedom to work for himself and should not be at liberty to prevent himself or the state of his labour, skill or talent by any contract that he enters to. This will avoid competition and will have a monopolistic tendency which is not in the favour of public and society both. But there are certain exception to this rule; The exception are divided in two broad heads:

- (1) Statutory Exception
(2) Common Law exceptions.
- (1) Statutory Exception are the exception created by statutes:
- (i) Sale of goodwill: If a person purchases the business of another person and pays for its goodwill, then such purchaser can have reasonable restriction on the trade of the seller of the goodwill (Section 27).
  - (ii) Partners competing business: As long as a person remains a partner of a firm, he is restrained from carrying on a similar business (Section 11 (2) of the Partnership Act).
  - (iii) Rights of outgoing partner: A partner may agree with his partners that on leaving the firm, he will not carry on a similar business within a specified period or within specified local limits. (Section 36(2) of the Partnership Act).
  - (iv) Partner's similar business on dissolution: According to 54 of the Partnership Act. partners may in anticipation of the dissolution of the firm, agree that all as some of them shall not carry on a business similar to that of firm within specified local limits.

- (2) Exception under the common law arises from the judicial interpretation:
- (i) Service agreement: An agreement of service, by which a person binds himself during the term of agreement to not to take up service with any one else. Or not to compete with his employer is valid.
  - (ii) Trade combination: Trade combination with the object of regulating business are desirable in public interest.

Q. 150

Comment on the following:

Mere silence as to facts does not amount to fraud.

(5 marks; 1998 - Nov)

Answer:

Mere silence as to the facts does not amount to fraud: - Mere silence of the party as to certain facts does not actually amount to fraud. A party to the contract is owing no gratitude to disclose the whole truth to the other party. The Rule of Caveat Emptor is applicable here that is Buyer Beware principal. This principle means that the buyer should be aware of things while making the contract. In these cases there is no duty to speak and silence does not result to fraud. When both the parties are aware of the contract, there is no duty to disclose the facts.

Hence, silence does not amount to fraud. These are two exception to the rule. These are:- (i) where circumstances create a duty the part of the person keeping silence to speak and (ii) where silence in itself is equivalent to speech.

Q. 151

State the exceptions to the rule that "a stranger to a contract cannot sue".

(10 marks; 1999 - Nov)

Answer:

Stranger to a Contract: It is a general rule of contract that a person who is not a party to the contract can not sue on it. This specifies that unless there is a privity of contract a party cannot sue on a contract. Privity of contract means the relationship subsisting between the parties to a contract. It means that no one but the parties to a contract can be bound by it or be entitled under it.

A stranger to a contract cannot sue except in the following cases:

1. In case of trust, the beneficiary of the trust is in a position to enforce the contract even though he is a stranger to it.
2. In case the contract is entered into by an agent, it can be enforced by the principal.
3. Where an arrangement is made in connection with marriage, partition or other family arrangements and a provision is made for the benefit of the person, he can sue although he is not a party to the agreement.
4. Where the promisor himself has created privity of contract by his conduct he is in a position to sue.
5. A stranger to a contract can sue for the money made payable to him by it where the money is charged on immovable property.

Q. 152

Explain the following:

- (i) Mistakes of fact.

(5 marks; 1999 - Nov)

Answer:

Mistake of fact: Mistake of fact may be divided into two groups that is:

1. Bilateral Mistake
2. Unilateral Mistake

1. Bilateral mistake: According to Section 20 of the Act, Bilateral mistake is a mistake, "Where both the parties to an agreement are under a mistake, as to a matter of fact essential to the agreement, the agreement is void."

Bilateral mistake may relate to the existence, identity, title, quantity and price of the subject matter, However, an erroneous opinion as to the value of a thing which forms the subject matter of the agreement is not to be deemed a mistake as to matter of fact (Explanation to section 20).

2. Unilateral Mistake of fact: Section 22 of the Act deals with unilateral mistake, "A contract is not voidable merely because it was caused by one of the parties to it being under a mistake as to a matter of fact".

Q. 153

Comment on the following:

- (i) All illegal agreements are void but all void agreements are not illegal.

(5 marks; 2000 - May)

Answer:

AN illegal agreement are void but all void agreements are not illegal:

The agreement which has no legal effect is a void agreement. In the case of the illegal contract, there is no legal effect in between the parties but the transaction collateral to such a contract is further effected.

A contract which is termed illegal and is void ab initio, is treated by law as if it had not been made at all. Thus, parties to an illegal contract cannot get the help from court of law. For example, in the case of an illegal contract for the sale of goods, the buyer though has paid the price, cannot sue for non delivery. The price cannot be recovered by the seller who has to make the delivery. No suit can be filed in respect of an illegal contract.

Q. 154

Comment on the following:

- (a) (a) When does the mistake of the parties invalidate a contract?

(5 marks; 2000 - Nov)

Answer:

'Mistake' has not been defined any where in the Indian Contract Act, 1872. But Section 20 of the act provides the effect of the term 'mistake' which is "when both the parties to an agreement are under a mistake as to a matter of fact essential to the agreement, the agreement is declared void."

Following conditions must be fulfilled before a contract can be avoided on the ground of mistake:

1. There must be a mistake as to the formation of contract.
2. The mistake must relates as to the matter of fact and not of law.
3. The mistake must be of both the parties i.e. bilateral.
4. The matter of fact must be essential to the agreement.

Q. 155

Comment on the following:

- (a) Capacity to contract.

(5 marks; 2000 - Nov)

Answer:

Capacity of parties to contract: Capacity means the competence of the parties to enter into a valid contract. Section 11 of the Contract deals with the competency of parties and provides that every person is competent to contract who is:-

1. of the age of majority as per law to which he is subject,
2. of sound mind,
3. Is not disqualified from contracting by any law to which he is subject. The qualification stated above must be fulfilled by the person competent to contract. The first qualification refers to the age of the contracting person. A person attain majority on completing his 18 years. While in case of matters of property majority is attained after completing 21 years of age.

The second qualification requires a person to be of a sound mind at the time of making the contract. He must be capable of understanding it and of forming a rational judgement as to its effect. Following are the person who are not supposed to be of sound mind such as a lunatic, an idiot, a drunken person.

The third qualification requires that a person entering into a contract should not be disqualified by his status while entering into such contracts For example; alien enemy, insolvents, convicts, married women and corporations.

The contract will not be valid if it is entered by the persons who are not competent to contract.

Q. 156

Write brief answers the following:

- (a) Contract by a person of unsound mind.

(5 marks; 2001 - Nov)

Answer:

Contract by person of unsound mind: A person is said to be of sound mind, when he is capable of understanding the terms of the contract and is able to make a rational decision as to its effect upon his interest. Thus, the person is of unsound mind when:

- (a) He is not in a position to make a contract or understand it.

- (b) He cannot form a proper and reasonable judgement as to how the contract will affect his interest.

Generally, it is assumed that every person is of a sound mind unless it is proved otherwise. A person who is usually of sound mind but occasionally of unsound mind cannot make a contract, when he is of unsound mind. Thus, a drunkard is not competent to contract when he is drunk.

Hence, the person of unsound mind are not competent to contract.

Law relating to minor's contracts.

(5 marks; 2002 - Nov)

Answer:

Law relating to minor's contract:

- (i) An agreement entered into by a minor is altogether void.
- (ii) Minor can be a beneficiary: Though a minor is not competent to contract, there is nothing in the Indian Contract Act, 1872, which prevents him from making the other party bound to be minor.
- (iii) Minor can always plead minority.
- (iv) Ratification on attaining a majority is not allowed: As a minor's agreement is void, he cannot validate it by ratification on attaining majority.
- (v) Though a minor's agreement is void, his guardian can under certain circumstances enter into a valid contract as minor's behalf.
- (vi) Under section 68 (Indian contract Act, 1872), any person would be entitled to reimbursement out of minor's estate, for necessaries supplied to him or to his family.

Q. 160

Briefly answer the following:

Explain Coercion and undue influence in a contract.

(5 marks; 2002 - Nov)

Answer:

Coercion and Undue influence may be distinguished in the following manner:

- (a) Coercion involves the physical force or threat. The aggrieved party is competent to make the contract against its will. While undue influence involves moral or mental pressure. The aggrieved party believes that he or she would make the contract.
- (b) Coercion involves committing or threatening of to commit any act forbidden by Indian Penal Code, detaining or threatening to detain property of another person. But no such illegal act is committed or a threat is given in case of undue influence.
- (c) It is not necessary that in case of coercion that there must be some sort of relationship between the parties. But some sort of relationship between the parties is absolutely necessary in the case of undue influence.
- (d) Coercion need not proceed from the promisor nor need it be the directed against the promisor. Undue influence is always exercised between parties to the contract.
- (e) The contract is voidable at the option of the party where consent has been obtained by coercion. Where the consent is induced by undue influence, the contract is either voidable or the court may set it aside or endorse it in a modified form.
- (f) In case of coercion where the contract is rescinded by the aggrieved party, as per Section 64, any benefit received has to be restored back to the other party. But in case of the undue influence the court has the discretion to direct the aggrieved party to return the benefit in whole or in part or not to give any such directions.

Q. 161

Examine with reason that the given statement is correct or incorrect "Minor is liable to pay for the necessaries supplied to him". (2 marks; 2018 - May)

Answer:

A. claim for necessaries supplied to a minor is enforceable by law, but a minor is not liable for any price that he may promise and never for more than the value of necessaries.

There is no personal liability on the minor, but only his property (estate) is liable.

Hence, the statement "minor is liable to pay for necessaries supplied to him.", is incorrect.

Q. 162

Define Fraud. Whether "mere silence will amount to fraud" as per the Indian Contract Act, 1872?

(5 marks; 2018 - May)

Answer:

Fraud means and includes any of the following acts committed by a party to a contract, or with his connivance, or by his agent, with an interest to deceive another party thereto or his agent, or to induce him to enter into the contract.

1. The suggestion, as a fact of that which is not true, by one who does not believe it to be true.
2. Active concealment of fact by one having knowledge or belief of the fact.
3. A promise made without any intention of performing it.
4. An act fitted to deceive.
5. Any act declared as fraudulent by law.

Mere silence as to facts likely to affect the willingness of a person to enter into a contract is not fraud, unless the circumstances of the case are such that, regard being had to them, it is the duty of the person keeping silent to speak, unless his silence is, in itself, equivalent to speech.

A party under contract is under no obligation to disclose the whole truth to the other party. "Caveat Emptor" i.e. let the buyer beware is the rule applicable to contracts. There is no duty to speak in such cases and silence does not amount to fraud. Similarly, there is no duty to disclose facts which are within the knowledge of both the parties.

Q. 163

"Mere silence is not fraud" but there are some circumstances where the "silence is fraud". Explain the circumstances as per the provision of Indian Contract Act 1872? (7 marks; 2019 - June)

Answer:

Mere silence is not fraud:

Mere silence as to the facts likely to affect the willingness of a person to enter into a contract is not fraud, unless the circumstances of the case are such that, regard being had to them, it is the duty of the person keeping silence to speak, or unless his silence is, in itself, is equivalent to speech. A party to the contract is under no obligation to disclose the whole truth to the other party. 'Caveat Emptor' i.e. let the buyer beware is the rule applicable to contracts. There is no duty to speak in such cases and silence does not amount to fraud. Similarly, there is no duty to disclose facts which are within the knowledge of both the parties.

Silence is fraud:

1. Duty of Person to Speak:

Where the circumstances of the case are such that it is the duty of the person observing silence to speak.

Following contracts come in this category:

- (a) Fiduciary relationship: Here, the person in whom confidence is reposed is under a duty to act with utmost good faith and make full disclosure of all material facts, known to him.
- (b) Contracts of Insurance: In such contracts, there is an implied condition that full disclosure of all material facts shall be made, else contract is avoidable.
- (c) Contracts of Marriage: Every material fact must be disclosed by the parties to a contract of marriage.
- (d) Contracts of family settlement: These contracts also require full disclosure of material facts within the knowledge of the parties.

Answer:

Provision: According to Indian Contract Act, 1872. All Agreements in restraint of any trade or which are opposed to public policy are void and are such which are expressly declared by law to be a void agreement.

As this agreement is an agreement which is void and opposed to public policy hence, it cannot be enforced.

Concession: As at the end X refuses to pay Mr. C the decided amount Mr. C cannot recover the amount promised by Mr. X under the provision of Indian Contract Act, 1872 as it is a void agreement b/w the two.

Q. 168

Mr. S aged 58 years was employed in a Govt. Department. He was going to retire after two years. Mr. D made a proposal to Mr. S to apply for voluntary retirement from his post so that Mr. D can be appointed in his place. Mr. D offered a sum of Rs. 10 Lakhs as consideration to Mr. S in order to induce him to retire.

Mr. S refused at first instance but when he evaluated the amount offered as consideration is just double of his cumulative remuneration to be received during the tenure of two years of employment, he agreed to receive the consideration and accepted the above agreement to receive money to retire from his office.

Whether the above agreement is valid? Explain with reference to provision of Indian Contract Act, 1872.

(4 marks; 2021 - Jan)

Answer:

According to the Provisions of Indian Contract Act, 1872

An agreement to trafficking in public office is opposed to public policy, as it interferes with the appointment of a person best qualified for the service of the public. Public policy requires that there should be no money consideration for the appointment to an office in which the public is interested. The following are the examples of agreements that are void; since they are tantamount to sale of public offices.

(1) An agreement to pay money to a public servant in order to induce him to retire from his office so that another person may secure the appointment is void.

(2) An agreement to procure a public recognition like Padma Vibhushan for reward is void. In the given case, Mr. D offered Rs. 10 lakh to Mr. S as consideration in order to induce him to retire so that Mr. D can be appointed in his place.

The above agreement is opposed to public policy therefore void.

Q. 169

Examine the validity of the following contracts as per the “Indian Contract Act, 1872 giving reasons.

- (i) X aged 16 years borrowed a loan of Rs. 50,000 for his personal purposes. Few months later he had become major and could not pay back the amount borrowed on due date. The lender wants to file a suit against X.

- (ii) J contracts to take in cargo for K at a foreign port. J's government afterwards declares war against the country in which the port is situated and therefore the contract could not be fulfilled. K wants to file a suit against J. (6 marks; 2021 - Dec)

Answer:

(i) According to section 11 of the Indian Contract Act, 1872 every person is competent to contract who is of the age of majority according to the law to which he is subject, and who is of sound mind and is not disqualified from contracting by any law to which he is subject. A person who has completed the age of 18 years is a major and otherwise he will be treated as minor.

Thus, X aged 16 years is a minor and is incompetent to contract and any agreement with him is void (Mohori Bibi vs Dharmo Das Ghose 1903) Section 68 of the Indian Contract Act, 1872 however, prescribes the liability of a minor for the supply of the things which are the necessities of life to him. It says that though minor is not personally, liable to pay the price of necessities supplied to him or money lent for the purpose, the supplier or lender will be entitled to claim the money/ price of goods or services which are necessities suited to his condition of life provided that the minor has a property. The liability of minor is only to the extent of the minor's property. Thus, according to the above provision, the lender will be entitled to recover the amount of loan given to X for payment of personal purpose from the property of minor, (ii) As per the provisions of the Indian Contract Act, 1872 any trade with person owing allegiance to a Government at war with India without the license of the government of India is void, as the object is opposed to public policy. Here, the agreement to trade offends against the public policy by tending to prejudice the interest of the state in times of war. Such contract will become void.

In the present case J contracts to take in cargo for K at a foreign port. J's government afterwards declares war against the country in which the port is situated and therefore the contract could not be-fulfilled. Hence the contract becomes void ab-initio. The contract made before such war like situation may be suspended or dissolved.

Q. 170

Srishti, a minor, falsely representing her<sup>1</sup> age, enters into an agreement with an authorised Laptop dealer Mr. Gupta, owner of SP Laptops, for purchase of Laptop on credit amounting Rs. 60,000/- for purchasing a Laptop on 1st August 2021. She promised to pay back the outstanding amount with interest @ 16% p.a. by 31st July 2022. She told him that in case she won't be able to pay the outstanding amount, her father Mr. Ram will pay back on her behalf. After one year, when Srishti was asked to pay the outstanding amount with interest she refused to pay the amount and told the owner that she is minor and now he can't recover a single penny from her.

She will be adult on 1st January 2024, only after that agreement can be ratified. Explain by which of the following way Mr. Gupta will succeed in recovering the outstanding amount with reference to the Indian Contract Act, 1872.

- (i) By filing a case against Srishti, a minor for recovery of outstanding amount with interest?
(ii) By filing a case against Mr. Ram, father of Srishti for recovery of outstanding amount?
(iii) By filing a case against Srishti, a minor for recovery of outstanding amount after she attains maturity? (6 marks; 2022 - June)

Answer:

- (i) A minor is not competent to contract and any agreement with or by a minor is void from the very beginning. In the instant case, the agreement between Mr. Gupta and Srishti (minor) is void as Srishti is not competent to make the contract. Therefore, Mr. Gupta will not succeed in recovering the outstanding amount with interest by taking legal action against Srishti the minor.
(ii) Mr. Gupta cannot succeed in recovering the outstanding amount along with interest by filing a case against Mr. Ram, since he will not be liable for the acts done by his daughters and moreover, Srishti is not acting as an agent of his father, thus Mr. Ram (i.e. guardian) is not liable for the acts of his daughter even as a principal.
(iii) Mr. Gupta cannot succeed in recovering the outstanding amount with interest by filing a case against Srishti even after she attains majority age, since minor agreements are void-ab-intio and cannot be ratified even after attaining majority age.

Q. 171

Mr. Y aged 21 years, lost his mental balance after the death of his parents in an accident. He was left with his grandmother aged 85 years, incapable of walking and dependent upon him. Mr. M their neighbour, out of pity, started supplying food and other necessities to both of them. Mr. Y and his grandmother used to live in the house built by his parents. Mr. M also provided grandmother some financial assistance for her emergency medical treatment. After supplying necessities to Mr. Y for four years, Mr. M approached the former asking him to payback Rs. 15 Lakhs inclusive of Rs. 7 Lakhs incurred for the medical treatment of the lady (grandmother). Mr. Y pleaded that he has got his parent's jewellery to sell to a maximum value of Rs. 4 Lakhs, which may be adjusted against the dues. Mr. M refused and threatened Mr. Y of legal suit to be brought against for recovering the money.

Now, you are to decide upon based on the provisions of The Indian Contract Act, 1872:

- (i) Will Mr. M succeed in filing the suit to recover money? Elaborate the related provisions?
- (ii) What is the maximum amount of money that can be recovered by Mr. M?
- (iii) Shall the provisions of the above act also apply to the medical treatment given to the grandmother? (6 marks; 2022 - Dec)

Answer:

Under Section 11 and 12 of the Indian Contract Act, 1872, for executing a valid contract, the parties to same should be of sound mind.

As per Section 11: Every person is competent to contract who is of the age of majority according to the law to which he is subject, and who is of sound mind and is not disqualified from contracting by any law to which he is subject.

As per Section 12: A person is said to be of sound mind for the purposes of making a contract if, at the time when he makes k, he is capable of understanding it and of forming a rational judgement as to its effect upon his interest.

Whereas, a person who is usually of unsound mind, but occasionally of sound mind, may make a contract when he is of sound mind.

In the given case Mr. Y. is a person of unsound mind and he is looking after his grandmother aged 85 years, incapable of walking and dependent upon him. Mr. M out of the kindness started supplying food and other necessities to both of them.

After supplying necessities to Mr. Y. for 4 years he approached to payback Rs. 15 lakhs inclusive of Rs. 7 lakhs incurred for the medical treatment of the lady.

Now as per the above given scenario following conclusions can be drawn in this case.

- (i) As Mr. Y is an adult and is usually of sound mind but occasionally of unsound mind can make a contract when he is of sound mind. So, as per the above provisions Mr. M will succeed to recover the money and he can file suit upon Mr. Y.
- (ii) The maximum amount of money that can be recovered by Mr. M is only to the extent of Mr. Y's estate i.e. the jewellery of his parents worth Rs. 4 lakhs can be adjusted against the dues.
- (iii) The provisions of the above act shall also be applied to the medical treatment given by Mr. M to the grandmother of Mr. Y.

The order of performance may sometimes be indicated not expressly, but by nature of the transaction, where it is not expressly fixed by contract, they shall be performed in that order which the nature required.
- If the contract contains reciprocal promises, the contract becomes voidable if one party to the contract prevents the other from performing his promise and he is entitled for compensation for any loss suffered due to non-performance.
- If contract of reciprocal promises cannot be performed till the other promise is performed, promisor fails to perform his part, such promisor cannot claim compensation but has to pay compensation for any loss suffered by other party.
- Section 55: Where a party to a contract promises to do a certain thing at or before the specified time, the contract, or so much of it as has not been performed, becomes voidable at the option of promisee, if the intention of parties was that the time should be the essence of the contract.
- If the time was not the essence of the contract and if contract is not performed at or before the specified time, then contract does not become voidable but promisee is entitled to compensation for any loss suffered.
- If due to failure of performance of contract at the agreed time, the contract became voidable, but promisee accepts performance at any other time, then he is not entitled to any compensation for loss unless he gives prior notice to the promisor of his intention to do so. Contract cannot be avoided where time is not essential, promisee there is only entitled to compensation for delay.
- Even where time was essential, promisee may waive his right to repudiate the contract and if promisor fails to perform the promise within stipulated time, promisee may accept performance at some other time and is not entitled to any compensation for delay unless he gives prior notice to the promisor of his intention to do so. Answer:

Correct: According to Section 63 of the Indian Contract Act, 1872, a party may dispense with or remit wholly or in part, the performance of the promise made to him. Thus, a promise to accept a lesser amount than due, from the other party is a valid contract inspite of the inadequate consideration

Q. 194

State with reasons whether the following statement is Correct or Incorrect:

(i) If the promisees are joint, the right to claim performance is joint and not joint and several.

(2 marks; 1998 - Nov)

Answer:

Correct: Section 45 of the Contract Act lays down that when a person has made a promise to two or more persons jointly, then unless a contrary intention appears from the contract, the right to claim performance rests, as between him and them, with them during their joint lives, and after the death of any of them with the representatives of such deceased person jointly with the survivor or survivors, and after the death of the last survivor, with representatives of all jointly. This rule is applicable subject to contrary intention being shown by the contract. Accordingly, all the joint promisees should sue the promisor jointly and not joint and several.

Q. 195

State with reasons whether the following statement is Correct or Incorrect:

(i) A promise to pay a time barred debt is not enforceable.

(2 marks; 1999 - Nov)

Answer:

Incorrect: A promise to pay a time barred debt is enforceable, if it is in writing and signed by the promisor or by his agent authorised to do so. The promise may be to pay the whole or any part of the debt [Section 25(3) Indian Contract Act, 1872].

Q. 196

State with reasons whether the following statement is Correct or Incorrect:

(i) Reciprocal promises to do certain things legal and other illegal, make such promises void.

(2 marks; 2001 - May)

Answer:

Corrects: Where persons reciprocally promises to do certain things legal and to do certain things illegal, the set to do the things legal is a contract, but to do the things illegal is void agreement (Section 57 of Indian Contract Act, 1872).

Q. 197

State with reasons whether the following statement is Correct or Incorrect:

(i) The original contract between the parties must be performed even when the parties agree to substitute it with a new contract. (2 marks; 2001 - Nov)

Answer:

Incorrect: According to Section 62 of the Indian Contract Act, 1872, if the parties to a contract agree to substitute a new contract for the old contract, or to rescind or alter it, the original old contract is not required to be performed since substitution means rescinding the old contract or altering the terms in the old contract. The discharge of old contract is a consideration for the new one.

Q. 198

Write short note on “Appropriation of payment”.

(5 marks; 1995 - May)

Answer:

Appropriation of Payments: Sections 59 to 61 of the Contract Act, 1872 enact the rules of appropriation of payment of English Law is laid down in Clayton's case with certain modifications, which may be reproduced below:

- (i) Application of Payment where debt to be discharged is indicated (Section 59): Where a debtor, owing several distinct debts to one person, makes a payment to him either with express intimation or under circumstances implying that the payment is to be applied to the discharge of some particular debt, the payment, if accepted, must be applied accordingly.
- (ii) Application of payment where debt to be discharged is not indicated (Section 60): Where the debtor has omitted to intimate and there are no other circumstances indicating to which debt the payment is to be applied, the creditor may apply it at his discretion to any lawful debt actually due and payable to him from the debtor, whether its recovery is or is not barred by the law in force for the time being as to the limitation of suits.
- (iii) Application of payment where neither party appropriates (Section 61): Where neither party makes any appropriation, the payment shall be applied in discharge of the debts in order of time, whether they are or are not barred by the law in force for the time being as to the limitation of suits. If the debts are of equal standing, the payments shall be applied in discharge of each proportionately.
- (iv) Appropriation towards interest: When the debtor makes a part payment without indicating the appropriation (whether towards principal or interest) in such cases, the payment must first be adjusted towards interest and the balance towards the principal amount.

Q. 199

Write short note on “Rescission”

(5 marks; 1998 - Nov)

Answer:

Rescission: Rescission is the electing to avoid a contract and treat as not binding when it is void or voidable or terminable by a party. It means when a contract is broken by one party, the other party may treat the contract as rescinded. In such a case is absolved of all his obligations under the contract as rescinded. In such a case is absolved of all his obligations under the contract and is entitled to compensation for any damages that he might have suffered.

Rescission may occur:

- (i) By mutual consent of the parties, or
- (ii) Where a party fails in the performance of his obligation, the other party may rescind the contract without prejudice to his right to claim compensation for the breach of contract, or
- (iii) By the party whose consent has not been given freely.

Rescission may be total or partial. Total rescission is the discharge of the entire contract. Partial rescission is the variation of the original contract by (a) rescinding some of the terms of the contract or (b) substituting new terms for the ones which are rescinded, or adding new terms without rescinding any of the terms of the original contract.

Q. 200

Write short note on “Appropriation is a right primarily of the debtor and for his benefit”.

(5 marks; 2000 - Nov)

Answer:

When a debtor who owes several debts to the same creditor makes a payment which is insufficient to satisfy the whole indebtedness, a problem arises as to how to appropriate the given payment. Sections 59 to 61 of i.e. Indian Contract Act, 1872 lay down the following rules:

1. If the debtor expressly states that the payment made by him is to be applied to the discharge of some particular debt, the creditor must act accordingly.
2. If there are no express instructions, then the debtor's implied intention should be gathered from the circumstances adhering to the payment and the appropriation must be done accordingly.
3. If there are no express or implied directions of the debtor then the creditor has an option to apply the payment to any debt lawfully due from the debtor including times observed debt (Clayton's case).

4. Where the debtor as well as the creditor had not made the appropriation. Then the payment is to be applied in discharge of the debts in order of time, whether or not they are time barred. If the debts are of equal standing, the payment shall be applied in discharge of each proportionately.

5. If payment has been made without expressly stating whether it is interest or principal, payment is to be applied towards interest first and then the balance to principal.

Thus, it is quite clear from the above that it is always not the case where appropriation is a right primarily of the debtor and for his benefit. It depends upon circumstances of a particular case.

Q. 201

Write short note on "Reciprocal promises are to be performed simultaneously" (5 marks; 2001 - May)

Answer:

According to Section 51 of the Indian Contract Act, 1872 "when a contract consists of reciprocal promises to be simultaneously performed, no promisor need perform his promise unless the promisee is ready and willing to perform his reciprocal promise".

When the parties agree that the performance of the contract by each part is to be simultaneous, it is necessary that in exchange for the performance of the contract by one party the other party should also be in a position to give simultaneous performance, i.e. he should be ready and willing to perform his reciprocal promise. In a contract of sale of goods, unless otherwise agreed, the delivery of the goods and the payment of the price are concurrent conditions, that is to say, the seller shall be ready and willing to give possession of the goods to the buyer in exchange for the price and the buyer shall be ready to pay the price in exchange for possession of the goods.

Readiness and willingness to perform the contract does not mean that the buyer should have the hard cash in his person, or the seller should always continue to have a ready stock of the goods after the making of the contract. It is enough that the buyer, has made arrangement to make the payment, which can be done without undue delay, and the seller on his part arranged for the goods which can be delivered soon after the payment is made.

It is of course, necessary that the person should have the ability to perform the contract. If a person is merely mentally prepared or willing to perform the contract but does not have the ability to do so, the other party need not perform the contract. Thus a person who becomes insolvent does not have means of payment in exchange for the goods, he is deemed to be not ready and willing to perform the contract.

Q. 202

Write short notes on the following:

- (a) State the rules of appropriation of payments, when:
  - (i) The order of discharge of debts is indicated;
  - (ii) The order is not indicated.

(10 marks; 2001 - May)

Answer:

(a) As a normal rule, the debtor while making payment of debts should indicate to the creditor the order of payment or appropriation. This is needed in case several debts are payable by a debtor to his creditor. However, the debtor might not indicate the order of payment for one reason or the other. In such cases, the rules laid down in the Indian Contract Act, 1872 apply.

Section 59, lays down, "Where a debtor, owing several distinct debts to one person makes a payment to him either with express intimation or under circumstances implying that the payment is to or applied to the discharge of some particular debt, the payment, if accepted, must be applied accordingly." Thus in the instance case, the debtor has indicated the order of discharge of debts, the creditor has no other alternative except to appropriate the amount received by him according to the order indicated by the debtor.

In the second case i.e. where the debtor does not indicate or has not indicated the order of discharges of debts, Section 60 of the Act, makes the position clear. According to this Section 60, "Where the debtor has omitted to intimate and there are no other circumstances indicating to which debt the payment is to applied, the creditor may apply the money received at his discretion to any lawful debt actually due and payable to him from the debtor whether its recovery is or is not barred by the law in force for the time being as to the limitation of suits." Thus it is clear that in the second case, provisions of Section 60 shall apply and the creditor shall be within his rights to appropriate the money against the debts if any barred by law of limitation. However, if there are several debts due on the same date and the debtor has not indicated the order of payment, the creditor shall have to apply the money proportionately in discharge of these debts.

Q. 203

Write short note on “Doctrine or Frustration”

(5 marks; 2002 - May)

Answer:

Doctrine of Frustration: Part 2 of Section 56 of the Indian Contract Act, 1872 lays down that if the performance of a contract becomes impossible or unlawful after its making due to some event which is beyond the control of the parties, such contract becomes void when such event has accrued. This is known as doctrine of frustration. The performance may become impossible legally or physically.

Following are the causes of frustration:

1. Destruction of subject matter of contract.
2. Death or personal incapacity of the party.
3. Cancellation of an expected event.
4. Subsequent legal changes.
5. Declaration of war.

Q. 204

Briefly explain the distinguish between Succession and Assignment.

(5 marks; 1996 - May)

Answer:

Distinguish between Succession and Assignment: When the benefits of a contract are succeeded to be process of law, then both burden and benefits attaching to the contract, may sometimes devolve on the legal heir. Suppose, a son succeeds to the estate of his father after his death, he will be liable to pay the debts and liabilities of his father owed during his life time. But if the debts owed by his father exceed the value of the estate inherited by the son then he would not be called upon to pay the excess. The liability of the son will be limited to the extent of the property inherited by him. In the matter of assignment, however, the benefit of a contract can only be assigned but not the liabilities thereunder. This is because then the liability is assigned, a third party gets involved therein.

On the other hand if a creditor assigns the benefits of a promise, he thereby entitles the assignee to realise the debts from the debtor but where the benefits is coupled with a liability or when a personal consideration has entered into the making of the contract then the benefit cannot be assigned.

Q. 205

Briefly explain the distinguish between Novation and Alteration.

(5 marks; 1996 - May)

Answer:

Novation and Alteration: The law pertaining to novation and alteration is contained in Sections 62 to 67 of the Indian Contract Act, 1872. In both these cases the original contract need not be performed. Still there is a difference between these two:

1. Novation means substitution of an existing contract with a new one. Novation may be made by changing in the terms of the contract or there may be a change in the contracting parties. But in case of alteration the terms of the contract may be altered by mutual agreements by the contracting parties but the parties to the contract will remain the same.
2. In case of novation there is altogether, a substitution of new contract in place of the old contract. But in case of alteration it is not essential to substitute a new contract in place of the old contract. In alteration there may be a change in some of the terms and conditions of the original agreement.

Q. 206

Briefly explain the distinguish between Rescission and Alteration.

(5 marks; 2002 - May)

Answer:

Rescission and Alteration: Rescission means cancellation of the contract. If by mutual agreement the parties agree to cancel all or some of the terms of the existing contract, it is called rescission of the contract, and then the contract is discharged. A contract can be rescinded before its performance becomes due.

Non-performance of a contract by both the parties for a long period, without any complaint, amounts to implied rescission. Rescission may be total or partial. When all the terms of the contract are cancelled, it is total rescission which results in the discharge of the entire contract. When some of the terms are cancelled and some new terms are added, it is partial rescission. Partial rescission results in the variation of the original contract. Section 62 of the Indian Contract Act, 1872 lays down that of the parties to a contract agree to rescind it, the original contract need not be preformed.

Alteration, other hand, means making a change in the terms of a contract with the consent of all the parties. Alternation discharge the old terms which have been changed and the parties become bound by the original contract with altered terms. Rescission of the contract may be total or partial but alteration is always partial and the original contract can not be altered wholly. The effect of alteration is the same as laid down in Section 62 of the Indian Contract Act, 1872 i.e. the original contract need not be performed.

Q. 207

Differentiate between Novation and Alteration as per The Indian Contract Act, 1872. (5 marks; 2022 - Dec)

Answer:

Difference between Novation and Alteration:

Novation	Alteration
(i) Novation means substitution of an existing contract with a new one. Novation may be made by 'changing in the terms of the contract or there may be a change in the contracting parties.	In case of alteration the terms of the contract may be altered by mutual agreements by the contracting parties but the parties to the contract will remain the same.
(ii) In case of novation there is altogether, a substitution of new contract in place of the old contract.	In case of alteration it is not essential to substitute a new contract in place of the old contract. In case of alteration there may be a change in some of the terms and conditions of the original agreement.

Q. 208

What is "Supervening Impossibility"? What are its effects upon the contract? (5 marks; 1997 - May)

Answer:

An impossibility which makes the performance of a contract impossible or illegal, by occurrence of an unexpected event or a change of circumstances beyond the contemplation of parties, is called Supervening Impossibility. It may arise on account of more than one reasons, which may be enumerated as below:

- (a) Accidental destruction of the subject-matter of the contract, such as loss of property by the occurrence of accidental fire, death of an artist or incapacity of an artist by long illness.
- (b) Non-existence or non-occurrence of a particular state of things, e.g. postponement of the music concert for which the hall was rented out.
- (c) Incapacity to perform a contract of personal services-long illness.
- (d) Change in law, e.g. acquisition of the property by the government.
- (e) Outbreak of war, making the contracting parties as citizens of enemy countries.

Effects: Supervening Impossibility makes the contract void and the parties are released out of their obligations. They need not perform their part of the promises which have not accrued till the date of the impossibility.

Q. 209

State in brief the grounds upon which a contract may be discharged. (10 marks; 1998 - May)

Answer:

Discharge of contracts: A contract is discharged when the obligation created by it come to an end. A contract may be discharged in any one of the following ways:

- (i) Discharge by performance: It takes place when the parties to the contract fulfil their obligations arising under the contract within the time and in the manner prescribed. Discharge by performance may be (a) actual performance or (b) attempted performance. Actual performance is said to have taken place; when each of the parties has done what he has agreed to do under the a agreement. When the promisor offers to perform his obligation, but the promisee refuses to accept the performance, it amounts to attempted performance or tender of performance.
- (ii) Discharge by mutual agreement: Section 62 of the Indian Contract Act provides if the parties to a contract agree to substitute a new contract for it, or to refund or remit or alter it, the original contract need not be performed. These principles come in the heads of novation, rescission, alteration remission, accord and satisfaction, owing to the occurrence of an event and waiver.
- (iii) By impossibility of performance: The impossibility may exist from its initial stage. In that case, it would be impossibility an initio. Alternatively, there may be supervening impossibility which may take place owing to (a) an unforeseen change in law; (b) the destruction of the subject matter essential to that performance; (c) the non-existence or non-occurrence of particular state of things, which was naturally contemplated for performing the contract, as a result of some personal incapacity like dangerous malady; (e) the declaration of war (Section 56).

- (iv) Discharge by lapse of time: A contract should be performed within a specified period as prescribed by the Limitation Act, 1963. If it is not performed and if no action is taken within the specified period of limitation, the party is deprived of remedy at law. For example, if a creditor does not file a suit against the buyer for recovery of the price within three years, the debt becomes time barred and hence not recoverable.
- (v) Discharge by operation of law: A contract may be discharged by operation of law which includes by death of the promisor, merger of inferior right in the superior right by which the inferior right vanishes, by complete loss of evidence, by insolvency etc.
- (vi) Discharge by breach of contract: Breach of contract may be actual breach of contract or anticipatory breach of contract. If one party defaults in performing his part of the contract on the due date, he is said to have committed a breach thereof. When on the other hand, a person repudiates a contract before the stipulate time for its performance has arrived, he is deemed to have committed anticipatory breach. If one of the parties to a contract breaks the promise the party injured thereby, has not only a right of action for damages but he is also discharged from performing his part of the contract. (Section 64).
- (vii) Remission accord and satisfaction: A promisee may dispense with or remit the performance of the promise made to him or may accept any satisfaction of thinks fit. In the first case, the contract will be discharged by remission and in the second by accord and satisfaction.
- (viii) Refusal to afford reasonable facilities: If any promisee neglects or refuses to afford the promisor reasonable facilities for the performance of his promise, the promisor is excused by such neglect or refusal as to any non-performance caused thereby.

Q. 210

Is it required that parties to the contract must perform the contract personally? (5 marks; 1998 - May)

Answer:

Who must perform the contract: Except the contracts which require personal skill and labour, the promise under a contract may be performed by the following persons:

1. Promisor himself: If it appears from the nature of the case that it was the intention of the parties to any contract, that any promise contained in it should be performed by the promisor himself, such promise must be performed by the promisor. Contracts involving personal skill or those depending upon personal trust and confidence must be performed by the promisor himself (Sec. 40).
2. Agent: Where personal consideration is not the foundation of a contract, the promisor or his representatives may employ a competent person to perform it (Section 40).
3. The Legal Representatives: Promises bind the representatives of the promisors in case of the death of such promisors before performance, unless a contrary intention appears from the contract. On the death, of the promisor, the promisee can compel his legal representatives to perform the promise unless it involves the personal skill of the promisor. However, the liability of the legal representative will not be personal but shall be limited only to the extent of the value of the estate of the deceased promisor inherited by him. (Section 37).
4. Third Persons: When the promisee accepts performance of the promise from a third person, he cannot afterwards enforce it against the promisor. That is, performance by a stranger, accepted by the promisee, produces the result of discharging the promisor, although the latter has neither authorised nor ratified the act of the third party (Section 41).
5. Joint Promisors: When two or more persons have made a joint promise, then unless a contrary intention appears from the contract, all such persons must jointly fulfil the promise. If any of them dies, his legal representatives must, jointly with the surviving promisors, fulfil the promise. If all of them die, the legal representatives of all of them must fulfil the promise jointly (Section 42).

Q. 211

Explain the rules under the law of contract as regards to time and place for the performance of the promise.

(5 marks; 1999 - May)

Answer:

Time and place for the performance of the promise: Section 46 to 50 of the Indian Contract Act, 1872 are relevant regarding time and place for the performance of the promise which are as follows:

1. If no time is specified, the promise must be performed within a reasonable time. The expression 'reasonable' time is to be interpreted having regard to the facts and circumstances of a particular case (Section 46).

2. If a promise is to be performed on a specified date but hour is not mentioned, the promisor may perform it at any time during the usual hours of business, on such day. Moreover, the delivery must be made at the usual place of business (Section 47).

3. Where no place is fixed, it is the duty of the promisor to ask the promisee to fix a reasonable place for the performance of the promise. In all cases the promisor must apply to the promisee; here no distinction is made between an obligation to pay money to the promisee; here no distinction is made between an obligation to pay money and obligation to deliver goods or discharge any other obligation [Section 49].

The foregoing rules regarding the time and place for the performance of promise apply, only when the promisor undertakes to perform the promise without an application being made by the promisee.

4. Where the promisor has not undertaken to perform the promise without an application by the promisee, and the promise is to be performed on a certain day it is the duty of the promisee to apply for performance at a proper place and within the usual hours of business (Section 48). Generally, the performance of any promise may be made in any manner, or at any time which the promisee prescribes or sanctions.

Q. 212

State the circumstances under which an agreement may be void, since it is impossible to carry it out.

(5 marks; 2000 - May)

Answer:

Impossibility of Performance [Section 56 of the Indian Contract Act, 1872]: An agreement may be void since it is impossible to carry it out. A contract to do an act, which after the contract is made, becomes impossible, or, by reason of some event which the promisor could not prevent, unlawful, becomes void when the act becomes impossible or unlawful under the following cases:

(a) Impossibility existing at the time of contract:

- (i) If known to the parties.
- (ii) If unknown to the parties.
- (iii) If known to the promisor only.

(b) Supervening impossibility (arising subsequent to the formation of a contract) like destruction of subject matters, non-existence or nonoccurrence of a particular state of things or incapacity to perform a contract of personal services or change of law, or outbreak of law or failure of the ultimate purpose.

Q. 213

What is meant by Performance of a Contract? By whom the contract can be performed?

(10 marks; 2001 - May)

Answer:

Performance of contract consists in doing or causing to be done, that which the promisor has promised shall be done. Performance of contract is the completion of legal obligation which arises out of the contract. Every party to the contract is obliged to perform the contract accordingly, unless it is discharged or exempted from the performance.

The parties to a contract must either perform or offer to perform, their respective promises, unless such performance is dispensed with or excused under the provisions of the law of contract or any other law (Section 37 Indian Contract Act, 1872). In order that a party could enforce the promises made to him, he should perform his promise or offer to perform then he can ask the other party to perform his promise unless a contrary intention appears from the contract. Either performance or readiness and willingness to perform the contract is the basic requirement of this section.

By whom contract must be performed?

The promise under a contract may be performed, as the circumstances may permit, by the promisor himself, or by his agent or his legal representative.

- (i) Promisor himself: If there is something in the contract to show that there was an intention of the parties, that the performance should be made personally, such promise must be performed by the promisor (Section 40). Such contracts involve personal skill or diligence.
- (ii) Agent: Where personal consideration is not required, the promisor or his representative may employ a competent person to perform (Section 40).
- (iii) Representatives: Except the contract which involve personal skill and diligence all contracts may be performed by the legal representatives of the deceased promisors unless a contrary intention appears from the contract (Section 37). But their liability under a contract is limited to the value of the property they inherit from the deceased. Where personal skill and diligence is the foundation of the performance such contracts come to an end on the death of the promisor.
- (iv) Third Persons: When a promisee accepts performance from a third person, he can not afterwards enforce it against the promisor (Section 41).
- (v) Joint Promisors: When two or more persons have made a joint promise, then, unless a contrary intention appears by the contract all such persons, during their joint lives, and after the death of any of them, his representatives jointly with the survivor or survivors, and after the death of lost survivor, the representatives of all jointly must fulfil the promise (Section 42 of the Indian Contract Act).

Q. 214

When a contract may be discharged by Operation of Law?

(5 marks; 2001 - May)

Answer:

A contract may be discharged by the operation of law in the following manner:

- (i) By death: In contract involving personal skill and/or ability, the contract is terminated on the death of the promisor. In other contracts the rights and liabilities of a deceased person pass on to the legal representatives of the deceased person.
- (ii) By merger: Merger takes place when an inferior right accruing to a party under a contract merges into a superior right accruing to the same party under the same or same other contract.
- (iii) By insolvency: When a person is adjudged insolvent he is discharged from all liabilities incurred prior to his adjudication.
- (iv) By unauthorised attraction of the terms of a written agreement: Where a party to a contract makes any material alteration in the contract without the consent of the other party, the other party can avoid the contract. A material alteration is one which changes, in a significant manner, the legal identity or character of the contract or the rights and liabilities of the parties to the contract.
- (v) By rights and liabilities becoming vested in the same person: Where the liabilities and rights under a contract vest in the same person, for example, when a bill gets into the hands of the acceptor, the other parties are discharged.

Q. 215

State the rules of appropriation of payments, when:

- (i) The order of discharge of debts is indicated;
- (ii) The order is not indicated.

(10 marks; 2001 - May)

Answer:

As a normal rule, the debtor while making payment of debts should indicate to the creditor the order of payment or appropriation. This is needed in case several debts are payable by a debtor to his creditor. However, the debtor might not indicate the order of payment for one reason or the other. In such cases, the rules laid down in the Indian Contract Act, 1872 apply.

Section 59, lays down, "Where a debtor, owing several distinct debts to one person makes a payment to him either with express intimation or under circumstances implying that the payment is to or applied to the discharge of some particular debt, the payment, if accepted, must be applied accordingly."

Thus in the instance case, the debtor has indicated the order of discharge of debts, the creditor has no other alternative except to appropriate the amount received by him according to the order indicated by the debtor.

In the second case i.e. where the debtor does not indicate or has not indicated the order of discharges of debts, Section 60 of the Act, makes the position clear. According to this Section 60, "Where the debtor has omitted to intimate and there are no other circumstances indicating to which debt the payment is to applied, the creditor may apply the money received at his discretion to any lawful debt actually due and payable to him from the debtor whether its recovery is or is not barred by the law in force for the time being as to the limitation of suits."

Thus it is clear that in the second case, provisions of Section 60 shall apply and the creditor shall be within his rights to appropriate the money, against the debts if any barred by law of limitation.

However, if there are several debts due on the same date and the debtor has not indicated the order of payment, the creditor shall have to apply the money proportionately in discharge of these debts.

Q. 216

State and explain the various modes whereby a contract may come to an end. (10 marks; 2001 - Nov)

Answer:

Various modes whereby a Contract comes to an end: A contract may be discharged either by an act of the parties or by an operation of law as stated below:

- 1. Discharge by performance: When the parties to the contract fulfil their part of the promise, the contract comes to an end.
- 2. Discharge by mutual agreement: When the parties to the contract agree not to perform the contract on the basis of the principles of recession, or narration or alteration or remission, the original contract comes to an end.
- 3. Discharge by impossibility of performance: When the performance of the contract becomes impossible owing to (1) an unforeseen change in law or (2) the destruction of the subject, matter essential to the performance of the contract, or (3) the non-existence or non-occurrence of particular state of things such as personal incapacity like illness or meeting with an accident or (4) out break of war and the party being declared as an alien enemy.
- 4. Discharge of lapse of time: Where a contract is to be performed within a special time and it is not performed within that time or period, the law of limitation applies and the contract comes to an end e.g. creditor not taking any action against the debtor for the recovery of the debt within a period of 3 years.
- 5. Discharge by operation of law: Where law operates in the nonperformance of a contract say death of the promisor or insolvency or merger etc.
- 6. Discharge by breach of a contract: Where the party to the contract makes a default in the performance of the contract.
7. Discharge by waiver on the part of either party.
8. Discharge by not providing reasonable facilities for performance by the party to the contract

Q. 217

Explain with examples the principles of Novation, Rescission, Alteration and Remission where contracts need not be performed. (10 marks; 2002 - Nov)

Answer:

Novation, Rescission, Alteration and Remission:

(a) Novation (Section 62): Novation means the substitution of a new contract for the original contract. Such a new contract may be either between the same parties or between different parties. The consideration for the new contract is the discharge of the original contract.

Example: A Owns B Rs. 10,000/-. A enters into an agreement with B. and gives B a mortgage or his (A's) estate for Rs. 5,000/- in place of the debts of Rs. 10,000/-. This is a new contract and extinguishes the old.

(b) Rescission (Section 62): Rescission means cancellation of the contract by any party or all the parties to a contract.

Examples: X promises Y to sell and deliver 100 Bales of cotton on 1st October at his godown and Y promises to pay for goods on 1st November. X does not supply the goods. Y may rescind the contract.

(c) Alteration (Section 62): Alteration means a change in the terms of a contract with mutual consent of the parties. Alteration discharges the original contract and creates a new However, parties to the new contract must not change contract.

Example: X promises to sell and deliver 100 bales of cotton on 1st October and Y Promises to pay for goods on 1st November. Afterwards X and Y mutually decide that the goods shall be delivered in five equal instalments at Z's godown. Here, original contract has been discharged and a new contract has come into effect.

(d) Remission (Section 63): Remission means acceptance by the promisee of a lesser fulfillment of the promise made. Accordingly to Section 63, "Every promisee may dispense with or remit, wholly or in part, the performance of the promise made to him, or may extend the time for such performance, or may accept; instead of it any satisfaction which he thinks fit".

Example 1: A promises to paint a picture for B. B afterwards forbids him to do so. A is no longer to perform the promise.

Example 2: A owes B Rs. 5,000/- A pays to B, and B accepts, in satisfaction of the whole debts, Rs. 2,000/- paid at the time and place at which Rs. 5,000/- were payable. The whole debt is charged.

Example 3: A owes B, under a contract a sum of money, the amount of which has not been ascertained. A, without ascertaining the amount, gives to B, and B, in satisfaction thereof, accepts the sum of Rs. 2,000/-. This is a discharge of whole debt, whatever may be its amount.

Q. 218

Explain any five circumstances under which contracts need not be performed with the consent of both the parties. (7 marks; 2021 - Dec)

Answer:

As per the given sections of The Contract Act, 1872 the circumstances under which contracts need not be performed with the consents of both the parties are as follows:

Section-62: If the parties to the contract agrees to

- (i) Substitute a new contract for it or
- (ii) rescind it or
- (iii) alter it.

Section-63: If the promisee

- (i) Dispenses with or remits, wholly or in part, the performance of the promise made to him.
- (ii) Extend the time for such performance .
- (iii) accepts any satisfaction for it

Section-64: If the person at whose option it is voidable rescinds the contract.

Section-65: If the agreement contract is discovered to be void, the person who has received an advantage under such agreement or contract is required to restore the same or make compensation for it from whom he received it.

Section-66: A rescission must be communicated to other party in the manner similar to communication of proposal.

Section-67: If the promisee neglects or refuses to afford the promisor reasonable facilities for the performance of the promises, contract need not be performed.

Q. 219

X, Y and Z are partners in a firm. They jointly promised to pay Rs. 3,00,000 to D. Y become insolvent and his private assets are sufficient to pay 1/5 of his share of debts. X is compelled to pay the whole amount to D. Examining the provisions of the Indian Contract Act, 1872, decide the extent to which X can recover the amount from Z. (4 marks; 2018 - May)

Answer:

According to Section 43 of Indian Contract Act, 1872, when two or more persons make a joint promise, the promisee may, in the absence of express agreement to the contrary, compel anyone or more of such joint promisor to perform the whole of the promise.

Also, each of two or more joint promisor may compel every other joint promisor to contribute equally with himself to the performance of the promise, unless a contrary intention appear from the contract. In other words, if one of the joint promisor is made to perform the whole contract, he can call for a contribution from others.

It also say that if any one of two or more joint promisor makes default in such contribution, the remaining joint promisor must bear the loss arising from such default in equal shares.

In the given case X, Y and Z jointly promised to pay Rs. 3,00,000 to D. Y could pay only Rs. 20,000 (i.e. 1/5 of Rs. 1,00,000), hence loss due to his default i.e. Rs. 80,000 will be borne equally by X & Z. Now, since X is compelled to pay entire amount, he can call for contribution from Z of his share i.e. Rs. 1,00,000. Thus, the extent to which X can recover the amount from Z is Rs. 1,40,000.

Q. 220

Mr. X and Mr. Y entered into a contract on 1st August, 2018, by which Mr. X had to supply 50 tons of sugar to Mr. Y at a certain price strictly within a period of 10 days of the contract. Mr. Y also paid an amount of Rs. 50,000 towards advance as per the terms of the above contract. The mode of transportation available between their places is roadway only. Severe flood came on 2nd August, 2018 and the only road connecting their places was damaged and could not be repaired within fifteen days. Mr. X offered to supply sugar on 20th August, 2018 for which Mr. Y did not agree. On 1st September, 2018, Mr. X claimed compensation of Rs. 10,000 from Mr. Y for refusing to accept the supply of sugar, which was not there within the purview of the contract. On the other hand, Mr. Y claimed for- refund of Rs. 50,000, which he had paid as advance in terms of the contract. Analyse the above situation in terms of the provisions of the Indian Contract Act, 1872 and decide on Y's contention. (4 marks; 2018 - Nov)

Answer:

According to the facts of the case it can be clearly observed that the contract entered into by the parties Mr. X and Mr. Y demonstrates a case under the applicability of the provisions of Section 56 of Indian Contract Act, 1872 that States - "A contract to do an act which after the contract is made becomes impossible by reason of some event which the promisor could not prevent becomes void."

In this case Mr. X has promised to supply 50 tons of sugar to Mr. Y for which Mr. Y has paid an amount of Rs. 50,000 in advance according to the terms of the contract. But due to severe flood the only mode of transportation available between their places is damaged which clearly makes the execution of delivery of 50 tons of sugar to Mr. Y impossible within the stipulated time. Now Mr. X claims compensation of Rs. 10,000 from Mr. Y for non-acceptance of delivery after expiry of the stipulated time - period but since the contract has already gone void due to impossibility of performance within the stipulated time - period there remains no legal room for demanding compensation. But at the same time the contention of Mr. Y for refund of his previously advanced sum of Rs. 50,000 stands valid as under the provisions of Indian Contract Act, 1872 if a contract turns void due to any specific reason then all previously advanced sums have to be refunded.

Q. 221

Mr. Rich aspired to get a self- portrait made by an artist. He went to the workshop of Mr. C an artist and asked whether he could sketch the former's portrait on oil painting canvass, Mr. C agreed to the offer and asked for Rs. 50,000 as full advance payment for the above creative work. Mr. C clarified that the painting shall be completed in 10 sittings and shall take 3 months.

On reaching to the workshop for the 6th sitting, Mr. Rich was informed that Mr. C became paralyzed and would not be able to paint for near future. Mr. C had a son Mr. K who was still pursuing his studies and had not taken up his father's profession yet? Discuss in light of Indian Contract Act 1872?

- (i) Can Mr. Rich ask Mr. K to complete the artistic work in lieu of his father?
- (ii) Could Mr. Rich ask Mr. K for refund of money paid in advance to his father?

(6 marks; 2019 - June)

Answer:

A contract which involves the use of personal skill or is founded on personal consideration comes to an end on the death/inability of the promisor. As regards any other contract the legal representatives of the promisor are bound to perform unless contrary intention appears from the contract.

A contract is discharged by impossibility of performance. Impossibility may be created due to several factors, one of which may be as a result of some personal incapacity like dangerous malady.

In the given case, the promisor (Mr. C) got paralyzed during the performance of contract, due to which further performance of the contract becomes impossible and the contract becomes void.

- (i) Mr. Rich, cannot ask Mr. K to complete the artistic work in lieu of his father Mr. C as legal representative is not responsible to perform in case, of contracts involving personal skill.
- (ii) Mr. Rich cannot ask Mr. K to refund the amount as the contract becomes void and unenforceable due to impossibility of performance.

Q. 222

Mr. Sonumal a wealthy individual provided a loan of Rs. 80,000 to Mr. Datumal on 26.02.2019. The borrower Mr. Datumal asked for a further loan of Rs. 1,50,000. Mr. Sonumal agreed but provided the loan in parts at different dates. He provided Rs. 1,00,000 on 28.02.2019 and remaining Rs. 50,000 on 03.03.2019. On 10.03.2019 Mr. Datumal while paying off part Rs. 75,000 to Mr. Sonumal insisted that the lender should adjusted Rs. 50,000 towards the loan taken on 03.03.2019 and balance as against the loan on 26.02.2019.

Mr. Sonumal objected to this arrangement and asked the borrower to adjust in the order of data of borrowal of funds, ' Now you decide:

- (i) Whether the contention of Mr. Datumal correct or otherwise as per the provisions of the Indian Contract Act, 1872?
- (ii) What would be the answer in case the borrower does not insist on such order of adjustment of repayment?
- (iii) What would the mode of adjustment/appropriation of such part payment in case neither Mr. Sonumal nor Mr. Datumal insist any order of adjustment on their part? (6 marks; 2019 - Nov)

Answer:

Sometimes, a debtor owes several to the same creditor and makes payment which is not sufficient to discharge all the debts. In such cases, the payment is appropriated as per provisions of Section 59 to 61 of the Indian Contract Act.

- (i) Application of Payment where debt to be discharged is indicated: Where a debtor, owing several distinct debts to one person, makes a payment to him either with express intimation or that the payment is to be applied in discharge of some particular debt, the payment, if accepted, must be applied accordingly.
- (ii) Application of Payment where debt to be discharged is not indicated: Where the debtor has omitted to intimate that payment is to be applied in discharge of which debt, then creditor may apply it at his discretion to any lawful debt actually due to him from the debtor (even where it is barred by law).
- (iii) Application of Payment where neither party appropriates: Where neither party makes any appropriation, the payment shall be applied in discharge of the debts in order of time, whether or not they are barred by limitation. If the debts are of equal standing, the payment shall be applied in discharge of each proportionately.

In the given case the debtor while making the part payment has indicated the debt in which the adjustment is to be made accordingly:

- (i) Contention of Mr. Datumal is correct as per provisions of the Act, to indicate the debt to be adjusted.
- (ii) If the borrower does not insist on any order of adjustment<sup>1</sup> of repayment, then lender at his discretion may adjust in any debt he wants.
- (iii) In case neither of them appropriates, then repayment will be adjusted to the debt first in time.

Q. 223

In light of provisions of the Indian Contract Act, 1872 answer the following:

- (i) Mr. S and Mr. R made contract wherein Mr. S agreed to deliver paper cup manufacture machine to Mr. R and to receive payment on delivery. On the delivery date Mr. R didn't pay the agreed price. Decide whether Mr. S is bound to fulfil his promise at the time of delivery?
- (ii) Mr. Y given loan to Mr. G of INR 30,00,000. Mr. G defaulted the loan on due date and debt became time barred. After the time barred debt, Mr. G agreed to settle the full amount to Mr. Y. Whether acceptance of time barred debt Contract is enforceable in law?
- (iii) A & B entered into a contract to supply unique item, alternate of which is not available in the market. A refused to supply the agreed unique item to B. What directions could be given by the court for breach of such contract? (6 marks; 2020 - Nov)

Answer:

- (i) According to Indian Contract Act, 1872 In the given case Mr. S and Mr. R made contract wherein Mr. S agreed to deliver paper cup manufacturing machine to Mr. R and give payment on delivery. On the delivery date, Mr. R didn't pay the agreed price. Thus Mr. S is free from his obligation and he is not bound to deliver the manufacturing machine to Mr. R.
- (ii) In this case Mr. Y given loan to Mr. G of INR 30,00,000. Mr. G defaulted the loan on the due date and debt became time barred. After time barred debt, Mr. G agreed to settle the full amount to Mr. Y. Thus acceptance of a time barred debt is enforceable under section (25) of the Indian Contract Act, 1872. Which states that this agreement to pay a time barred debt is enforceable even without consideration.
- (iii) A & B entered into a contract to supply unique item the alternate of which is not available in the market. A refused to supply the agreed unique item to B. Thus court can order A for specific performance and can order him to make the good available it to B as it is a unique item only available to him.

Q. 224

X, Y and Z jointly borrowed Rs. 90,000 from L. Decide each of the following in the light of The Indian Contract Act, 1872:

- (i) Whether L can compel only Y to pay the entire loan of Rs. 90,000?
- (ii) Whether L can compel only the legal representatives of Y to pay the loan of X 90,000, if Z, Y and Z died?
- (iii) Whether Y and Z are released from their liability to L and X is released from his liability to Y and Z for contribution, if L releases X from his liability and sues Y and Z for payment?

(6 marks; 2021 - July)

Answer:

- (i) If a promise is made by two or more persons (called joint promisors) then promisee may compel anyone or more of the joint promisors to perform the whole contract. Liability under a joint promise is both joint as well as several. Thus, in this case L can compel only Y also to pay the whole amount of Rs. 90,000/-
- (ii) if a promise is made by two or more persons (called joint promisor) and all of them die then their liability will be borne by the legal representatives and all the legal heirs will be jointly and severally liable for the same. Thus, in this case L can compel only Y to pay the entire loan of X 90,000.
- (iii) If a promisee discharges/releases one of the several joint promisors, it does not discharge other joint promisors and the joint promisor so discharged remains liable to the other joint promisor.

Thus, in this case, X will not be released from his liability towards Y and Z even though he is released by L from making contribution.

Q. 225

A,B,C and D are the four partners in a firm. They jointly promised to pay Rs. 6,00,000 to F. B and C have become insolvent. B was unable to pay any amount and C could pay only Rs. 50,000. A is compelled to pay the whole amount to F. Decide the extent to which A can recover the amount from D with reference to the provisions of the Indian Contract Act, 1872. (4 marks; 2021 - Dec)

Answer:

According to section 43 of Indian Contract Act, 1872, when two or more person make a joint promise, the promises may, in the absence of express agreement to the contrary, compel everyone /anyone or more of such joint promisor to perform the whole of the promise.

Also each of two or more joint promisor may compel every other joint promisor to contribute equally with himself to the performance of the promise, unless a contrary intention appear from the contract.

In other words, if one of the joint promisor is made to perform the whole contract, he can call for a contribution from others.

It also states that if any one of two or more joint promisor make default in such contribution, the remaining joint promisor must bear the loss arising from such default in equal shares.

In the given case A,B,C and D jointly promised to pay Rs. 6,00,000 to F. B was unable to pay any amount and C could pay only Rs. 50,000 (i.e., 1/3 of Rs.1,50,000). Hence loss due to default i.e., 4,50,000 will be borne equally by A&D. Now since A is compelled to pay the entire amount, he can call for contribution from D of his share is Rs.1,50,000.

Thus, the extent to which A can recover the amount from D is Rs. 2,75,000.

State with reasons whether the following statement is True or False:

- (i) Breach of condition gives rise to a right to repudiate the contract of sale. (2 marks; 2000 - May)

Answer:

Correct: Breach of a condition gives the right to the aggrieved party to repudiate the contract. A condition is a stipulation essential to the main purpose of the contract.

Q. 240

Write short note on "Anticipatory Breach of a Contract".

(5 marks; 1994 - Nov)

Answer:

Anticipatory breach: When a party to a contract refuses to perform his part of the contract, before the due date of performance, It is known as anticipatory or constructive breach of contract. This may happen in the following two ways:

- (i) By express renunciation: Here a party to a contract expressly renounces his obligation under the contract, before the due date of performance. For example, A agrees to deliver a particular horse to B on 1st May. Before 1st May, (say on 20th April), A informs B that he shall not deliver the horse on 1st May. This is an express repudiation of the contract.
- (ii) Implied repudiation: Here a party by his own act disables himself from performing the contract i.e. he acts in such a manner that it becomes impossible for him to perform his promise. In the example given above, if A sells that very horse to C on 20th April, he breaks the contract by his conduct.

Rights of the promisee: In case of anticipatory breach of contract, the promisee has the following rights:

- (i) He may treat the contract as repudiated and sue the other party for damages for the breach of contract without waiting until the due date of performance. In this case the promisee will be absolved from further performance of his promise.
- (ii) He may decide to wait till the due date of performance and then hold the defaulting party liable for consequences of the breach. If the promisee decides to wait till the due date of performance, the contract remains alive for the benefit of both the parties and he runs the following risks:
  - a. The party who has previously expressed his intention not to perform the contract may change his mind and perform the contract on the due date of performance. The promisee will be bound to accept this performance.
  - b. The party who has previously expressed his intention not to perform the contract may take the advantage of any supervening circumstances which would justify him in declining to complete it.

Q. 241

Write short note on “Liquidated damages”.

(5 marks; 1996 - May)

Answer:

Liquidated damages: Sometimes the parties to a contract, at the time of making the contract agree to the amount of compensation payable in the event of the breach of the contract. The amount of compensation payable, which has been agreed may be either liquidated damages or penalty. A liquidated damage is a fair and genuine covenanted pre-estimate of probable damage for an anticipated breach of contract. If it appears at the time of entering into a contract, the amount of damage likely to follow from a breach was uncertain and the parties, to avoid uncertainty and the expense of proving damages in a court, agreed at the particular amount, that sum would be described as liquidated damages.

Liquidated damages differ from penalty and the difference is maintained in English Law but in India the courts do not observe such distinction and it is left to the courts to decide. This will be evident from Section 74 of the Indian Contract Act, 1872.

Q. 242

Write short note on ‘Quantum Meruit’

(5 marks; 1997 - May)

Answer:

Quantum Meruit: The phrase 'quantum meruit' literally means "as much as is earned" or according to the quantity of work done." When a person has begun the work and before he could complete it, the other party terminates the contract or does something which make it impossible for the other party to complete the contract, he can claim for the work done under the contract. He may also recover the value of the work done where the further performance of the contract becomes impossible. The claim on quantum meruit must be brought by a party who is not in default. However, in certain cases, the party in default may also sue for the work done if the contract is divisible. Following are the cases in which a claim on quantum meruit may arise:

- (i) Where the work has been done and accepted under a contract which is subsequently discovered to be void, in such a case, the person who has performed the part of the contract is entitled to recover the amount for the work done and the party, who receives and accepts the benefit under such contract, must make compensation to the other party (Section 65).
- (ii) Where, a person does some act or delivers something to another person with the intention of receiving payments for the same (i.e. non-gratuitous act), in such a case, the other person is bound to make payment if he accepts such services or goods, or enjoys their benefit (Section 70).
- (iii) The compensation for the work done may be recovered on the basis of quantum meruit. Where the contract is divisible and a party performs part of the contract and refuses to perform the remaining part, in such a case, the party in default may sue the other party who has enjoyed the benefits of the part performance.

Q. 243

Write short note on “Anticipatory breach of contract”

(5 marks; 1998 - Nov)

Answer:

Anticipatory breach of contract: Section 39 of the Indian Contract Act, 1972 deals with what is known in English Law as anticipatory breach of contract. A breach of contract may take place before the time fixed after performance of the contract has arrived. Thus, if a promisor by his own act disables himself from performing his promise or refuses to perform his part of the contract, the other party is entitled to treat the contract as at an end and to sue him for damages for breach of contract without waiting until the time fixed for performance and without further performing his part of the contract. Where party to contract refuses to perform his part of the contract before the actual time arrives, the law gives the promisee an option whereby he may either-

- (a) elect to rescind and may then although the time for the performance has not yet received, treat the contract as at an end and at once sue for the damages, or
- (b) He may elect not to rescind but to treat the contracts still operative and wait for the time of performance and then hold the other party responsible for all the consequences of non-performance.

Q. 244

Write short note on "Vindictive and Nominal damages"

(5 marks; 2002 - May)

Answer:

Damages for the breach of a contract are given by way of compensation for loss suffered, and not by way of punishment for wrong inflicted. Vindictive damages have no place in the law of contract because they are punitive by nature. But in case of (a) breach of a promise to marry, and (b) dishonour of a cheque by a banker wrongfully when he possesses sufficient funds to the credit of the customer, the court may award vindictive damages. Whereas is nominal damages where the injured party has not in fact suffered any loss by reasons of the breach of a contract, the damages recoverable by him are nominal. These damages merely acknowledge that the plaintiff has proved his case and won.

Q. 245

Write short note on "Remedies available to an aggrieved party on the breach of contract".

(5 marks; 2002 - Nov)

Answer:

Following are the remedies available to an aggrieved party on breach of contract.

- (i) Suit for damages.
- (ii) Recession of contract by the other party: When a contract is broken by one party, the other party may treat the contract as rescinded. In such a case he is absolved of all his obligations under the contract and is entitled to compensation for any damages that he might have suffered.
- (iii) Suit upon Quantum Meruit: The phrase 'quantum meruit' literally means "as much as is, earned" or "according to the quantity of work done". When a person has begun the work and before he could complete it, the other party terminates the contract or does something, which make it impossible for the other party to complete the contract, he can claim for the work done under the contract. He may also recover the value of the work done where further performance of the contract becomes impossible. The claim of quantum meruit must be brought by a party who is not in default.
- (iv) Suit for specific performance: Where damages are not an adequate remedy in the case of breach of contract, the court may be at its discretion on a suit for specific performance direct a party in breach, to carry out his promise according to the terms of the contract.
- (v) Suit for injunction: Where a party to a contract is negotiating the terms of a contract, the court may be issuing an 'injunction order' restrain him from doing what he promised not to do.

Q. 246

Distinguish between 'Liquidated damages' and 'Penalty'.

(5 marks; 1995 - May)

Answer:

Liquidated damages and penalty: Liquidated damages and penalty are applicable to determine the extent of damages in case of breach of contract both in England and in India. Still there exist some difference between these two which are as follows:

- (i) Liquidated damages are the amount assessed on the basis of actual or probable loss by both the parties payable in the event of breach. While in case of penalty it is not based on actual or probable loss. Penalty is provided to prevent a party from committing a breach.
- (ii) Liquidated damage is imposed by way of compensation but penalty is imposed by way of punishment.
- (iii) Courts in England usually allow 'liquidated damages' without any regard to the actual loss sustained and treat penalty clause as invalid. But Section 74 of the Contract Act, 1872 in India does nor recognise any difference between these two terms. Here the courts are required to allow reasonable compensation so as to cover the actual loss sustained, not exceeding the amount so mentioned in the contract.

Q. 247

Comment the following:

(a) What is an anticipatory Breach of Contract?

(5 marks; 1996 - Nov)

Answer:

Anticipatory breach of contract: An anticipatory breach of contract is a breach of contract occurring before the time fixed for performance has arrived. When the promisor refuses altogether to perform his promise and signifies his unwillingness even the time for performance has arrived, it is called Anticipatory Breach. The law in this regard has very well summed up in Frost v. Knight and Hochster v. Dela Tour.

Anticipatory breach of a contract may take either of the following two ways:

- (a) Expressly by words spoken or written, and,
- (b) Impliedly by the conduct of one of the parties.

When A contracts with B on 15th July, 1995 to supply 10 bales of cotton for a specified sum on 14th August, 1995 and on 30th July informs B, that he will not be able to supply the said cotton on 14th August, 1995, there is an express rejection of the contract. Where A agrees to sell his white horse to B for Rs. 5,000/- on 10th August, 1995, but he sell this horse to C on 1st of August, 1995, the anticipatory breach has occurred by the conduct of the promisor.

Section 39 of the Indian Contract Act deals with anticipatory breach of contract and provides as follows: "When a party to a contract has refused to perform, or disabled himself from performing, his promise in its entirety, the promisee may put an end to the contract, unless he has signified, by words or conduct, his acquiescence in its continuance."

Effect of anticipatory breach: The promisee is excused from performance or from further performance. Further he gets an option:

1. To either treat the contract as rescinded and sue the other party for damages from breach of contract immediately without waiting until the due date of performance,' or
2. He may elect not to rescind but to treat the contract as still operative, and wait for the time of performance and then hold the other party responsible for the consequences of non-performance. But in this case, he will keep the contract alive for the benefit of the other party as well as his own, and the guilty party, if he so decides on reconsideration, may still perform his part of the contract and can also take advantage of any supervening impossibility which may have the effect of discharging the contract.

Q. 248

Comment the following:

(a) What kinds of damages may be awarded in case of breach of the contract under the law of contract?

(10 marks; 1997 - Nov)

Answer:

Damages: Remedy by way of damages is the most common remedy available to the injured party. This entitles the injured party to recover compensation for the loss suffered by it due to the breach of contract, from the party who causes the breach. Sections 73 to 75 of the Contract Act incorporate the provisions in this regard. The damages which may be awarded to the injured party may be of the following kinds:

- (i) Ordinary damages: When a contract has been broken, the party who suffers by such breach is entitled to receive, from the party who has broken the contract, compensation for any loss or damage caused to him thereby, which naturally arose in the usual course of things from such breach, or which the parties knew, when they made the contract, to be likely to result from the breach of it. Such compensation is not to be given for any remote and indirect loss or damage sustained by reason of the breach. [Section 73 of the Contract Act and the rule in Hadley vs. Baxendale (1854) 1 Ex. 341].
- (ii) Special damages: Where a party to a contract receives a notice of special circumstances affecting the contract, he will be liable not only for damages arising naturally and directly from the breach but also for special damages.
- (iii) Vindictive or exemplary damages: These damages may be awarded only in two cases:
  - a. for breach of promise to marry because it causes injury to his or her feelings; and

- b. for wrongful dishonour by a banker of his customer's cheque because in this case the injury due to wrongful dishonour to the drawer of cheque is so heavy that it causes loss of credit and reputation to him. A business man whose credit has suffered will get exemplary damages even if he has sustained no pecuniary loss. But a non-trader can not get heavy damages in the like circumstances, unless the damages are alleged and proved as special damages. [Gibbons vs. West Minister Bank (1939) 2 K.B. 882].
- (iv) Nominal damages: Nominal damages are awarded where the plaintiff has proved that there has been a breach of contract but he has not in fact suffered any real damage and the injury is nominal.

Q. 249

Comment the following:

- (a) Remote and indirect losses are not recoverable.

(5 marks; 1999 - May)

Answer:

Section 73 of the Indian Contract Act, (1872 deals with the compensation for loss or damages caused by breach of contract: In this relation, the basic rule is that damages must not be too remote. The remote damages and indirect losses are those which are either far away in time or widely separated from usual course of things of contract. They are in the nature of distant indirect losses. They are not reasonably foreseeable by a normally reasonable man. The Supreme Court has ruled that remote or indirect loss or damages sustained by reason of the breach will not entitle the party to any compensation (Karsands (v) Saran Engineering Co., AIR 1965 SC 1981). Thus, the person who has committed the breach is liable for reasonably foreseeable losses, those that a normally prudent person would have had reason to foresee as probable consequences of future breach. A defaulting person is not liable for those damages which are not reasonably foreseeable. Thus remote damages are not recoverable. Non fulfilment of emotional expectations due to non-performance of a contract is a kind of remote damage being widely separated from the usual things of the contract.

Q. 250

Explain briefly "What remedies are available to an aggrieved party on the breach of contract"?

(5 marks; 1999 - Nov)

Answer:

Remedies for breach of contracts: When a contract is broken, the injured party becomes entitled to any one or more of the following reliefs:

- (a) Rescission of the contract: with the result that the injured party is freed from all his obligations under the contract.
- (b) Suit for damages: Damages are monetary compensation awarded to the injured party by Court for loss or injury suffered by him. Section 73 of the Indian Contract Act, 1872 has laid down the rules as to how the amount of compensation is to be determined. Damages may be nominal or ordinary or special or exemplary damages or damages for deterioration caused by delay.
- (c) Suit upon Quantum Meruit: A right to sue on a quantum meruit (as much as earned) arises when a contract performed by one party, has become discharged by the breach of contract by the other party. It is based on implied promise arising from acceptance of benefit by the party.
- (d) Suit for specific performance contract: Where damages are not an adequate remedy in the case of breach of contract, the court may in its discretion on a suit for specific performance direct the party in breach, to carry out his promise according to the terms of the contract,
- (e) Suit for an injunction: Where a party to a contract is negotiating the terms of a contract, the court may by issuing an 'injunction order' restrain him from doing what he promised not to do.

Q. 251

Comment the following:

- (i) Damages are "Compensatory" and "Not Penal".

(5 marks; 2000 - May)

Answer:

Damages (ordinary or special) are given by way of compensation for loss suffered and not by way of punishment for wrong inflicted. The fundamental basis of awarding damages is compensation for pecuniary loss which naturally flows from the breach of contract. The object is to put the injured party in the same position, so far as money can do it, as if he had not been injured.

Hence, vindictive or exemplary or exemplary damages have no place in the law of contract because they are punitive by nature. But in case of breach of a promise to marry and dishonour of a cheque by a banker wrongfully even when sufficient funds are there to the credit of customers account, the court may award exemplary damages.

Q. 253

Comment the following:

- (a) When a claim for Quantum Meruit arises?

(5 marks; 2001 - Nov)

Answer:

A claim for quantum meruit shall arise under the following circumstances:

1. When the contract is discovered to be unenforceable (Section 65, Indian Contract Act, 1872) i.e. when the agreement is discovered to be void or becomes void, any person receiving benefit under such an agreement or contract is bound to restore it.
2. When one party abandons or refuses to perform the contract. Where there is a breach of contract, the aggrieved party is entitled to claim reasonable compensation for what he has done under the contract.
3. When a contract is divisible, and the party in default, has enjoyed the part performance, the party in default may sue on quantum meruit.
4. When an indivisible contract for lump sum is performed but badly, the person who has performed can claim the lump sum less deduction for bad workmanship.

Q. 254

Explain what is meant by 'Supervening Impossibility' as per The Indian Contract Act, 1872 with the help of an example. What is the effect of such impossibility?

(5 marks; 2021 - July)

Answer:

Subsequent or Supervening or Post: Contractual Impossibility:

- (i) Subsequent or post: Contractual impossibility is one which arises after the formation of contract has taken place.
- (ii) Due to supervening impossibility, the contract becomes void and stands discharged.
- (iii) If any benefit has accrued to any of the parties , then it must be restored

Illustration:

A sold to B a cargo of oil to be shipped by a particular ship. B paid Rs. 5 lakhs as purchase consideration. Before the time for shipping arrived the ship was damaged by wreck and loading of cargo was impossible now. (a) Here the contract between A & B becomes impossible of being performed and thus the event can be called as Supervening Impossibility. Due to this the contract becomes void and both parties are discharged from their liability. A has to refund Rs. 5 lakhs which was taken from B under the contract.

Q. 255

"Liquidated damage is a genuine pre-estimate of compensation of damages for certain anticipated breach of contract whereas Penalty on the other hand is an extravagant amount stipulated and is clearly unconscionable and has no comparison to the loss suffered by the parties". Explain the statement by differentiating between liquidated damages and penalty with references to provisions of the Indian Contract Act, 1872. (5 marks; 2022 - June)

Answer:

Liquidated damage is a genuine pre-estimate of compensation of damages for certain anticipated breach of contract.

Parties make this estimation with an intent to:

- (i) have a detailed calculation on quantum of damages and
- (ii) to convince outside parties.

Penalty on the other hand is an extravagant amount stipulated and is clearly unconscionable and has no comparison to the loss suffered by the parties.

In case of breach of contract, whether the sum named as liquidated damage or penalty, the Court will award only a reasonable compensation not exceeding the sum mentioned in the contract.

In other words, courts are empowered to reduce the sum payable on breach whether it is penalty or liquidated damages provided the sum appears to be unreasonably high and the aggrieved party shall not be allowed, to claim a sum greater than what is specified in the written agreement.

Q. 256

M Ltd., contract with Shanti Traders to make and deliver certain machinery to them by 30.6.2017 for Rs. 11.50 lakhs. Due to labour strike, M Ltd. could not manufacture and deliver the machinery to Shanti Traders. Later, Shanti Traders procured the machinery from another manufacturer for Rs. 12.75 lakhs. Due to this Shanti Traders was also prevented from performing a contract which it had made with Zenith Traders at the time of their contract with M Ltd. and were compelled to pay compensation for breach of contract. Advise Shanti Traders the amount of compensation which it can claim from M Ltd., referring to the legal provisions of the Indian Contract Act, 1872. (6 marks; 2018 - May)

Answer:

When a contract has been broken, the party who suffers by such breach is entitled to receive, from the party who has broken the contract, compensation for any loss or damage caused to him thereby, which naturally arose in the usual course of things from such breach, or which parties know, when they made the contract to be likely to result from the breach of it.

Such compensation is not to be given for any remote or indirect loss or damage sustained by reasons of the breach.

In the given case, Shanti Traders suffered a loss Rs. 1.25 lakhs (12.75 -11.50) due to breach of contract by M Ltd. This naturally arose in the usual course of things. Shanti Traders also had to pay penalty to Zenith Trader for breach of contract, which should be considered as indirect loss or remote loss for which M Ltd. cannot be held responsible.

Therefore, Shanti Traders can claim an amount of Rs. 1.25 lakh from M Ltd. and nothing beyond.

Q. 260

State with reason whether the following statement is true or false:

- (i) A contract of indemnity is not a contingent contract. (2 marks; 1995 - May)

Answer:

Incorrect: A contract of indemnity is a class of contingent contracts. Because in such a contract, the performance depends upon the happening or non-happening of certain event i.e. occurrence of loss caused by the conduct of the promisor or any other person.

Q. 261

State with reason whether the following statement is true or false:

- (i) A stranger to the consideration can enforce the contract. (2 marks; 1995 - Nov)

Answer:

Correct: Under the Indian Law, consideration may move from the promisee or any other person, i.e. even a stranger. This rule applies in the cases of marriage settlement, partition or other family arrangements, trust, agency, assignment, etc.

Q. 262

State with reason whether the following statement is true or false:

- (i) Insurance contracts are covered under contracts of indemnity. (2 marks; 1996 - Nov)

Answer:

Correct: According to Section 124 contract of indemnity is a contract by which one party promises to save the other from loss caused to him by the conduct of the promisor himself, or by the conduct of any other person. In the insurance contract if insured suffers any loss, the same is made good by the insurer i.e. the insurance companies. Such contracts are covered under the above definition. However, a life insurance is a contingent contract and not a contract of indemnity.

Q. 263

State with reason whether the following statement is true or false:

- (i) In Quasi contracts, the promise to pay is always an implication of law and not of facts. (2 marks; 1997 - Nov)

Answer:

Correct: Though quasi-contracts are not contracts in the strict sense (as there is no offer, acceptance, consensus-ad-idem etc), yet the law from the circumstances of the case, conduct and relationship of parties, implies by fiction an obligation on the one party and confirming a right to a money payment in favour of the other.

Q. 264

State with reason whether the following statement is true or false:

- (i) A 'Contract of indemnity' is not a 'Contingent contract'.

(2 marks; 2002 - May)

Answer:

Incorrect: Indemnity is an act to compensate or protect somebody against loss or to make good the loss suffered (Section 124 of Indian Contract Act, 1872). The contingency upon such the whole contract of indemnity depends upon the event of suffering loss by the other party. Thus, a contract of indemnity is a type of contingent contract.

Q. 265

Write short notes on "Contingent Contract".

(5 marks; 1995 - NOV)

Answer:

Contingent Contract:

A contingent contract is a contract to do or not to do something, if some event, collateral to such contract, does or does not happen (Section 31 of the Indian Contract Act). It is a contract in which the performance becomes due only upon the happening of some event which may or may not happen. For example, A contracts to pay B Rs. 10,000 if B's house to burnt. This is a contingent contract. The following characteristics of contingent contracts can be printed out:

1. The performance of a contingent contract depends upon the happening or non-happening of some uncertain future event.
2. Contingent contracts may be subject to a condition precedent or subsequent.
3. The event on which the performance is made to depend upon is an event collateral to the contract. The event should neither be a performance promised, nor the consideration for the promise.
4. The contingent event should not be the mere will of the promisor.
5. The happening of the event is uncertain.

Rules:

Section 32: Contingent contract cannot be enforced until the relevant event has happened.

Section 33: It can be enforced on non-happening of such event, if it becomes impossible.

Section 34: The event is considered impossible when a person does some act so as to make it impossible.

Section 35: If time fixed for an event to occur expires, it becomes impossible.

Section 36: Contingent agreement based on happening of impossible events are void.

Q. 266

Distinguish Between of the following:

- (i) Wagering agreement and Contingent contract.

(5 marks; 1998 - May)

Answer:

Wagering agreement and Contingent contract: Agreement by way of wager are void, according to Section 30. In a wagering agreement, two parties have opposite views regarding an uncertain event, and they stipulate that upon the determination of the event in a certain way the parties shall win or lose from each other, a certain sum of money and the parties have no other interest in the event except winning or loosing a bet.

According to Section 31 of the Indian Contract Act, 1872 a contingent contract is a contract to do or not to do something, if some event collateral to such contract, does or does not happen. Contracts of Indemnity or of insurance are of this type. But however, there is difference between the wagering agreements and contingent contract which may be enumerated as follows:

- (i) A wagering agreement consists of reciprocal promises whereas a contingent, contract may not contain reciprocal promises.
- (ii) In a wagering agreement the uncertain event is the sole determining factor, while in a contingent contract the event is only collateral.
- (iii) A wagering agreement is essentially of a contingent nature whereas a contingent contract may not be of a wagering nature.
- (iv) A wagering agreement is void whereas a contingent contract is valid.
- (v) In a wagering agreement, the parties have no other interest in the subject matter of the agreement except the winning of losing of the amount of the wager. In other words, a wagering agreement is a game of chance. This is not so in case of a contingent contract.

Q. 267

Distinguish between wagering agreement and contract of insurance.

(2 marks; 2018 - May)

Answer:

Difference between a Contingent Contract/Contract of Insurance and a Wagering Contract:

Contract of Insurance:

S. No.	Contingent Contracts	Wagering Contracts
1.	It is a contract to do or not to do something if an event collateral to main contract happens or does not happen.	It is a promise to give money or money's worth on an uncertain event happening or not happening.
2.	It may not be wagering in nature.	It is essentially contingent in nature.
3.	It is valid.	It is void.
4.	It may not contain reciprocal promises.	It does consists of reciprocal promise.

Q. 268

Explain the term 'Quasi Contracts' and state their characteristics. Illustrate your answer by giving examples.

(10 marks; 1994 - Nov)

Answer:

Quasi Contracts: Under certain special circumstances obligation resembling those created by a contract are imposed by law although the parties have never entered into a contract. Such obligations imposed by law are referred to as 'Quasi-contracts'. Such a contract resembles with a contract so far as result or effect is concerned but it has little or no affinity with a contract in respect of mode of creation. These contracts are based on the doctrine that a person shall not be allowed to enrich himself unjustly at the expense of another.

The salient features of a quasi-contract are:

1. It does not arise from any agreement of the parties concerned but is imposed by law.
2. Duty and not promise is the basis of such contract.
3. The right under it is always a right to money and generally, though not always, to a liquidated sum of money.
4. Such a right is available against specific person(s) and not against the whole world.
5. A suit for its breach may be filed in the same way as in case of a complete contract.

Section 68 to 72 of [the Indian Contract Act deals with the following types of quasi-contracts]:

1. Claim for necessities supplied to a person incapable of contracting (Sec. 68). If a person incapable of entering into a contract or anyone whom he is legally bound to support, is supplied with necessities suited to his condition in life by another person the supplier is entitled to recover the price from the property of the incapable person.

Example: (a) A supplies B, a lunatic, or a minor, with necessities suitable to his condition in life. A is entitled to be reimbursed from B's property.

2. Reimbursement of person paying money due by another, in payment of which he is interested. A person who is interested in the payment of money which another is bound by law to pay, and who therefore pays it, is entitled to be reimbursed by the other (Sec. 69).

Example: B holds land in Bengal, on a lease granted by A, the zamindar. The revenue payable by A to the government being in arrear, his land is, advertised for sale by the Government. Under the revenue law, the consequence of such sale will be the annulment of B's lease. B, to prevent sale and the consequent annulment of his own lease, pays to the government the sum due from A. A is bound to make good to B the amount so paid.

3. Obligation of person enjoying benefit of non-gratuitous act. Where a person lawfully does anything for another person, or delivers anything to him, not intending to do so gratuitously, and such other person enjoys the benefit thereof, the latter is bound to make compensation to the former in respect of, or to restore, the thing so done or delivered (Sec. 70).

Example: A, a tradesman, leaves goods at B's house by mistake, B treats the goods as his own. He is bound to pay A for them.

4. Responsibility of finder of goods. A person who finds goods belonging to another and takes them into his custody, is subject to the same responsibility as a bailee (Sect. 71).

5. Liability of persons to whom money is paid, or thing delivered by mistake or under coercion. A person to whom money has been paid, or anything delivered by mistake or under coercion, must repay or return it (Sec. 72).

Example: A and B jointly owe 100 rupees to C. A alone pays the amount to C and B, not knowing this fact, pays 100 rupees over gain to C. C is bound to repay the amount to B.

6. Quantum meruit. In addition to the above types of quasi contracts expressly provided in the Act, a claim can also be made on the basis of quantum meruit. Where a person has rendered some service to another under the circumstances which indicate that it is to be paid for though no remuneration was fixed, the law implies a promise to pay for the amount of the work actually done. It means payment in proportion to the amount of work done.

Q. 269

Comment on the following:

(a) A contract of indemnity is a contingent contract.

(5 marks; 1996 - May)

Answer:

A contract of indemnity is a contingent contract: The statement is correct in the sense that a contract of indemnity is one by which one party promises to save the other from the loss caused to him by the conduct of the promisor himself or by the conduct of any other person. A contingent contract is a contract to do or not to do something if some event collateral to such contract does or does not happen. From the above definitions, it can be seen -that both contracts are conditional contracts. Their performance depends upon some contingency which is uncertain. A contract of indemnity is really a part of the general class of contingent contracts. It is entered into with the object of protecting the promisee against any anticipated loss. The contingency upon which the whole contract of indemnity depends, is the happening of loss.

Q. 270

State briefly the law relating to 'Quasi contract'.

(10 marks; 1996 - Nov)

Answer:

Quasi contracts: Under certain circumstances, a person may receive a benefit to which the law regards another person as better entitled, or for which the law considers he should pay to the other person, even though there is no contract between the parties. Such relationships are termed as "Quasi-Contracts". A quasi contract rests on the ground of equity that a person shall not be allowed to enrich himself unjustly at the expense of another.

Sections 68 to 72 of the Indian Contract Act has prescribed the following relationships creating quasi-contractual relations:

1. Supply of necessaries: Under Section 68, if a person, incapable of entering into a contract, or anyone whom he is legally bound to support, is supplied by another person with necessaries suited to his conditions in life, the person who has furnished such supplies is entitled to be reimbursed from the property of such incapable person.

2. Payment by an interested person: It has been laid down in Section 69 of the Indian Contract Act that a person who is interested in the payment of money which another is bound by law to pay and who therefore, pays it, is entitled to be reimbursed by the other.

3. Obligation to pay for non-gratuitous Act: Section 70 of the Indian Contract Act states that where a person lawfully does anything for another person or delivers anything to him not intending to do so gratuitously, and such other person enjoys the benefit thereof, the latter is bound to make compensation in respect of or to restore, the thing so done or deliver.

4. Responsibility of finder of goods: Under Section 71 of the Act, a person who finds goods belonging to another and takes them into his custody, is subject to the same responsibility as a bailee.

5. Case where money is paid by mistake or under coercion: Finally, Section 72 of the Indian Contract Act provides that a person to whom money has been paid, or anything delivered by mistake or under coercion, must repay or return it. Thus, quasi contractual right is always a right to money and generally though not always to a liquidated sum of money. It does not arise from any agreement of the parties concerned, but is imposed by the law. It is a right which is not available against all the world but against a particular person or persons only. There is no contract between the parties in cases of quasi contracts, yet they are put in the same position as if there were a contract between them.

Q. 271

Explain the meaning of 'Contingent Contracts' and state the rules relating to such contracts.

(10 marks; 1997 - May)

Answer:

Essential characteristics of a contingent contract: A contract may be absolute or contingent. A contract is said to be absolute when the promisor undertakes to perform the contract in all events. A contingent contract, on the other hand "is a contract to do or not to do something, if some event, collate: 31 to such contract does or does not happen" (Section 31). It is a contract in which the performance becomes due only upon the happening of some event which may or may not happen. For example, A contracts to pay B Rs. 10,000, if he is elected President of a particular association. This is a contingent contract. The essential characteristics of a contingent contract may be listed as follows:

- (i) There must be a contract to do or not to do something.
- (ii) The performance of the contract must depend upon the happening or non-happening of some event.
- (iii) The happening of the event is uncertain.
- (iv) The event on which the performance is made to depend upon is an event collateral to the contract i.e. it does not form part of the reciprocal promises which constitute the contract. The event should neither be a performance promised, nor the consideration for the promise.
- (v) The contingent event should not be the mere will of the promisor. However, where the event is within the promisor's will, but not merely his will, it may be a contingent contract.

The rules regarding the contingent contract are as follows:

- (1) Contingent contract dependent on the happening of an uncertain future event cannot be enforced until the event has happened. If the event becomes impossible, such contracts become void. (Section 32).
- (2) Where a contingent contract is to be performed if a particular event does not happen, its performance can be enforced only when happening of that event becomes impossible. (Section 33).
- (3) If a contract is contingent upon, how a person will act at an unspecified time the event shall be considered to become impossible, when such person does anything which renders it impossible that he should so act within any definite time or otherwise than under further contingencies. (Section 34, 35).
- (4) The contingent contracts to do or not to do anything if an impossible event happens, are void whether or not the fact is known to the parties. (Section 36)

What is meant by Quasi-contract? Explain the types of Quasi-contracts which have been described in the Indian Contract Act, 1872. (10 marks; 1999 - May)

Answer:

Q. 273

Explain briefly the following:

The duties and liabilities Of a finder of goods are treated at par with bailee.

(5 marks; 1999 - Nov)

Answer:

Duties and Liabilities of finder of goods: The duties and liabilities of a finder of goods are treated at par with bailee. A person who finds goods belonging to another and takes them into his custody, is subject to the same responsibility as a bailee. (Section 71 of the Indian Contract Act, 1872). He is bound to take as much care of the goods as a man of ordinary prudence would, under similar circumstances, take of his own goods of the same bulk quality and value. He must also take all necessary measures to trace its true owner. If he does not take, he will be guilty of wrongful conversion of the property. Till the owner is found out, the property in the goods will vest in the finder and he can retain the goods as his own against the whole world except the real owner. He can sell the goods in the following cases:

- (a) Where the owner cannot with reasonable diligence be found; or
- (b) When found, he refuses to pay the lawful charges of the finder; or
- (c) If the thing is in danger of perishing or losing greater part of its value.
- (d) If the lawful charges amount to 2/3 of the value of the thing.

Q. 274

What is Contingent Contract? Discuss the essentials of Contingent Contract as per the Indian Contract Act, 1872.

(7 marks; 2018 - Nov)

Answer:

A Contingent Contract is a contract to do or not to do something, if some event, collateral to such contract, does or does not happen. Contracts of insurance, indemnity and guarantee fall under this category.

The essential constituents of a contingent contract are:

(a) The performance of a contingent contract would depend upon the happening or non-happening of some event or condition.

Example: A promises to pay Rs. 50,000 to B if it rains on first of the next month.

(b) The event referred to is collateral to the contract. The event is not part of the contract. The event should be neither performance promised non a consideration for a promise.

(c) The contingent event should not be a mere will of the promisor. The event should be contingent in addition to being the will of the promisor.

(d) The event must be uncertain. Where the event is certain or bound to happen, the contract is due to be performed, then it is not a contingent contract.

Q. 275

Explain the term Contingent Contract with reference to The Indian Contract Act, 1872 with the help of an example. Also discuss the rules relating to enforcement of a contingent contract.

(7 marks; 2021 - July)

Answer:

- (i) to do or not to do something
- (ii) if some event, collateral to such contract,

e.g. contracts of Insurance, indemnity and guarantee fall under this category.

Illustration: X advances Rs. 25,000 to B based on promise made by S (Surety) to repay the amount if X fails to repay it within a month.

Rules relating to enforcement of a contingent contract:

(i) Enforcement of contracts contingent on 'happening' of an event:

- If the event happens, then the contract becomes valid.
- If the event does not happen or becomes impossible, then contract becomes void.

(ii) Enforcement of contracts contingent on Not-happening of an event:

- If the event happens, then the contract becomes void.

- If the event does not happen or becomes impossible, then contract becomes valid.

Q. 276

What is meant by 'Quasi-Contract'? State any three salient features of a quasi-contract as per the Indian Contract Act, 1872. (5 marks; 2021 - Dec)

Answer:

Quasi Contracts: Under certain special circumstances, obligation resembling those created by a contract is imposed by law although the parties have never entered into a contract. Such obligations imposed by law are referred to as 'Quasi Contracts'. Such a contract resembles with a contract so far, as result or effect is concerned but it has little or no affinity with a contract in respect of mode of creation. These contracts are based on the doctrine, that a person shall not be allowed to enrich himself unjustly at the expense of another. The salient features of a quasi-contract are:

- (i) It does not arise from any agreement of the parties concerned but is imposed by law.
- (ii) Duty and not promise is the basis of such contract.
- (iii) The right under it is always a right to money and generally though not always to a liquidated sum of money.
- (iv) Such a right is available against specific person(s) and not against the whole world.
- (v) A suit for its breach may be filed in the same way as in case of a complete contract.

Q. 277

X found a wallet in a restaurant. He enquired of all the customers present there but the true owner could not be found. He handed over the same to the manager of the restaurant to keep till the true owner is found. After a week he went back to the restaurant to enquire about the wallet. The manager refused to return it back to X, saying that it did not belong to him.

In the light of the Indian Contract Act, 1872, can X recover it from the Manager? (4 marks; 2019 - Nov)

Answer:

The finder of goods has no right to sue the owner for compensation for trouble and Expense Voluntarily incurred by him to presume the goods and to find the true owner, but he may retain the goods against the owner until he receives such compensation, until then the finder may retain the goods with him.

In the given case X finds a wallet in a restaurant and hands it over to the manager as the true owner could not be traced. After a week a demands the wallet back from the manager, which he refuses to give, saying it did not belong to X.

Held, the manager must return the wallet to 'X' as he being the finder of lost goods was entitled to retain the goods found against everybody except the true owner.

Thus, 'X' can recover the wallet from the manager.

Q.1. Nov 22 Marks 4

Manish, a minor, lost his parents in COVID-19 pandemic. Due to poor financial background Manish was facing difficulties in maintaining his livelihood. He approached Mr. Sohel (a grocery shopkeeper) to supply him grocery items and to wait for some period for receiving his dues. Mr. Sohel did not agree with the proposal; but when Mr. Ganesh, a local person, who is a major, agreed to provide guarantee that he would pay the dues in case Manish fails to pay the amount, Mr. Sohel supplied the required groceries to Manish. After few months when Manish failed to clear his dues, Mr. Sohel approached Mr. Ganesh and asked him to clear the dues of Manish. Mr. Ganesh refused to pay the amount on two grounds; firstly, that there was no consideration in the contract of guarantee and secondly that Manish is a minor and therefore on both the grounds the contract of guarantee is not valid.

*Referring to the relevant provisions of the Indian Contract Act, 1872, decide, whether the contention of Mr. Ganesh, (the surety) is tenable? Will your answer differ in case both Manish (the principal debtor) and Mr. Ganesh (the surety) are minors? (4 Marks)

(i) Whether the contention of Mr. Ganesh (the Surety) is Tenable?

In the light of the given facts in the question, the guarantee was given by Mr. Ganesh (the surety) to Mr. Sohel that he would pay the dues in case Mr. Manish (the Principal Debtor) fails to pay the amount. However, later on it was contended by Mr. Ganesh that there was no consideration in the contract of guarantee and also that Manish is a minor and therefore the contract of guarantee is not valid.

As per the provisions of Section 127 of the Indian Contract Act, 1872, anything done, or promise made, for the benefit of the principal debtor, may be a sufficient consideration to the surety for giving the guarantee.

In the given case, Mr. Ganesh has provided guarantee to Mr. Sohel for the benefit of Mr. Manish which will be treated as sufficient consideration even though there is absence of direct consideration. In other words, a guarantee without consideration is void, but there is no need for a direct consideration between the surety and the creditor.

Regarding the contention that Manish is a minor and therefore, the contract of guarantee will be invalid is not tenable due to the fact that Mr. Ganesh (surety) and Mr. Sohel (the creditor) are not minors. In other words, the capability of the principal debtor (being a minor) does not affect the validity of the agreement of the guarantee.

In view of the above, it can be concluded that the contention of Mr. Ganesh is not tenable.

(ii) In case both Manish (the principal debtor) and Mr. Ganesh (the surety) are minors:

The answer will differ in case both Manish (the principal debtor) and Mr. Ganesh (the surety) are minors. In such a situation, the agreement will be treated as void from inception as the minors cannot give guarantee even with a claim for necessities.

Alpha Motor Ltd. agreed to sell a bike to Ashok under hire-purchase agreement on guarantee of Abhishek. The Terms were: hire-purchase price ₹ 96,000 payable in 24 monthly instalments of ₹ 8,000 each. Ownership to be transferred on the payment of last instalment. State whether Abhishek is discharged in each of the following alternative case under the provisions of the Indian Contract Act, 1872:

- (i) Ashok paid 12 instalments but failed to pay next two instalments. Alpha Motor Ltd. sued Abhishek for the payment of arrears and Abhishek paid these two instalments i.e. 13th and 14th. Abhishek then gave a notice to Alpha Motor Ltd. to revoke his guarantee for the remaining months.
- (ii) If after 15th months, Abhishek died due to COVID-19. (4 Marks)

According to section 130 of the Indian Contract Act, 1872, the continuing guarantee may at any time be revoked by the surety as to future transactions by notice to the creditors. Once the guarantee is revoked, the surety is not liable for any future transaction however he is liable for all the transactions that happened before the notice was given.

A specific guarantee can be revoked only if liability to principal debtor has not accrued.

(i) In the given question Ashok paid 12 instalments (out of total 24 monthly instalments), but failed to pay next two instalments. Abhishek (guarantor) paid the 13th and 14th instalments but then he revoked guarantee for the remaining months. Thus, Abhishek is not liable for instalments that was made after the notice, but he is liable for instalments made before the notice (which he had paid i.e. 13th and 14th instalments).

(ii) According to section 131 of the Indian Contract Act, 1872, in the absence of any contract to the contrary, the death of surety operates as a revocation of a continuing guarantee as to the future transactions taking place after the death of surety. However, the surety's estate remains liable for the past transactions which have already taken place before the death of the surety.

In the given question, Abhishek (guarantor) died after 15th month. This will operate as a revocation of a continuing guarantee as to the future transactions taking place after the death of surety (i.e. Abhishek). However, the Abhishek's estate remains liable for the past transactions (i.e. 15th month and before) which have already taken place before the death of the surety.

Shyam, at the request of Govind, sells goods which were, in the possession of Govind. However, Govind had no right to dispose of such goods. Shyam did not know this and handed over the proceed of the sale to Govind. Afterwards, Manohar, who was the true owner of the goods, sued Shyam and recovered the value of the goods. In the light of the provisions of the Indian Contract Act, 1872, answer the following questions:

(i) Is Govind liable to indemnify Shyam for his payment to Manohar?

(ii) What will be the liability of Govind if the goods is a prohibited drug?

(4 Marks)

According to section 178 of the Indian Contract Act, 1872, where a mercantile agent is, with the consent of the owner, in possession of goods or the documents of title to goods, any pledge made by him, when acting in the ordinary course of business of a mercantile agent, shall be as valid as if he were expressly authorised by the owner of the goods to make the same; provided that the pawnee acts in good faith and has not at the time of the pledge notice that the Pawnor has no authority to pledge.

It is also to be noted that:

1. The possession of goods must be with the consent of the owner. If possession has been obtained dishonestly or by a trick, a valid pledge cannot be effected.
  2. The pledgee should have no notice of the pledger's defect of title. If the pledgee knows that the pledger has a defective title, the pledge will not be valid.
- (i) In the given question, Shyam had no notice of the Govind's defect of title. He acted in ordinary course of business of a mercantile agent considering Govind as owner of the good and genuinely handed over the proceed of the sale to him. Therefore, said transaction is invalid.

Thus, Govind shall be liable to indemnify Shyam for his payment to Manohar.

- (ii) Govind shall not be liable to indemnify Shyam as selling of prohibited drugs is a prohibited act and against the public policy.

Due to urgent need of money amounting to ₹ 3,00,000, Pawan approached Raman and asked him for the money. Raman lent the money on the guarantee of Suraj, Tarun and Usha. Pawan makes default in payment and Suraj pays full amount to Raman. Suraj, afterwards, claimed contribution from Tarun and Usha refused to contribute on the basis that there is no contract between Suraj and him. Examine referring to the provisions of the Indian Contract Act, 1872, whether Tarun can escape from his liability. (4 Marks)

Equality of burden is the basis of Co-suretyship. This is contained in section 146 of the Indian Contract Act, 1872, which states that "when two or more persons are co-sureties for the same debt, or duty, either jointly, or severally and whether under the same or different contracts and whether with or without the knowledge of each other, the co-sureties in the absence of any contract to the contrary, are liable, as between themselves, to pay each an equal share of the whole debt, or of that part of it which remains unpaid by the principal debtor".

Accordingly, on the default of Pawan in payment, Tarun cannot escape from his liability. All the three sureties Suraj, Tarun and Usha are liable to pay equally, in absence of any contract between them.

Paul (minor) purchased a smart phone on credit from a mobile dealer on the surety given by Mr. Jack, (a major). Paul did not pay for the mobile. The mobile dealer demanded the payment from Mr. Jack because the contract entered with Paul (minor) is void. Mr. Jack argued that he is not liable to pay the amount since Paul (Principal Debtor) is not liable. Whether the argument is correct under the Indian Contract Act, 1872?

What will be your answer if Jack and Paul both are minor?

(4 Marks)

In the case of a contract of guarantee, where a minor is a principal debtor, the contract is still valid.

In the given question, the contract is a valid contract and Jack (major) shall be liable to pay the amount even if Paul (Principal debtor) is not liable (as Paul is minor).

If both Jack and Paul are minors then the agreement of guarantee is void because the surety as well as the principal debtor are incompetent to contract.

(i) Explain the meaning of contract of guarantee according to the provisions of the Indian Contract Act, 1872.

(ii) State the position of Amit in this regard.

(4 Marks)

- (i) Contract of guarantee: As per the provisions of section 126 of the Indian Contract Act, 1872, a contract of guarantee is a contract to perform the promise made or discharge the liability, of a third person in case of his default.

Three parties are involved in a contract of guarantee:

Surety- person who gives the guarantee,

Principal debtor- person in respect of whose default the guarantee is given,

Creditor- person to whom the guarantee is given

- (ii) According to the provisions of section 133 of the Indian Contract Act, 1872, where there is any variance in the terms of contract between the principal debtor and creditor without surety's consent, it would discharge the surety in respect of all transactions taking place subsequent to such variance.

In the instant case, Satya (Creditor) cannot sue Amit (Surety), because Amit is discharged from liability when, without his consent, Tushar (Principal debtor) has changed the terms of his contract with Satya (creditor). It is immaterial whether the variation is beneficial to the surety or does not materially affect the position of the surety.

Whether CB is liable for the financial loss as surety under the provisions of the Indian Contract Act, 1872?*

As per section 143 of the Indian Contract Act, 1872, any guarantee which the creditor has obtained by means of keeping silence as to material circumstances, is invalid. In the given instance, Mr. CB was invited to give guarantee of an employee Mr. BD to the same employer who previously dismissed Mr. BD for dishonesty. This fact was not told to Mr. CB. - (ii) As per the provisions of section 133 of the Indian Contract Act, 1872, any variance, made without the surety's consent, in the terms of the contract between the principal [debtor] and the creditor, discharges the surety as to transactions subsequent to the variance.

In the given instance, the actual transaction was not in terms of the guarantee given by Mr. A. The loan amount as well as the securities were reduced without the knowledge of the surety.

Aarathi is the wife of Naresh. She purchased some sarees on credit from M/s Rainbow Silks, Jaipur.

M/s Rainbow Silks, Jaipur demanded the amount from Naresh. Naresh refused. M/s Rainbow Silks, Jaipur filed a suit against Naresh for the said amount. Decide in the light of provisions of the Indian Contract Act, 1872, whether M/s Rainbow Silks, Jaipur would succeed?
(4 Marks)

The situation asked in the question is based on the provisions related with the modes of creation of agency relationship under the Indian Contract Act, 1872. Agency may be created by a legal presumption; in a case of cohabitation by a married woman (i.e. wife is considered as an implied agent of her husband). If wife lives with her husband, there is a legal presumption that a wife has authority to pledge her husband's credit for necessaries. But the legal presumption can be rebutted in the following cases:

- (i) Where the goods purchased on credit are not necessaries.
- (ii) Where the wife is given sufficient money for purchasing necessaries.
- (iii) Where the wife is forbidden from purchasing anything on credit or contracting debts.
- (iv) Where the trader has been expressly warned not to give credit to his wife.

If the wife lives apart for no fault on her part, wife has authority to pledge her husband's credit for necessaries. This legal presumption can be rebutted only in cases (iii) and (iv) above.

Applying the above conditions in the given case M/s Rainbow Silks will succeed. It can recover the said amount from Naresh if sarees purchased by Aarathi are necessaries for her.

After six months the company was not in position to pay ₹ 50,000 to Mr. Chetan because of financial constraints. Chetan agreed for a lower salary of ₹ 30,000 from the company. This was not communicated to Mr. Pawan. Three months afterwards it was discovered that Chetan had been doing fraud since the time of his appointment. What is the liability of Mr. Pawan during the whole duration of Chetan's Appointment.*

As per the provisions of Section 133 of the Indian Contract Act, 1872, if the creditor makes any variance (i.e. change in terms) without the consent of the surety, then surety is discharged as to the transactions subsequent to the change.

In the instant case, Mr. Pawan is liable as a surety for the loss suffered by ABC Constructions company due to misappropriation of cash by Mr. Chetan during the first six months but not for misappropriations committed after the reduction in salary.

Hence, Mr. Pawan, will be liable as a surety for the act of Mr. Chetan before the change in the terms of the contract i.e., during the first six months. Variation in the terms of the contract (as to the reduction of salary) without consent of Mr. Pawan, will discharge Mr. Pawan from all the liabilities towards the act of the Mr. Chetan after such variation.

A gives to C a continuing guarantee to the extent of ₹ 5,000 for the vegetables to be supplied by C to B from time to time on credit. Afterwards, B became embarrassed, and without the knowledge of A, B, and C contract that C shall continue to supply B with vegetables for ready money. and that the payments shall be applied to the then-existing debts between B and C. Examining the provision of the Indian Contract Act, 1872, decide whether A is liable on his guarantee given to C. (Nov 2008,5 marks)

OR

'A' gives to 'M' a continuing guarantee to the extent of ₹ 8,000 for the fruits to be supplied by 'M' to 'S' from time to time on credit. After wards, 'S' became embarrassed and without the knowledge of 'A', 'M', and 'S' contract that 'M' shall continue to supply 'S' with fruits for ready money and that payments shall be applied to the then existing debts between 'S' and 'M'. Examining the provision of the Indian Contract Act, 1872, decide whether 'A' is liable on his guarantee given to 'M'. (Nov 2017, 4 marks)

According to Sec. 133, where there is any variance in the terms of contract between the principal debtor and creditor without surety's consent it would discharge the surety in respect of all transactions taking place subsequent to such variance. On the other hand, Sec. 135 provides that, if the creditor makes a settlement with the principal debtor, the surety is discharged If the consent of surety is not obtained,

Present Case: –

Hence, in the first instance, since S and M have varied the terms of the contract, without A's consent, it has discharged A from all the transactions taking place after such variation under Sec. 133.

In the second instance, S and M have made a settlement that the further supply of vegetables will be for cash, and the payment shall be applied to the existing debts without the consent of A.

Hence, A is discharged in respect of all the transactions taking place after the variation in the terms of contract. However, A will remain liable on his guarantee given to M for the existing debts i.e. if S is unable to settle off the debts existing before the variation, the liability of A will arise.

'Ramesh' and 'Suresh' were engaged in business having same nature. 'Ramesh' stands surety for 'Suresh' for any amount which 'Kamlesh' may lend to 'Suresh' from time to time during the next 6 months subject to a maximum of ₹ 85,000. 3 months later, 'Ramesh' revokes the guarantee, when 'Kamlesh' had lent to 'Suresh' ₹ 35,000. Decide whether 'Ramesh' is discharged from all the liabilities to 'Kamlesh' for any subsequent loan under the provisions of the Indian Contract Act, 1872. Would your answer differ in case 'Suresh' makes a default in paying back to 'Kamlesh' the money already borrowed i.e. ₹ 35,000?

(5 Marks)

Revocation of continuing guarantee: The problem asked in the question is based on section 130 of the Indian Contract Act, 1872 relating to the revocation of a continuing guarantee as to future transactions which can be done mainly in the following two ways:

1. By Notice: A continuing guarantee may at any time be revoked by the surety as to future transactions, by giving notice to the creditor.
2. By death of surety: The death of the surety operates, in the absence of any contract to the contrary, as a revocation of a continuing guarantee, so far as regards future transactions. (Section 131)

So far as the transactions before revocation are concerned, the liability of the surety for previous transactions (i.e. before revocation) remains.

Thus, applying the above provisions in the given case,

- 'Ramesh' is discharged from all the liabilities to 'Kamlesh' for any subsequent loan.
- Answer in the second case would differ i.e. 'Ramesh' is liable to 'Kamlesh' for ₹ 35,000 on default of 'Suresh' since the loan was taken before the notice of revocation was given to 'Kamlesh'.

A' stands surety for 'B for any amount which 'C' may lend to B from time to time during the next three months subject to a maximum of ₹ 50,000. One month later A revokes the guarantee, when C had lent to B ₹ 5,000. Referring to the provisions of the Indian Contract Act, 1872 decide whether 'A' is discharged from all the liabilities to 'C' for any subsequent loan. What would be your answer in case 'B' makes a default in paying back to 'C' the money already borrowed i.e. ₹ 5,000? (Nov 2002,6 marks)

Upto the time of revocation of guarantee, Nalin had given to Ashok ₹ 20,000. Referring to the provisions of the Indian Contract Act, 1872 decide:

- (i) Whether Ravi is discharged from his liabilities to Nalin for any subsequent loan.
- (ii) Whether Ravi is liable if Ashok fails to pay the amount of ₹ 20,000 to Nalin? (May 2006, 5 marks)

One month later 'Amit' revokes the surety, when 'Chander' had already lent to 'Bikram' ₹ 10,000 (ten thousand). Referring to the provisions of the Indian Contract Act, 1872. Decide:

- (i) Whether 'Amit' is discharged from all the liabilities to 'Chander' for any subsequent loan given to 'Bikram'?
- (ii) What would be your answer in case 'Bikram' makes a default in paying back to 'Chander' the already borrowed amount of ₹ 10,000? (Nov 2015, 5 marks)

'Ramesh' and 'Suresh' are engaged in business having same nature. Decide whether 'Ramesh' is discharged from all the liabilities to 'Kamlesh' for any subsequent loan under the provisions of the Indian Contract Act, 1872. Would your answer differ in case 'Suresh' makes a default in paying back to 'Kamlesh' the money already borrowed i.e. ₹ 35,000? (Nov 2017, 5 marks)

The problem as asked in the question depends on the provisions of the Indian Contract Act, 1872 as contained in Section 130. The section relates to the revocation of a continuing guarantee as to future transactions which can be done in any of the two ways:

1. By notice: By notice to the creditor, the continuing guarantee can be revoked at any time by the surety as to future transactions.

2. By death of surety: In regard to the future transaction the death of the surety operates. in the absence of any contract to the contrary, as a revocation.

The liability of the surety remains same for the previous transactions. Thus by using the above rule in the question. A is discharged from all the liabilities to C for any subsequent loan. In second case the answer will change that is A will be liable to C for ₹ 5,000 on default of B because the loan was taken before the notice of revocation was given to C.

Q.16. NOV 2023 MARKS 4

Mr. R extended a loan to Mr. D with X, Y, and Z as sureties. Each surety executed a bond with varying penalty amounts- X with a penalty of ₹ 10,000, Y with ₹ 20,000 and Z with ₹ 40,000, in the event of Mr. D's failure to repay the borrowed money to Mr. R. Examine the liabilities of the sureties in accordance with the provisions of the Indian Contract Act, 1872, when Mr. D defaults to the tune of ₹ 42,000. Additionally, assess the situation, if there is no contractual arrangement among the sureties. (4 Marks)

As per section 146 of the Indian Contract Act, 1872, when two or more persons are co-sureties for the same debt, or duty, either jointly, or severally and whether under the same or different contracts and whether with or without the knowledge of each other, the co-sureties in the absence of any contract to the contrary, are liable, as between themselves, to pay each an equal share of the whole debt, or of that part of it which remains unpaid by the principal debtor.

Section 147 provides, the principal of equal contribution is, however, subject to the maximum limit fixed by a surety to his liability. Co-sureties who are bound in different sums are liable to pay equally as far as the limits of their respective obligations permit.

In the given question, Mr. D makes a default of ₹ 42,000, and X, Y and Z as sureties have executed the bond with varying penalty amounts. Hence, X is liable to pay ₹ 10,000, and Y and Z ₹ 16,000 each.

In the given case, if there was no contractual arrangement among the sureties, they would be liable for equal contribution. Hence, X, Y and Z are liable to pay ₹ 14,000 each.

Q.17. May 2023 Marks 4

'S' guarantees 'V' for the transactions to be done between 'V' & 'B' during the month of March, 2022. 'V' supplied goods of ₹ 30,000 on 01.03.2022 and of ₹ 20,000 on 03.03.2022 to 'B'. On 05.03.2022, 'S' died in a road accident. On 10.03.2022, being ignorant of the death of 'S', 'V' further supplied goods of ₹ 40,000. On default in payment by 'B' on due date, 'V' sued on legal heirs of 'S' for recovery of ₹ 90,000. Describe, whether legal heirs of 'S' are liable to pay ₹ 90,000 under the provisions of Indian Contract Act, 1872.

What would be your answer, if the estate of 'S' is worth of ₹ 45,000 only? (4 Marks)

Revocation of continuing guarantee by surety's death (Section 131 of the Indian Contract Act, 1872): In the absence of any contract to the contrary, the death of surety operates as a revocation of a continuing guarantee as to the future transactions taking place after the death of surety. However, the surety's estate remains liable for the past transactions which have already taken place before the death of the surety.

Accordingly, in the given instance, legal heirs of S are not liable to pay ₹ 90,000 but for ₹ 50,000 as death of surety operates as a revocation of a continuing guarantee as to the future transactions, i.e., ₹ 40,000 in this case, taking place after the death of surety.

Further, surety's estate remains liable for the transactions taken place before the death of the surety. Legal heirs of surety will be obliged to perform the contract on behalf of surety to the extent of share inherited. V shall be entitled to recover ₹ 45,000 only from the estate of S.

Q.18. What are the rights of the indemnity-holder when sued?

Rights of Indemnity- holder when sued (Section 125): The promisee in a contract of indemnity, acting within the scope of his authority, is entitled to recover from the promisor— (a) all damages which he may be compelled to pay in any suit (b) all costs which he may have been compelled to pay in bringing/ defending the suit and (c) all sums which he may have paid under the terms of any compromise of suit. It may be understood that the rights contemplated under section 125 are not exhaustive. The indemnity holder/ indemnified has other rights besides those mentioned above. If he has incurred a liability and that liability is absolute, he is entitled to call upon his indemnifier to save him from the liability and to pay it off.

Q.19. Define contract of indemnity and contract of guarantee and state the conditions when guarantee is considered invalid?

Section 124 of the Indian Contract Act, 1872 states that "A contract by which one party promises to save the other from loss caused to him by the conduct of the promisor himself, or the conduct of any person", is called a "contract of indemnity". Section 126 of the Indian Contract Act, 1872 states that "A contract to perform the promise made or discharge liability incurred by a third person in case of his default" is called a “contract of guarantee”. The conditions under which the guarantee is invalid or void is provided in section 142, 143 and 144 of the Indian Contract Act. These include: (i) Guarantee obtained by means of misrepresentation. (ii) Guarantee obtained by means of keeping silence as to material circumstances. (iii) When contract of guarantee is entered into on the condition that the creditor shall not act upon it until another person has joined in it as co-surety and that other party fails to join as such.

Q.20. Mr. X, is employed as a cashier on a monthly salary of ` 12,000 by ABC bank for a period of three years. Y gave surety for X’s good conduct. After nine months, the financial position of the bank deteriorates. Then X agrees to accept a lower salary of ` 10,500/- per month from Bank. Two months later, it was found that X has misappropriated cash since the time of his appointment. What is the liability of Y?

According to section 133 of the Indian Contract Act, 1872, where there is any variance in the terms of contract between the principal debtor and creditor without surety’s consent, it would discharge the surety in respect of all transactions taking place subsequent to such variance. In the instant case, the creditor has made variance (i.e. change in terms) without the consent of surety. Thus, surety is discharged as to the transactions subsequent to the change. Hence, Y is liable as a surety for the loss suffered by the bank due to misappropriation of cash by X during the first nine months but not for misappropriations committed after the reduction in salary.

Q.21. A contracts with B for a fixed price to construct a house for B within a stipulated time. B would supply the necessary material to be used in the construction. C guarantees A’s performance of the contract. B does not supply the material as per the agreement. Is C discharged from his liability.

According to Section 134 of the Indian Contract Act, 1872, the surety is discharged by any contract between the creditor and the principal debtor by which the principal debtor is discharged or by any act or omission for the creditor the legal consequence of which is the discharge of the principal debtor. In the given case, B omits to supply the necessary construction material. Hence, C is discharged from his liability.

Q.22. Mr. D was in urgent need of money amounting to ` 5,00,000. He asked Mr. K for the money. Mr. K lent the money on the sureties of A, B and N without any contract between them in case of default in repayment of money by D to K. D makes default in payment. B refused to contribute, examine whether B can escape liability?

Co-sureties liable to contribute equally (Section 146 of the Indian Contract act, 1872): Equality of burden is the basis of Co-suretyship. This is contained in section 146 which states that “when two or more persons are co-sureties for the same debt, or duty, either jointly, or severally and whether under the same or different contracts and whether with or without the knowledge of each other, the co-sureties in the absence of any contract to the contrary, are liable, as between themselves, to pay each an equal share of the whole debt, or of that part of it which remains unpaid by the principal debtor". Accordingly, on the default of D in payment, B cannot escape from his liability. All the three sureties A, B and N are liable to pay equally, in absence of any contract between them.

Q.23. Mr. Chetan was appointed as Site Manager of ABC Constructions Company on a two years' contract at a monthly salary of ` 50,000. Mr. Pawan gave a surety in respect of Mr. Chetan's conduct. This was not communicated to Mr. Pawan. Three months afterwards it was discovered that Chetan had been doing fraud since the time of his appointment. What is the liability of Mr. Pawan during the whole duration of Chetan's appointment.

As per the provisions of Section 133 of the Indian Contract Act, 1872, if the creditor makes any variance (i.e. change in terms) without the consent of the surety, then surety is discharged as to the transactions subsequent to the change. In the instant case, Mr. Pawan is liable as a surety for the loss suffered by ABC Constructions company due to misappropriation of cash by Mr. Chetan during the first six months but not for misappropriations committed after the reduction in salary. Hence, Mr. Pawan, will be liable as a surety for the act of Mr. Chetan before the change in the terms of the contract i.e., during the first six months. Variation in the terms of the contract (as to the reduction of salary) without consent of Mr. Pawan, will discharge Mr. Pawan from all the liabilities towards the act of the Mr. Chetan after such variation.

Case 1: The agreement of guarantee is void because the creditor is incompetent to contract.

Referring to the provisions of the Indian Contract Act, 1872, decide whether Manoj is discharged from all the liabilities to Sharma for any subsequent credit supply. What would be your answer in case Ranjan makes default in paying back Sharma for the goods already supplied on credit i.e. ₹ 40,000?

Discharge of Surety by Revocation: As per section 130 of the Indian Contract Act, 1872, a continuing guarantee may, at any time, be revoked by the surety, as to future transactions, by notice to the creditor, but the surety remains liable for transactions already entered into. As per the above provisions, liability of Manoj is discharged with relation to all subsequent credit supplies made by Sharma after revocation of guarantee, because it is a case of continuing guarantee. However, liability of Manoj for previous transactions (before revocation) i.e. for ₹ 40,000 remains. He is liable for payment of ₹ 40,000 to Sharma because the transaction was already entered into before revocation of guarantee.

What are the rights available to the finder of lost goods under Section 168 and Section 169 of the Indian Contract Act, 1872. (3 Marks)

As per the provisions of section 168 and 169 of the Indian Contract Act, 1872,

- (i) The finder of goods has no right to sue the owner for compensation for trouble and expense voluntarily incurred by him to preserve the goods and to find out the owner. But 'finder of lost goods' can ask for reimbursement for expenditure incurred for preserving the goods and also for searching the true owner. If the real owner refuses to pay compensation, the 'finder' cannot sue but retain the goods so found. Further, where the real owner has announced any reward, the finder is entitled to receive the reward. The right to collect the reward is a primary and a superior right even more than the right to seek reimbursement of expenditure.
- (ii) The finder though has no right to sell the goods found in the normal course; he may sell the goods if the real owner cannot be found with reasonable efforts or if the owner refuses to pay the lawful charges subject to the following conditions:
- (a) when the article is in danger of perishing and losing the greater part of the value or
  - (b) when the lawful charges of the finder amounts to two-third or more of the value of the article found.

Ram, the bailor, pledges a cinema projector and other accessories with Movie Association Co-operative Bank Limited, the bailee, for a loan. Ram requests the bank to allow the pledged goods to remain in his possession and promises to hold the same in trust for the bailee and also further promises to handover the possession of the same to the bank whenever demanded. Examining the provisions of the Indian Contract Act, 1872 decide, whether a valid contract of pledge has been made between Ram, the bailor and Bank, the bailee? (4 Marks)

The problem as asked in the question is based on the provisions of the Indian Contract Act, 1872 as contained in Section 149. The Section provides that the delivery of the goods to the bailee may be made by doing anything which has the effect of putting the goods in the possession of the intended bailee or of any person authorised to hold them on his behalf. Delivery may be actual or constructive or delivery by attornment to the bank. In such a case there is change in the legal character of the possession of goods though not in the actual or physical custody. Though the bailor continues to be in possession of the goods, it is the possession of the bailee.

In the given problem the delivery of the goods is constructive i.e. delivery by attornment to the bailee (pawnee) and the possession of the goods by Ram, the bailor is construed as possession by bailee (pawnee), the Bank. A constructive pledge comes into existence as soon as the pawnor, without actually delivering the goods, promises to deliver them on demand. The transaction was, therefore, a valid pledge.

Srijith's employee, unaware of this, mixed the 50 kg of sugar belonging to Amar with the sugar in the shop and packaged it for sale when Srijith was away. This came to light only when Amar came asking for the sugar he had bailed with Srijith, as the price of the specific quality of sugar had trebled. What is the remedy available to Amar?

According to section 157 of the Contract Act, 1872, if the bailee, without the consent of the bailor, mixes the goods of the bailor with his own goods, in such a manner that it is impossible to separate the goods bailed from the other goods and deliver them back, the bailor is entitled to be compensated by the bailee for the loss of the goods.

In the given question, Srijith's employee mixed high quality sugar bailed by Amar and then packaged it for sale. The sugars when mixed cannot be separated. As Srijith's employee has mixed the two kinds of sugar, he (Srijith) must compensate Amar for the loss of his sugar.

Pledge by person in possession under voidable contract [Section 178A of the Indian Contract Act, 1872]: When the pawnor has obtained possession of the goods pledged by him under a contract voidable under section 19 or section 19A, but the contract has not been rescinded at the time of the pledge, the pawnee acquires a good title to the goods, provided he acts in good faith and without notice of the pawnor's defect of title. On 30.09.2019 he repaid entire secured loan of ₹ 50,000 and requested the bank to release the gold pledged with it. The Bank decided to continue the lien on the gold until the unsecured loan is fully repaid by Radheshyam. Decide whether the decision of the Bank is valid within the provisions of the Indian Contract Act, 1872 ?*

(4 Marks)

General lien of bankers: According to section 171 of the Indian Contract Act, 1872, bankers, factors, wharfingers, attorneys of a High Court and policy brokers may, in the absence of a contract to the contrary, retain, as a security for a general balance of account any goods bailed to them; but no other persons have a right to retain, as a security for such balance, goods bailed to them, unless there is an express contract to the effect.

Section 171 empowers the banker with general right of lien in absence of a contract whereby it is entitled to retain the goods belonging to another party, until all the dues are discharged. Here, in the first instance, the banker under an agreement has a right of particular lien on the gold pledged with it against the first secured loan of ₹ 50,000/-, which has already been fully repaid by Radheshyam. Accordingly, Bank's decision to continue the lien on the gold until the unsecured loan of ₹ 20,000/- (which is the second loan) is not valid.

Examine whether the following constitute a contract of 'Bailment' under the provisions of the Indian Contract Act, 1872: (i) V parks his car at a parking lot, locks it, and keeps the keys with himself. (ii) Seizure of goods by customs authorities.

As per Section 148 of the Act, bailment is the delivery of goods by one person to another for some purpose, upon a contract, that the goods shall, when the purpose is accomplished, be returned or otherwise disposed of according to the directions of the person delivering them. For a bailment to exist the bailor must give possession of the bailed property and the bailee must accept it. There must be a transfer in ownership of the goods. (i) No. Mere custody of goods does not mean possession. In the given case, since the keys of the car are with V, Section 148, of the Indian Contract Act, 1872 shall not be applicable. (ii) Yes, the possession of the goods is transferred to the custom authorities. Therefore, bailment exists and section 148 is applicable.

A hires a carriage from B and agrees to pay ` 500 as hire charges. The carriage is unsafe, though B is unaware of it. A is injured and claims compensation for injuries suffered by him. B refuses to pay. Discuss the liability of B.

Problem asked in the question is based on the provisions of the Indian Contract Act, 1872 as contained in Section 150. The section provides that if the goods are bailed for hire, the bailor is responsible for such damage, whether he was or was not aware of the existence of such faults in the goods bailed. Accordingly, applying the above provisions in the given case, B is responsible to compensate A for the injuries sustained even if he was not aware of the defect in the carriage

Q.12. Study Mat

A bails his jewellery with B on the condition to safeguard it in a bank's safe locker. However, B kept it in safe locker at his residence, where he usually keeps his own jewellery. After a month all jewellery was lost in a religious riot. A filed a suit against B for recovery. Referring to provisions of the Indian Contract Act, 1872, state whether A will succeed

According to section 152 of the Indian Contract Act, 1872, the bailee, in the absence of any special contract, is not responsible for the loss, destruction or deterioration of the thing bailed, if he has taken reasonable care as required under section 151. Here, A and B agreed to keep the jewellery at the Bank's safe locker and not at the latter's residence (i.e. B's residence). Thus, B is liable to compensate A for his negligence to keep jewellery at his (B's) residence.

M shall have to bear the loss since he failed to return the umbrella within the stipulated time and Section 161 clearly says that where a bailee fails to return the goods within the agreed time, he shall be responsible to the bailor for any loss, destruction or deterioration of the goods from that time notwithstanding the exercise of reasonable care on his part.

Amar bailed 50 kg of high quality sugar to Srijith, who owned a kirana shop, promising to give ₹ 200 at the time of taking back the bailed goods. Srijith's employee, unaware of this, mixed the 50 kg of sugar belonging to Amar with the sugar in the shop and packaged it for sale when Srijith was away. This came to light only when Amar came asking for the sugar he had bailed with Srijith, as the price of the specific quality of sugar had trebled. What is the remedy available to Amar?

According to section 157 of the Contract Act, 1872, if the bailee, without the consent of the bailor, mixes the goods of the bailor with his own goods, in such a manner that it is impossible to separate the goods bailed from the other goods and deliver them back, the bailor is entitled to be compensated by the bailee for the loss of the goods. In the given question, Srijith's employee mixed high quality sugar bailed by Amar and then packaged it for sale. The sugars when mixed cannot be separated. As Srijith's employee has mixed the two kinds of sugar, he (Srijith) must compensate Amar for the loss of his sugar.

Mrs. A delivered her old silver jewellery to Mr. Y a Goldsmith, for the purpose of making new a silver bowl out of it. Every evening she used to receive the unfinished good (silver bowl) to put it into box kept at Mr. Y's Shop. She kept the key of that box with herself. One night, the silver bowl was stolen from that box. Was there a contract of bailment? Whether the possession of the goods (actual or constructive) delivered, constitute contract of bailment or not?

Section 148 of Indian Contract Act 1872 defines 'Bailment' as the delivery of goods by one person to another for some purpose, upon a contract that they shall, when the purpose is accomplished, be returned or otherwise disposed of according to the direction of the person delivering them. According to Section 149 of the Indian Contract Act, 1872, the delivery to the bailee may be made by doing anything which has the effect of putting the goods in the possession of the intended bailee or of any person authorised to hold them on his behalf. Thus, delivery is necessary to constitute bailment. Thus, the mere keeping of the box at Y's shop, when A herself took away the key cannot amount to delivery as per the meaning of delivery given in the provision in section 149. Therefore, in this case there is no contract of bailment as Mrs. A did not deliver the complete possession of the good by keeping the keys with herself.

Rahim sold goods on auction for ₹ 2,00,000 but before transferring the proceeds of the auction, became insolvent. In the month of April 2020, Y has purchased a single item of ₹ 12 lakhs from Z as an agent of X. The market value of the item purchased was 14 lakhs but a discount of ₹ 2 lakhs was given by Z. Decide whether Z will succeed in his suit against X for recovery of payment as per provisions of The Indian Contract Act, 1872.

Answer:

An agent does all acts on behalf of the principal but incurs no personal liability. The liability remains that of the principal unless there is a contract to the contrary. An agent also cannot personally enforce contracts entered into by him on behalf of the principal. In the light of section 226 of the Indian Contract Act, 1872, Principal is considered to be liable for the acts of agents which are within the scope of his authority. Further section 228 of the Indian Contract Act, 1872 states that where an agent does more than he is authorised to do, and what he does beyond the scope of his authority cannot be separated from what is within it, the principal is not bound to recognise the transaction.

In the given case, the agency agreement was signed between X and Y, authorizing Y to purchase goods maximum upto the value of ₹ 10 lakh. But Y purchased a single item of ₹ 12 lakh from Z as an agent of X at a discounted rate to financially benefit to X. On demand of payment by Z, X denied saying that Y has exceeded his authority therefore he is not liable for such purchase. Z filed a suit against X for payment.

As said above, liability remains that of the principal unless there is a contract to the contrary. The agency agreement clearly specifies the scope of authority of Y for the purchase of goods, however he exceeded his authority as an agent. Therefore, in the light of section 228 as stated above, since the transaction is not separable, X is not bound to recognize the transaction entered between Z and Y, and therefore may repudiate the whole transaction. Hence, Z will not succeed in his suit against X for recovery of payment.

Explain whether the agency shall be terminated in the following cases under the provisions of the Indian Contract Act, 1872:

(i) A gives authority to B to sell As land and to pay himself, Out of the proceeds, the debts due to him from A. Afterwards. A becomes insane.

(ii) A appoints B as A's agent to sell A's land. B, under the authority of A, appoints C as agent of B. Afterwards. A revokes the authority of B but not of C. What is the status of agency of C?

Answer:

(i) According to section 202 of the Indian Contract Act, 1872, where the agent has himself an interest in the property which forms the subject matter of the agency, the agency cannot, in the absence of an express contract, be terminated to the prejudice of such interest.

In other words, when the agent is personally interested in the subject matter of agency, the agency becomes irrevocable.

In the given question, A gives authority to B to sell A's land, and to pay himself, out of the proceeds, the debts due to him from A.

As per the facts of the question and provision of law, A cannot revoke this authority, nor it can be terminated by his insanity.

(ii) According to section 191 of the Indian Contract Act, 1872, a "Sub-agent" is a person employed by, and acting under the control of, the original agent in the business of the agency.

Section 210 provides that, the termination of the authority of an agent causes the termination (subject to the rules regarding the termination of an agent's authority) of the authority of all sub-agents appointed by him.

In the given question, B is the agent of A, and C is the agent of B. Hence, C becomes a sub-agent.

Thus, when A revokes the authority of B (agent), it results in termination of authority of sub-agent appointed by B i.e., C (sub-agent).

Examine whether it shall be valid for A to ratify the action of C taking into account the provisions of the Indian Contract Act, 1872?

Answer:

As per section 200 of the Indian contract Act, 1872, an act done by one person on behalf of another, without such other person's authority, which, if done with authority, would have the effect of subjecting a third person to damages, or of terminating any right or interest of a third person, cannot, by ratification, be made to have such effect.

In the given instance, A rented his house to B on lease for 3 years. The lease agreement was terminable on three months' notice. C, son of A, gives notice of termination to B, without any authority, to vacate the house within a month. Also requested A to ratify his action.

Here by the act of C, the interest of B is affected, therefore the principle of ratification does not apply. Hence, it's not valid for A to ratify the action of C, thereby causing the notice to be binding on B.

Mr. X owes Mr. Y ₹50,000. He (Mr. X) afterwards appoints Mr. Y as his agent to sell his Flat at Bangalore and after paying himself (i.e., Mr. Y) what is due to him, hand over the balance to Mr. X. Examine, as per the provisions of the Indian Contract Act, 1872, can Mr. X revoke his authority delegated to Mr. Y? (4 Marks)

According to Section 202 of the Indian Contract Act, 1872 an agency becomes irrevocable where the agent has himself an interest in the property which forms the subject-matter of the agency, and such an agency cannot, in the absence of an express provision in the contract, be terminated to the prejudice of such interest.

In the given question, Mr. X owed to Mr. Y ₹ 50,000.

When Mr. X appointed Mr. Y as his agent to sell his Flat and authorized him to appropriate the amount due to Mr. X out of the sale proceeds, interest was created in favor of Mr. Y and the said agency is not revocable. Thus, Mr. X cannot revoke his authority delegated to Mr. Y.

Note: The answer to the above question can also be given as per Section 203, section 204 and section 206 as follows:

Revocation of authority under the Indian Contract Act, 1872: An agency may be terminated by the principal revoking the authority of the agent. Principal may revoke the authority given to his agent at any time before the authority has been exercised so as to bind the principal [Section 203]. However, the principal cannot revoke the authority given to his agent after the authority has been partly exercised so far as regards such acts and obligations as arise for acts already done in the agency. [Section 204]

When the principal, having justification to do so, revokes the authority, he must give reasonable notice of such revocation to the agent, otherwise, he would be liable to pay compensation for any damage caused to the agent (Section 206).

Hence, Mr. X can revoke his authority delegated to Mr. Y if Mr. Y has not exercised any authority towards the act authorized by Mr. X and no obligation arises out of it.

Q.13. NOV 2023 Marks 4

Rajesh obtained a loan of ₹ 10 lakh from Mahesh. Following this, Rajesh appointed Mahesh as his agent to facilitate the sale of his land, granting him the authority to deduct the loan amount from the proceeds of the sale. Later on, Rajesh wants to withdraw or cancel this agency arrangement. Assess the lawfulness of Rajesh's decision to revoke the above mentioned agency, taking into account the provisions of the Indian Contract Act, 1872.

(4 Marks)

According to section 202 of the Indian Contract Act, 1872, an agency becomes irrevocable where the agent has himself an interest in the property which forms the subject-matter of the agency, and such an agency cannot, in the absence of an express provision in the contract, be terminated to the prejudice of such interest.

In the instant case, the rule of agency coupled with interest applies.

Thus, when Rajesh appointed Mahesh as his agent to sell his land and authorized him to appropriate the amount of loan out of the sale proceeds, interest was created in favor of Mahesh and the said agency is not revocable. The revocation of agency by Rajesh is not lawful.

Alternate Answer

Revocation of authority under the Indian Contract Act, 1872: An agency may be terminated by the principal revoking the authority of the agent. Principal may revoke the authority given to his agent at any time before the authority has been exercised so as to bind the principal [Section 203]. However, the principal cannot revoke the authority given to his agent after the authority has been partly exercised so far as regards such acts and obligations as arise for acts already done in the agency. [Section 204]

When the principal, having justification to do so, revokes the authority, he must give reasonable notice of such revocation to the agent, otherwise, he would be liable to pay compensation for any damage caused to the agent. [Section 206]

Hence, Rajesh can revoke his authority delegated to Mahesh if he (Mahesh) has not exercised any authority towards mentioned agency and no obligation arises out of it.

Q.14. STUDY MATERIAL

A appoints M, a minor, as his agent to sell his watch for cash at a price not less than ` 700. M sells it to D for ` 350. Is the sale valid? Explain the legal position of M and D, referring to the provisions of the Indian Contract Act, 1872.

According to the provisions of Section 184 of the Indian Contract Act, 1872, as between the principal and a third person, any person, even a minor may become an agent. But no person who is not of the age of majority and of sound mind can become an agent, so as to be responsible to his principal. Thus, if a person who is not competent to contract is appointed as an agent, the principal is liable to the third party for the acts of the agent. Thus, in the given case, D gets a good title to the watch. M is not liable to A for his negligence in the performance of his duties.

Q.15. STUDY MATERIAL

State with reason whether the following statement is correct or incorrect: Ratification of agency is valid even if knowledge of the principal is materially defective.

Incorrect: Section 198 of the Indian Contract Act, 1872 provides that for a valid ratification, the person who ratifies the already performed act must be without defect and have clear knowledge of the facts of the case. If the principal's knowledge is materially defective, the ratification is not valid and hence no agency.

Q.16. STUDY MATERIAL

Comment on the statement 'Principal is not always bound by the acts of a sub-agent'

The statement is correct. Normally, a sub-agent is not appointed, since it is a delegation of power by an agent given to him by his principal. The governing principle is, a delegate cannot delegate'. (Latin version of this principle is, "delegates non potest delegare"). However, there are certain circumstances where an agent can appoint sub-agent. In case of proper appointment of a sub-agent, by virtue of Section 192 of the Indian Contract Act, 1872 the principal is bound by and is held responsible for the acts of the sub-agent. Their relationship is treated to be as if the sub-agent is appointed by the principal himself. However, if a sub-agent is not properly appointed, the principal shall not be bound by the acts of the sub-agent. Under the circumstances the agent appointing the subagent shall be bound by these acts and he (the agent) shall be bound to the principal for the acts of the sub-agent.

Q.17. STUDY MATERIAL

R is the wife of P. She purchased sarees on credit from Nalli. Nalli demanded the amount from P. P refused. Nalli filed a suit against P for the said amount. Decide in the light of provisions of the Indian Contract Act, 1872, whether Nalli would succeed.

The position of husband and wife is special and significant case of implied authority. According to the Indian Contract Act 1872, where the husband and wife are living together in a domestic establishment of their own, the wife shall have an implied authority to pledge the credit of her husband for necessities. However, the implied authority can be challenged by the husband only in the following circumstances. (1) The husband has expressly forbidden the wife from borrowing money or buying goods on credit. (2) The articles purchased did not constitute necessities. (3) Husband had given sufficient funds to the wife for purchasing the articles she needed to the knowledge of the seller. (4) The creditor had been expressly told not to give credit to the wife. Further, where the wife lives apart from husband without any of her fault, she shall have an implied authority to bind the husband for necessities, if he does not provide for her maintenance. Since, none of the above criteria is being fulfilled; Nalli would be successful in recovering its money.

SALE OF GOODS ACT, 1930

UNIT – 1 FORMATION OF THE CONTRACT OF SALE

Q. 1

Write explanatory note on “Future Goods’ and ‘Specific Goods”

(4 marks; 2008 - June)

Answer:

Future Goods:

- According to the Sale of Goods Act, It is implied condition of sale that only owner can sell the goods.
- It is expressed in the Latin phrase as 'Nemo dat. quod non habet.'<sup>1</sup> which means that "none can give who does not himself possess.
- There is one exception to this rule in case of future goods.
- Future goods mean goods to be manufactured or produced or acquired by the seller after the making of contract of sale.
- As rule, any person may sell or offer for sale goods of which he is not the owner at present, but which he expects to acquire in due course of time.
- A contract to sell oil not yet extracted from the refineries owned by him or not yet obtained from pressing of seeds in his possession is a contract for sale of future goods.
- Any contract for present sale of future goods, constitutes as an agreement to sell.

Specific Goods:

- These are the goods which are specifically identified and agreed upon at the time when contract of sale is drawn and executed.
- It is essential that the goods must be identified and separated from the other goods at the time when the contract of sale is made.
- Merely an identification of goods does not make it specific goods.
- For example, in a case of sale of one horse out of a lot of 25 horses, goods shall be specific if the horse is selected before the contract of sale is made.
- Here it is important to note that all horses are horses but they cannot be exactly similar to each other.

Therefore, it is imperative to select the horse out of the lot as specific goods.

Q. 2

Write explanatory notes on:

(i) Rights of the unpaid seller;

(4 marks; 2008 - Dec)

(ii) Sale and agreement to sale;

(4 marks; 2008 - Dec)

Answer:

(i) Rights of the unpaid seller: The credit sales are indispensable to any business and non payment of debts is an inseparable part of credit sales. The seller who has not received full payment against the goods sold by him must have certain rights and remedies to recover or reduce the loss being suffered by him. The Sale of Goods Act has elaborate provisions regarding the rights of unpaid seller.

By virtue of Section 45, the seller of goods is unpaid seller (i) when the whole price has not been paid or tendered (ii) when the legal instrument received by him as conditional payment has not been honoured.

An unpaid seller has the following rights as per the Sale of Goods Act.

1. Right of lien (lien means control, right to possess, right to retain) (Section 47): The unpaid seller has a lien on the goods for the price while he is in possession, until the payment or tender of the price. A lien is a right to retain possession of goods until payment of the price. He is entitled to lien in the following three cases, namely:

- (i) Where goods have been sold without any condition of credit; or
- (ii) Where goods have been sold on credit but the terms of credit has expired, or
- (iii) Where the buyer becomes insolvent.

The seller can exercise the lien although he holds the goods as the agent or bailee for the buyer.

Where an unpaid seller has made part delivery of the goods, he may exercise his right of lien on the remainder, unless such part delivery has been made under such circumstances as to show an argument to waive the lien.

2. Right of Stoppage in transit (Section 50): The unpaid seller has the right of stopping the goods in transit after he has parted with their possession to a carrier, in case of insolvency of buyer, The right is exercisable by the seller only if the following conditions are fulfilled:

- (i) The seller must be unpaid;
- (ii) He must have parted with the possession of goods;
- (iii) The goods must be in transit;
- (iv) The buyer must have become insolvent;
- (v) The right is subject of provisions of the Act.

5	Buyer becomes owner and the risk is associated with the owner.	Ownership is with the seller, the risk is associated with the seller even if the goods are in possession of buyer.
6	If the buyer has paid the price and the seller becomes insolvent thereafter, the buyer can claim the goods from the official receiver.	In such cases, the buyer cannot claim the goods but can only claim relief related to money paid by him.
7	If the ownership of goods is transferred to the buyer before paying the price, and the buyer becomes insolvent, the seller has to deliver the goods to the official receiver. ,	In such case, the seller can refuse to deliver the goods to the official receiver.

(4 marks; 2010 - Dec)*Answer:*Distinguish between Condition and Warranty

Condition	Warranty
Contract becomes invalid and void if condition is not satisfied.	Contract remains valid even if warranty is not satisfied.
It is essential for the contract.	It is not essential but desirable in the contract. It is collateral (additional security) to the main contract.

Q. 20

Comment on the following based on legal provisions:

Parties to a contract of sale can get the price of goods fixed by third parties.

(2 marks; 2013 - June)

Answer:

Agreement to sell at valuation:

- Sometimes the goods to be sold is such that either the seller or the buyer is not able to determine and decide its price.
- In such cases both the parties make a contract that value of goods will be determined or valued by a third party who is expert in such field.
- Thus there is an agreement to sell goods on the terms that the price is to be fixed by valuation of third party.
- The third party should have no interest in the contract except for fixation of price.
- If that third party does not fix the price because of any reason of its own, the contract becomes void for non fixation of price consideration.

- If the buyer has taken or used any part of goods or the whole goods, the buyer should pay a reasonable price, what is reasonable price will depend on facts and figures of each case.

Q. 21

Transfer of Title to goods takes place when it is intended. Whether it is correct?

(2 marks; 2013 - June)

Answer:

- It should be noted that transfer of property in goods is distinct and different from delivery or possession of goods. The property may pass from the seller to buyer even without delivery of goods.
- It is elementary (basic) law of contract that parties may fix the time when the property (ownership) in goods shall be deemed to have passed.
- It may be at the time of delivery of goods, or it may be at the time making final payment or even at the time of making of goods.
- The seller can sue for price only when the property in goods has passed to the buyer.

Q. 22

In. case of auction sales, auctioneers has some implied obligations. State such obligations.

(4 marks; 2013 - Dec)

Answer:

Yes, obligations are:

- He has authority to sale goods.
- He warrants that he does not know any defects in the title of the principal.
- He undertakes to give possession of the goods against price paid.
- He guarantees quiet possession of goods by the purchases.

Q. 23

A non owner can convey a better title to the bona fide purchaser of goods for value in certain cases. List out those cases.

(6 marks; 2013 - Dec)

Answer:

Safe by person not the owner:

- Where goods are sold by a person who is not the owner thereof and who does not sell them under the authority or with the consent of the owner, the buyer acquires no better title to the goods than the seller had, unless the owner of the goods is by conduct precluded the seller's authority from denying the seller's authority to sell.
- Generally the owner alone can transfer property in goods "nemo dat quod non habet" means that no one can give what he himself does not have.
- It means a non owner cannot make valid transfer of property in goods.
- If the title of the seller is defective, the buyer's title will also be subject to same defect. If the seller has no title, the buyer does not acquire any title although he might have acted honestly and might have acquired the goods after due payment. This rule is to protect the real owner of the goods.
- Though this doctrine seeks to protect the interest of real owners, but in the interest of the trade and commerce there must be some safeguard available to a person who acquired such goods in good faith for value; accordingly the Act provides the following exceptions to this doctrine which seeks to protect the interest of bona fide buyers.

(i)	Sale by mercantile agent (Section 27)	Where a mercantile agent is, with the consent of the owner, in possession of the goods or of a document of title to the goods, any sale made by him, when acting in the ordinary course of business of a mercantile agent, shall be as valid as if he were expressly authorized by the owner of the goods to make the sale, provided that the buyer acts in good faith and he has not noticed at the time of the contract of sale that the seller has no authority to sell.

(ii)	Sale by one of joint owners (Section 28)	If one of several joint owners of goods has the sole possession of the goods by permission of the co-owners, the property (means ownership) in the goods is transferred to any person who buys them of such joint owner in good faith and has not at the time of the contract of sale noticed that the seller has no authority to sell. Where there is a contract for the sale of unascertained goods, no property in the goods is transferred to the buyer unless and until the goods are sanctioned.
(iii)	Sale by person in possession under voidable contract (Section 29)	When the seller of goods has obtained possession thereof under a contract voidable under Section 19 or 19A of the Indian Contract Act, 1872 , but the contract has not rescinded at the time of the sale the buyer acquires a good title to the goods, provided he buys them in good faith and without notice of the seller's defect of title.
(iv)	Seller or buyer in possession after sale (Section 30)	Where a person, having sold goods, continues or is in possession of the goods or of the documents of title to the goods, the delivery or transfer by that person or by a mercantile agent acting for him of the goods or documents of title under any sale, pledge or other disposition thereof to any person receiving the same in good faith and without notice of the previous sale shall have the same effect as if the person making the delivery to transfer were expressly authorized by the owner of the goods to make the same.
(v)	Sale by estoppel (Section 27)	Where the owner by his conduct or omission, leads the buyer to believe that the seller has authority to sell, he is estopped from denying the fact afterwards. The buyer thus gets a better title than the seller.
(vi)	Sale by an unpaid seller after exercising his right of lien or stoppage in transit	In addition to the exceptions discussed above which are provided in various sections of the Sale of Goods Act, the following exceptions are provided in other Acts like Contract Act, Civil Procedure Code etc.
	(a) Sale by a finder of lost goods	Under Section 169 of the Contract Act, if a finder of lost goods could not reasonably find the true owner or the true owner refuses to pay the lawful charges of the finder of lost goods, the finder of lost goods can sell the goods when the goods are perishable in nature or when the lawful charges of the finder of lost goods amounts to 2/3rd of its value.
	(b) Sale by pawnee	Under Section 176 of the Indian Contract Act, a pawnee can sell the goods under certain circumstances with due notice to the owner.
	(c) Sale by official receiver or assignee	In case of insolvency of any individual his official receiver or liquidator of a company can sell the goods and buyer thereof gets good title to it.
	(d) Execution of Sale	Under order 21 of the Civil Procedure Code, officer of Court may sell goods and convey good title to the buyer inspite of the fact that the officer of Court is not the true owner of the goods.

- (b) In an auction sale, a bid once made can not be withdrawn by the bidder.

(2 marks each; 2016 - June)

Answer:

- (a) Correct: It is one of the essentials of the contract of sale, that price must be paid in terms of money.
- (b) Incorrect: The bidder can withdraw his bid any time before the fall of the hammer i.e., completion of sale.

Q. 27

What are the consequences of 'destruction of goods' under the Sale of Goods Act, 1930, where the goods have been destroyed after the agreement to sell but before the sale is affected.

(4 marks; 2016 - Dec)

Answer:*Destruction of Goods-Consequences:

- (i) As per Section 7, a contract for the sale of specific goods is void if at the time when the contract was made; the goods without the knowledge of the seller, perished or become so damaged as no longer to answer to their description in the contract. The rule is based on ground of mutual mistake or impossibility of performance, which is one of the essentials of a valid contract.

- (ii) Section 8 provides that an agreement to sell specific goods becomes void if subsequently the goods, without any fault on the part of the seller or buyer, perish or become so damaged as no longer to answer to their description in agreement before the risk passes to the buyer. This rule is also based on the ground of impossibility of performance as stated above.

It may, however, be noted that Section 7 and 8 apply only to specific goods and not to unascertained goods. If the agreement is to sell a certain quantity of unascertained goods, the perishing of even the whole quantity of such “goods” in the possession of the seller will not relieve him of his obligation to deliver the goods.

Q. 28

What do you understand by “Caveat-Emptor” under the sale of Goods Act, 1930? What are the exceptions to this rule? (8 marks; 2017 - Dec) [CMAIG - I]

Answer:

As per Sec. 16 of the Sale of Goods Act, the buyer is supposed to satisfy himself about the quality of goods he purchased and is also charged with the responsibility of seeing that the goods suit the purpose for which they were purchased by him. Later on if the goods does not turn out to be as per his purpose, the seller cannot be asked to compensate him. This is based on the famous doctrine of CAVEAT EMPTOR which means ‘let the buyer beware’. However, there are some exceptions to this which are as under:

- (a) Where the buyer, expressly or by implication, makes it known to the seller the particular purpose for which the goods are required, so as to show that the buyer relies on the seller’s skill or judgment, and the goods are of a description which is in the course of the seller’s business to supply (whether he is the manufacturer or producer or not), there is an implied condition that the goods shall be reasonably be fit for such purpose. However, in the case of a contract for the sale of a specified article under its patent or other trade name, there are no implied conditions as to its fitness for any particular purpose.
- (b) Where goods are bought by description from a seller who deals in goods of that description (whether he is the manufacturer or producer or not), there is an implied condition that the goods shall be of merchantable quality. However, if the buyer has examined the goods, there shall be no implied conditions as regards defects which such examination ought to have revealed.

In order to apply the implied condition as to merchantability the following requirements must be satisfied.

- (i) the seller should be dealer in goods of that description;
- (ii) The buyer must have not opportunity to examine the goods or there must be some latent defect in the goods which would not be apparent on reasonable examination of the same.

It may be noted the term merchantability has not been defined in the Act. As per English Sale of Goods Act, goods of any kind are merchantable quality if they are as fit for the purpose or purposes for which goods of- that kind are commonly brought as it is reasonable to expect having regard to any description applied to them, the price and all other relevant circumstances.

- (c) An implied warranty or condition as to quality or fitness for a particular purpose may be annexed by the usage of trade. In some cases the purpose for which the goods are required may be ascertained from the acts and conducts of the parties to the sale or from the nature of the description of the article purchased. For example if a hot water bottle is purchased, the purpose for which it is purchased is implied in the thing itself. In such a case the buyer need not tell the seller the purpose for which the bottle is purchased. Similarly if a thermometer is purchased in common usage, the purpose of thermometer is well known, the buyer need not tell the seller.

(d) An express warranty or conditions does not negative a warranty or condition implied by this Act unless inconsistent therewith.

Whether 'A' can file a suit against the auctioneer for his loss of time and cost. (2 marks; 2009 - June)

Answer:

(b) (i) A can not file a suit against the Auctioneer for his loss of time and cost because the Advertisement was merely a declaration of intention to hold Auction. Advertisement is not an offer but it is an invitation to offer. Moreover there was no agreement between A and the party.

Station, Station Master informs Mr. Sham that the goods are held at station at Mr. Sham's risk, but Mr. Sham became insolvent. Has Mr. Ram any right as an unpaid seller? (2 marks; 2009 - Dec)

Answer:

- The goods have reached its destination and are in the possession of station master who is supposed to deliver goods to Mr. Sham.
- The station master is bailee of Mr. Sham the buyer and not of Mr. Ram the seller.
- An unpaid seller can stop the goods in transit in the event of buyer's insolvency.
- This right has been lost by the seller as the goods are no longer in transit.

Answer:

Mr. X is bound to deliver goods at Durgapur or return it back to Y. He does neither hence Y can claim damages from X. Y can file a suit against X. Answer:

Mr. Base should pay the price. When the goods were specified by Bose and price was also settled, the contract was complete and the title of chairs was passed to Bose from the seller. Ramen sold 50 Kg. of rice to Khagen who paid by cheque and Ramen gave the delivery order to Khagen. Khagen resold such rice to Bhaben who purchased on good faith and for consideration. Khagen's cheque was dishonoured. Ramen refused to deliver rice to Bhaben on the plea of non-payment. Advise Bhaben. (2 marks; 2010 - Dec)

Answer:

According to the Sale of Goods Act, It is implied condition of sale that only owner can sell the goods. It is expressed in the Latin phrase as ' Nemo dat quod qui non habet.' which means that "none can give who does not himself possess." Bhaben cannot claim delivery of goods because Khagen cannot sell what he does not have. Khagen right on rice is invalid because his cheque was dishonoured and he was not owner of rice when he sold the rice to Bhaben.

Answer:

(a) Mr. Ambika an agent of a buyer obtained goods from Railways and loaded such goods on his truck on 02.11.11. In the meantime, the Railways received a Notice from the seller (i.e. consignor) for stopping goods in transit as the Buyer became insolvent. Answer:

(a) As the goods are not in possession and control of the railways, they can not stop goods in transit because they (railways) have already given goods to Ambika. It is Ambika who can stop the goods in transit because the goods are loaded in truck as per instruction of Ambika.

(b) Mr. Ray can reject the goods. In case of sale by sample as well as by description, goods must not only correspond to sample but also to description i.e. foreign refined palm oil. (Section 15 of the Sale of Goods Act, 1930)

(c) Mr. Batliboi bought 50 kgs. of potato against cash payment from Mr. Joshi under a Contract of Sale but half of consignment was rotten and Mr. Joshi refused to change the rotten potato nor refunded the value. Advise Mr. Batliboi. (3 marks; 2012 - June)

Answer:

(a) The goods has reached its destination and the seller Malhotra has no right of stoppage in transit as the transit is over at Kolkata. Paul has become insolvent hence he cannot make any payments. Malhotra cannot act as an unpaid seller because the buyer is not capable of making any payment.

(b) Ashim can not refuse to deliver 600 kgs. of wheat to Chandan. Sec. 53 of The Sale of Goods Act, 1930 provides that seller (i.e. Ashim) loses his right of lien, if he has assented to the sale to a subsequent buyer. By giving assent to Chandan, Ashim has lost his right of lien.

(c) The seller should deliver the potatoes in good condition which he has not done. The buyer has right to ask for good quality and correct quantity of potatoes. As per Sale of Goods Act 1930, the seller should pay for the rotten potatoes.

The quantity indicates that food stuff was not for personal consumption and for commercial purposes. Hence Mr. Joshi cannot take the plea of "implied condition of fitness". The doctrine of 'Caveat Emptor' would apply and Mr. Joshi does not have a case.

Comment on the following based on legal provision:

'A', the buyer ordered a patent smoke consuming furnace by its Patent name for his brewery on 'B'. Furnace received was however found to be unsuitable for the purpose. Hence seller is responsible. (2 marks; 2012 - Dec)

Answer:

The seller is not responsible because he has supplied the goods as per the orders and specifications of buyer. If the buyer could not use the goods for his purpose, it is not the failure of seller. Buyer should have been careful while giving the order for the goods, whether such goods would serve his purpose or not.

Mr. Barun tells Mr. Tarun in presence of Mr. Arun that he is the Agent of Arun who maintains silence instead of denying Barun's statement. Later on Barun sells Arun's Goods to Mr. Tarun. Arun now disputed Barun's title to the goods, as Barun was not Agent of Arun. Explain whether Arun is right. (2 marks; 2012 - Dec)

Answer:

In this case Arun cannot dispute Tarun's ownership title to the goods. Sec. 27 of Sale of Goods Act provides that where the owner by his conduct or omission, leads the buyer to believe that the seller has right and/or authority to sell, he is stopped from denying the fact afterwards. The buyer thus gets better title than the seller. This is case of sale by estoppels.

Mr. 'A' purchased a Refrigerator from Mr. 'B' on "hire purchase agreement" expiring on 31.12.15. Mr. 'A' sold on 01.05.13 that Refrigerator to C who purchased against adequate consideration. 'A' has right to give good title to Mr. C. (2 marks; 2013 - June)

Answer:

Under Hire Purchase Agreement, the ownership passes to buyer only on payment of last installment. The hirer under hire purchase system, has no title to the refrigerator therefore Mr. A cannot give a good title to Mr. C. This is because Mr. C. does not get a better title than Mr. A had.

(b) Mr. Malhotra sold 1000 kgs. of rice to Mr. Basu who delayed in taking the rice from Mr. Malhotra. In the meantime Mr. Malhotra sold those rice to Mr. Roy who took the delivery for value and without notice of prior sale. Hence Mr. Roy has no good title of ownership to goods —

Comment. (2 marks; 2013 - June)

Answer:

(a) On 01.02.2013 M/s Wholeseller indicated his unwillingness .to supply cotton shirt @ 300/- per shirt although there is time up to 31.05.2013 for performance of the contract.

It is therefore called anticipating breach of contract. In such case M/s. Retailer can claim damages. M/s Wholeseller may treat the contract as subsisting and wait till the date of delivery or he may treat the contract as rescinded and claim damages for breach.

(b) Where Mr. Malhotra having sold goods continues in possession thereof or documents of title to the goods, the delivery by such seller i.e., Mr. Malhotra will pass a good title to Mr. Roy, since Mr. Roy acted on good faith and without notice of the previous sale by paying the value (Sec. 30) Where however Mr. Malhotra keeps the goods as Mr. Basu's bailee, this section shall not apply (Sec. 30)

In these circumstances Mr. Roy can sue Mr. Malhotra

Agent's Authority in an emergency: As per Section 189 of the Indian Contract Act, 1872.

- An agent has the authority in an emergency to do all such acts as man of ordinary prudence (means carefulness, wisdom) would do for protecting his principal from losses which the principal would have done under similar circumstances.
- A typical case is where the agent handling perishable goods like 'apples' can decide the time, date and place of sale, not necessary as per instructions of the principal, with the intention of protecting the principal from losses.
- Here the agent acts in an emergency and act as a man of ordinary prudence.
- In the given case, Soman had acted in an emergency situation and Raman will not succeed against him.

Q. 46

Mr. Z bought a refrigerator from a dealer's shop. But he did not mention the required purpose i.e., whether it is fit to make ice. After using the same, Mr. Z came to know that the refrigerator was unfit for the purpose. State giving reasons as per the provisions of The Sale of Goods Act, 1930, is the dealer liable to refund the price?

(4 marks; 2014 - June)

Answer:

As per the Rule of Implied Condition, [Sec. 16 (1)]: There is no implied condition as to the quality or fitness for any particular purpose of goods supplied under a contract of sale. In other words, the buyer must satisfy himself about the quality as well as the suitability of the goods. This is expressed by the maxim caveat emptor (let the buyer beware). But there is exception to this rule of Condition as to Quality or Fitness: There is an implied Condition that the good shall be reasonably fit for a particular purpose described if the three conditions are satisfied:

- (i) The particular purpose for which goods are required must have been disclosed (expressly or impliedly) by the buyer to the seller.
- (ii) The buyer must have relied upon the seller's skill or judgment.
- (iii) The seller's business must be to sell such goods.

Note: This condition cannot be invoked against a casual seller. In the given case, Mr. 'Z' bought a refrigerator from a dealer's shop. But he did not mention the required purpose i.e. whether it is fit to make ice. After using the same Mr. 'Z' came to know that the refrigerator was unfit for the purpose. The dealer is liable to refund the price because refrigerator was unfit for the purpose for which it was meant for and the buyer was not required to disclose this particular purpose. (Evans v. Stelle Benjamin).

Makhan, seeing a mobile phone in a showcase of a shop which was marked for sale for Rs. 2,000, enters the shop, places Rs. 2,000 on cash counter and told to give him displayed mobile. Shop owner refused. Can the shop owner refuse to sale the displayed mobile? (3 marks; 2014 - Dec)

Answer:

- Price quotations and price tags do not amount to an offer but are only an invitation to an offer.
- Therefore, Makhan's picking up the mobile with price tag of Rs. 2,000/- amounts to an offer by Makhan to purchase the same at that price.
- It remains to be accepted by the seller- the salesman at the cash counter of the mobile store, to result in a concluded contract. The salesman has every right to accept or refuse the offer.

Thus, Makhan shall have no remedies.

Q. 48

Lalit delivered sarees valuing Rs. 50,000 to Rohit on 'Sale or Return Basis'. Rohit further delivered these sarees to Sumit and Sumit to Mohit on the same terms and conditions. Subsequently, these sarees were burnt by fire while in the custody of Mohit. Lalit filed a suit against Mohit for the recovery of the price, with reference to provisions of the Sale of Goods Act, 1930, examine whether Lalit's suit for the price shall be maintainable. (4 marks; 2014 - Dec)

Answer:

In case of sale of goods on 'saie or return' basis the property in goods passes from the seller to the buyer in any of the following circumstances as per provisions given under Section 24 of the Sale of Goods Act, 1930:

- (a) When he (buyer) signifies his approval or acceptances to the seller;
- (b) Where he does any act adopting the transaction, i.e., sells or pledges the goods to a third party and,
- (c) Where he retains the goods, without giving notice of rejection, beyond the time fixed for the return of goods or beyond a reasonable time (where no time is fixed).

Thus, in the given problem, Rohit is deemed to have accepted the sarees by further transaction to Sumit and Sumit is deemed to have accepted the sarees by further transaction to Mohit. The ownership is thus vests on Sumit till Mohit approves or does any act adopting the transaction. In the meantime the sarees are burnt from the custody of Mohit, and it is assumed that Mohit has handled the sarees with due care.

Hence the loss should fall on Sumit, because at present he is the owner and risk being associated with ownership unless otherwise agreed between the parties.

RK sells 200 bales of clothes to SK and sends 100 bales by lorry and 100 bales by Railway. SK receives delivery of 100 bales sent by lorry, but before he receives the delivery of the bales sent by railway, he becomes bankrupt. RK being still unpaid, stops the goods in transit. The official receiver, on SK's insolvency claims the goods. Decide the case with reference to the provisions of the Sale of Goods Act, 1930. (4 marks; 2014 - Dec)

Answer:

Section 50, of Sale of Goods Act, states that, subject to the provisions of this Act, when the buyer of goods becomes insolvent, the unpaid seller who has parted with the possession of the goods has the right of stopping them in transit, that is to say, he may resume possession of the goods as long as they are in course of transit and retain them until payment of tender of the price.

Hence the major rules applicable would be:

- (a) The seller must be unpaid
- (b) He must have parted with the possession of goods
- (c) The goods must be in transit
- (d) The buyer must have become insolvent

Applying the above provisions in the given case, we may conclude that RK being unpaid, can stop the 100 bales of cloth sent by railway as these goods are still in transit and SK has become insolvent.

With a view to boost the sales, M/s ABC Ltd. sells a new machine to Mr. B on trial basis for a period of three days with a condition that if Mr. B is not satisfied with the performance of the new machine, he can return back the new machine. However, the machine was destroyed in a fire accident at the place of Mr. B before the expiry of three days. Decide whether Mr. B is liable for the loss suffered under Sale of Goods Act, 1930. (3 marks; 2015 - June)

Answer:

- The problem as asked in the question is based on the provisions of the Sale of Goods Act, 1930 as contained in Section 8.
- Where there is an agreement to sell specific goods and subsequently the goods without any fault on the part of the seller or buyer perish or become so damaged as no longer to answer to their description in the agreement before the risk passes to the buyer, the agreement is thereby avoided.
- In the given case that the subject matter of the contract i.e., new machine was destroyed before the transfer of property from the seller to the buyer. Thus the risk passes only when the ownership is transferred to the buyer.
- Therefore, in the present case Mr. B is not liable for the loss suffered due to the fire accident over which B has no control.
- Thus M/s. ABC Ltd. will have to bear whatever loss that has taken place due to the fire accident.

Answer the questions:

- (a) For the purpose of making uniform for the employees, Amit bought dark blue coloured cloth from Bhagat, but did not disclose to the seller the purpose of said purchase. When uniforms were prepared and used by the employees, the cloth was found unfit. However, there was evidence that the cloth was fit for caps, boots and carriage lining. Advise Amit whether he is entitled to have any remedy under the Sale of Goods Act, 1930? (3 marks; 2015 - Dec)
- (b) Mahendra made a hire-purchase agreement with Narendra for a car of which Narendra was described as the owner. Mahendra paid four of the twelve monthly instalments and then learnt that Jitendra claimed to be the owner of the car. He nevertheless paid the balance of instalment and exercised his option to purchase. Jitendra then demanded the car and Mahendra gave it up to him. Mahendra then sued Narendra to recover the full price and Narendra counter claimed for a reasonable sum as hiring charges for the car during the period it was with Mahendra. Decide. (3 marks; 2015 - Dec)

Answer:

- (a) As per the provision of Section 16(1) of the Sale of Goods Act, 1930, an implied condition in a contract of sale is that an article is fit for a particular purpose only arises when the purpose for which the goods are supplied is known to the seller, the buyer relied on the seller's skills or judgement and seller deals in the goods in his usual course of business.
- In this case, the cloth supplied is capable of being applied to a variety of purposes, the buyer should have told the seller the specific purpose for which he required the goods. But he did not do so.
  - Therefore, the implied condition as to the fitness for the purpose does not apply. Hence, the buyer will not succeed in getting any remedy from the seller under the Sale of Goods Act [Jones v. Padgett. 14 Q.B.D. 650].
- (b) The "Nemo dat quod non habet" rule protects the true owner

(Jitendra) and the buyer (Mahendra) who was aware of Narendra's defective rights after paying the fourth installments, would not get any right or title out of his ineffective hire purchase agreement with Narendra.

- Because Narendra was neither owner nor an authorized person to put the car on hire purchase and for the same reason, he is not entitled to receive any money under the agreement.
- However, Mahendra may be asked by Jitendra to pay a reasonable rent for the use of the car and Mahendra can recover the amount paid by him to Narendra.

Ram sells 200 bales of cloth to Shyam and sends 100 bales by lorry and 100 bales by Railway. Shyam receives delivery of 100 bales sent by lorry, but before he receives the delivery of the bales sent by railway, he becomes bankrupt. Ram being still unpaid, stops the goods in transit. The official receiver, on Shyam's insolvency claims the goods. Decide the case with reference to the provisions of the Sale of Goods Act, 1930. (5 marks; 2016 - June)

Answer:

Section 50 of the Sale of Goods Act, states that, subject to the provisions of this Act, when the buyer of goods becomes insolvent, the unpaid seller who has parted with the possession of the goods has the right of stopping them in transit, that is to say, he may resume possession of the goods as long as they are in course of transit and retain them until payment of tender of the price.

Hence the major rules applicable would be:

- (a) The seller must be unpaid
- (b) He must have parted with the possession of goods
- (c) The goods must be in transit
- (d) The buyer must have become insolvent

Applying the above provisions in the given case, we may conclude that Ram being unpaid, can stop the 100 bales of cloth sent by railway as these goods are still in transit'.

Q. 53

Answer the questions:

(a) A delivered some diamonds to B on sale or return basis. B delivered the diamonds to C and C to D on similar terms. The diamonds were stolen while in the custody of D. Who shall suffer the loss?

(5 marks; 2016 - Dec)

(b) X buys synthetic pearls for a high price thinking that they are natural pearls. The seller though understood X's intention, kept silent. Examine the remedies X has against the seller as per the Sale of Goods Act, 1930.

(3 marks; 2016 - Dec)

Answer:

(a) In this case, B has adopted the transaction by delivering the diamonds to C and thus is liable to pay the price to A. Similarly C has adopted the transaction by further delivery to D and thus is liable to pay the price to B. As between C and D, the transaction was still of sale or return which was not adopted by D, either expressly or impliedly, and thus the ownership had not passed to D at the time of loss. Therefore, C shall suffer the loss of diamonds.

(b) X has no remedy against the seller as the doctrine of Caveat Emptor will apply:

"Caveat emptor" means "let the buyer beware", i.e. in sale of goods the seller is under no duty to reveal unflattering truths about the goods sold. Therefore, when a person buys some goods, he must examine them thoroughly. If the goods turn out to be defective or do not suit his purpose, or if he depends upon his skill and judgment and makes a bad selection, he cannot blame anybody excepting himself.

The rule is enunciated in the opening words of Section 16 of the Sale of Goods Act, 1930 which runs thus, "Subject to the provisions of this Act and of any other law for the time being in force, there is no implied warranty or condition as to the quality or fitness for any particular purpose of goods supplied under a contract of sale".

Q. 79

Write short note on: 'Goods' in a Contract of Sale.

(5 marks; 2001 - May)

Answer:

"Goods" in a Contract of Sale: In the Sales of Goods Act, 1930, 'Goods', means every kind of movable property, i.e. property of every description (except immovable property), actionable claims and money and includes stocks, shares, growing crops, grass and things attached to or forming part of the land e.g. growing trees, machinery fixed or embedded in earth), which were agreed to be severed before sale or under the contract of sale. [Section 2(7)].

Goods can be of the following types:

1. Existing i.e. which are in existence at the time of sale.
2. Future goods i.e. which are in the process of manufacturing or production or acquisition by the seller after the contract of sale.
3. Specific i.e. which have been identified at the time of sale.

Q. 80

Write short note on: Classification of goods in a contract of sale.

(5 marks; 2002 - Nov)

Answer:

Goods forming subject matter of the contract of sale may be classified as under:

- (i) Existing Goods
  - (a) Specific goods
  - (b) Unascertained goods
  - (c) Ascertained goods.

(ii) Future Goods

(iii) Contingent Goods

Existing Goods are those which are in actual existence at the time of contract of sale. The seller is the owner of goods or he has the possession of such goods.

Existing goods may be of the following three types:

- (i) Specific Goods: Goods which have either been identified and agreed by the parties at the time of contract of sale.
- (ii) Ascertained Goods are those identified only after the formation of a contract of sale. When unascertained goods are identified and agreed upon by the parties, the goods are called Ascertained goods.

- (iii) Unascertained Goods are those not specifically identified at the time of contract of sale. They are described by the description or sample only.
- (iv) Future Goods are those which are not in existence at the time of contract. These goods are to be acquired or produced by the seller after the contract of sale is made. It is an agreement to sell and not sale.
- (v) Contingent goods are like future goods. The acquisition of the goods by the seller depends upon the uncertain contingencies which may or may not happen e.g. goods will be supplied if ship arrives.

Q. 81

Distinguish between A 'Sale' and a contract of 'Bailment'.

(5 marks; 1995 - May)

Answer:

Sale and Bailment: A 'bailment' is the delivery of goods for some specific purpose under a contract on the condition that the same goods are to be returned to the bailor or are to be disposed of according to the directions of the bailor whereas, a contract of sale of goods is a contract whereby the seller transfers or agrees to transfer the property in goods to the buyer for a price.

The difference between bailment and sale may be clearly understood by studying the following:

- (a) In a sale the property in goods is transferred from the seller to the buyer. But in bailment, there is only transfer of possession of goods from the bailor to the bailee for any of the reasons like safe custody, carriage etc.
- (b) In bailment, the bailee must return the goods to the bailor on the accomplishment of the purpose for which the bailment was made. But there is no question of return of goods in a contract of sale.
- (c) In a sale the, consideration is the price in terms of money where as the bailment may be gratuitous or non-gratuitous.

Future goods are the goods to be manufactured, produced or acquired after the making of contract.
2. Type: A contract for the sale of contingent goods is always an agreement to sell while existing goods can be subject matter of sale as well as agreement of sell.
3. Classification: Existing goods may be classified as specific, ascertained or unascertained goods while there cannot be any such classification of contingent goods.

Q. 83

Distinguish between Sale and Hire-purchase Agreements.

(5 marks; 1995 - Nov)

Answer:

Sale and Hire Purchase Agreements:

A contract of sale of goods is a contract whereby the seller transfers or agrees to transfer the property in goods to the buyer for a price. There may be a contract of sale between one part-owner and another. [Section 4(1) Sale of Goods Act], A contract of sale may be absolute or conditional. [Section 4(2)].

A hire purchase agreement is a contract whereby the owner of the goods lets them on hire to another person called hirer on payment of rent to be paid in instalments and upon an agreement that when a certain number of such installments is paid, the ownership in goods will pass on to the hirer.

The hirer may return the goods at any time without any obligation to pay the balance rent. It is not a contract of sale but only a bailment and the property in the goods remains in the owner during the continuance of the bailment.

Q. 84

Distinguish between Existing goods and Contingents goods.

(5 marks; 1997 - May)

Answer:

Existing Goods and Contingent Goods:

The two terms can be distinguished on the following basis:

- 1. Meaning: Goods which are physically in existence and which are in seller's ownership or possession at the time of entering of contract of sale are called existing goods. While goods, the acquisition of which by seller depends upon an uncertain contingency are called contingent goods. They are a type of future goods. Future goods are the goods to be manufactured, produced or acquired after the making of contract.
- 2. Type: A contract for the sale of contingent goods is always an agreement to sell while existing goods can be subject matter of sale as well as agreement of sell.
- 3. Classification: Existing goods may be classified as specific, ascertained or unascertained goods while there cannot be any such classification of contingent goods.

Q. 85

Briefly explain the distinguish between Future goods and Contingent goods.

1999 - May

Answer:

Future Goods and Contingent Goods: Those goods which are yet to be manufactured or produced or acquired by the seller after the making of the contract of sale, are called, "future goods". Thus, future goods are not in existence at the time of the contract of sale or if they are in existence they have not yet been acquired by the seller by that time. When a present sale is made for some future goods, it is in fact not sale but an agreement to sell. (Section 2(6) and 6(3) of the Sale of Goods Act, 1930).

According to Section 6(2) of the Sale of Goods Act, contingent goods are goods the acquisition of which by the seller depends upon a contingency which may or may not happen. They are also a type of future goods and therefore, a contract for sale of contingent goods operate as an agreement to sell.

Contingent goods are different from future goods in the same that the procurement of contingent goods is dependent upon an uncertain event, whereas the obtaining of future goods does not depend upon any such uncertainty.

Q. 86

Point out any four major differences between a sale and an agreement to sell.

(5 marks; 1999 - Nov)

Answer:

Difference between a sale and an agreement to sell: According to Section 4 of the Sale of Goods Act, 1930, a contract of goods is a contract whereby the seller transfers or agrees to transfer the property in the goods to the buyer for a price, whereas under an agreement to sell, the transfer of the property in the goods is to take place at a future date.

- In a sale, the seller can sue the buyer for the price of the goods, but in an agreement to sell, the aggrieved party can sue for damages only and not for price.
- In a sale, a subsequent loss or destruction of the goods is the liability of the buyer, but the liability remains with the seller if it is agreement to sell.
- In sale, seller's breach gives the buyer to sue for damages and also remedy of recovery the goods from third parties who bought them. But in an agreement to sell, buyer's remedy is for a suit of damages.

Q. 87

Distinguish between sale and agreement to sell under the Sale of Goods Act.

(10 marks; 2000 - May)

Answer:

Sale and Agreement to sell distinguished:

- (a) A sale implies an agreement plus a conveyance of property. In an agreement to sell, there is no conveyance, the conveyance takes place at a future date.
- (b) In a sale, the property in the goods passes to the buyer and risk also passes to the buyer. In agreement to sell, since property does not pass to the buyer, risk also does not pass to the buyer.
- (c) A sale is an executed contract. An agreement to sell is an executory contract.
- (d) In a sale, the seller can sue the buyer for the price of the goods. In an agreement to sell, the aggrieved party can sue for damages only and not for the price unless the price was payable at a stated date.
- (e) In a sale, a subsequent loss or destruction of the goods is the liability of the buyer, but the liability remains with the seller, where the transaction only amounts to an agreement to sell.
- (f) In an agreement to sell, the seller, being still the owner, may dispose of the good as the likes and the buyer's remedy would be to file a suit for damages. In a sale however, the seller's breach gives the buyer the double remedy, a suit for damages against the seller, and the remedy of recovering of goods from third parties who bought them.
- (g) In a sale, in case of default by buyer, seller can sue the buyer for price even if goods are in his possession and can resell the goods. In an agreement to sell, the seller's remedy in case of default, is to sue for damages for breach and not the price even though the goods are in the possession of the buyer.
- (h) In case of sale, if the seller becomes insolvent, while the goods are still in his possession, the buyer shall have a right to claim the goods from the official receiver or assignee. In case of agreement to sell, when the seller becomes insolvent, the buyer's remedy is to claim rateable dividend from the estate of the insolvent seller for the price paid and not for the goods, since property in them still rests with the seller. If the buyer becomes insolvent, the seller can refuse to deliver the goods to the official receiver or assignee unless the price is paid to him, in the case of agreement to sell. In the case of sale, in the absence of right of lien over the goods, the seller must deliver the goods to the official receiver/assignee of the buyer and is entitled to rateable dividend only from the estate of the insolvent buyer.

Q. 88

Differentiate between Ascertained and Unascertained Goods with example. (4 marks; 2018 - Nov)

Answer:

The basic point of distinction between ascertained and un-ascertained goods with example can be discussed as under:

Ascertained goods are those goods which are identified in accordance with the agreement after the contract of sale is made. This term is not defined in the act but has been judicially interpreted. In actual practice the term 'ascertained' goods is used in the same sense as 'specific' goods' when from a lot or out of large quantity of unascertained goods, the number or quantity contracted for is identified, such identified goods are called ascertained goods.

Example: - A wholesaler of cotton has 100 bales in his godown. He agrees to sell 50 bales and these bales were selected and set aside. On selection the goods, becomes ascertained. In this case, the contract is for the sale of ascertained goods, as the cotton bales to be sold are identified and agreed after the formation of the contract.

Un-ascertained goods are the goods which are not specifically identified or ascertained at the time of making of the contract.

They are indicated or defined only by description or sample.

Example: If A agrees to sell to B one packet of salt out of the lot of one hundred packets lying in his shop, it is a sale of un-ascertained goods because it is not known which packet is to be delivered. As soon as a particular packet is separated from the lot, it becomes ascertained or specific goods.

(5 marks; 1996 - May)

Answer:

In the following cases this rule is applicable:

1. Where the buyer altogether waives the performance of the condition. A party may for his own benefit waive a stipulation.
2. Where the buyer elects to treat the breach of the condition as one of a warranty. In such a case he may only claim damages instead of repudiating the contract.
3. Where the contract is non-severable and the buyer has accepted either the whole goods or any part thereof.
4. Where the fulfillment of any condition or warranty is excused by law by reason of impossibility or otherwise.

Q. 92

Distinguish between 'Sale' and 'Hire Purchase' under the Sale of Goods Act, 1930.

(6 marks; 2021 - Dec)

Answer:

The main points of distinction between the 'sale' and 'hire purchase' are as follows-

Basis of Difference	Sale	Hire purchase
1. Time of passing property	Property in the goods is transferred to the buyer immediately at the time of contract.	The property in goods passes to the hirer upon payment of the last instalment.
2. Position of the party	The position of the buyer is that of the owner of the goods.	The position of the hirer is that of the bailee till he pays the last instalment.
3. Termination of contract	The buyer cannot terminate the contract and is bound to pay the price of the goods.	The hirer may if he so likes, terminate the contract by returning the goods to its owner without any liability to pay the remaining instalments.
4. Burden of Risk of Insolvency of the buyer	The seller takes the risk of any loss resulting from the insolvency of the buyer.	The Owner takes no such risk, for if the hirer fails to pay an instalment the owner has right to take back the goods.
5. Transfer of title	The buyer can pass a goods title to a bonafide purchaser from him. The buyer in sale can resell the goods	The hirer cannot pass any title even to a bona fide purchaser.

6. Resale		The hire purchaser cannot resell unless he has paid all the instalments.

Q. 93

Describe the conditions implied in a contract for sale of goods by—

(i) Description, and

(ii) Sample.

(10 marks; 1997- May)

Answer:

(i) Sale by description: Where there is a contract for sale of goods by description, there is an implied condition that the goods shall correspond with the description. If the description of the article is different in any respect, the other party is not bound to take it.

The sale of goods by description may include:

1. Where the buyer has not seen the goods and relied on their description given by the seller.
2. Where the buyer has seen the goods but he relies not on what he has seen but what was stated to him and the deviation of the goods from the description is not apparent.
3. The packing of the goods may some times be a part of the description.

(ii) Sale by Sample: In the case of contract for sale by sample, there is an implied condition that—

1. The bulk shall correspond with the same in quality.
2. The buyer shall have a reasonable opportunity of comparing the bulk with the sample.
3. The goods shall be free from any defect rendering them unmerchantable which would not be apparent on a reasonable examination of the sample. This implied condition applies only to latent defects, i.e., defects which are not discoverable on a reasonable examination of the sample. The seller is not responsible for the defects which are patent i.e. visible by, examination of the goods. In such a case, there is no breach of condition as to merchantability.

Section 15 of the Sale of Goods Act also provides that if the sale is by sample as well as by description, the goods must correspond both with the sample and with the description.

Q. 94

How the price of the goods may be ascertained in case of sale of goods? (5 marks; 1997 - Nov)

Answer:

Ascertainment of Price: The meaning of the price and the rule regarding ascertainment of the price of the goods is contained in Sections 2(10), 9 and 10 of the Sale of Goods Act respectively, as follows:

‘Price means’ the monetary consideration for sale of goods. The price may be fixed by the contract or agreed to be fixed in a manner provided by the contract, e.g., by a valuer or determined by the cause of dealings between the parties. When it can not be fixed in any of the above ways, the buyer is bound to pay to the seller a reasonable price. What is a reasonable price is a question of fact in each case (Section 9).

Section 10 provides for the determination of price by a third party. Where there is an agreement of sell goods on the terms that price has to be fixed by the third party and he either does not or cannot make such valuation, the agreement will be void. In case the third party is prevented by the default of either party from fixing the price, the party at fault will be liable to the damages to the others to the other party who is not at fault. However, a buyer who has received and appropriated the goods must pay a reasonable price for them in any eventuality.

Q. 95

“Agreement to sell, differs from sale.”

(5 marks; 1998 - May)

Answer:

Sale and Agreement to sell differ to each other: According to Section 4(3) of the Sale of Goods Act, when the property in the goods is transferred to the buyer immediately on making of a contract, it is called a 'sale'. On the other hand, when the property in the goods is to be transferred on some future date or on the fulfilment of certain conditions, it is called an 'agreement to sell'. Section 4(4) further provides that an agreement to sell becomes a sale when the time elapses or the conditions are fulfilled subject to which the property in the goods is to be transferred.

The main points of distinction between the two are as under:

	Sale		Agreement to sell
1.	It implies an agreement plus a conveyance of property.	1.	Here there is no conveyance It takes place at a future date.
2.	The property in the goods passes to the buyer and along therewith the risk.	2.	Since property in the goods does not pass to the buyer, the risk also does not pass to him.
3.	It is an executed contract.	3.	It is an executory contract.
4.	The seller can sue the buyer for the price of the goods because of the passage of the property therein to the buyer.	4.	The aggrieved party can sue for damages only and not for the price, unless the price was payable at a stated date.
5.	A subsequent loss or destruction of the goods is the liability of the buyer.	5.	Such loss or destruction is the liability of the seller.
6.	Breach on the part of the seller gives the buyer double remedy; a suit for damages against the seller and a proprietary remedy of recovering the goods from third parties who bought them.	6.	The seller, being still the owner of the goods, may dispose of them as he likes, and the buyer's remedy would be to file a suit for damages only.

Q. 96

In a sale of goods 'goods' sold must be of merchantable quality.

(5 marks; 1998 - Nov)

Answer:

Goods Must be of merchantable Quality: It is one of the implied conditions that the goods sold to a customer must be of merchantable quality. Section 16(2) of the Sale of Goods Act provides: Where goods are bought by description from a seller who deals in goods of that description (whether he is the manufacturer or producer or not), there is an implied condition that the goods are of merchantable quality. The expression "merchantable quality" though not defined in the Act, nevertheless connotes goods of such a quality and in such condition that a man of ordinary prudence would accept them as goods of that description. Goods should also be such as are commercially saleable under the description by which they are known in the market at their full value. If goods are of such a quality and in such a condition that a reasonable person acting reasonably would accept them after having examined them thoroughly, they are of merchantable quality Sub-section (2) of Section 16 further provides that where the buyer has examined the goods, there is an implied condition as regards defects, which such examination ought to have revealed. [Proviso to Section 16(2)].

Q. 100

Sonal went to a Jewellery shop and asked the sales girl to show her diamond bangles with Ruby stones. The Jeweller told her that we have a lot of designs of diamond bangles but with red stones if she chooses for herself any special design of diamond bangle with red stones, they will replace red stones with Ruby stones. But for the Ruby stones they will charge some extra cost. Sonal selected a beautiful set of designer bangles and paid for them. She also paid the extra cost of Ruby stones. The Jeweller requested her to come back a week later for delivery of those bangles. When she came after a week to take delivery of bangles, she noticed that due to Ruby stones, the design of bangles has been completely disturbed. Now , she wants to terminate the contract and thus, asked the manager to give her money back, but he denied for the same. Answer the following questions as per the Sale of Goods Act, 1930.

- (i) State with reasons whether Sonal can recover the amount from the Jeweller.
- (ii) What would be your answer if Jeweller says that he can change the design, but he will charge extra cost for the same? (6 marks; 2022 - June)

Answer:

As per the Sale of Goods Act, 1930, where under a contract of sale, the property in the goods is transferred from the seller to the buyer, the contract is called that of a sale, but where the transfer of property in goods is to take-place at a future date, subject to fulfilment of some condition, the contract is called an agreement to sell.

An agreement to sell becomes a sale when the time elapses or the conditions one fulfilled subject - to which the property in goods is to be transferred.

On the basis of above provisions and facts given in the question, it can be said that there in an agreement to sell between Sonal and Jeweller but not a sale. Even the payment made was by Sonal, the property in bangles can be transferred only after the fulfilment of conditions fixed between buyer and seller.

Since, during the replacement of the Ruby stones, the original design as disturbed, Sonal has the right to avoid the agreement to sell and can recover the price paid.

On the other hand, if Jeweller offers to bring the bangles in original position by repairing, he cannot charge extra cost from Sonal. Even he has to bear some expenses for repair, he cannot charge it from Sonal.

Q. 120

Write short notes on 'Rule of 'caveat emptor'.

(5 marks; 1996 - Nov)

Answer:

Rule of Caveat Emptor: In olden days, goods were sold on the foot paths and therefore, the buyer had the opportunity to see the goods himself and decide whether they suit to his purpose or the quality of goods is satisfactory to his requirements. Therefore, the rule of "caveat Emptor" prevailed. The rule meant, 'let the buyer beware', he should see and satisfy himself about the condition and the purpose for which he requires the goods, the seller shall not be duty bound to tell the buyer about the suitability of the goods as regards quality or fitness for the use by the buyer.

If therefore, while making purchases of goods the buyer depend upon his own skill and makes a bad choice, he must curse himself only and not the seller, of course in the absence of any misrepresentation or fraud or guarantee by the seller. The rule of caveat emptor is laid down in the opening lines of Section 16, which states that "subject to the provisions of this Act or of any other law for the time being in force, there is as implied warranty on condition as to one quality or fitness for any particular purpose of goods supplied under a contract of sale.

Things have changed now. The buyers depend upon the sellers for their purchases in majority of the cases so far as the quality and fitness and suitability for the purpose are concerned. Therefore, this rule is now subject to certain exceptions.

Q. 121

(ii) Warranty of freedom from encumbrances [Section 14(c)]:

The buyer is entitled to a warranty that the goods are not subject to any change or right in favour are not subject to any change or right in any way disturbed by reason of the existence of any charge or encumbrances on the goods in favour of any third party, he shall have a right to claim damages for breach of this warranty.

Q. 122

(5 marks; 1998 - May)

Answer:

Condition and Warranty:

Condition	Warranty
(1) A condition is essential to the main purpose of the contract.	(1) It is only collateral to the main purpose of the Contract.
(2) The aggrieved party can repudiate the contract or claim damages or both in the case of breach of condition.	(2) The aggrieved party can claim only damages in case of breach of warranty.
(3) A breach of condition may be treated as a breach of warranty	(3) A breach of warranty cannot be treated as a breach of condition.

Q. 123

When the doctrine of 'Caveat Emptor' does not apply to the sale of goods? (5 marks; 1994 - Nov)

Answer:

The term Caveat Emptor means let the buyer beware; i.e. it is the duty of the buyer to select the goods of his requirement. The seller is in no way responsible for the bad selection of the buyer and not bound to disclose the defects in the goods which is selling. If the goods turn out to be defective, the buyer cannot hold the seller responsible. This is known as the doctrine of 'Caveat Emptor'. This doctrine is however, subject to the following exceptions

1. Where the buyer makes it known to the seller the particular purpose for which the goods are required, so as to show that he relies on the seller's skill or judgement and the goods are of a description which is in the course of seller's business to supply, it is the duty of the seller to supply such goods as are reasonably fit for that purpose.
2. Where the goods are sold by description there is an implied condition that the goods shall correspond with the description. (Section 15).
3. Where the goods are bought by description from a seller who deals in goods of that description there is an implied condition that the goods shall be of merchantable quality. But where the buyer has examined the goods this rule shall apply if the defects were such which ought to have been revealed by an ordinary examination (Section 16(2)).
4. Where the goods are bought by sample, this rule of Caveat Emptor does not apply if the bulk does not correspond with the sample (Section 17).
5. Where the goods are bought by sample as well as description, the rule of Caveat Emptor is not applicable in case the goods do not correspond with both the sample and description (Section 15).
6. An implied warranty or condition as to quality or fitness for a particular purpose may be annexed by the usage of trade and if the seller deviates from that, this rule of Caveat Emptor is not applicable.

7. Where the seller sells the goods by making some misrepresentation or fraud and the buyer relies on it or when the seller actively conceals some defect in the goods so that the same could not be discovered by the buyer on a reasonable examination, then the rule of Caveat Emptor will not apply. In such a case the buyer has a right to avoid the contract and claim damages.

Q. 124

When can a 'Condition' be treated as a 'Warranty' under the Sale of Goods Act?

(10 marks; 1995 - May)

Answer:

A stipulation in a contract of sale may be either a condition or a warranty. A condition is a stipulation essential to the main purpose of the contract, the breach of which gives right to the aggrieved party to terminate the contract while a warranty is a stipulation collateral to the main purpose of the contract, the breach of which gives the aggrieved party a right to claim for damages. But in some cases, a condition may be treated as warranty as given in Section 13 of the Sale of Goods Act. The effect is that the buyer cannot repudiate the contract but has to be satisfied with damages only. Such cases are discussed hereunder:

1. Waiver by Buyer: Where a contract of sale is subject to any condition to be fulfilled by the seller, the buyer may (a) waive the condition, or (b) elect to treat the breach of the condition as a breach of warranty. The buyer has the option to accept the goods and claim damages from the seller. If he once decides to waive the condition, he cannot afterwards insist on its fulfillment.

Example: A agrees to buy from B, ten bags of wheat as per sample. B delivers the wheat, but it was not according to the sample. A has a right to reject the goods, but he may decide to accept the goods and treat this breach of condition as a breach of warranty.

2. Acceptance of goods by buyer: Where a contract of sale is not severable, i.e., it is indivisible and the buyer has accepted the goods or part thereof, the breach of any condition is to be treated as a breach of a warranty. In such a case it is not left at the option of the buyer. But if the contract is divisible then even though the buyer has accepted a part of the goods, he can still reject the remaining goods.

Now the question arises as to when the buyer can be said to have accepted the goods. In this connection Section 42 provides that the buyer is deemed to have accepted the goods:

- (a) When he intimates to the seller that he has accepted them or;
- (b) When he does any act in relation to the goods which is inconsistent with the ownership of seller or;
- (c) When, after the lapse of a reasonable time, he retains the goods without intimating to the seller that he has rejected them.

Example: A purchased 10 bags of rice from B according to the sample. When the goods were delivered, A resold the rice to P. P rejected the goods on the ground that it was not according to sample. Now A also wants to avoid the contract. Here A will not succeed because by reselling the goods to P, A has accepted the goods. Now he is to treat this breach of condition as a breach of warranty and be content with damages only.

Q. 125

Comment on the following:

A warranty is a stipulation collateral to the main purpose of the contract. (5 marks; 1995 - Nov)

Answer:

Stipulation in Warranty: In every contract of sale of goods there are certain stipulations made with reference to goods which are the subject matter thereof. If the stipulation though not essential to the main purpose of the contract is collateral to the main purpose of the contract - that is to say - is a subsidiary promise - it is known as warranty. The effect of a breach of warranty is to give the aggrieved party a right to claim the damages. In case of the breach of warranty a buyer cannot repudiate the contract.

Q. 126

What are the implied conditions in case of sale by sample?

(5 marks; 1995 - Nov)

Answer:

Sale by sample (Section 17 of Sale of Goods Act)

A contract of sale is a contract for sale by sample where there is a term in the contract, express or implied, to that effect. In the case of a contract for sale by sample there is an implied condition:

- (i) That the bulk shall correspond with the sample in quality;
- (ii) That the buyer shall have a reasonable opportunity of comparing the bulk with the sample;
- (iii) That the goods shall be free from any defect, rendering them unmerchantable, which would not be apparent on reasonable examination of the sample. This condition is applicable only with regards to defects which could not be discovered by an ordinary examination of the goods (Drummond and Sons vs. Van Inger).

Q. 127

State the law relating to sale by description.

(5 marks; 1996 - May)

Answer:

Implied conditions in a sale by description: The law relating to 'Sale by description' is contained in Section 15 of the Sale of Goods Act, 1930.

1. Though the Act has not defined the term 'description', a sale is deemed to be made by description:

- (a) Where class or kind of goods has been specified e.g., Egyptian cotton.
- (b) Where goods are described by its characteristics for identification e.g., dimensions for steel.

2. In a sale by description, there is an implied condition that goods shall correspond with description (by statement or representation as regards goods by its identity, place of origin or mode of packing etc) alone made by the buyer, which is essential for deciding either acceptance or rejection of goods by the buyer.

This implied condition goes to the root of the contract and the breach of it, entitles the buyer to reject whether he is able to inspect them or not.

Q. 128

Define the term 'warranty'. What are the kinds of implied warranties under the provisions of Sale of Goods Act, 1930?

(10 marks; 1996 - Nov)

Answer:

Definition of warranty: A stipulation in a contract of sale with reference to goods which are the subject thereof may be a condition or a warranty. The warranty has been defined under Section 12(3) of the Sale of Goods Act, 1930. A warranty is a stipulation collateral to the main purpose of the contract, the breach of which gives rise to a claim for damages but not to a right to reject the goods and treat the contract as repudiated.

Implied Warranties: The examination of Sections 14 and 16 of the Sale of Goods Act disclosed the following implied warranties:

1. Warranty as to undisturbed possession: An implied warranty that the buyer shall have and enjoy quiet possession of the goods. That is to say, if the buyer having got possession of the goods, is later on disturbed in his possession, he is entitled to sue the seller for the breach of the warranty.
2. Warranty as to non-existence of encumbrances: An implied warranty that the goods shall be free from any charge or encumbrance in favour of any third party not declared or known to the buyer before or at the time the contract is entered into.

3. Disclosure of dangerous nature of goods: There is another implied warranty on the part of the seller that in case the goods are inherently dangerous or they are likely to be dangerous to the buyer and the buyer is ignorant of the danger, the seller must warn the buyer of the probable danger. If there is breach of this warranty, -the seller will be liable in damages.

Q. 129

Comment on the following:

“Breach of a condition in a sale of goods can be treated as a breach of warranty, but not otherwise.”
(5 marks; 1997 - May)

Answer:

‘Breach of a condition in a sale of goods can be treated as a breach of warranty, but not otherwise: This statement is quite correct. Sections 12 and 13 of the Sale of Goods Act, throw light on this statement. The definitions given of these two terms under the Act are quite meaningful to support this statement.

“The condition in a contract of sale with reference to goods, is a stipulation essential to the main purpose of the contract, the breach of which gives rise to a right to treat the contract as repudiated.” [Section 12(2)].

“A warranty is a stipulation collateral to the main purpose of the contract, the breach of which gives rise to a claim for damages but not to a right to reject the goods and treat the contract as repudiated.” [Section 12(3)] These definitions distinguish the nature of the two stipulations as well the effect of the breach of the stipulations. Condition is an important stipulation than warranty and the law gives a right to the aggrieved party to cancel the contract in case of a breach of this stipulation, which right is not available in the case of breach of a warranty. On this basis the above statement is supported.

Q. 130

What is meant by the doctrine of ‘Caveat Emptor’? State the circumstances under which the doctrine is not applicable. (10 marks; 1998 - Nov)

Answer:

Caveat Emptor: In the case of sale of goods, the doctrine applicable is “Caveat Emptor” which means “Let the buyer beware”. When sellers display their goods in the open market, it is for the buyers to make a proper selection or choice of the goods. If the goods turn out be defective he cannot hold the seller liable. The seller is in no way responsible for the bad selection of the buyer. The seller is not bound to disclose the defects in the goods which is selling. It is the duty of the buyer to satisfy himself before buying the goods that the goods will serve the purpose for which they are being bought. If the goods turn out to be defective or do not serve his purpose or if he depends on his own skill or judgement, the buyer cannot hold the seller responsible. The rule of Caveat Emptor is laid down in the opening lines of Section 16, which states that “subject to the provisions of this Act or of any other law for the time being in force, there is no implied warranty or condition as to the quality of fitness for any particular purpose of goods supplied under a contract of sale”.

Exceptions: The doctrine of Caveat Emptor is, however, subject to the following exceptions;

1. Where the buyer makes known to the seller the particular purpose for which the goods are required, so as to show that he relies on the seller’s skill or judgement and he goods are of a description which is in the course of seller’s business to supply, it is the duty of the seller to supply such goods as are reasonably fit for that purpose [Section 16(1)].
2. In case where the goods are purchased under its patent name or brand name, there is no implied condition that the goods shall be fit for any particular purpose [Section 16(1)].
3. Where the goods are sold by description there is an implied condition that the goods shall correspond with the description.
4. Where the goods are bought by description from a seller who deals in goods of that description there is an implied condition that the goods shall be of merchantable quality.

The rule of Caveat Emptor is not applicable. But where the buyer has examined the goods this rule shall apply if the defects were such which ought to have been revealed by ordinary examination [Section 16(2)].

5. Where the goods are bought by sample, this rule of Caveat Emptor does not apply if the bulk does not correspond with the sample [Section 17],

6. Where the goods are bought by sample as well as description, the rule of Caveat Emptor is not applicable in case the goods do not correspond with both the sample and description [Section 15].

7. An implied warranty or condition as to quality or fitness for a particular purpose may be annexed by the usage of trade and if the seller deviates from that, this rule of Caveat Emptor is not applicable.

8. Where the seller sells the goods by making some misrepresentation or fraud and the buyer relies on it own or when the seller actively conceals some defect in the goods so that the same could not be discovered by the buyer on a reasonable examination, then the rule of Caveat Emptor will not apply. In such case the buyer has a right to avoid the contract and claim damages.

9. If trade usage attached an implied warrants or a condition as regards quality of goods. [Section 16(3)].

Q. 131

Explain the following (Give brief answer):

When a condition in a contract of sale may be treated as a warranty? (5 marks; 2000 - May)

Answer:

When a condition may be treated as a warranty (Section 13, Sale of Goods Act, 1930).

In the following case, a contract is not avoided even an account of a breach of a conditions. These are:

- (i) Where the buyer altogether waives the performance of the condition, a party may for his own benefit, waive a stipulation or
- (ii) Where the buyer elects to treat the breach of the condition as one of a warranty i.e. he may only claim damages instead of repudiating the contract.
- (iii) Where the contract is non-severable and the buyer has accepted either the whole goods or any part thereof, unless there is an express or implied term in the contract to the effect that it amounts to rejection of goods and repudiation of the contract.
- (iv) Where the fulfilment of any condition or warranty is excused by law by reason of impossibility or otherwise.

Q. 132

Give the exceptions to the 'doctrine of caveat emptor' in Sale of Goods Act. (5 marks; 2000 - May)

Answer:

Doctrine of Caveat Emptor ("Let the buyer beware"): It is no part of the seller's duty in a contract of sale of goods to give to the buyer an article suitable for a particular purpose or of a particular quality, unless such quality or fitness is made an express term of the contract. If the buyer makes a bad choice, he is to suffer for this own judgement.

Exceptions: The doctrine has no application:

- (i) If the seller has made a false representation relating to the goods and the buyer relies upon it to his detriment.
- (ii) When the seller has deliberately concealed a defect which-is not apparent on the reasonable examination of goods.
- (iii) When the seller is a manufacturer or a dealer of the type-of goods sold, and the buyer has communicated to him as the purpose for which the goods are required, and he relies on the skill or judgement of the seller. [Section 16(1), Sale of Goods Act, 1930].
The exception does not apply if the goods are bought under the patent or trade name.

- (iv) The goods shall be of “merchantable quality”, in case of goods sold by description.
- (v) In the case of goods sold by sample, if the bulk does not correspond with the sample of if the buyer is not provided a reasonable opportunity of inspecting the goods. [Section 17(2)].
- (vi) If the trade usage attaches an implied warranty or a condition as regards quality of goods. [Section 16(3)].
- (vii) In the case of sale by sample as well as description, if the bulk does not correspond with the description as well as sample. [Section 15].

Q. 133

A contract of sale is not avoided even on account of breach of a condition. (5 marks; 2000 - Nov)

Answer:

The Sale of Goods Act, 1930 defines a condition as a stipulation essential to the main purpose of the contract, the breach of which gives rise to a right to treat the contract as having been repudiated. Thus it is clear from the definition, that the buyer gets the right to avoid the contract in case of a breach of a condition on a contract of sale of goods. But the law does not force the buyer to avoid the contract in case of breach of a condition. The buyer can treat the breach of a condition, as a breach of a warranty. He also gets a right to waive the condition. Further, where the contract is non-severable and the buyer has accepted either the whole goods or any part thereof, then he cannot avoid the contract. Further, where the law excuses the fulfilment of a condition or warranty, then the breach of a condition shall not allow the buyer to repudiate the contract. Thus, a contract of sale can be avoided by the buyer in case of breach of a condition and therefore, the statement as given in the question is not true.

Q. 134

What are the implied conditions in a Contract of Sale?

(5 marks; 2001 - May)

Answer:

It is open to the parties to include in their contract any number of conditions and warranties. But in addition to what the contract may provide, the law implies every sale of goods a number of conditions. They are read with every contract of sale. They are known as implied conditions. They are stated as under:

- (i) Condition as to title (Section 14): It is an implied condition in every sale that the seller has right to sell. That means the title of the seller is perfect.
- (ii) Sale by description: Section 15 lays down the condition that where the sale is by description the goods must correspond with description. If the goods does not correspond with the description the sale may be set aside.
- (iii) Sale by description as well as be sample (Section 15): Section 15 further provides that “if the sale is by sample as well as by description, the delivery of goods should correspond to description as well as sample.
- (iv) Goods supplied must be fit for buyers purposes: If the buyer has disclosed the purpose it should be fit for his purpose otherwise the contract may be set aside (Section 16(i)).
- (v) Goods supplied should be of mercantile quality: It is an implied condition of sale that goods must be of merchantable quality (Section 16(2)).

It is open to the parties to include any express condition in their contract. But an express condition does not negative a condition implied by the Sale of Goods Act, 1930.

Q. 135

Define the terms ‘Condition’ and ‘Warranty’ as used in the Sale of Goods Act. Can a breach of warranty be treated as a breach of condition and vice-versa? (10 marks; 2001 - Nov)

Answer:

“Condition” and “Warranty”: Section 12(2) of the Sale of Goods Act, 1930, defines a condition as a stipulation essential to the main purpose of the contract, the breach of which gives rise to a right to a right to treat the contract as having repudiated.

Section 12(3) of the Act defines a warranty as a stipulation collateral to the main purpose of the contract, the breach of which gives rise to a claim for damages but not a right to repudiate the contract.

X buys a car from Y for touring purposes. The car is unfit for touring purpose. Here X can repudiate the contract since “touring purpose” is a condition for buying the car.

On the other hand, the horn of the car is defective. X can not repudiate the contract, since defective horn is only a warranty and horn can be repaired or replaced.

Whether a stipulation is a condition or a warranty depends in each case, on the construction of contract. ‘Conditions and Warranties’ may be either express or implied.

A warranty cannot be treated as a condition because it is a lesser importance to the concerned parties. But a condition may be treated as a warranty under the following circumstances:

- (1) The buyer altogether waives the performance of the condition.
- (2) The buyer elects to treat the breach of the condition as breach of warranty and claims damages only.
- (3) Where the contract is non-severable and the buyer has accepted either the whole goods or any part thereof.
- (4) Where the fulfilment of a condition or warranty is excused by law by reason of impossibility of performance or otherwise.

Q. 136

What are the implied conditions in a Sale by Sample?

(5 marks; 2001 - Nov)

Answer:

Implied conditions in a sale by sample:

A sale is by sample where there is a term in contract (express or implied) to that effect. The effect is that where goods are sold by sample, there should not be any latent defect which render the goods unmerchantable.

- (a) The bulk must correspond with the sample in quality.
- (b) The buyer shall have a reasonable opportunity of comparing the bulk with the sample; and
- (c) The goods shall be free from any defects rendering them unmerchantable, which would not be apparent on reasonable examination of the sample. (Section 17, Sale of Goods Act), 1930.

Q. 137

When shall a condition be treated as a warranty?

(5 marks; 2002 - May)

Answer:

A condition shall be treated as a warranty in the following cases,.

1. Voluntary waiver of condition: Where a contract of sale is subject to any condition to be fulfilled by the seller, the buyer may (a) waive the condition, or (b) elect to treat the breach of the condition as a breach of warranty [Section 13(1)]. If the buyer once decides to waive the condition, he cannot afterwards insist on its fulfilment.
2. Acceptance of goods by buyer: If the contract of sale is not severable and the buyer has accepted the goods or part thereof, the breach of any condition to be fulfilled by the seller can only be treated as a breach of warranty, unless there is a term of the contract, express or implied, to the contrary. [Section 13(2)].

The provisions of Section 13 of the Sale of Goods Act, 1930 do not affect the cases where the fulfilment of any condition or warranty is excused by law by reasons of impossibility or otherwise. [Section 13(3)].

Q. 138

What is meant by the doctrine of 'Caveat emptor'? State the circumstances under which the doctrine is not applicable (10 marks; 2002 - Nov)

Answer:

Caveat Emptor: This means "Let the buyer beware", i.e. in a contract of sale of goods the seller is under no duty to reveal unflattering truths about the goods sold. Therefore, when a person buys some goods, he must examine them thoroughly. If the goods turn out to be defective or do not suit his purpose or if he depends upon his own skill or judgement and makes a bad selection, he cannot blame anybody excepting himself.

The rule of caveat emptor is enunciated in the opening words of Section 16 which runs thus: "Subject to the provisions of this Act and of any other law for the time being in force, there is no implied warranty or condition as to the quality or fitness for any particular purpose of goods supplied under a contract of sale"

Exceptions: The doctrine of caveat emptor has certain important. The exceptions are given below:

1. Fitness for buyer's purpose: Where the buyer, expressly or by implication, makes known to the seller the particular purpose for which he requires the goods and relies on the seller's skill or judgement and the goods are of a description which it is in the course of the seller's business to supply, the seller must supply the goods which shall be fit for the buyer's purpose [Sec. 16(1)].
2. Sale under a patent or trade name: In the case of a contract for the sale of a specified article under its patent or other trade name, there is no implied condition that the goods shall be reasonably fit for any particular purpose [Proviso to Sec. 16(1)].
3. Merchantable quality: Where goods are bought by description 'from a seller who deals in goods of that description (whether he is the manufacturer or producer or not), there is an implied condition that the goods shall be of merchantable quality. But if the buyer has examined the goods, there is no implied condition as regards defects which such examination ought to have revealed [Sec. 16(2)].
4. Usage of trade: An implied warranty or condition as to quality or fitness for a particular purpose may be annexed by the usage of trade [Sec. 10(3)].
5. Consent by fraud: Where the consent of the buyer, in a contract of sale, is obtained by the seller by fraud or where the seller knowingly conceals - defect which could not be discovered on a reasonable examination (i.e. where there is 'oa latent defect' in the goods), the doctrine of caveat emptor does not apply.
6. Sale by sample (Section 17): when goods are bought by sample' the bulk must correspond with the sample and the buyer must have reasonable opportunity of inspecting the goods.

Q. 139

What is the Doctrine of "Caveat Emptor"? What are the exceptions to the Doctrine of "Caveat Emptor"? (6 marks; 2018 - Nov)

Answer:

In case of sale of goods, the doctrine 'Caveat Emptor' means 'let the buyer beware'. When sellers display their goods in the open market, it is for the buyers to make a proper selection or choice of the goods. If the goods turn out to be defective he cannot hold the seller liable. The seller is in no way responsible for the bad selection of the buyer. The seller is not bound to disclose the defects in the goods which he is selling.

The exceptions to the Doctrine of Caveat Emptor are:

1. Fitness as to quality or use: Where the buyer makes known to the seller the particular purpose for which the goods are required, so as to show that he relies on the sellers' skill or judgement and the goods are of a description which is in the course of seller's business to supply, it is the duty of the seller to supply such goods as are reasonably fit for that purpose [Section 16(1)].

2. Goods purchased under patent or brand name: In case where the goods are purchased under the patent name or brand name, there is no implied condition that the goods shall be fit for any particular purpose [Section 16(1)].
3. Goods sold by description: Where the goods are sold by description there is an implied condition that the goods shall correspond with the description [Section 15]. If it is not so then seller is responsible.
4. Goods of merchantable quality: Where the goods are bought by description from a seller who deals in goods of that description there is an implied condition that the goods shall be of merchantable quality. The rule of Caveat emptor is not applicable.
5. Sale by Sample: Where the goods are bought by sample, this rule of Caveat emptor does not apply if the bulk does not correspond with the sample [Section 17].
6. Goods by sample as well as description: Where the goods are bought by sample as well as description, the rule of Caveat Emptor is not applicable.
7. Trade Usage: An implied warranty or condition as to quality or fitness for a particular purpose may be annexed by the usage of trade and if the seller deviates from that, this rule of Caveat emptor is not applicable [Section 16(3)].
8. Seller actively conceals a defect or is guilty of fraud: Where the seller sells the goods by making some misrepresentation or fraud and the buyer relies on it or when the seller actively conceals some defect in the goods so that the same could not be discovered by the buyer on a reasonable examination, then the rule of Caveat Emptor will not apply.

Q. 140

Discuss the various types of implied warranties as per the Sales of Goods Act 1930?

(4 marks; 2019 - June)

Answer:

Implied Warranties:

It is a warranty which the law implies into the contract of sale. It is a stipulation which has not been included in express words, but the law presumes that the parties have incorporated it into their contract.

Following types of implied warranties are provided by Sale of Goods Act, 1930:

(i) Warranty as to undisturbed possession:

An implied warranty that the buyer shall have and enjoy quiet possession of the goods. If the buyer is later on disturbed, he is entitled to sue the seller for the breach of the warranty.

(ii) Warranty as to non-existence of encumbrances:

An implied warranty that the goods shall be free from any charge or encumbrance in favour of any third party not declared or known to the buyer at the time of making the contract.

(iii) Warranty as to quality or fitness by usage of trade:

An implied warranty as to quality or fitness for a particular purpose may be annexed or attached by the usage of trade.

(iv) Disclosure of dangerous nature of goods:

Where the goods are dangerous in nature and the buyer is ignorant of the danger, the seller must warn the buyer of the probable danger.

Q. 141

Write any four exceptions to the doctrine of Caveat Emptor as per The Sale of Goods Act, 1930.

(4 marks; 2020 - Nov)

Answer:

According to Section (16) of the Indian Contract Act, 1872:

"Subject to the provisions of this act or any other law for the time being in force there is no implied warranty or condition as to quality or fitness for any particular purpose of goods supplied under a contract of sale. But, there are certain exceptions to this rule of CAVEAT EMPTOR.

1. Fitness as to Quality or use: When the buyer makes known to the seller the particular purpose for which the goods are required, so as to show that he relies on the sellers skill or judgement and the goods are of a description which is in the course of seller's business to supply it is the duty of the seller to supply goods as all reasonably fit for that purpose section 16(1).

2. Goods sold by description: When the goods are sold by description there is an implied condition that the goods shall correspond with the description. It is not then the seller is responsible.
3. Sale by sample: When the goods are bought by sample, the rule of 'CAVEAT EMPTOR' does not apply if the bulk does not correspond with the sample.
4. Goods of merchantable quality: When the goods are brought by description from the seller who deals in goods of that description there is an implied condition that the goods should be of a merchantable quality. The rule of 'CAVEAT EMPTOR' is not applicable.

Q. 142

What are the differences between a 'Condition' and 'Warranty' in a contract of sale? Also explain, when shall a 'breach of condition' be treated as 'breach of warranty' under provisions of the Sale of Goods Act, 1930?

(6 marks; 2021 - Jan)

Answer:

Point of Differences	Condition	Warranty
Meaning	A condition is a stipulation essential to the main purpose of the contract.	A warranty is a stipulation collateral to the main purpose of the contract.
Right in case of breach	The aggrieved party can repudiate the contract or claim damages or both in the case of breach of condition.	The aggrieved party can claim only damages in case of breach of warranty.
Conversion of stipulations	A breach of condition may be treated as a breach of warranty.	A breach of warranty cannot be treated as a breach of condition.

Section 13 of Sales of Goods Act, 1930 specifies cases where a breach of condition be treated as a breach of warranty. As a result of which the buyer loses his right to rescind the contract and can claim damages only. In the following cases, a contract is not avoided even on account of a breach of a condition:

- (i) Where the buyer altogether waives the performance of the condition. A party may for his own benefit, waive a stipulation. It should be a voluntary waiver by buyer.
- (ii) Where the buyer elects to treat the breach of the conditions, as one of a warranty. That is to say, he may claim only damages instead of repudiating the contract. Here, the buyer has not waived the condition but decided to treat it as a Warranty.

Example: A agrees to supply B 10 bags of first quality sugar @ Rs. 625 per bag but supplies only second quality sugar, the price of which is Rs. 600 per bag. There is a breach of condition and the buyer can reject the goods. But if the buyer so elects, he may treat it as a breach of warranty, accept the second quality sugar and claim damages @ Rs. 25 per bag.

- (iii) Where the contract is non-severable and the buyer has accepted either the whole goods or any part thereof. Acceptance means acceptance as envisaged in Section 72 of the Indian Contract Act, 1872.
- (iv) Where the fulfilment of any condition or warranty is excused by law by reason of impossibility or otherwise.

Q. 143

What are the implied conditions in a contract of 'Sale by sample' under the Sale of Goods Act, 1930? Also state the implied warranties operative under the Act? (6 marks; 2022 - June)

Answer:

Implied Condition in a contract of sale by sample

1. In a contract of sale of goods by sample, there is an implied condition that:
  - (a) The bulk shall correspond with the sample in quality.
  - (b) The buyer shall have a reasonable opportunity of comparing the bulk with the sample.
  - (c) The goods shall be free from any defects rendering them unmerchantable, which cannot be found even on a reasonable examination of the sample (ie. latent defects).
2. If any of the above conditions is not satisfied, then buyer is entitled to reject the goods.
  - (a) Implied Warranties under Sale of Goods Act, 1930 warranty as to undisturbed possession- An implied warranty that buyer shall have and. enjoy quiet possession of the goods. In other words, if the buyer having got possession of the goods, in later, disturbed in his possession, he is entitled to sue the seller for the breach of the warranty.

- (b) Warranty as to Non-Existence of Encumbrances - An implied warranty that the goods shall be free from any charge or encumbrance in favour of any third party not declared or known to the buyer before or at time the contract is entered into.
- (c) Warranty as to Quality or Fitness by usage of Trade - An implied warranty as to quality or fitness of goods for a particular purpose may be annexed or attached by the usage of trade.
- (d) Warranty as to disclosing dangerous nature of goods - Where goods are dangerous in nature and the buyer is ignorant of the danger, the seller must warn the buyer of the probable danger. If there is a breach of warranty, the seller may be liable for damages.

Q. 144

M/S Woodworth & Associates, a firm dealing with the wholesale and retail buying and selling of various kinds of wooden logs, customized as per the requirement of the customers. They dealt with Rose wood; Mango wood; Teak wood; Burma wood etc.

Mr. Das a customer came to the shop and asked for wooden logs measuring 4 inches broad and 8 feet long as required by the carpenter. Mr. Das specifically mentioned that he required the wood which would be best suited for the purpose of making wooden doors and window frames. The Shop owner agreed and arranged the wooden pieces cut into as per the buyers requirements. The carpenter visited Mr. Das's house next day, and he found that the seller has supplied Mango Tree wood which would most unsuitable for the purpose. The carpenter asked Mr. Das to return the wooden logs as it would not meet his requirements.

The Shop owner refused to return the wooden logs on the plea that logs were cut to specific requirements of Mr. Das and hence could not be resold.

- (i) Explain the duty of the buyer as well as the seller according to the doctrine of "Caveat Emptor".
- (ii) Whether Mr. Das would be able to get the money back or the right kind of wood as required serving his purpose? (6 marks; 2019 - June)

Answer:

Caveat emptor means "let the buyer beware", i.e. in sale of goods, the seller is under no duty to reveal unflattering truths about the goods sold. Therefore, when a person buys some goods, he must examine them thoroughly. If the goods turn out to be defective or do not suit his purpose, or if he depends upon his skill and judgement and makes a bad selection, he cannot blame any body except himself.

The rule is enunciated in the opening words of section 16 of the Sale of Goods Act, 1930, which runs thus, "subject to the provisions of this Act and of any other law for the time being in force, there is no implied warranty or condition as to the quality or fitness for any particular purpose of goods supplied under a contract of sale."

The rule of caveat emptor does not apply in the following case: Fitness for buyer's purpose : Where the buyer, expressly or by implication, makes known to the seller the particular purpose for which he requires the goods and relies on the seller's skill or judgement and the goods are of a description which it is in the course of the seller's business to supply, the seller must supply the goods which shall be reasonably fit for the buyer's purpose.

In the given case Mr. Das had clearly intimated the seller of his specific purpose and the goods supplied by the seller were totally unfit for that purpose. The seller is bound to supply the goods that are reasonably fit for the purpose.

Held, the contract is avoidable by Mr. Das and he holds full right to either get his money back or to get right kind of wood as required for his purpose.

Q. 145

Mrs. Geeta went to the local rice and wheat wholesale shop and asked for 100 kgs of Basmati rice. The Shopkeeper quoted the price of the same as Rs. 125 per kg. to which she agreed. Mrs. Geeta insisted that she would like to see the sample of what will be provided to her by the shopkeeper before she agreed upon such purchase. The shopkeeper showed her a bowl of rice as sample. The sample exactly corresponded to the entire lot.

The buyer examined the sample casually without noticing the fact that even though the sample was that of Basmati Rice but it contained a mix of long and short grains.

The cook on opening the bags complained that the dish if prepared with the rice would not taste the same as the quality of rice was not as per requirement of the dish.

Now Mrs. Geeta wants to file a suit of fraud against the seller alleging him of selling mix of good and cheap quality rice. Will she be successful? Explain the basic law on sale by sample under Sale of Goods Act, 1930Rs. Decide the fate of the case and options open to the buyer for grievance redressal as per the provisions of Sale of Goods Act, 1930Rs. What would be your answer in case Mrs. Geeta specified her exact requirement as to length of rice? (6 marks; 2019 - Nov)

Answer:

In a contract of sale by sample, there is an implied condition that

- (a) The bulk shall correspond with the sample in quality.
- (b) The buyer shall have a reasonable opportunity of comparing the bulk with the sample.
- (c) The goods shall be free of any defect rendering them un-merchantable, which would not be apparent on reasonable examination of the sample. This condition is applicable only with regard to defects, which could not be discovered by an ordinary examination of the goods. But if the defects are latent, then the buyer can avoid the contract.

In the given case;

Mrs. Geeta casually examined the sample and did not notice that sample contained mix of long and short grains. Hence, Mrs. Geeta cannot avoid the contract and will not be successful in the suit. However if the buyer had specified her exact requirements, then seller must supply such goods which are reasonably fit for the given purpose.

Q. 146

TK ordered timber of 1 inch thickness for being made into drums. The seller agreed to supply the required timber of 1 inch. However, the timber supplied by the seller varies in thickness from 1 inch to 1.4 inches. The timber is commercially fit for the purpose for which it was ordered. TK rejects the timber. Explain with relevant provisions of the Sale of Goods Act, 1930 whether TK can reject the timber. (3 marks; 2021 - Dec)

Answer:

As per the provisions of the Sale of Goods Act, 1930. The doctrine of Caveat emptor is subject to the exception of fitness as to quality or use. Which states that where the buyer makes known to the seller the particular purpose for which the goods are required, so as to show that he relies on seller's skill or judgement and the goods are of a description which is in the course of seller's business to supply, it is the duty of the seller to supply such goods as are reasonably fit for that purpose [section 16(1)] In the present case timber was purchased for the purpose of making the drums. However, the timber supplied by the seller varies in thickness from 1 inch to 1.4 inches. Now it is clearly mentioned that timber is commercially fit for the purpose for which it was ordered hence that contract could not be avoided. Q. 147

Mr. K visited M/S Makrana Marbles for the purchase of marble and tiles for his newly built house. He asked the owner of the above shop Mr. J to visit his house prior to supply so that he can clearly ascertain the correct mix and measurements of marble and tiles. Mr. J agreed and visited the house on the next day. He inspected the rooms in the first floor and the car parking space. Mr. K insisted him to visit the second floor as well because the construction pattern was different. Mr. J ignored the above suggestion.

Mr. J, supplied 146 blocks of marble as per the size for the rooms and 16 boxes of tiles with a word of caution that the tiles can bear only a reasonable weight. Marble and Tiles were successfully laid except on second floor due to different sizes of the marble. The tiles fitted in the parking space also got damaged due to the weight of the vehicle came for unloading cement bags. Mr. K asked Mr. J for the replacement of marble and tiles to which Mr. J refused taking the plea that the marble were as per the measurement and it was unsafe to fit tiles at the parking area as it cannot take heavy load. Discuss in the light of provisions of Sales of Goods Act 1930:

- (i) Can Mr. J refuse to replace the marble with reference to the doctrine of Caveat Emptor? Enlist the duties of both Mr. K and Mr. J.
- (ii) Whether the replacement of damaged tiles be imposed on M/S Makrana Marbles? Explain.

(6 marks; 2022 - Dec)

Answer:

(i) Duty of the buyer according to the doctrine of "Caveat Emptor":

In case of sale of goods, the doctrine 'Caveat Emptor' means 'let the buyer beware'. When sellers display their goods in the open market, it is for the buyers to make a proper selection or choice of the goods. If the goods turn out to be defective he cannot hold the seller liable. The seller is in no way responsible for the bad selection of the buyer. The seller is not bound to disclose the defects in the goods which he is dealing/selling

Duty of the seller according to the doctrine of "Caveat Emptor".

The following exceptions to the Caveat Emptor are the duties of the seller:

- (a) Fitness as to the quality or use
- (b) Goods purchased under patent or brand name
- (c) Goods sold by description
- (d) Goods of merchantable quality
- (e) Sale by sample
- (f) Goods by sample as well as description
- (g) Trade usage
- (h) Seller actively conceals a defect or is guilty of fraud Hence, in the given case Mr. J cannot refuse to replace the marble as it was clearly mentioned that caveat emptor deals with the principle of fitness to the quality or use. Mr. J needs to replace the marbles. As Mr. J has specifically mentioned that the tiles can bear only a reasonable weight and not more than that. Hence, Mr. K cannot force him to replace the damaged tiles be imposed on M/S Makhrana Marbles.

Q. 176

Write short note on “Documents of Title to Goods”. (5 marks; 1994 - Nov)

Answer:

Documents of title to goods: A document of title to goods is one which enables its possessor to deal with the goods described in it as if he were the owner. It is used in the ordinary course of business as proof of the possession or control of goods. It authorises, either by endorsement or by delivery, its possessor to transfer or receive goods represented by it [Sec. 2(4)]. It symbolises the goods and confers a right on the purchaser to receive the goods or to further transfer such right to another person. This may be done by mere delivery or by proper endorsement and delivery. But such document is not a negotiable instrument, for unlike 'a holder in due course', the transferee of such a document does not acquire a title better than the one held by transferor. Only bona fide holder of a document of title can

Some instances of documents of title to goods are bill of lading, dock warrant, warehouse keeper's or wharfingers' certificate, railway receipt and delivery order.

Q. 177

Write short note on "Symbolic delivery".

(5 marks; 1995 - May)

Answer:

Symbolic delivery: Delivery denotes a voluntary transfer of possession from one person to another. The delivery may be actual (i.e., by an actual transfer of physical custody), or symbolic (i.e., by causing a change in the possession of the goods without any change in their actual or visible custody). If the goods are bulky or ponderous or not capable of being actually handed over by the seller to the buyer, a symbol indicating the transfer of title of the goods may be given which will tantamount to delivery. For example, A sells to B 100 quintals of wheat lying in the possession of C, a warehouseman. A makes over to B, an order, to C, called a delivery order, to transfer the wheat to B and C accepts such an order by transferring the wheat in his books to B. This would be construed as a symbolic delivery to B. In such a case complete access to the goods is essential otherwise it will not be a symbolic delivery (Sanders vs. Maclean 1883).

Thus in symbolic delivery the goods remain where they are, but the means of obtaining possession of goods is delivered. Other examples of symbolic delivery are bill of lading or railway receipt.

Q. 178

Write short note on "Kinds of Delivery of Goods".

(5 marks; 1997 - Nov)

Answer:

Kinds of Delivery of Goods: Delivery means voluntary transfer of possession by one person to another [(Section 2(2)]. As a general rule delivery of goods may be made by doing anything which has the effect of putting the goods in the possession of the buyer or any person authorised to hold them on his behalf. Delivery may be of three kinds which may be enumerated as follows:

- (i) Actual delivery: It is actual when the goods themselves are delivered to the buyer or the key of a warehouse containing the goods is handed over to him.
- (ii) Constructive delivery: When it is effected without any change in the custody or actual possession of the thing as in the case of delivery by attornment (acknowledgment) e.g. where a warehouseman holding the goods of A agrees to hold them on behalf of B, at A's request.
- (iii) Symbolic delivery: When there is a delivery of a thing in token of a transfer of something else, i.e., delivery of goods in cause of transit may be made by handing over documents of title to goods, like bill of lading or railway receipt or delivery orders.

Q. 179

When may a non-owner of goods validly transfer the title of goods to another person, under the Sale of Goods Act?

(10 marks; 1995 - May)

Answer:

The general rule relating to the transfer of title on sale is that a person can not pass a better title than what he himself has. This rule is expressed by the maxim "Nemo dat Quod non habet", which means "no one can give what he has not got". Since the seller's title is defective the subsequent transferee's title will also be defective.

This rule has been stated in Section 27 which runs thus "subject to the provisions of this Act and of any other law, for the time being in force, where goods are sold by a person who is not the owner thereof and who does not sell them under the authority or with the consent of the owner, the buyer acquires no better title to the goods than the seller had".

Exceptions to this rule: Section 27 to 30 lay down the situations in which Nemo dat rule does not apply. These are as follows:

- (i) Title by estoppel (Section 27): Where the true owner by his conduct or by act or omission causes the buyer to believe that the seller has the authority to sell the goods and induces the buyer to buy them, he can not afterwards set up seller's want of title or authority to sell as defence. He shall be estopped or precluded from denying the authority of the seller to sell. The buyer in such a case gets a better title than that of the seller.
- (ii) Sale by mercantile agent: Where the mercantile agent is, with the consent of the owner, in possession of goods or of a document of title to the goods, any sale made by him shall be valid as if he is the owner of the goods, provided he has acted in good faith and has not, at the time of the contract of sale, noticed that the seller has not authority to sell.
- (iii) Sale by a joint owner (Section 28): If one of the several joint owners of goods has the sole possession of them by permission of the coowners, the property in the goods is transferred to any person who buys them from such joint owner in good faith and has not at the time of the contract of sale noticed that the seller has no authority to sell.
- (iv) Sale by person in possession under voidable contract (Section 29): When the seller of goods has obtained possession thereof under a voidable contract, but the contract has not been rescinded at the time of the contract of sale, the buyer acquires a good title to the goods provided he buys them in good faith and without notice of the seller's defective title.
- (v) Seller in possession after sale [Section 30(1)]: Where a seller having sold the goods continues to be in possession of the goods or documents of title to the goods, he may resell the goods and the new buyer will get a good title over the goods provided he acts in good faith, without notice of the prior sale, and obtains possession of the goods or documents of title to the goods.
- (vi) Buyer in possession after sale [Section 30(2)]: Where a person has bought or agreed to buy certain goods whose possession has been given over to him, but the seller, still has some lien or right over the goods, and the buyer sells the goods,, the second buyer will get a title free from seller's right of lien provided he acts in good faith and without notice of any lien or other right of the original seller in respect of the goods [Martin vs. Whale (1917)].
- (vii) Resale by unpaid seller: Where an unpaid seller while after exercising his right resells the goods, the buyer acquires a good title thereto as against the original buyer, notwithstanding that no notice of resale has been given to the original buyer.
- (viii) Sale by finder of lost goods: Under certain circumstances, a finder of goods may sell them and convey a good title to the purchaser (Section 169 of Indian Contract Act).
- (ix) Sale under order of the Court: A transferee under a Court sale gets a good title notwithstanding he title or authority of his transferor.

Q. 180

Describe the rules relating to passing of property in the sale of goods. (10 marks; 1995 - Nov)

Answer:

Passing or transfer of property constitutes the most important element and factor to decide legal rights and liabilities of sellers and buyers. Passing of property implies passing of ownership. If the property has passed to the buyer, the risk in the goods sold is that of buyer and not of seller, though the goods may still be in the seller's possession.

The primary rules relating to the passing of property in the sale of goods are:

- (1) No property in the goods is transferred to the buyer, unless and until the goods are ascertained.

(2) Where there is a contract for sale of specific of ascertained goods, property passes to the buyer at the time when parties intend to pass it. For the purpose of ascertaining intention of the parties regard shall be had to the terms of contract, conduct of parties, and circumstances of the case. Where the intention of the parties cannot be ascertained, rules contained in Sections 20 to 24 shall apply.

For specific goods: Where there is an unconditional contract for the sale of specific goods in a deliverable state, property in the goods passes to the buyer when the contract is made (Section 20). Deliverable state means such a state that the buyer would under the contract be bound to take delivery of the goods. If the goods are not in a deliverable state, property does not pass until such a thing is done to put the goods in a deliverable state.

This 'something' may mean packing the goods, testing, polishing, filling in casks etc. It should be noted that the property shall not pass when the goods are made in deliverable state but shall pass only when the buyer has notice of it (Section 21). But where they are in deliverable state, but the seller is bound to weight, measure, test or do some other act or thing for the purpose of ascertaining the price, the property does not pass until such act or thing is done.

When the seller has done his part the property passes even if the buyer has to do something for his own satisfaction. (Section 22). Unascertained goods: Until, goods are ascertained, there is merely an agreement to sell. The ascertainment of goods and their unconditional appropriation to the contract are the two pre-conditions for transfer of property from seller to buyer in case of unascertained goods. A seller is deemed to have unconditionally appropriated, where he delivers the goods to the buyer or to a carrier or other bailee for the purpose of transmission to the buyer. (Section 23).

Goods sent on approval or "on sale or return": When the goods are delivered to the buyer on approval or on sale or return or other similar terms the property passes to the buyer, (i) when he signifies his approval or acceptance to the seller, (ii) when he does any other act adopting the transaction, and (iii) if he does not signify his approval or acceptance to the seller but retains goods beyond a reasonable time. (Section 24).

Q. 181

What are the rules regarding delivery of goods?

(10 marks; 1996 - May)

Answer:

Rules regarding delivery of goods: The Sale of Goods Act prescribes the following rules of delivery of goods:

- (i) Effect of Part delivery: A delivery of part of goods, taking place in the course of the delivery of the whole, has the same effect for the purpose of passing the property in such goods as delivery of the whole. But such part delivery, with the intention of severing it from the whole will not operate as a delivery of the remainder, it will be construed as part delivery only. (Section 34)
- (ii) Buyer to apply for delivery: The seller of the goods is not obliged to deliver them until the buyer has applied for delivery, unless otherwise agreed. (Section 35)
- (iii) Place of delivery: If there is no contract to the contrary, goods must be delivered at the place where they were at the time of sale, and the goods agreed to be sold are required to be delivered at the spot at which they were lying at the time the agreement to sale entered into, or if not then in existence, at the place where they would be manufactured or produced. [Section 36(1)].
- (iv) Time of delivery: When the time of sending the goods has not been fixed by the parties, the seller must send them within a reasonable time. [Section 36(2)].
- (v) Goods in possession of a third party: Where the goods at the time of sale are in possession of a third person, there is no delivery unless and until such third person acknowledges to the buyer that he holds the goods on his behalf. The issue or transfer of any document of title to goods operates as delivery, symbolic in character, even if the goods are in the custody of a third person without such attornment. [Section 36(3)].

- (vi) Time for tender of delivery: Demand or tender of delivery may be treated as ineffectual unless made at a reasonable hour. What is reasonable hour is a question of fact. [Section 36(4)]
- (vii) Expenses for delivery: The expenses of and incidental to putting the goods into a deliverable state must be born by the seller, in the absence of a contract to the contrary. [Section 36(5)].
- (viii) Delivery of wrong quantity: In case of tender of lesser quantity of goods, the buyer may either accept the same and pay for it at the contract rate or reject it. [Section 37(1)]. In case of excess delivery the buyer may accept or reject the delivery, if he accepts the whole of the goods, he shall pay for them at the contract rate. [Section 37(2)]. In case the seller makes a delivery of the goods contracted mixed with goods of a different description, the buyer may accept the relevant goods and reject the rest or reject the whole [Section 37(3)]. Mixing of goods with inferior quality does not amount to a mixing of goods of different description. (Hamarain v. Firm Radha Krishan Naraindas AIR 1949 Nag. 178)
- (ix) Instalment deliveries: Unless otherwise agreed, the buyer is not bound to accept delivery in instalments. The rights and liabilities in cases of delivery by instalments and payments there for may be determined by the parties by contract. (Section 38)
- (x) Delivery to carrier: Subject to the terms of contract, the delivery of the goods to the carrier for transmission to the buyer, is prima facie deemed to be delivery to the buyer. [Section 39(1)].
- (xi) Deterioration during transit: Where goods are delivered at a distant place, the liability for deterioration necessarily incidental to the course of transit will fall on the buyer, though the seller agrees to deliver at his own risk. (Section 40).
- (xii) Buyer's right to examine the goods: Where goods are delivered to the buyer, who has not previously examined them, he is entitled to a reasonable opportunity of examining them in order to ascertain whether-they are in conformity with the contract. Unless otherwise agreed, the seller is bound, on request, to afford the buyer a reasonable opportunity of examining the goods. (Section 41)

Q. 182

Explain the law relating to passing of risk in case of the sale of goods. (5 marks; 1996 - Nov)

Answer:

Passing of the risk in the property to the buyer of goods: The general rule is, "Unless otherwise agreed, the goods remain at the seller's risk until the property therein is transferred to the buyer, but when the property therein is transferred to the buyer, the goods are at the buyer's risk whether delivery 'has been made or not.'" Section 26.

However, Section 26 also lays down in exception to the rule that 'risk follows ownership.' It provides that where delivery of the goods has been delayed through the fault of either buyer or seller, the goods are at the risk of the party in fault as regards any loss which might not have occurred but for such fault.

Thus in ordinary circumstances, risk is borne by the buyer only when the property in the goods passes over to him. However, the parties may by special agreement stipulate that 'risk' will pass sometime after or before the 'property' has passed.

Q. 183

Comment on the following:

Delivery of the goods and payment of the price are concurrent conditions. (5 marks; 1997 - Nov)

Answer:

The law in this regard is laid down in Section 32 of the Sale of Goods Act, 1930. The section says that unless otherwise agreed the delivery of the goods and payment of the price are concurrent conditions, that is to say, the seller shall be ready and willing to give possession of the goods to the buyer in exchange for the price, and the buyer shall be ready and willing to pay the price in exchange for possession of goods.

The general rule is that the obligations of the seller to deliver and that of the buyer to pay are implied concurrent conditions in the nature of mutual conditions precedent, and that neither can enforce that contract against the other without showing performance or offering to perform or averring readiness and willingness to perform his own promise.

This section lays down the rule as regards what are known as reciprocal promises to be simultaneously performed. In such a case no promisor need perform his promise unless the promisee is ready and willing to perform his reciprocal promise [Pandurang vs. Dadabhay (1902) 26 Bom. 643].

Q. 184

When the property in the goods passes to the buyer in case of the delivery of the goods to the buyer on approval basis? (5 marks; 1998 - Nov).

Answer:

Goods Delivered on Approval Basis: (Passing of the property). According to Section 24 of the Sale of Goods Act, 1930, the property in the goods passes to the buyer in case of the goods to the buyer on approval basis in the following manner:

1. When he signifies his approval or acceptance to the seller, or
2. Does any other act adopting the transaction, or
3. If without signifying his approval or acceptance the buyer retains the goods without giving notice of rejection refection, then, if time fixed for the return of goods, on expiry of such time, and if no time is fixed, on the expiration of reasonable time.

Q. 185

Comment on the following:

Risk prima facie passes with the property in the goods.

(5 marks; 1999 - May)

Answer:

Section 26 of the Sale of Goods Act, 1930 lays down the general rule that "risk prima facie passes with the property". In other words, risk always follows ownership and the owner has to bear the burden or loss. Thus, whoever is the owner, carries the risk. The goods remain at the seller's risk until the ownership therein is transferred to the buyer and the goods are at buyer's risk when their ownership is transferred to him whether the delivery has been made to him or not.

However, there are following exceptions to the general rule that risk prima facie passes with the property:

1. If the parties have by a special agreement stipulated that the risk will pass sometime after or before the ownership has passed.
2. Where the delivery of the goods has been delayed due to the fault of either the seller or the buyer, in such cases the goods are at the risk of that party who is responsible for such fault as resulted in loss of any kind. The defaulting party will bear the loss.
3. Sometimes trade customs may put the ownership and risk separately in two parties.

Q. 186

When the ownership in the goods may be transferred by a person who is not having title over it?

(5 marks; 1999 - May)

Answer:

The general rule of law is that 'no one can give that which he has not got'. However under, the following cases the goods can be sold even by the persons who are not having title over it.

1. Sale by a person not the owner or title by estoppel. (Section 27):

Sale of Goods Act i.e. where the true owner by his conduct, or by an act or omission, leads the buyer to believe that the seller has the authority to sell and induces the buyer to buy the goods he shall be estopped from denying the fact of want of authority of the seller. The buyer in such a case gets a better title than that of the seller.

2. Sale by a mercantile agent (Proviso to Section 27):

Provided the agent is in possession of the goods or documents of title to the goods with the consent of the owner; the agent sells the goods while acting in the ordinary course of business of a mercantile agent; the buyer acts in good faith and the buyer has not at the time of the contract of sale notice that the agent has no authority to sell.

3. Sale by one of several joint owners (Section 28):

If one of the several joint owners, who is in sole possession of the goods by permission of the other co-owners sells the goods, a buyer in good faith of those goods gets a good title to the goods.

4. Sale by a person in possession under a voidable contract. (Section 29):

Where the seller of goods has obtained the possession under a voidable contract, but the contract has not been rescinded at the time of the sale, the buyer acquires a good title to the goods, provided he buys them in good faith and without notice of the seller's defect of title.

5. Sale by seller in possession after sale (Section 30(1)).

6. By buyer in possession after sale-(Section 30(2)).

7. By an unpaid seller (Section 54(3)).

Q. 187

What are the exceptions to the doctrine of "Nemo dat quad non-habet" (one cannot give better title than what he has). (10 marks; 1999 - Nov)

Answer:

The general rule is that the owner of goods can sell the goods. No one can convey a better title than he himself has. This rule protects the true owner as the buyer from a non-owner does not acquire a better title than what the seller had.

But the following are the exceptions to the above rule provided in the Sale of Goods Act, 1930:

(a) Sale by a mercantile agent: A sale made by a mercantile agent of the goods or document of title to goods would pass a good title to the buyer in the following circumstances, namely:

(i) If he was in possession of the goods or documents with the consent of the owner.

(ii) If the sale was made by him when acting in the ordinary course of business as a mercantile agent, and

(iii) If the buyer had acted in good faith and has at the time of a contract of sale, no notice of the fact that the seller had no authority to sell (Proviso to section 27)

(b) Sale can be made by co-owner (Section 28): If one of the several joint owners, who is in possession of the goods by permission of the other coowners, sells the goods, a buyer in good faith of those goods gets a good title to the goods.

(c) Sale can be made by a person in possession under a voidable contract (Section 29): When the seller of goods has obtained their possession under a voidable contract, but the contract has not been rescinded at the time of the sale, the buyer acquires a good title to the goods, provided he buys them in good faith and without notice of the seller's defects of title.

(d) Sale can be made by seller in possession after sale [Section 30(1)]:

Where a seller having sold goods, continues to be in possession of the goods or documents of title to the goods and sells them either himself or through a mercantile agent to a person who buys them in good faith and without notice of the previous sale, the buyer gets a goods title.

(e) Sale can be made by buyer in possession [Section 30(2)]: When where a person, having bought or agreed to buy the goods, obtains, with the consent of the seller, possession of the goods or documents of title to the goods and sells them, the buyer who acts in good faith and without notice of any lien or other rights of the seller in respect of the goods, gets a good title.

(f) Effect of Estoppel (Section 27): Where the owner is stopped by the conduct from denying the seller's authority to sell, the transferee will get a good title as against the true owner.

(g) Exceptions in Other Acts:

- (i) Sale by a finder of lost goods under certain circumstances (Section 169 of the Indian Contract Act).
- (ii) Sale by a pawnee or pledgee under certain circumstances (Section 176 of the Indian Contract Act)
- (iii) Sale by an official receiver or official assignee or liquidator of a company.

Q. 188

When the property in specific or ascertained goods passes to the buyer? (10 marks; 2000 - May)

Answer:

Transfer of property in specific or ascertained goods to the buyer [Sale of Goods Act, 1930]: Passing of property implies passing of ownership. When property is transferred to the buyer, the risk of destruction or deterioration of the goods sold is that of the buyer and not of the seller, though the goods may still be in the seller's possession.

- (a) Where there is a contract for the sale of specific or ascertained goods, the property in the goods is transferred to the buyer at such time as the parties to the contract intend it to be transferred (Section 19).
- (b) In an unconditional contract of sale of specific goods in a deliverable state. The property in the goods passes to the buyer when the contract is entered into. It is not affected by the time of payment of price or the time of delivery of the goods of both (Section 20).
- (c) Where there is a contract for sale of specific goods and the seller is bound to do something to the goods for putting them in a deliverable state, the property does not pass until such thing is done and the buyer has notice thereof (Section 21).
- (d) Where there is a contract for sale of specific goods in a deliverable state, but the seller is bound to weight, measure, test or do some other act or thing for ascertaining the price, the property does not pass till such act or thing is done and the buyer has notice thereof (Section 22).

Q. 189

State the rules of the Sale of Goods Act, relating to the delivery of goods:

- (i) When it is given in instalments.
- (ii) When it is in excess of Contracted quantity.

(10 marks; 2000 - Nov)

Answer:

Rules of Sale of Goods Act, 1930 Relating to the Delivery of Goods:

(i) Where delivery of goods is given in instalments:

Unless otherwise agreed upon, the buyer of the goods is not bound to accept delivery by instalments. However, under a contract, the goods sold may be delivered in instalments. In such a case each instalment shall be treated separately and paid for.

In the following two cases, there will be a breach of such a contract:

1. Where the seller makes the delivery or makes defective delivery of one or more instalments; or
2. Where the buyer neglects or refuses to take delivery of one or more instalments.

In each such breach, it will depend upon the terms of the contract and the circumstances of the case whether:

- (a) The whole contract is repudiated; or
- (b) It is a severable breach giving rise to claim for compensation, but not a right to treat the whole contract as repudiated. (Section 38)

(ii) Where delivery of goods is given in excess of contracted quantity:

Section 37(2) of the Act, Sale of Goods Act, 1930 deals with such a case.

Where the seller makes a delivery to the buyer or to his agent of the excess quantity of goods than contracted for the buyer:

- (a) May accept the agreed quantity and reject the rest; or

(b) He may reject the whole lot.

(c) He may accept the whole lot even, and in such a case has to pay for the whole quantity at the contract rate.

Q. 190

State the rules as to passing of the property, when goods are delivered on approval in a Contract of Sale. (10 marks; 2001 - May)

Answer:

Section 24 of Sale of Goods Act, 1930 lays down rules as to passing of property when goods are delivered on approval or “on return”. In such cases property in goods passes either by acceptance or by failure to return.

- (i) By acceptance: The property in goods passes when buyer signifies his acceptance or approval or otherwise adopts the transaction.
Acceptance means acceptance of that part of the contract which makes him the purchaser absolutely. That will be some act which signifies that he intends to be the absolute purchaser. If he does some act which will be right only if he were the absolute purchaser that ‘signifies an acceptance or adoption with in the statute where a person pawned the goods, he had no power of returning the goods unless he repaid the amount advanced by the Pawnee. That is inconsistent with his free power of returning the goods.
- (ii) By failure to return (Section 24(2): The second circumstance in which the property in goods passes to buyer, is when the latter fails to return the goods with in reasonable time or if a time has been fixed on the expiration of that time. Till the expiry of such time, goods remains the property of the seller.

Where a horse was delivered to the defendant on terms that he should try it for eight days and then return it if he did not like it. The horse died on third day without the fault of the defendant. The seller could not recover the price from the defendant, the horse being still his property when it perished (Elphick v. Barnes (1880) SCPD. 32).

On failure to return With in the specific time, the property passes to the buyer and the seller may then sue for price. Where no time is fixed, the goods should be returned with in reasonable time, or else they became they property of the buyer. What is reasonable time in a question fact in each case.

Q. 191

Briefly answer the following:

Risk in the goods sold passes with the delivery of goods to the buyer. (5 marks; 2001 - Nov)

Answer:

Risk in the goods sold passes with the delivery of the goods to the buyer: Risk prima facie passes with ownership and not delivery. Passing of the risk is not very much related to the delivery of goods. Unless otherwise agreed upon, the goods remain at sellers risk until property therein has passed to the buyer. After passing of the property to the buyer, the goods remain at buyer’s risk. Thus, risk is more related to the passing of the title than to delivery of the goods. The goods may be in the possession of the buyer but the title upon them may be with the seller. Thus, unless as agreed upon, the goods remain at seller’s risk subject to the following two qualifications:

1. Delivery of the goods has been delayed by the fault of the buyer or the seller. In this case risk will be in the party to the default, and
2. Duties and liabilities of the seller or the buyer as bailee of goods for the other party remain unaffected even where the risk has passed generally.

However, parties may by special agreement stipulate about passing of the risk.

Q. 192

Briefly answer the following:

Transfer of property when goods are sold on approval. (5 marks; 2002 - May)

Answer:

Goods on Approval:

Under Section 24 of the Sale of Goods Act, 1930 when goods are delivered to the buyer on approval, the ownership in such goods passes to the buyer in any of the following situations:

1. When the buyer signifies his approval or acceptance to the seller.
2. When the buyer does some act which amounts to adoption of the transaction, i.e. the acceptance of the goods.
3. When the buyer fails to return the goods on the fixed time, namely, retains it beyond the fixed time without notice of rejection.
4. When no time has been fixed for the return of goods and the buyer retains the goods beyond reasonable time without giving notice of rejection. Reasonable time is a question of fact and hence will depend on facts and circumstances of every case.

Q. 193

“Nemo dat quod non habet” i.e. one cannot sell what he does not possess. Discuss this statement and state the exceptions to this doctrine. (10 marks; 2002 - May)

Answer:

Stranger to a Contract

It is a general rule of law that only parties to a contract may sue and be sued on that contract. This rule is known as the “doctrine of privity of contract”. Privity of contract means relationship subsisting between the parties who have entered into contractual obligations. It implies a mutuality of will and creates a legal bond or tie between the parties. These are two consequences of the doctrine:

1. A person who is not a party to a contract cannot sue upon it even though the contract is for his benefit and he has provided consideration.
2. A contract cannot confer rights or impose obligations arising under it on any person other than the parties to it.

The following are the exceptions to the general rule that a stranger to a contract cannot sue:

- 1. A trust or charge: A person in whose favour a trust or other interest in some specific immovable property has been created can enforce it even though he is not a party to the contract. (Madhav Trading Co. vs. Union of India).
- 2. Marriage settlement, partition or other family arrangements: Where an arrangement is made in connection with marriage, partition or other family arrangements and a provision is made for the benefit of a person, he may sue although he is not a party to the agreement.
- 3. Acknowledgment or estoppel: Where the promisor by his conduct, acknowledges or otherwise constitutes himself as an agent of the third party, a binding obligation is thereby incurred by him towards the third party.
- 4. Assignment of a contract: The assignee of rights and benefits under a contract not involving personal skill can enforce the contract subject to the equities between the original parties. (Krishan Lal Sadhu vs. Promila Bala).
- 5. Contracts entered into through an agent: The principal can enforce the contracts entered into by his agent provided the agent acts within the scope of his authority and in the name of the principal.
- 6. Covenants running with the land: In case of transfer of immovable property, the purchaser of land with notice that the owner of the land is bound by certain conditions or covenants created by an agreement affecting the land shall be bound by them although he was not a party to the original agreements which contained the conditions of covenants. (Tulk vs. Moxhay).

Q. 194

Explain the following (Give brief answers):

Meaning of Constructive Delivery

(5 marks; 2002 - May)

Answer:

Meaning of Constructive Delivery:

Where a third person (e.g., a bailee) who is in possession of the goods of the seller at the time of the sale acknowledges to the buyer that he holds the goods on his behalf, there takes place a delivery by attornment or constructive delivery [Section 36(3)]. Sale of Goods Act, 1930.

This may happen in the following cases:

- (a) Where the seller in possession of the goods agrees to hold them on behalf of the buyer.
- (b) Where the buyer is in possession of the goods and the seller agrees to the buyer's holding the goods as owner.
- (c) Where the third person in possession of the goods acknowledges to the buyer that he holds them on his behalf.

Q. 195

What is meant by Constructive Delivery?

(5 marks; 2002 - Nov)

Answer:

Constructive Delivery of goods

Delivery may be actual or constructive. In actual delivery actual transfer of physical custody takes place while in case of constructive delivery, the change in the possession of goods is caused without any change in their actual and visible custody. For example, A sells to B 100 quintals of wheat lying in the possession of C, a warehouseman. A makes delivery over to B, by an order to C, called a delivery order, to transfer the wheat to B, and C accepts such an order by transferring the wheat in his books to B. This would be considered as a constructive delivery to. Thus, constructive delivery may take place in any of the following manner:

- (i) The seller in possession of the goods agrees to hold them on behalf of the buyer.
- (ii) The buyer is in possession of the goods but the seller agrees to the buyer's holding the goods as owner.
- (iii) A third person is in possession of the goods but acknowledges to the buyer that he holds them on his behalf.

- (b) The goods should conform to the description and quality stated in the contract.
- (c) The goods must be in a deliverable state.
- (d) Goods must be unconditionally appropriated.
- (e) The appropriation must be made by:

Q. 197

"A non-owner can convey better title to the bonafide purchaser of goods for value". Discuss the cases when a person other than the owner can transfer title in goods as per the provisions of Sales of Goods Act 1930?

(6 marks; 2019 - June)

Answer:

The general rule regarding the transfer of title is that the seller cannot transfer to the buyer of goods a better title than he himself has. If the seller is not the owner of goods, then the buyer also will not become the owner i.e. the title of the buyer shall be the same as that of the seller. This rule is Expressed as “Nemo datquod Non babef which means that no one can give what he has not got.

In the following cases, a non-owner can convey better title to the bonafide purchaser of goods for value:

- 1. Sale by a Mercantile agent: A sale made by a mercantile agent of the goods for document of title to goods would pass a good title to the buyer if sale is made with the consent of the principal.
- 2. Sale by One of the Joint Owners: If one of several joint owners of goods has the sole possession of them by permission of the Co-owners, the property in the goods is transferred to any person who buys from such joint owner in good faith.
- 3. Sale by a person in possession under voidable contract: A buyer would acquire a good title to the goods sold to him by a seller who had obtained possession of the goods under a contract voidable on the ground of coercion, fraud, etc. provided that the contract had not been rescinded until the time of sale.
- 4. Sale by one who has already sold the goods but continues in possession thereof: If a person has sold the goods but continues to be in possession of them or of the documents of title to them, he may sell them to third person, and if such person obtains the delivery thereof in good faith and without notice of the previous sale, he would have good title to them, although property in goods had passed to the first buyer earlier.
- 5. Sale by buyer obtaining possession before the property in the goods has vested in him: Where a buyer with the consent of the seller obtains possession of the goods before the property in them has passed to him, he may sell, pledge or otherwise dispose of the goods to a third person, and if such person obtains delivery of the goods in good faith and without notice of the lien, he would get a good title to them.
- 6. Effect of Estoppel: Where the owner is estopped by the conduct from denying the sellers authority to sell, transferee will get a good title as against the true owner.
- 7. Sale by an unpaid seller: Where an unpaid seller who had exercised his right of lien or stoppage in transit, resells the goods, the buyer acquires a good title to the goods as against the original buyer.
- 8. Sale under provisions of other Acts:
  - (i) Sale by an official receiver/ liquidator.
  - (ii) Purchase of goods from finder of lost goods.
  - (iii) A sale by pawnee can convey a good title to the buyer.

Q. 198

Explain any six circumstances in detail in which non-owner can convey better title to Bona fide purchaser of goods for value as per The Sale of Goods Act, 1930. (6 marks; 2020 - Nov)

Answer:*Transfer of title (section 27-30) of the Indian Sale of Goods Act, 1930:

Subjects to the provisions of this act or to any other law for the time being in force, when the goods are sold by a person who is not the owner and does not sell them under the authority or with the consent of the owner, the buyer acquires no better title to the goods than the seller had, unless the owner of the goods is by his conduct precluded from denying the seller's authority to sell. In general the rule regarding to transfer of title is that the seller cannot transfer to the buyer of a goods a better title than he himself has. If the seller is not the owner of the goods the buyer will also not become the owner. The rule is explained in Latin maxim which says 'nemo dat quod non habet' which means no one can give what he has not get. But this rule has certain exceptions which says that non-owner can convey a better title to a bona-fide purchaser of goods:-

- (a) Sale by a mercantile agent:

When the goods are sold by a mercantile agent for the documents of title to goods would pass a good title to the buyer. In the following circumstances namely:-

- (i) He has the possession of goods with the consent of the owner.
  - (ii) If the sale was made by him While acting as an agent in the normal course of business.
  - (iii) If the buyer has acted in good faith and has no notice of the fact that the seller has no authority to sell.
- (b) Sale by one of the joint owners: If one of the several joint owners of the goods has the sole possession of them by the permission of the other co-owners, the property in the goods is transferred to any person who buys them of such joint owner in good faith and has no notice that has no authority to sell.
- (c) Sale by a person in possession under a voidable contract: A buyer would acquire a better title to the goods sold to him by a seller who had obtained possession of goods under a contract voidable on the ground of coercion, fraud etc. provided that the contract has not been rescinded until time of sale.
- (d) Sale by one who has already sold the goods but continues in possession thereof: If a person has sold goods but continues to be in the possession of them or of the documents of title to goods, he may sell them to a third person who obtains the delivery there of in good faith and without notice he would have a good title to them.
- (e) Sale by an unpaid seller: When an unpaid seller who have exercised his right of lien or stoppage in transit resells the goods the buyer acquire a better title to the goods as against the original buyer.
- (f) Sale under the provisions of other Act:
- (i) Sale by an official liquidator of the company which give purchaser a valid title
  - (ii) Sale of goods by a finder of lost goods which take them under his custody
  - (iii) Sale by Pawnee will convey a better title to the buyer.

Q. 199

"Risk Prima Facie passes with property." Elaborate in the context of The Sales of Goods Act, 1930.

(4 marks; 2021 - July)

Answer:

Risk Prima Facie passes with property (Section 26):

- (a) The term risk means the liability to bear the loss, if goods are lost or damaged.
- (b) The general rule is that, risk follows ownership i.e. if the goods are lost or damaged at any point of time, the loss shall be borne by the owner of the goods.
- (c) Price has been paid or delivery has been made.or not, is immaterial with respect to passing of risk.
- (d) However, there are certain exceptions to the above rule:
  - (i) If the loss or damage of goods due to delay in delivery, then the person who is responsible for such delay has to bear the loss.
  - (ii) If a party holds the goods a bailee (whether buyer or seller), then that person has to bear the risk in case of lost or damaged goods.
  - (iii) If risk is separated either by an agreement or by a trade custom, then the person holding the risk has to bear the loss in case of lost or damage of goods.

In all these above cases, it is immaterial, whether property has passed to buyer or not.

Q. 200

What are the consequences of destruction of specified goods, before making of contract and after the agreement to sell under the Sale of Goods Act, 1930

(4 marks; 2022 - June)

Answer:

The contract for the sale of specific goods is void -ab- initio, if

- (i) At the time when the contract was made,
- (ii) The goods are already perished or become so damaged as no longer correspond with their description in the contract.
- (iii) Without the knowledge of the seller. If both the parties to the contract are under mistake as to a matter of fact essential to the contract, then the contract is void-ab-initio due to bilateral mistake.

Similarly, an agreement to sell specific goods also becomes void, if the goods perish or get damaged, subsequent to the making of the contract, without any fault on the part of buyer or seller. This is due to impossibility of performance due to subsequent events-.

Q. 201

What are the rights of unpaid seller in context to re-sale the goods under Sale of Goods Act, 1930Rs.

(6 marks; 2022 - Dec)

Answer:

Right of re-sale [Section 54]: The right of resale is a very valuable right given to an unpaid seller. In the absence of this right, the unpaid seller's other rights against the goods that is lien and the stoppage in transit would not have been of much use because these rights only entitled the unpaid seller to retain the goods until paid by the buyer.

The unpaid seller can exercise the right to re-sell the goods under the following conditions:

- (i) Where the goods are of a perishable nature: In such a case, the buyer need not be informed of the intention of resale.
- (ii) Where he gives notice to the buyer of his intention to re-sell the goods: If after the receipt of such notice the buyer fails within a reasonable time to pay or tender the price, the seller may resell the goods.

It may be noted that in such cases, on the resale of the goods, the seller is also entitled to:

- (a) Recover the difference between the contract price and resale price, from the original buyer, as damages.
- (b) Retain the profit if the resale price is higher than the contract price. It may also be noted that the seller can recover damages and retain the profits only when the goods are resold after giving the notice of resale to the buyer.

Thus, if the goods are resold by the seller without giving any notice to the buyer, the seller cannot recover the loss suffered on resale. Moreover, if there is any profit on resale, he must return it to the original buyer, i.e. he cannot keep such surplus with him [Section 54(2)].

- (iii) Where an unpaid seller who has exercised his right of lien or stoppage in transit resells the goods: The subsequent buyer acquires the good title thereof as against the original buyer, despite the fact that the notice of re-sale has not been given by the seller to the original buyer.
- (iv) A re-sale by the seller where a right of re-sale is expressly reserved in a contract of sale: Sometimes, it is expressly agreed between the seller and the buyer that in case the buyer makes default in payment of the price, the seller will resell the goods to some other person. In such cases, the seller is said to have reserved his right of resale, and he may resell the goods on buyer's default.

It may be noted that in such cases, the seller is not required to give notice of resale. He is entitled to recover damages from the original buyer even if no notice of resale is given.

- (v) Where the property in goods has not passed to the buyer: The unpaid seller has in addition to his remedies a right of withholding delivery of the goods. This right is similar to lien and is called "quasilien"

Q. 202

Mr. D sold some goods to Mr. E for Rs. 5,00,000 on 15 days credit. Mr. D delivered the goods. On due date Mr. E refused to pay for it. State the position and rights of Mr. D as per The Sale of Goods Act, 1930.

(6 marks; 2018 - May)

Answer:

When the seller is ready and willing to deliver the goods and requests the buyer to take delivery, and the buyer does not within a reasonable time after such a request take delivery of the goods, he is liable to the seller for any loss occasioned by his neglect or refusal to take delivery and also for a reasonable charge for the care and custody of the goods. Provided that nothing in this section shall affect the rights of the seller where the neglect or refusal of the buyer to take delivery amounts to a repudiation of the contract.

Thus, in the given case, Mr. D can recover damages from Mr. E and can repudiate the contract as well.

Q. 203

Mr. G sold some goods to Mr. H for certain price by issue of an invoice, but payment in respect of the same was not received on that day. The goods were packed and lying in the godown of Mr. G. The goods were inspected by H's agent and were found to be in order. Later on, the dues of the goods were settled in cash. Just after receiving cash, Mr. G asked Mr. H that goods should be taken away from his godown to enable him to store other goods purchased by him. After one day, since Mr. H did not take delivery of the goods, Mr. G kept the goods out of the godown in an open space. Due to rain, some goods were damaged.

Referring to the provisions of the Sale of Goods Act, 1930 analyse the above situation and decide who will be held responsible for the above damage. Will your answer be different, if the dues were not settled in cash and are still pending? (6 marks; 2018 - Nov)

Answer:

According to the facts of this case it stands pretty much clear to the judgement of an independent observer that the property in the goods sold by Mr. G had already passed to Mr. H after the payment of dues and the examination of goods by the agent of Mr. H. Hence it can be easily concluded that the liability for damage suffered by the goods would fall on the buyer i.e. Mr. H and not Mr. G since the transfer of title of the goods had already taken place before the damage occurred.

Q. 204

State the various essential elements involved in the sale of unascertained goods and its appropriation as per the Sale of Goods Act, 1930. (4 marks; 2019 - Nov)

Answer:

The property in unascertained goods or future goods does not pass until the goods are ascertained. Such goods are defined only by description and not as goods identified and agreed upon when the contract is made.

The following rules are applicable for ascertaining the intention of the parties in regard to passing of property in respect of such goods. The property in such goods passes to the buyer when the goods in a deliverable state are unconditionally appropriated to the contract. Appropriation of goods involves selection of goods with the intention of using them in performance of the contract and with the mutual consent of the seller and the buyer. The essentials are:

- (a) There is a contract for the sale of unascertained or future goods.
- (b) The goods should conform to the description and quality stated in contract.
- (c) The goods must be in a deliverable state.
- (d) The goods must be unconditionally appropriated to the contract either by delivery to the buyer or his agent or the carrier.
- (e) The appropriation must be made by:
  - (i) the seller with the assent of the buyer, or
  - (ii) the buyer with the assent of the seller
- (f) The assent may be express or implied.
- (g) The assent may be given either before or after appropriation.

Q. 205

Ms. R owns a Two Wheeler which she handed over to her friend Ms. K on sale or return basis. Even after a week Ms. K neither returned the vehicle nor made payment for it. She instead pledged the vehicle to Mr. A to obtain a loan. Ms. R now wants to claim the Two Wheelers from Mr. A. Will she succeed?

- (i) Examine with reference to the provisions of the Sale of Goods Act, 1930, what recourse is available to Ms. R?
- (ii) Would your answer be different if it had been expressly provided that the vehicle would remain the property of Ms. R until the price has been paid? (6 marks; 2020 - Nov)

Answer:

Goods sent on approval or on sale or return basis (Section 24) of the Sales of Goods Act, 1930.

When the goods are delivered to the buyer on approval or on sale or return basis or other similar terms the property therein passes to the buyer.

- (a) When he signifies his approval or acceptance to the seller or does any other act adopting the transaction,

(b) If he does not signify his approval or acceptance to the seller but retains the goods on the expiration of such time, if no time has been fixed, then on the expiration of the reasonable time.

(c) he does something to the goods which is equivalent to accepting the goods.

But sometimes, it may be noted that where goods have been delivered by a person on 'Sale or return' on the terms that the goods well to remain the property of the sellers till they are paid for, the property therein does not pass to the buyer until the terms are complied with i.e. cash is paid for. In the given case Mr. R owns a two wheeler which she handed over to her friend MSK on sale or return basis. After a week MSK neither returned the vehicle nor made payment for it. She instead pledge the vehicle to Mrs. A to obtain a loan.

(i) Thus, according to this case Mr. R has no right against Mr. A. He can only recover the price of the two wheeler from Mr K.

(ii) Yes, my answer will be different if it had been expressly provided that the vehicle would remain the property of Mr. R until the price has been paid then ,it says that at the time of pledge the ownership was not transferred to Mr. K. Thus, the pledge was not valid and R can recover from the two wheeler from A as well.

Q. 206

Mr. T was a retail trader of fans of various kinds. Mr. M came to his shop and asked for an exhaust fan for kitchen. Mr. T showed him different brands and Mr. M approved of a particular brand and paid for it. Fan was delivered at Mr. M's house; at the time of opening the packet he found that it was a table fan. He informed Mr. T about the delivery of the wrong fan. Mr. T refused to exchange the same, saying that the contract was complete after the delivery of the fan and payment of price.

(i) Discuss whether Mr. T is right in refusing to exchange as per provisions of Sale of Goods Act, 1930?

(ii) What is the remedy available to Mr. M?

(6 marks; 2021 - Jan)

Answer:

Legal Provision: According to Section 15 of Sales of Goods Act, 1930. Where there is a contract of sale of goods by description, there is an implied condition that the goods shall correspond with the description. This rule is based on the principle that "if you contract to sell peas, you cannot compel the buyer to take beans." The buyer is not bound to accept and pay for the goods which are not in accordance with the description of goods. Thus, it has to be determined whether the buyer has undertaken to purchase the goods by their description, i.e., whether the description was essential for identifying the goods where the buyer had agreed to purchase. If that is required and the goods tendered do not correspond with the description, it would be breach of condition entitling the buyer to reject the goods. It is a condition which goes to the root of the contract and the breach of it entitles the buyer to reject the goods whether the buyer is able to inspect them or not.

Fact: Here in the given problem, Mr. M went to Mr. T's (retail trader) shop and asked for exhaust fan and approved a particular brand and paid for it. The fan which was delivered at M's house was a table fan. So, he asked Mr. T to exchange the same but Mr. T refused to do so.

Conclusion: Applying the above legal provision is the given problem we can conclude as follows:

1. Mr. T is not right he can't refuse to exchange the fan as the goods are not according to description. Buyer has asked for exhaust fan and seller has supplied table fan condition as to description is breached.
2. Remedy available to Mr. M - Mr. M can repudiate / rescind the contract, i.e. he can return the table fan and ask for damages or both.

Write short note on:

Liability of an incoming partner.

(5 marks; 1997 - May)

Answer:

An incoming partner is not liable for any act of the firm done prior to his admission as a partner. This is because the old partner were not the agents of the new partners at the time when they acted. By a mutual agreement, the new partners may agree with the old partners to be liable for the past liabilities of the firm. However, the creditors of the firm cannot sue the new partners for their past debts, because there is no privity of contract between the creditors and the new partner. Similarly the acts of the old partner can not be ratified by the new partner because he was not in existence as a principal at the time when acts were done. He is liable for the acts of the old firm only if the new firm assumes the liabilities of the old firm and the creditors accept the new firm as their debtor and discharge the old firm from his liability.

Write short note on:

Describe in brief the rights of the buyer against the seller in case of breach of contract of sale.

(10 marks; 1997 - Nov)

Answer:

Buyer's rights against the seller in case of breach of contract: Sections 57 to 59 & 61 of the Sale of Goods Act, 1930, proceed to deal with the remedies of a buyer in cases where the seller commits a breach of the contract. They are as follows:

- (i) Damages for non-delivery (Section 57): Where the seller wrongfully neglects or refuses to deliver the goods to the buyer, the buyer may sue the seller for damages for non-delivery. In this case the general rules as regards to the ascertainment of the damages given under Section 73 of the Contract Act, 1872 and the rule in Hadley vs. Baxendale will be applicable.
- (ii) Suit for specific performance (Section 58): Where property has passed to the buyer, he also can exercise another right, i.e. a right to sue for specific performance and its limits regulated by the Specific Relief Act. In such cases the court may, in its discretion grant a decree ordering the seller to deliver those specific or ascertained goods which formed the subject matter of the contract. The remedy is discretionary and will only be granted if the goods are of specific value or are unique, e.g., a rare book, a picture or a piece of jewellery, and the damages are not an adequate remedy.
- (iii) Remedy for breach of warranty (Section 59): Where there is a breach of warranty by the seller, or where the buyer elects or is compelled to treat any breach of a condition on the part of the seller as a breach of warranty, the buyer is not by reason only of such breach of warranty entitled to reject of the goods; but he may:
  - a. set up against the seller the breach of warranty in diminution or extinction of the price; or
  - b. Sue the seller for damages for breach of warranty.
The measure of damage for breach of warranty is the estimated loss or damage arising directly or naturally from the breach, which is prima facie the difference between the value of the goods at the time of the delivery and the value they would have had if the goods had answered to the warranty.
- (iv) Suit for recovery of price (Section 61): The buyer has a right to recover the money paid to the seller where the consideration for •payment of it has failed. For example, where the buyer is deprived of goods by their true owner, he may recover the price for breach of the condition as to title'.

Discuss the remedies available to seller against the buyer in case of breach of contract of sale.

(10 marks; 1998 - May)

Answer:

Remedies available to the seller against the buyer: Following remedies are available to the seller against the buyer in case of the breach of contract of sale:

- (i) Suit for price: Where the property in the goods has passed to the buyer or he was wrongfully neglected or refused to pay for the goods according to the terms of the contract, the seller may sue him for the price of goods. Further, where the price is payable under the contract on a certain day irrespective of delivery and the buyer wrongfully neglects or refuses to pay such price, the seller may sue him for the price even if the property in the goods has not passed and the goods have not been appropriated to the Contract. (Section 55). For instance, there was a sale of some quantity of iron to be delivered between 3rd May and 30th June, if the buyer so required, the price to be paid on the latter date at all cost. By 30th, only a portion of the iron had been delivered since the buyer did not require any further delivery. In such situation, the seller would be able to recover the whole price without showing that he had appropriated to the contract any specific iron to complete the delivery of the remainder. Incidentally, the seller has a lien on the goods for the price while he is in possession of them. The statement in a contract of sale that the seller would have the right to resell after notice will not deprive him of his legal right to sue for the price of the goods if he so desires.
- (ii) Damages for non-acceptance (Section 56): Where the buyer wrongfully neglects or refuses to accept and pay for the goods, the seller may sue him for damages for non-acceptance.

Some of the rights of an unpaid seller viz., lien stoppage in transit, and resale are additional rights. These, however, do not compensate the seller for the breach of the contract but simply protect him from additional loss; the breach of the contract, no doubt remains and the seller is entitled to be compensated for the same. The above referred remedies under Section 55 and 56 deal with the remedies available to a seller and may be exercised by him (seller).

- (a) If the property in the goods sold has already passed to the buyer the seller can either sue for price or for damages for non- acceptance [Section 55(1) and 56].
- (b) If the property in the goods sold has not passed the seller's only remedy is to sue for damages, for non-acceptance (Section 56), but the seller can even if the property has not passed, bring an action for the price if it is "payable on a day certain" and the buyer has failed to pay such price [Section 55(2)].
- (c) When the seller is ready and willing to deliver the goods and requests the buyer to take delivery, and the buyer does not within a reasonable time after such request take delivery of the goods, he is liable to the seller for any loss occasioned by his neglect or refusal to take delivery and also for a reasonable charge for the care and custody of the goods. In this case the seller's right will not be affected where the neglect or refusal of the buyer to take the delivery amounts to a repudiation of the contract - (Section 44).
- (d) The seller's right of re-sale is available subject to the provisions of Section 54(2) and (4).
- (e) How much damages will be awarded to the seller in case of the breach of contract of sale by the buyer will be reassured according to the provisions of Section 73 and 74 of the Indian Contract Act, 1872.

Q. 248

Write short note on:

Who is an 'Unpaid Seller'? When can such a seller exercise his 'Right of Lien' against the goods? Explain the rules for exercising the right of lien by an unpaid seller. (10 marks; 1999 - May)

Answer:

A seller be deemed to be an unpaid seller when:

1. The whole of the price has not been paid or tendered.
2. A bill of exchange or other negotiable instrument has been received as conditional payment, and the condition on which it was received has not been fulfilled by reason of the dishonour of the instrument or otherwise. (Section 45(1) Sale of Goods Act, 1930).

Thus the following conditions must be fulfilled before seller can be deemed to be an unpaid seller:

1. He must be unpaid and the price must be due.
2. He must have an immediate right of action for the price.
3. A bill of exchange or other negotiable instrument was received but the same has been dishonoured.

Right of an unpaid seller:

Right of Lien: (Section 46(1)(a), 47 to 49).

A lien is a right to retain possession of goods until payment of the price. It is available to the unpaid seller who is in possession of the goods sold, where:

- (a) The goods have been sold without any stipulation as to credit;
- (b) The goods have been sold on credit, but the terms of credit has expired;
- (c) The buyer becomes insolvent (Section 47(1)).

Rules regarding lien:

1. The seller may exercise his right of lien notwithstanding that he is in possession of the goods as agent or bailee for the buyer (Section 47(2)). If he loses the possession of the goods, he loses the right of lien also.
2. The lien depends on actual possession and not on title. It is not affected even if the seller has parted with the document capable of transferring title.
3. The possession of the goods by the seller must not expressly exclude the right of lien.
4. The lien can be exercised by the unpaid seller only for the price and not for any other charges such as warehouse or dock charges.
5. Where an unpaid seller has made part delivery of the goods, he may exercise his right of lien on the remainder. He may refuse to deliver such remainder of the goods till he is paid for the goods already delivered and the goods are yet to be delivered. Where, however, a part of the goods is delivered under such circumstances as to show an agreement to waive the lien, the seller cannot retain the remainder (Section 48).
6. The unpaid seller of goods, having a lien thereon, does not lose his lien by reason only that he has obtained a decree for the price of the goods (Section 49(2)).

Write short note on:

Stoppage in transit.

(5 marks; 1999 - Nov)

Answer:

Stoppage in Transit: (Section 50 Sale of Goods Act, 1930): It is a right of stopping the goods while they are in transit, resuming possession of them and retaining possession until payment of the price.

This right is exercised by the seller when:

- (a) He is unpaid.
- (b) He may have parted with the possession of goods.
- (c) The goods must be in transit.
- (d) The buyer must have become insolvent.
- (e) The right is subject to provisions of the Act.

The unpaid seller may exercise this right either by taking actual possession of the goods or by giving notice of his claim to the carrier, or other bailee in whose possession the goods are. The right of stoppage in transit begins when the right of lien ends.

Q. 250

Write short note on:

State the provisions given under Sale of Goods Act relating to 'Auction Sale'.

(10 marks; 2000 - May)

Answer:

Auction Sale: An 'Auction Sale' is a mode of selling property by inviting bids publicly and the property is sold to the highest bidder. An auctioneer is an agent governed by the Law of Agency. When he sells, he is only the agent of the seller. He may, however, sell his own property as the principal and need not disclose the fact that he is so selling.

Under section 64 of the Sale of Goods Act, 1930 in the case of an auction:

- (a) Where goods are put for sale in lot, each lot is prima facie deemed to be subject matter of a separate contract of sale.
- (b) The sale is complete when the auctioneer announces its completion by the fall of hammer or in any other customary manner and until such announcement is made, any bidder may retract from his bid.
- (c) Right to bid may be reserved expressly by or on behalf of the seller and where such a right is expressly reserved, but not otherwise, the seller or any one person on his behalf may bid at the auction.
- (d) Where the sale is not notified to be subject to the right of the seller to bid, it shall not be lawful for the seller to bid himself or to employ any person to bid at such sale, or for the auctioneer knowingly to take any bid from the seller or any person representing him. Any sale contravening this rule may be treated as fraudulent by the buyer
- (e) The sale may be notified to be subject to a reserve or upset price; and
- (f) If the seller makes use of pretended bidding to raise the price, the sale is voidable at the option of the buyer.

Q. 251

Write short note on:

Unpaid seller's right to re-sale.

(5 marks; 2001 - Nov)

Answer:

An unpaid seller's right to resale: (Section 54 Sale of Goods Act, 1930).

1. When the goods are of a perishable nature, the unpaid seller may re-sell the goods without any notice to the buyer.
2. When the unpaid seller has exercised his right of lien or stoppage in transit, he has to give notice to the buyer of his intention to resell. Then only he will be entitled to recover any loss and keep all profits with him. Otherwise not. But so far as the new buyer's title is concerned it will be good whether the seller gives or does not give notice to the first buyer.

Q. 252

When an unpaid seller's right of lien ends, his right to stop the goods in transit begins.

(5 marks; 1995 - May)

Answer:

When an unpaid seller's right of lien ends, his right to stop the goods in transit begins: Lien is the right of an unpaid seller to retain the goods, which are under his actual possession, until the price due in respect of them is paid or tendered. Lien being a possessory right, when the goods are delivered to the carrier for the purpose of transmission to the buyer (the possession being imparted by the unpaid seller), the right of lien comes to an end but so long the goods are in transit, the seller still has a right to stop them in transit. The right of stoppage means the right to stop further transit of goods to resume possession over the goods and to retain them until the price is paid.

The right of stoppage in transit arises only when the seller has parted with the possession of the goods and the buyer has become insolvent. This right is available only so long the goods are in transit i.e., they are in possession of a third party, they are neither in the possession of the seller nor that of the buyer. In this sense it is said that, right of stoppage in transit is an extension of the right of lien. The point where the right to lien ends, right to stoppage in transit beings.

Q. 253

Sub-sale by the buyer does not extinguish unpaid seller's right of lien. (5 marks; 1996 - Nov)

Answer:

Sub-sale and rights of unpaid seller: The unpaid seller's right of lien or stoppage in transit is not affected by any further sale or other disposition of the goods by the buyer. (Section 53 of the Sale of Goods Act).

However, there are two exception to the said rule:

- (a) When the seller was assented to the sale, mortgage or other disposition of the goods made by the buyer. [Sub-Section (1)].
- (b) When a document of title of goods has been transferred to the buyer and the buyer transfers the documents to a person who has bought goods in good faith and for price, then, the proviso of Sub-Section (1) of Section 53 prescribes as follows:
  - (i) If the last mentioned transfer is by way of sale, right of lien or stoppage in transit is defeated, or
  - (ii) If the last mentioned transfer is by way of pledge, unpaid seller's right of lien or stoppage only be exercised, subject to the rights of the pledgee.

However, the pledgee may be required by the unpaid seller to use in the first instance, other goods or securities of the pledger available to him to satisfy his claim [Sub-Section (2)].

Q. 254

Right of lien and Right of stoppage of goods in transit available to an unpaid seller.

(5 marks; 1998 - Nov)

Answer:

Right of Lien and Right of Stoppage in Transit:

1. The unpaid seller's right to stop the goods in transit arises only when the buyer is insolvent but the right of lien can be exercised even when the buyer is able to pay but does not pay.
2. The right of lien can be exercised on goods which are in actual or constructive possession of the seller, while right of stoppage in transit can be exercised when the goods are in the possession of a middleman between the seller who has parted with the possession of the goods and the buyer who has not yet acquired the possession.
3. The right of lien comes to an end when the possession of the goods is surrendered by the seller, but the right of stoppage in transit commences when the goods have left the possession of the seller and continues until the buyer has acquired their possession.
4. The right of lien is to retain possession while the right of stoppage in transit is to regain or resume possession.

Q. 255

What are the rights of an unpaid seller against goods under the Sale of Goods Act, 1930?

(6 marks; 2019 - Nov)

Answer:

Rights of an unpaid seller against the goods under Sale of Goods Act, 1930 are:

- (a) A lien or right of retention: An unpaid seller in possession of goods sold, may exercise his lien on the goods, i.e. keep the goods in his possession and refuse to deliver them to the buyer until the fulfilment or tender of the price. This right depends upon physical possession i.e. it is a possessory lien. Lien is lost as soon as the seller parts with the goods.

(b) The Right of Stoppage in transit: The right of stoppage in transit is a right of stopping the goods while they are in transit, resuming the possession of them and retaining possession until payment of the price.

(c) Right of re-sale: The unpaid seller may re-sell:

- (i) Where the goods are perishable.
- (ii) Where such right is expressly resumed.
- (iii) Where seller tenders notice to buyer of his intention to re-sell and buyer still does not tenders price within a reasonable time.

(d) Right to withhold delivery: If the property in the goods has passed, the unpaid seller has right as described above. If however, the property has not passed, the unpaid seller has a right of withholding delivery similar to and co-extensive with his rights of lien and stoppage in transit.

Q. 256

What are the rules which regulate the Sale by Auction under the Sale of Goods Act, 1930?

(4 marks; 2021 - Jan)

Answer:

An 'Auction Sale' is a mode of selling property by inviting bids publicly and the property is sold to the highest bidder. An auctioneer is an agent governed by the Law of Agency. When he sells, he is only the agent of the seller. He may, however, sell his own property as the principal and need not disclose the fact that he is so selling.

Legal Rules of Auction sale: Section 64 of the Sale of Goods Act, 1930 provides following rules to regulate the sale by auction:

- (a) Where goods are sold in lots: Where goods are put up for sale in lots, each lot is prima facie deemed to be subject of a separate contract of sale.
- (b) Completion of the contract of sale: The sale is complete when the auctioneer announces its completion by the fall of hammer or in any other customary manner and until such announcement is made, any bidder may retract from his bid.
- (c) Right to bid may be reserved: Right to bid may be reserved expressly by or on behalf of the seller and where such a right is expressly reserved, but not otherwise, the seller or any one person on his behalf may bid at the auction.
- (d) Where the sale is not notified by the seller: Where the sale is not notified to be subject to a right to bid on behalf of the seller, it shall not be lawful for the seller to bid himself or to employ any person to bid at such sale, or for the auctioneer knowingly to take any bid from the seller or any such person; and any sale contravening this rule may be treated as fraudulent by the buyer.
- (e) Reserved price: The sale may be notified to be subject to a reserve or upset price; and
- (f) Pretended bidding: If the seller makes use of pretended bidding to raise the price, the sale is voidable at the option of the buyer.

Q. 257

Discuss the rights of an unpaid seller against the buyer under The Sales of Goods Act, 1930.

(6 marks; 2021 - July)

Answer:

Rights of an unpaid seller against the buyer are as follows:

(i) Suit for price:

- (a) The seller may sue the buyer for the price, if the buyer is unable to or neglects or refuses to pay the price.
- (b) This may happen in any of the following cases:
  - When property in goods has passed to the buyer, but buyer has failed to pay the price.
  - When price is payable on a certain day and the buyer fails to pay on that day.

In the above cases, seller may sue the buyer for the recovery of price, even though property in goods has not passed and the goods have not been appropriated to the contract.

(ii) Suit for damages for non-acceptance:

If buyer refuses to accept and pay for goods, the goods may suffer damagedue to delay, and seller may sue the buyer for that.

(iii)Repudiation of contract before due date:

When buyer terminates the contract before the date of delivery, seller may treat the contract as rescinded and sue for damages for the breach.

This is also known as 'anticipatory breach of contract'.

(iv)Suit for interest:

Seller may also sue the buyer for the interest along with suit for the recovery of price.

In the absence of any agreement between the parties, the rate of interest will be decided by the court.

Q. 258

AB sold 500 bags of wheat to CD. Each bag contains 50 Kilograms of wheat. AB sent 450 bags by road transport and CD himself took remaining 50 bags. Before CD receives delivery of 450 bags sent by road transport, he becomes bankrupt. AB being still unpaid, stops the bags in transit. The official receiver, on CD's insolvency claims the bags. Decide the case with reference to the provisions of the Sale of Goods Act, 1930. (3 marks; 2021 - Dec)

Answer:

The problem is based on section 50 of the Sale of Goods Act, 1930 dealing with the right of stoppage of the goods in transit available to an unpaid seller. The section states that the right is exercised by the seller only if the following conditions are fulfilled:-

- (i) The seller must be unpaid.
- (ii) he must have parted with the goods
- (iii) The goods must be in transit.
- (iv) The buyer must have become insolvent.
- (v) The right is subject to the provisions of the Act. Applying the provisions to the given case, AB being still unpaid, can stop the delivery of 450 bags sent by the transport as these goods are still in transit."

Q. 259

Write explanatory notes on:

- (i) Rights of the unpaid seller; (4 marks; 2008 - Dec)
- (ii) Sale and agreement to sale; (4 marks; 2008 - Dec)

Answer:

(i) Rights of the unpaid seller: The credit sales are indispensable to any business and non payment of debts is an inseparable part of credit sales. The seller who has not received full payment against the goods sold by him must have certain rights and remedies to recover or reduce the loss being suffered by him. The Sale of Goods Act has elaborate provisions regarding the rights of unpaid seller.

By virtue of Section 45, the seller of goods is unpaid seller (i) when the whole price has not been paid or tendered (ii) when the legal instrument received by him as conditional payment has not been honoured.

An unpaid seller has the following rights as per the Sale of Goods Act.

1. Right of lien (lien means control, right to possess, right to retain) (Section 47): The unpaid seller has a lien on the goods for the price while he is in possession, until the payment or tender of the price. A lien is a right to retain possession of goods until payment of the price. He is entitled to lien in the following three cases, namely:

- (i) Where goods have been sold without any condition of credit; or

(ii) Where goods have been sold on credit but the terms of credit has expired, or

(iii) Where the buyer becomes insolvent.

The seller can exercise the lien although he holds the goods as the agent or bailee for the buyer. Where an unpaid seller has made part delivery of the goods, he may exercise his right of lien on the remainder, unless such part delivery has been made under such circumstances as to show an argument to waive the lien.

2. Right of Stoppage in transit (Section 50): The unpaid seller has the right of stopping the goods in transit after he has parted with their possession to a carrier, in case of insolvency of buyer, The right is exercisable by the seller only if the following conditions are fulfilled:

- (i) The seller must be unpaid;
- (ii) He must have parted with the possession of goods;
- (iii) The goods must be in transit;
- (iv) The buyer must have become insolvent;
- (v) The right is subject of provisions of the Act.

3. Right of re-sale (Section 51) : When the goods are of a perishable nature, the unpaid seller may re-sell the goods without giving any notice to the buyer.

S.N.	Sale	Agreement to sale
1	Property in goods or title of goods is transferred immediately to the buyer.	Property in goods or title of goods is to be transferred to buyer at a future date after fulfilling some conditions.
2	By the very nature, It always refers to the existing and specific goods.	It refers to existing as well as future goods.
3	If price is not paid, the seller can re-sale, stop the goods in transit.	If price is not paid, the seller has sole option of filing a suit for damages, because the possession of goods is already with the buyer.
4	Relates to present sale of present goods.	Relates to present or future sale of present or future goods.
5	Buyer becomes owner and the risk is associated with the owner.	Ownership is with the seller, the risk is associated with the seller even if the goods are in possession of buyer.
6	If the buyer has paid the price and the seller becomes insolvent thereafter, the buyer can claim the goods from the official receiver.	In such cases, the buyer cannot claim the goods but can only claim relief related to money paid by him.
7	If the ownership of goods is transferred to the buyer before paying the price, and the buyer becomes insolvent, the seller has to deliver the goods to the official receiver.	In such case, the seller can refuse to deliver the goods to the official receiver.

Q. 260

Write explanatory note on: Seller's lien.

(4 marks; 2009 - June).

Answer:

Sellers lien: The unpaid seller of goods who is in possession of goods is entitled to retain possession of such goods until payment or tender of the price in the following cases viz.

- (a) Where the goods have been sold without any stipulation as to credit.
- (b) Where the goods have been sold on credit but the term of credit had expired.
- (c) Where the buyer becomes insolvent.

The seller may exercise his right of lien notwithstanding that he is in possession of the goods as an agent or bailee for the buyer.

Q. 261

Write short note: "Termination of lien"

(4 marks; 2009 - Dec)*Answer:

Termination of Lien: Lien has not been specified in the question. It is taken as lien of unpaid seller. The unpaid seller loses his lien on the following conditions:

- (i) When he himself agrees to terminate or waive his lien for example when he extends the period of credit;
- (ii) When the buyer or his agent lawfully obtains possession of goods
- (iii) When the seller unconditionally delivers the goods as per directions of the buyer. It should be noted that if the seller has obtained a decree for the price of goods, it does not mean that his lien is lost.

Q. 262

Write short note: "Right of resale"

(4 marks; 2010 - June)*Answer: Right of Resale:

If the seller has not received the payment from the buyer, he is called unpaid seller.

- The unpaid seller has the right to resell those goods provided he gives proper notice to the buyer in this regard.
- The buyer should be given reasonable time to pay the balance amount and if he fails to pay, unpaid seller may resell the goods and he also has right to recover the damages occurred to him by breach of contract, from the buyer.
- If such notice has not been given, the unpaid seller has no right to recover the damages from the original buyer nor he (unpaid seller) has any right over the profit arising out of such sale.
- The second buyer gets the good title after such resale. The seller can retain any profit on account of such sale.

Q. 263

Write short note on: "Exceptions to 'implied condition as to quality or fitness'".

(4 marks; 2010 - Dec)*Answer:*Exceptions to 'implied conditions as to quality and fitness':

- (i) If the buyer has examined goods, there shall be no implied conditions.
- (ii) If the buyer has examined goods, he should be vigilant and all defects should be noted by him during the examination. There shall be no implied conditions for such defects which can be noticed with such examination.
- (iii) If the goods bear trade name of any company, there shall be no implied conditions on the part of the seller as to quality and fitness.

Q. 264

Write short note on: "Transfer of Property of Unascertained Goods".

(4 marks; 2011 - Dec)*Answer:

Unascertained goods or future goods are manufactured as per the description decided by the seller and the buyer. The buyer inspects the manufactured goods and selects goods of his choice and keeps them separately. This process of selection of goods is also called ascertainment. As per Section 18 of sale of goods act, the property or right of goods passes to the buyer only after he has ascertained the manufactured good.

Q. 265

Write short note on: "Future Goods"

(4 marks; 2012 - June)

Answer: Future Goods:

According to the Sale of Goods Act, It is implied condition of sale that only owner can sell the goods.

- It is expressed in the Latin phrase as 'Nemo dat quod non habet.' which means that "none can give who does not himself possess."
- There is one exception to this rule in case of future goods.

Future goods mean goods to be manufactured or produced or acquired by the seller after the making of contract of sale.

- As rule, any person may sell or offer for sale goods of which he is not the owner at present, but which he expects to acquire in due course of time.
- A contract to sell oil not yet extracted from the refineries owned by him or not yet obtained from pressing of seeds in his possession is a contract for sale of future goods.
- Any contract for present sale of future goods, constitutes as an agreement to sell.

Specific Goods:

- These are the goods which are specifically identified and agreed upon at the time when contract of sale is drawn and executed.

It is essential that the goods must be identified and separated from the other goods at the time when the contract of sale is made.

- Merely an identification of goods does not make it specific goods.
- For example, in a case of sale of one horse out of a lot of 25 horses, goods shall be specific if the horse is selected before the contract of sale is made.
- Here it is important to note that all horses are horses but they cannot be exactly similar to each other.

Therefore, it is imperative to select the horse out of the lot as specific goods.

Q. 266

Write short note on: "Damping (Sale of Goods Act)"

(4 marks; 2013 - June)

Answer:

Damping: Some bidders may do something to discourage the other bidders for bidding. Damping is illegal practice because it is intended to reduce the bidding price. The seller or the auctioneer can withdraw goods from auction if he smells of damping in the auction sale.

Q. 267

Distinguish between 'condition' and 'warranty' (Sale of Goods Act).

(4 marks; 2010 - Dec)

Answer:*Distinguish between Condition and Warranty

Condition	Warranty
Contract becomes invalid and void if condition is not satisfied.	Contract remains valid even if warranty is not satisfied.
It is essential for the contract.	it is not essential but desirable in the contract. It is collateral (additional security) to the main contract.
Condition can be treated as warranty by the buyer.	Warranty can not be treated as condition by the buyer.
It can be waived (ignored) by law if found impossible.	It can also be waived by law if found impossible.
In dispute, what is condition, is decided by interpretation of the term.	In dispute, what is warranty, is decided by interpretation of the term.

Q. 268

What will be the consequences when goods are sold by a person not the Owner and without Owner's consent. (4 marks; 2008 - Dec)

Answer:

The buyer gets no title of goods because the seller has no title of goods sold by him. However, if the owner has by his conduct not denied the seller's authority to sell, the sale would be treated as valid.

Q. 269

Comment on the following statements based on legal provisions:

(a) An hirer, who obtains possession of a car from its owner under a hire purchase agreement, sells the car to a buyer who buys in good faith and without notice of the right of the owner. The buyer gets good title to the car. (2 marks; 2009 - June)

Answer:

According to the Sale of Goods Act, It is implied condition of sale that only owner can sell the goods. It is expressed in the Latin phrase as ' Nemo dat quod qui non habet.' which means that "none can give who does not himself possess." A hirer is not the owner of the goods and does not possess title of the goods. Since sale involves transfer of ownership and a hirer, being a non-owner, cannot transfer ownership in the given case, buyer shall not get a good title.

Q. 273

"Only the owner of goods can transfer a good title-none else" but there are some exception. Can you cite at least 2 such exceptions with detailed provision. (4 marks; 2011 - June)

Answer:

- According to the Sale of Goods Act, It is implied condition of sale that only owner can sell the goods. It is expressed in the Latin phrase as 'Nemo dat quod quoniam habet.' which means that "none can give who does not himself possess."
 There is one exception to this rule in case of future goods. Future goods means goods to be manufactured or produced or acquired by the seller after the making of contract of sale. As rule, any person may sell or offer for sale goods of which he is not the owner at present, but which he expects to acquire in due course of time.
- A contract to sell oil not yet extracted from the refineries owned by him or not yet obtained from pressing of seeds in his possession is a contract for sale of future goods. Any contract for present sale of future goods, constitutes as an agreement to sell. There are many examples, some of them are given below:
  - (i) Sale by mercantile agent: (mercantile means commercial or trade). The commercial agent of owner can sell the goods on behalf of owner though the commercial agent is not the owner of goods. The buyer gets valid title on goods purchased from agent.
  - (ii) Sale by one of the joint owners: The goods can be sold by any of joint owners provided that the joint owners give permission in this regard.
  - (iii) Sale by seller who is in possession of goods after sale.
  - (iv) Sale by unpaid seller, sale by finder of goods, sale by official receiver or liquidator.
  - (v) Sale by pawnee,

Q. 277

Comment on the following based on legal provisions:

(a) Parties to a contract of sale can get the price of goods fixed by third parties.

(2 marks; 2013 - June)

Answer:

Agreement to sell at valuation:

- Sometimes the goods to be sold is such that either the seller or the buyer is not able to determine and decide its price.
In such cases both the parties make a contract that value of goods will be determined or valued by a third party who is expert in such field.
- Thus there is an agreement to sell goods on the terms that the price is to be fixed by valuation of third party.
- The third party should have no interest in the contract except for fixation of price.

If that third party does not fix the price because of any reason of its own, the contract becomes void for non fixation of price consideration. If the buyer has taken or used any part of goods or the whole goods, the buyer should pay a reasonable price, what is reasonable price will depend on facts and figures of each case.

Q. 278

Transfer of Title to goods takes place when it is intended. Whether it is correct?

(2 marks; 2013 - June)

Answer:

It should be noted that transfer of property in goods is distinct and different from delivery or possession of goods. The property may pass from the seller to buyer even without delivery of goods.

It is elementary (basic) law of contract that parties may fix the time when the property (ownership) in goods shall be deemed to have passed. It may be at the time of delivery of goods, or it may be at the time making final payment or even at the time of making of goods.

The seller can sue for price only when the property in goods has passed to the buyer.

- (i) He has authority to sale goods.

Q. 280

A non owner can convey a better title to the bonafide purchaser of goods for value in certain cases. List out those cases. (6 marks; 2013 - Dec)

Answer:

Sale by person not the owner:

Where goods are sold by a person who is not the owner thereof and who does not sell them under the authority or with the consent of the owner, the buyer acquires no better title to the goods than the seller had, unless the owner of the goods is by conduct precluded the seller's authority from denying the seller's authority to sell.

Generally the owner alone can transfer property in goods "nemo dat quod non habet" means that no one can give what he himself does not have.

- It means a non owner cannot make valid transfer of property in goods. If the title of the seller is defective, the buyer's title will also be subject to same defect. If the seller has no title, the buyer does not acquire any title although he might have acted honestly and might have acquired the goods after due payment. This rule is to protect the real owner of the goods.

Though this doctrine seeks to protect the interest of real owners/but in the interest of the trade and commerce there must be some safeguard available to a person who acquired such goods in good faith for value; accordingly the Act provides the following exceptions to this doctrine which seeks to protect the interest of bonafide buyers.

(i)	Sale by mercantile agent (Section 27)	Where a mercantile agent is, with the consent of the owner, in possession of the goods or of a document of title to the goods, any sale made by him, when acting in the ordinary course of business of a mercantile agent, shall be as valid as if he were expressly authorized by the owner of the goods to make the sale, provided that the buyer acts in good faith and he has not noticed at the time of the contract of sale that the seller has no authority to sell.
(ii)	Sale by one of joint owners (Section 28)	If one of several joint owners of goods has the sole possession of the goods by permission of the co-owners, the property (means ownership) in the goods is transferred to any person who buys them of such joint owner in good faith and has not at the time of the contract of sale noticed that the seller has no authority to sell. Where there is a contract for the sale of unascertained goods, no property in the goods is transferred to the buyer unless and until the goods are sanctioned.
(iii)	Sale by person in possession under voidable contract (Section 29)	When the seller of goods has obtained possession thereof under a contract voidable under Section 19 or 19A of the Indian Contract Act, 1872 , but the contract has not rescinded at the time of the sale the buyer acquires a good title to the goods, provided he buys them in good faith and without notice of the seller's defect of title.
(iv)	Seller or buyer in possession after sale (Section 30)	Where a person, having sold goods, continues or is in possession of the goods or of the documents of title to the goods, the delivery or transfer by that person or by a mercantile agent acting for him of the goods or documents of title under any sale, pledge or other disposition thereof to any person receiving the same in good faith and without notice of the previous sale shall have the same effect as if the person making the delivery to transfer were expressly authorized by the owner of the goods to make the same.

(v)	Sale by estoppel (Section 27)	Where the owner by his conduct or omission, leads the buyer to believe that the seller has authority to sell, he is estopped from denying the fact afterwards. The buyer thus gets a better title than the seller.
(vi)	Sale by an unpaid seller after exercising his right of lien or stoppage in transit	In addition to the exceptions discussed above which are provided in various sections of the Sale of Goods Act, the following exceptions are provided in other Acts like Contract Act, Civil Procedure Code etc.
	(a) Sale by a finder of lost goods	Under Section 169 of the Contract Act, if a finder of lost goods could not reasonably find the true owner or the true owner refuses to pay the lawful charges of the finder of lost goods, the finder of lost goods can sell the goods when the goods are perishable in nature or when the lawful charges of the finder of lost goods amounts to 2/3rd of its value.
	(b) Sale by pawnee	Under Section 176 of the Indian Contract Act, a pawnee can sell the goods under certain circumstances with due notice to the owner.
	(c) Sale by official receiver or assignee	In case of insolvency of any individual his official receiver or liquidator of a company can sell the goods and buyer thereof gets good title to it.
	(d) Execution of Sale	Under order 21 of the Civil Procedure Code, officer of Court may sell goods and convey good title to the buyer inspite of the fact that the officer of Court is not the true owner of the goods.

- (ii) Where the buyer elects to treat the breach of condition as breach of a <sub>s</sub> warranty.

Abhishek contracts to sell Bhusan, by showing sample, certain quantity of tea described as 'Best quality Darjeeling tea. The tea when delivered matches with the sample, but it is not Darjeeling tea. Referring to the provisions of Sale of Goods Act, 1930 advise the remedy, if any, available to Bhusan. (3 marks; 2014- Dec)

Answer:

Sale by sample is described in Sec. 17 of the Sale of Goods Act, 1930. A contract of sale is a contract for sale by sample where there is a term in the contract, express or implied, to that effect. In the case of a contract for sale by sample there is an implied condition-

- That the bulk shall correspond with the sample in quality.
- That they shall have a reasonable opportunity of comparing the bulk with the sample.
- That the goods shall be free from any defect, rendering them un-merchantable, which would not be apparent on reasonable examination of the goods.

In a contract for sale of brand by sample, Bhusan is entitled to return the tea and claim refund of money as there is breach of condition.

State your views on the following:

- (a) Consideration for sale of goods must be in terms of money.
- (b) In an auction sale, a bid once made can not be withdrawn by the bidder.

(2 marks each; 2016 - June)

Answer:

- (a) Correct: It is one of the essentials of the contract of sale, that price must be paid in terms of money.
- (b) Incorrect: The bidder can withdraw his bid any time before the fall of the hammer i.e., completion of sale.

Q. 284

What are the consequences of 'destruction of goods' under the Sale of Goods Act, 1930, where the goods have been destroyed after the agreement to sell but before the sale is affected.

(4 marks; 2016 - Dec)

Answer:

Destruction of Goods-Consequences:

- (i) As per Section 7, a contract for the sale of specific goods is void if at the time when the contract was made; the goods without the knowledge of the seller, perished or become so damaged as no longer to answer to their description in the contract. The rule is based on ground of mutual mistake or impossibility of performance, which is one of the essentials of a valid contract.
- (ii) Section 8 provides that an agreement to sell specific goods becomes void if subsequently the goods, without any fault on the part of the seller or buyer, perish or become so damaged as no longer to answer to their description in agreement before the risk passes to the buyer. This rule is also based on the ground of impossibility of performance as stated above.

It may, however, be noted that Section 7 and 8 apply only to specific goods and not to unascertained goods. If the agreement is to sell a certain quantity of unascertained goods, the perishing of even the whole quantity of such "goods" in the possession of the seller will not relieve him of his obligation to deliver the goods. -Space to write important points for revision-

Q. 285

What do you understand by "Caveat-Emptor" under the sale of Goods Act, 1930? What are the exceptions to this rule?

(8 marks; 2017 - Dec)

Answer:

As per Sec. 16 of the Sale of Goods Act, the buyer is supposed to satisfy himself about the quality of goods he purchased and is also charged with the responsibility of seeing that the goods suit the purpose for which they were purchased by him. Later on if the goods does not turn out to be as per his purpose, the seller cannot be asked to compensate him. This is based on the famous doctrine of CAVEAT EMPTOR which means 'let the buyer beware'.

However, there are some exceptions to this which are as under:

- (a) Where the buyer, expressly or by implication, makes it known to the seller the particular purpose for which the goods are required, so as to show that the buyer relies on the seller's skill or judgment, and the goods are of a description which is in the course of the seller's business to supply (whether he is the manufacturer or producer or not), there is an implied condition that the goods shall be reasonably be fit for such purpose. However, in the case of a contract for the sale of a specified article under its patent or other trade name, there are no implied conditions as to its fitness for any particular purpose.

(b) Where goods are bought by description from a seller who deals in goods of that description (whether he is the manufacturer or producer or not), there is an implied condition that the goods shall be of merchantable quality. However, if the buyer has examined the goods, there shall be no implied conditions as regards defects which such examination ought to have revealed.

In order to apply the implied condition as to merchantability the following requirements must be satisfied.

- (i) The seller should be dealer in goods of that description;
- (ii) The buyer must have not opportunity to examine the goods or there must be some latent defect in the goods which would not be apparent on reasonable examination of the same.

It may be noted the term merchantability has not been defined in the Act. As per English Sale of Goods Act, goods of any kind are merchantable quality if they are as fit for the purpose or purposes for which goods of that kind are commonly brought as it is reasonable to expect having regard to any description applied to them, the price and all other relevant circumstances.

(c) An implied warranty or condition as to quality or fitness for a particular purpose may be annexed by the usage of trade. In some cases the purpose for which the goods are required may be ascertained from the acts and conducts of the parties to the sale or from the nature of the description of the article purchased. For example if a hot water bottle is purchased, the purpose for which it is purchased is implied in the thing itself. In such a case the buyer need not tell the seller the purpose for which the bottle is purchased. Similarly if a thermometer is purchased in common usage, the purpose of thermometer is well known, the buyer need not tell the seller, (d) An express warranty or conditions does not negative a warranty or condition implied by this Act unless inconsistent therewith.

Answer:

- The goods have reached its destination and are in the possession of station master who is supposed to deliver goods to Mr. Sham.

Answer:

Mr. Bose should pay the price. When the goods were specified by Bose and price was also settled, the contract was complete and the title of chairs was passed to Bose from the seller. Those chairs were kept as reserved for Bose and the seller was simply keeping the custody of the chairs on behalf of Bose. The seller is entitled to demand and receive the price of chairs.

Answer:

(a) The goods has reached its destination and the seller Malhotra has no right of stoppage in transit as the transit is over at Kolkata. Paul has become insolvent hence he cannot make any payments. Malhotra cannot act as an unpaid seller because the buyer is not capable of making any payment.

(b) Ashim can not refuse to deliver 600 kgs. of wheat to Chandan. Sec. 53 of The Sale of Goods Act, 1930 provides that seller (i.e. Ashim) loses his right of lien, if he has assented to the sale to a subsequent buyer. By giving assent to Chandan, Ashim has lost his right of lien.

(c) The seller should deliver the potatoes in good condition which he has not done. The buyer has right to ask for good quality and correct quantity of potatoes. As per Sale of Goods Act 1930, the seller should pay for the rotten potatoes.

The quantity indicates that food stuff was not for personal consumption and for commercial purposes. Hence Mr. Joshi cannot take the plea of "implied condition of fitness". The doctrine of 'Caveat Emptor' would apply and Mr. Joshi does not have a case.

'A', the buyer ordered a patent smoke consuming furnace by its Patent name for his brewery on 'B'. Furnace received was however found to be unsuitable for the purpose. Hence seller is responsible.

(2 marks; 2012 - Dec)

Answer:

The seller is not responsible because he has supplied the goods as per the orders and specifications of buyer. If the buyer could not use the goods for his purpose, it is not the failure of seller. Buyer should have been careful while giving the order for the goods, whether such goods would serve his purpose or not.

Mr. Barun tells Mr. Tarun in presence of Mr. Arun that he is the Agent of Arun who maintains silence instead of denying Barun's statement. Later on Barun sells Arun's Goods to Mr. Tarun. Sec. 27 of Sale of Goods Act provides that where the owner by his conduct or omission, leads the buyer to believe that the seller has right and/or authority to sell, he is stopped from denying the fact afterwards. The buyer thus gets better title than the seller. This is case of sale by estoppels.

(a) On 01.02.2013 M/s Wholeseller indicated his unwillingness to supply cotton shirt @ 300/- per shirt although there is time up to 31.05.2013 for performance of the contract.

(b) Where Mr. Malhotra having sold goods continues in possession thereof or documents of title to the goods, the delivery by such seller i.e., Mr. Malhotra will pass a good title to Mr. Roy, since Mr. Roy acted on good faith and without notice of the previous sale by paying the value (Sec. 30)

Where however Mr. Malhotra keeps the goods as Mr. Basu's bailee, this section shall not apply (Sec. 30) In these circumstances Mr. Roy can sue Mr. Malhotra

Answer:

Agent's Authority in an emergency: As per Section 189 of the Indian Contract Act, 1872.

An agent has the authority in an emergency to do all such acts as a man of ordinary prudence (means carefulness, wisdom) would do for protecting his principal from losses which the principal would have done under similar circumstances.

A typical case is where the agent handling perishable goods like 'apples' can decide the time, date and place of sale, not necessary as per instructions of the principal, with the intention of protecting the principal from losses.

Here the agent acts in an emergency and act as a man of ordinary prudence.

In the given case, Soman had acted in an emergency situation and Raman will not succeed against him.

Q. 303

Mr. Z bought a refrigerator from a dealer's shop. But he did not mention the required purpose i.e., whether it is fit to make ice. After using the same, Mr. Z came to know that the refrigerator was unfit for the purpose. State giving reasons as per the provisions of The Sale of Goods Act, 1930, is the dealer liable to refund the price? (4 marks; 2014 - June)

Answer:

As per the Rule of Implied Condition, [Sec. 16 (1)]: There is no implied condition as to the quality or fitness for any particular purpose of goods supplied under a contract of sale. In other words, the buyer must satisfy himself about the quality as well as the suitability of the goods. This is expressed by the maxim caveat emptor (let the buyer beware). But there is exception to this rule of Condition as to Quality or Fitness: There is an implied Condition that the good shall be reasonably fit for a particular purpose described if the three conditions are satisfied:

- (i) The particular purpose for which goods are required must have been disclosed (expressly or impliedly) by the buyer to the seller.
- (ii) The buyer must have relied upon the seller's skill or judgment.
- (iii) The seller's business must be to sell such goods._

Note: This condition cannot be invoked against a casual seller. In the given case, Mr. Z bought a refrigerator from a dealer's shop. But he did not mention the required purpose i.e. whether it is fit to make ice. After using the same Mr. 'Z' came to know that the refrigerator was unfit for the purpose. The dealer is liable to refund the price because refrigerator was unfit for the purpose for which it was meant for and the buyer was not required to disclose this particular purpose. (Evans v. Stelle Benjamin).

Makhan, seeing a mobile phone in a showcase of a shop which was marked for sale for Rs. 2,000, enters the shop, places Rs. 2,000 on cash counter and told to give him displayed mobile. Shop owner refused. Can the shop owner refuse to sale the displayed mobile? (3 marks; 2014 - Dec)

Answer:

- Price quotations and price tags do not amount to an offer but are only an invitation to an offer.
- Therefore, Makhan's picking up the mobile with price tag of ₹ 2,000/- amounts to an offer by Makhan to purchase the same at that price.
- It remains to be accepted by the seller- the salesman at the cash counter of the mobile store, to result in a concluded contract. The salesman has every right to accept or refuse the offer.

Thus, Makhan shall have no remedies.

Q. 305

Lalit delivered sarees valuing Rs. 50,000 to Rohit on 'Sale or Return Basis'. Rohit further delivered these sarees to Sumit and Sumit to Mohit on the same terms and conditions. Subsequently, these sarees were burnt by fire while in the custody of Mohit. Lalit filed a suit against Mohit for the recovery of the price, with reference to provisions of the Sale of Goods Act, 1930, examine whether Lalit's suit for the price shall be maintainable. (4 marks; 2014 - Dec)

Answer:

In case of sale of goods on 'sale or return' basis the property in goods passes from the seller to the buyer in any of the following circumstances as per provisions given under Section 24 of the Sale of Goods Act, 1930:

- (a) When he (buyer) signifies his approval or acceptances to the seller;
- (b) Where he does any act adopting the transaction, i.e., sells or pledges the goods to a third party and,
- (c) Where he retains the goods, without giving notice of rejection, beyond the time fixed for the return of goods or beyond a reasonable time (where no time is fixed).

Thus, in the given problem, Rohit is deemed to have accepted the sarees by further transaction to Sumit and Sumit is deemed to have accepted the sarees by further transaction to Mohit. The ownership is thus vests on Sumit till Mohit approves or does any act adopting the transaction. In the meantime the sarees are burnt from the custody of Mohit, and it is assumed that Mohit has handled the sarees with due care.

Hence the loss should fall on Sumit, because at present he is the owner and risk being associated with ownership unless otherwise agreed between the parties.

RK sells 200 bales of clothes to SK and sends 100 bales by lorry and 100 bales by Railway. SK receives delivery of 100 bales sent by lorry, but before he receives the delivery of the bales sent by railway, he becomes bankrupt. RK being still unpaid, stops the goods in transit. The official receiver, on SK's insolvency claims the goods. Decide the case with reference to the provisions of the Sale of Goods Act, 1930. (4 marks; 2014 - Dec)

Answer:

Section 50, of Sale of Goods Act, states that, subject to the provisions of this Act, when the buyer of goods becomes insolvent, the unpaid seller who has parted with the possession of the goods has the right of stopping them in transit, that is to say, he may resume possession of the goods as long as they are in course of transit and retain them until payment of tender of the price. Hence the major rules applicable would be:

- (a) The seller must be unpaid
- (b) He must have parted with the possession of goods
- (c) The goods must be in transit
- (d) The buyer must have become insolvent

Applying the above provisions in the given case, we may conclude that RK being unpaid, can stop the 100 bales of cloth sent by railway as these goods are still in transit and SK has become insolvent.

Q. 307

With a view to boost the sales, M/s ABC Ltd. sells a new machine to Mr. B on trial basis for a period of three days with a condition that if Mr. B is not satisfied with the performance of the new machine, he can return back the new machine. However, the machine was destroyed in a fire accident at the place of Mr. B before the expiry of three days. Decide whether Mr. B is liable for the loss suffered under Sale of Goods Act, 1930. (3 marks; 2015 - June)

Answer:

The problem as asked in the question is based on the provisions of the Sale of Goods Act, 1930 as contained in Section 8.

- Where there is an agreement to sell specific goods and subsequently the goods without any fault on the part of the seller or buyer perish or become so damaged as no longer to answer to their description in the agreement before treriskpasses to the buyer, the agreement is thereby avoided.

In the given case that the subject matter of the contract i.e., new machine was destroyed before the transfer of property from the seller to the buyer. Thus the risk passes only when the ownership is transferred to the buyer.

- Therefore, in the present case Mr. B is not liable for the loss suffered due to the fire accident over which B has no control.

Thus M/s. ABC LtcLwill have to bear whatever loss that has taken place due to the fire accident.

Answer the questions:

(a) For the purpose of making uniform for the employees, Amit bought dark blue coloured cloth from Bhagat, but did not disclose to the seller the purpose of said purchase. When uniforms were prepared and used by the employees, the cloth was found unfit. However, there was evidence that the cloth was fit for caps, boots and carriage lining. Advise Amit whether he is entitled to have any remedy under the Sale of Goods Act, 1930? (3 marks; 2015 - Dec)

(b) Mahendra made a hire-purchase agreement with Narendra for a car of which Narendra was described as the owner. Mahendra paid four of the twelve monthly instalments and then learnt that Jitendra claimed to be the owner of the car. He nevertheless paid the balance of instalment and exercised his option to purchase. Jitendra then demanded the car and Mahendra gave it up to him. Mahendra then sued Narendra to recover the full price and Narendra counter claimed for a reasonable sum as hiring charges for the car during the period it was with Mahendra. Decide.

(3 marks; 2015 - Dec)

Answer:

(a) As per the provision of Section 16(1) of the Sale of Goods Act, 1930, an implied condition in a contract of sale is that an article is fit for a particular purpose only arises when the purpose for which the goods are supplied is known to the seller, the buyer relied on the seller's skills or judgement and seller deals in the goods in his usual course of business.

- In this case, the cloth supplied is capable of being applied to a variety of purposes, the buyer should have told the seller the specific purpose for which he required the goods. But he did not do so.
- Therefore, the implied condition as to the fitness for the purpose does not apply.

Hence, the buyer will not succeed in getting any remedy from the seller under the Sale of Goods Act [Jones v. Padgett. 14 Q.B.D. 650].

(b) The "Nemo dat quod non habet" rule protects the true owner (Jitendra) and the buyer (Mahendra) who was aware of Narendra's defective rights after paying the fourth installments, would not get any right or title out of his ineffective hire purchase agreement with Narendra.

- Because Narendra was neither owner nor an authorized person to put the car on hire purchase and for the same reason, he is not entitled to receive any money under the agreement.
- However, Mahendra may be asked by Jitendra to pay a reasonable rent for the use of the car and Mahendra can recover the amount paid by him to Narendra.

Q. 309

Ram sells 200 bales of cloth to Shyam and sends 100 bales by lorry and 100 bales by Railway. Shyam receives delivery of 100 bales sent by lorry, but before he receives the delivery of the bales sent by railway, he becomes bankrupt. Ram being still unpaid, stops the goods in transit. The official receiver, on Shyam's insolvency claims the goods. Decide the case with reference to the provisions of the Sale of Goods Act, 1930. (5 marks; 2016 - June)

Answer:

Section 50 of the Sale of Goods Act, states that, subject to the provisions of this Act, when the buyer of goods becomes insolvent, the unpaid seller who has parted with the possession of the goods has the right of stopping them in transit, that is to say, he may resume possession of the goods as long as they are in course of transit and retain them until payment of tender of the price.

Hence the major rules applicable would be:

- (a) The seller must be unpaid
- (b) He must have parted with the possession of goods
- (c) The goods must be in transit
- (d) The buyer must have become insolvent

Applying the above provisions in the given case, we may conclude that Ram being unpaid, can stop the 100 bales of cloth sent by railway as these goods are still in transit.

Q. 310

Answer the questions:

(a) A delivered some diamonds to B on sale or return basis. B delivered the diamonds to C and C to D on similar terms. The diamonds were stolen while in the custody of D. Who shall suffer the loss?

(5 marks; 2016 - Dec)

(b) X buys synthetic pearls for a high price thinking that they are natural pearls. The seller though understood X's intention, kept silent. Examine the remedies X has against the seller as per the Sale of Goods Act, 1930.

(3 marks; 2016 - Dec)

Answer:

(a) In this case, B has adopted the transaction by delivering the diamonds to C and thus is liable to pay the price to A. Similarly C has adopted the transaction by further delivery to D and thus is liable to pay the price to B. As between C and D, the transaction was still of sale or return which was not adopted by D, either expressly or impliedly, and thus the ownership had not passed to D at the time of loss. Therefore, C shall suffer the loss of diamonds,

(b) X has no remedy against the seller as the doctrine of Caveat Emptor will apply: "Caveat emptor" means "let the buyer beware", i.e. in sale of goods the seller is under no duty to reveal unflattering truths about the goods sold. Therefore, when a person buys some goods, he must examine them thoroughly. If the goods turn out to be defective or do not suit his purpose, or if he depends upon his skill and judgment and makes a bad selection, he cannot blame anybody excepting himself.

The rule is enunciated in the opening words of Section 16 of the Sale of Goods Act, 1930 which runs thus, "Subject to the provisions of this Act and of any other law for the time being in force, there is no implied warranty or condition, as to the quality or fitness for any particular purpose of goods supplied under a contract of sale".

Q. 311

M/s. Tea Enterprises agreed to supply 2,200 Kgs. of Tea to M/s. Gopal Enterprises at Rs. 1200/- per Kg. by 30th April, 2018 . On 1st March, 2018 M/s. Tea Enterprises informs Gopal Enterprises that they are not willing to supply the Tea as the price of Tea increased to Rs. 1400/- per Kg.

Examine the right of M/s. Gopal Enterprises.

(8 marks; 2018 - June)

Answer:

In terms of the provisions of Sections 32 and 33 of the Sale of Goods Act, 1930; unless otherwise agreed, delivery of the goods and payment of the price are concurrent conditions, that is to say, the seller shall be ready and willing to give possession of the goods to the buyer in exchange for the price, and the buyer shall be ready and willing to pay the price in exchange for possession of the goods.

Rights of the Buyer according to the Sale of Goods Act, 1930 include:

- (1) To have delivery of the goods as per contract. (Sections 31 and 32);
- (2) To sue the seller for recovery of the price, if already paid, when the seller fails to deliver the goods;
- (3) To sue the seller for damages if the seller wrongfully neglects or refuses to deliver the goods to the buyer (Sec. 57);
- (4) To sue the seller for specific performance;
- (5) To sue the seller for damages for breach of a warranty or for breach of a condition treated as breach of a warranty (Sec. 59);
- (6) To sue the seller the damages for anticipatory breach of contract (Sec. 60)

In the instant case M/s. Gopal Enterprises can exercise any of his rights discussed above.

Q. 312

Himadri sells 400 Kgs. of tea to Rahul and sends 200 Kgs. by lorry and 200 Kgs. by Railway. Rahul receives delivery of 200 Kgs. sent by lorry, but before he receives the delivery of the tea sent by railway, he becomes bankrupt. Himadri being still unpaid, stops the goods in transit. The official receiver, on Rahul's insolvency claims the goods. Decide the case with reference to the provisions of the Sale of Goods Act, 1930. (7 marks; 2019 - June)

Answer:

Section 50, of Sale of Goods Act, states that, subject to the provisions of this Act, when the buyer of goods becomes insolvent, the unpaid seller who has parted with the possession of the goods has the right of stopping them in transit, that is to say, he may resume possession of the goods as long as they are in course of transit and retain them until payment of tender of the price.

Stoppage in transit (Sections 50-52):

The right of stoppage in transit is a right of stopping the goods while they are in transit, resuming possession of them and retaining possession until payment or tender of the price.

The right to stop goods is available to an unpaid seller

- (i) When the buyer becomes insolvent; and
- (ii) The goods are in transit.

The buyer is insolvent if he has ceased to pay his debts in the ordinary course of business, or cannot pay his debts as they become due. It is not necessary that he has actually been declared insolvent by the court.

The goods are in transit from the time they are delivered to a carrier or other bailee like a wharfinger or warehouse keeper for the purpose of transmission to the buyer and until the buyer takes delivery of them.

The transit comes to an end in the following cases:

- (i) If the buyer obtains delivery before the arrival of the goods at their destination
- (ii) If, after the arrival of the goods at their destination, the carrier acknowledges to the buyer that he holds the goods on his behalf, even if further destination of the goods is indicated by the buyer
- (iii) If the carrier wrongfully refuses to deliver the goods to the buyer. Applying the above provisions in the given case, we may conclude that Himadri being unpaid, can stop the 200 Kgs. of tea sent by railway as these goods are still in transit and Rahul has become insolvent.

Q. 2

Who is a Partner by “Holding Out” or “Estoppels”?

(2 marks; 2013 - Dec)

Answer:

It any person behaves and/or poses or presents in such a way that others consider him to be a partner, he will be held liable to those persons who have been misled, suffered or lent finance to the firm on assumption that he is a partner. Such a person is known as "Partner by Holding out or Estoppels." He is not a true partner and he is not entitled to any share in the profit in the firm.

Q. 3

What tests would apply for determining the existence of partnership? Discuss.

(3 marks; 2015 - June)

Answer:

- As must be clear from the discussion of various elements of partnership, there is no single test of partnership.
- For example, in one case there may be sharing of profits but may not be any business, in the other case there may be business but there may not be sharing of profits, in yet another case there may be both business and sharing of profits but the relationship between persons sharing the profits may not be that of principal and agent. And in either case, therefore, there is no partnership.

- Thus, all the essential elements of partnership must coexist in order to constitute a partnership.
- To emphasize this fact, Section 6 expressly provides that “in determining whether a group of persons is or is not a firm or whether a person is or is not a partner in a firm, regard shall be given to the real relation between the parties, as shown by all relevant facts taken together.”
- Thus, the existence of partnership has to be determined with reference to the real intention of the parties, which must be gathered from all the facts of the case and the surrounding circumstances.

Q. 4

State your views on the following:

- (a) A partner is not an agent of other partners in a partnership firm. (2 marks; 2016 - June)

Answer:

Incorrect: The basis of the partnership is mutual agency, hence a partner is an agent of all other partners.

Q. 5

What are the rights of outgoing partners?

(9 marks; 2017 - June)

Answer:

Rights of outgoing partners

Section 36 provides that an outgoing partner may carry on a business competing with that of the firm. He may advertise such business, but, subject to contract to the contrary, he may not:

- use the firm name;
- represent himself as carrying on the business of the firm; or
- Solicit the custom of persons who were dealing with the firm before he ceased to be a partner.

Section 37 provides that in case where a partner has died or ceased to be a partner, the surviving and continuing partners may carry on the business of the firm with the property of the firm without any final settlement of accounts as between them and the outgoing partner or the estate of deceased partner. In the absence of a contract to the contrary, the outgoing partner or the representative of the deceased partner is entitled at the option:

- to such share of the profits made since he ceased to be a partner as may be attributable to the use of his share of the property of the firm; or
- To interest at 6% per annum on the amount his share in the property of the firm.

Where an option is given to surviving or continuing partners to purchase the interest of a deceased or outgoing partner and the same is duly exercised, the estate of the deceased partner or the outgoing partner is not entitled to any further or other share of profits. But if any partner, assuming to act in exercise of the option, does not, in all material respects comply with the terms, he is liable to account under the provisions of this section.

Q. 6

A, B and C were partner in a firm of drapers. The partnership deed authorized the expulsion of a partner when he was found guilty of flagrant breach of duty. A was convicted of travelling without ticket. On this ground, he was expelled by the other partners B and C. Is the expulsion justified?

(3 marks; 2014 - June)

Answer:

Yes, the expulsion is justified. In this case, the partnership deed authorized expulsion on the ground of flagrant breach of duty. Doing an act which brings a partner within the penalties of criminal law is flagrant breach of duty. Also, the expulsion decision was taken by majority of partners (Carmichel Vs. Evans (1904) 90 LT573).

Q. 7

A, B, C are partners in a firm. As per terms of the partnership deed, A is entitled to 20% of the partnership property and profits. A retires from firm and dies after 15 days. B, C continue business of the firm without settling accounts. What are the rights of A's legal representatives against the firm under the Indian Partnership Act, 1932? (3 marks; 2014 - Dec)

Answer:

Section 37 of the Indian Partnership Act, 1932 provides that where a partner dies or otherwise ceases to be a partner and there is no final settlement of account between the legal representatives of the deceased partner or the firms with the property of the firm, then in the absence of a contract to the contrary, the legal representatives of the deceased partner or the retired partner entitled to claim either.

- (a) such shares of the profits earned after the death or retirement of the partner which is attribute to the use of his share in the property of the firm; or
- (b) Interest at the rate of 6 per cent per annum on the amount of his share in the property.

Based on the aforesaid provisions of the Section 37 of the Indian Partnership Act, 1932 in the given problem, A's representative, at his option, can claim:

- (i) The 20% shares of profits (as per the partnership deed); or
- (ii) Interest at the rate of 6 per cent per annum on the amount of A's share in the property.

Q. 8

(a) Rohit and Anurag are partners in a firm. They borrowed a sum of Rs. 10,000 from Parul. Later on, Rohit becomes insolvent but his assets are sufficient to payback the loan. Parul compels Anurag for the payment of entire loan. Referring to the provisions of the Indian Partnership Act, 1932, examine the validity of Parul's claim and decide as to who may be held liable for the above loan.

(3 marks; 2015 - June)

(b) Arun, Varun and Tarun started a Kirana business in Chennai on 1st January, 2012 for a period of five years. The business resulted in a loss of Rs. 20,000 in the first year, Rs. 25,000 in the second year and Rs. 35,000 in the third year, Varun and Tarun wish to dissolve the firm while Arun wants to continue the business. Advise Varun and Tarun. (2 marks; 2015 - June)

Answer:

(a) The present problem is concerned with the contractual liability of the Partners. As stated in the Section 25 of the Indian Partnership Act, 1932, in partnership the liability of the partners is unlimited.

- The share of each partner in the partnership property along with his private property is liable for the discharge of partnership liabilities.
- The liability of the partners is not only unlimited but is also stated that a partner is both jointly and severally liable to third parties.
- However, every partner is liable jointly with other partner and also severally for the acts of the firm done while he is a partner.
- On the basis of above provisions, Parul can compel Anurag for the payment of entire loan. Anurag must pay the said loan and then he can recover the share of Rohit's loan from his property.

(b) As per provisions of Sec. 44(f) of Indian Partnership Act, 1932, Varun and Tarun are advised to make a petition to the Court for the dissolution of the firm on the ground that the firm cannot be carried on except at a loss. Since the firm was constituted for fixed term of five years it cannot be dissolved without the consent of all the partners and as such Varun and Tarun cannot compel Arun to dissolve the firm.

Q. 9

Akash, Ashish and Anil were partners in a firm. By his willful neglect and misconduct Anil caused serious loss to the business of the firm. After several warnings to Anil, Akash and Ashish passed a resolution expelling Anil from the firm. By another resolution they admitted Abhishek as a partner in place of Anil. Anil objects to his expulsion as also to the admission of Abhishek. Is he justified in his objections? (3 marks; 2015 - Dec)

Answer:

- A partner may be expelled from a firm by majority of the partners only if,
  - (a) The power to expel has been conferred by contract between the partners, and
  - (b) Such a power has been exercised in good faith for the benefit of the firm.
- The partner who is being expelled must be given reasonable notice and opportunity to explain his position and to remove the cause of his expulsion.
Yes, Anil is justified in his objections.
- In the absence of an express agreement authorizing expulsion, the expulsion of a partner is not proper and is without any legal effect.
- [Section 33(1)] Anil's objection to the admission of Abhishek is also justified as a new partner can be admitted only with the consent of all the partners.[Section 31 (i)]

Q. 10

Mayur and Nupur purchased a taxi to ply it in partnership. They had done business for about a year when Mayur, without the consent of Nupur, disposed of the taxi. Nupur brought an action to recover his share in the sale proceeds. 'Mayur's only defence was that the firm was not registered. Will Nupur succeed in her suit? (3 marks; 2015 - Dec)

Answer:

As per Section 69(3) of Indian Partnership Act, the term set off may be defined as the adjustment of debts by one party due to him from the other party who files a suit against him. It is another disability of the partners and of an unregistered firm that it cannot claim a set-off when a suit is filed against it.

Yes, Nupur will succeed in her suit. As the business had been closed on the sale of the taxi, the suit in the question is for claiming share of the assets of a dissolved firm.

Section 69(3) specially protects the right of a partner of an unregistered firm to sue for the realization of the property of a dissolved firm.

Q. 11

ABC & Co., a firm consists of three partners A, B and C having one- third share each in the firm. According to A and B, the activities of C are not in the interest of the partnership and thus want to expel C from the firm. Advise A and B whether they can do so quoting the relevant provisions of the Indian Partnership Act. (5 marks; 2016 - June)

Answer:

Expulsion of a partner (Sec. 33):

Expulsion of a partner is another event necessitating reconstitution of a firm. A partner may be expelled from a firm if the following conditions are satisfied:

- (a) Expulsion should be as per the express provisions in the agreement;
- (b) Power of expulsion should be exercised by majority of partners;
- (c) Expulsion should be in good faith.

Only when all the above three conditions are satisfied a partner can be expelled from a firm.

As stated above expulsion should be in good faith. The test of good faith may be:

- (i) Expulsion is in the interest of the firm
- (ii) Expelled partner has been given notice
- (iii) an opportunity of being heard has been afforded to the partner.

Thus, in the given case A and B the majority partners can expel the partner only if the above conditions are satisfied and procedure as stated above has been followed. Further the invalid expulsion of a partner does not put an end to the partnership and it will be deemed to continue as before.

Q. 12

X and Y were partners carrying on a banking business. X had committed adultery on several women in the city and his wife had left on this ground. Y applied to the court for dissolution of the firm on this ground. Will he succeed? (5 marks; 2016 - Dec)

Answer:

As per Section 44(c) of Indian Partnership Act, 1932 sometimes, a partner is guilty of misconduct. When the Court is satisfied that the misconduct adversely affect the partnership business the Court may allow the dissolution of the firm. Y will not succeed. In this case, though X is guilty of misconduct but his misconduct does not have any adverse affect on their business as bankers [Snow v. Milform (1868) 18LT142].

In the above case, the Court observed that how can it be said that a man's money is less safe because one of the partner commits adultery. It was further observed that in those cases where the moral conduct of a partner would affect the firm business, it can be a ground for dissolution of the firm. e.g. where a medical man had entered into partnership with another and it was found that his conduct was very immoral towards some of his patients, the firm can be dissolved on the ground of misconduct by the partner.

Q. 26

Define Partnership

Q. 27

What is Partnership deed

Q. 28

Differentiate between -

- (a) Partnership and Club
- (b) Partnership and Co-ownership

Q. 29

Explain briefly kinds of partners.

Q. 30

State with reason whether the following statement is correct or incorrect:

A money lender getting a share in the profits of the firm for the sum lent is a partner in the firm.

(2 marks; 1994 - Nov)

Answer:

Incorrect: Sharing of profits is an important condition of partnership but this is not the only test of partnership. According to the explanation II to Section 6 of the Partnership Act, lenders who are given a share in the profits do not automatically become partners of the debtor firm.

Q. 31

State with reason whether the following statement is correct or incorrect:

Sharing of profits of a business is conclusive evidence of partnership.

(2 marks; 1995 - May)

Answer:

Correct: Section 19(2) of the Indian Partnership Act, provides that in the absence of any usage or custom of trade to the contrary, the implied authority of a partner does not empower him to enter into partnership on behalf of the firm.

Q. 32

State with reason whether the following statement is correct or incorrect:

A partner, whether active or dormant, is entitled to have access to any of the books of the firm and take out a copy thereof.

(2 marks; 1996 - May)

Answer:

Correct: Section 12(d) of the Indian Partnership Act, 1932 states that every partner has a right to have access to and to inspect and copy any of the books of the firm. This right may be exercised by himself or by his agent and it must be bonafide.

Q. 33

State with reason whether the following statement is correct or incorrect:

Sharing of profits is conclusive evidence of partnership.

(2 marks; 1997 - May)

Answer:

Incorrect: Although sharing of profit is a prima facie evidence of establishment of partnership, it is not a conclusive proof. Existence of an agreement, business and mutual agency are also required along with the sharing of profits for the determination of partnership.

Q. 34

State with reason whether the following statements are correct or incorrect:

(i) Where two persons jointly run a coach and share the profits derived from running such business constitute partnership business? (2 marks; 1998 - Nov)

(ii) A partnership may be formed with two partnership firms as partners. (2 marks; 1998 - Nov)

Answer:

(i) Incorrect: It is not partnership but co-ownership. The sharing of profits or of gross returns accruing from property by persons holding joint or common interest in a property would not by itself make such persons as partners because there is no mutual agency.

(ii) Incorrect: According to Section 4 of the Indian Partnership Act, the term 'person' does not include a firm. This is because a firm is not a separate legal entity. Therefore, two partnership firms cannot enter into partnership.

Q. 35

State with reason whether the following statement is correct or incorrect:

The test of existence of partnership is the element of 'sharing of profits' rather than 'mutual agency'.

(2 marks; 1999 - Nov)

Answer:

Incorrect: Sharing of profits is an essential element to constitute a partnership. But it is only a prima facie evidence and not conclusive evidence in that regard. Existence of mutual agency, is the cardinal principle of partnership law. Each partner carrying on the business is the principal as well as an agent of other partners. So, the act of one partner done on behalf of the firm binds all the partners (Section 6, Indian Partnership Act, 1932).

Q. 36

Write short note on Sub-partnership.

(4 marks; 1994 - Nov)

Answer:

Sub-partnership: This is a partnership within a main partnership. Where one of the members of a firm, agrees to share the profits received by him with a stranger, there arises what is called a 'sub-partnership' between such third person and the partner. Such a third party is in no sense a partner in the original firm and has no right of recourse against the it. Also, such partners are not counted for the limits of partners in a firm. His rights and liabilities are only referable to the contract with the main partner. A sub-partner is a transferee within the meaning of Section 29 of the Partnership Act (Venkataraman (v) Venkataram (1944).

Q. 37

Write short note on: "Partnership at will".

(4 marks; 1995 - May)

Answer:

Partnership at will: The definition of partnership at will has been given under Section 7 of the Partnership Act, 1932. It lays down that where no provision is made by contract between the partners for the duration of their partnership, or for the determination of their partnership, the partnership is "Partnership at will". Accordingly a partnership is deemed to be a partnership at will when:

- (i) No fixed period has been agreed upon for the duration of partnership, and

- (ii) There is no provision made as to the determination of the partnership in any other way. Such partnership has no fixed date of termination therefore, death or retirement of a partner does not affect the existence of such partnership.

Section 43(1) provides that “where the partnership is at will, the firm may be dissolved by any partner giving notice in writing to all the other partners of his intention to dissolve the firm”. The firm is dissolved from the date of notice or date of communication of the notice.

However, if the freedom to dissolve the firm at will is curtailed by agreement, say, if the agreement provides that the partnership can be dissolved by a mutual consent of all the partners only, it will not constitute a ‘partnership at will’.

Q. 38

Write short note on: Doctrine of “Holding Out”.

(4 marks; 1995 - Nov)

Answer:

Doctrine of “Holding Out”: The doctrine of ‘holding out’ is based on the principle of ‘estoppel’ which says that where a person by his words or conduct has wilfully led another person to believe that certain set of circumstances or facts exists, and that other person has acted on that belief, then he is estopped from denying the truth of such statements subsequently. The doctrine of holding out also requires certain type of affirmative or positive act on the part of the person being represented.

Thus if a person either by his conduct or statement leads another person to believe that a certain person is his agent, then he is estopped from saying that such a person is not his agent. The idea here is to protect the interests of persons who acted in good faith.

The doctrine of ‘holding out’ is applicable in the case of partnership also. Section 28 of the Indian Partnership Act imposes liability on such person who is not partner but knowingly by statement, whether oral or written or by conduct makes another person to believe that he is a partner and the another person, in good faith and believing on such statement or conduct enters into a contract or transaction with the firm.

Q. 39

Write short note on: “Particular partnership”.

(5 marks; 1996 - Nov)

Answer:

Particular partnership: According to Section 8 of the Indian Partnership Act, 1932, a person may become a partner with another person in particular adventures or undertakings. Thus, where persons enter into an agreement constituting a partnership limited to joint trading adventure, and goods are purchased, ostensibly by an individual adventurer but truly and substantially for the purpose of the joint adventure, the adventurers are liable as partners, but there is no such responsibility for goods purchased before the partnership agreement upon the credit of an individual adventurer, though they are afterwards brought into stock as his contribution to the joint adventure. It need hardly be stated that all the requisites of a partnership must be present before a transaction between two persons limited to a single adventure is held to be a partnership. In this case even a single adventure may constitute a business, as defined under Section 2(b) for the purpose a partnership business.

Where an adventure becomes illegal, such partnership must be dissolved. [Section 42(b)].

Q. 40

Write short note on: “Actual partner and sub-partner”.

(5 marks; 1999 - May)

Answer:

Actual partner and sub-partner: A person who becomes a partner, by an agreement and is actively engaged in the conduct of the business of the partnership is known as the actual partner. He is the agent of the other partner in the ordinary course of the business of the firm. He binds himself and the other partners, so far as third parties are concerned, for all the acts which he does in the ordinary course of the business and in the name of the firm. Whereas when a partner agrees to share his profits derived from the firm with a third person, that third person is known as a sub-partner. A subpartner is in no way connected with the firm and cannot represent himself as a partner of the firm. He has no rights against the firm nor is he liable for the acts of the firm.

Q. 41

Write short note on: "Partner by estoppels".

(5 marks; 2001 - Nov)

Answer:

Partner by estoppel: Under Section 28 of the Indian Partnership Act, 1932, when a person represents himself or knowingly permits himself to be represented as a partner in a firm (when in fact he is not) he is liable, like a partner in the firm to anyone who on the faith of such representation has given credit to the firm.

It may be noted that where a retiring partner does not give a public notice of his retirement and the continuing partners still use his name as a partner on letter-heads and bills etc., he will be personally liable, on the ground of holding out, to third parties who give credit to the firm on the faith that he is still a partner.

Q. 42

Briefly explain the difference between Partnership and a Firm.

(5 marks; 1994 - Nov)

Answer:

Difference between Partnership and a Firm: Section 4 of the Indian Partnership Act states "persons who have entered into partnership with one another are called individually "partners" and collectively "a firm" and the name under which their business is carried on is called the "firm name"". Thus, a firm is collection of partners while partnership merely an abstract legal relation between the partners. The two apparently seem to be one and the same, but are different in the following sense:

1. Partnership is a relationship which subsists between persons but a firm is a sort of entity. So the same relation of partnership exists in all the partnership firms.
2. Partnership is an invisible tie which binds the partners together and the firm is the visible form of those partners who are thus bound together.

Q. 43

Briefly explain the difference between Partnership and Joint Stock Company.

(5 marks; 1995 - Nov)

Answer:*Partnership and Joint Stock Company:

- (a) Personality: A firm is not legal entity whereas a company is a juridical person distinct from its members.
- (b) Agency: In the case of a firm, every partner is an agent of other partners as well as of the firm but in case of company, members are not agents of the company.
- (c) Profits: Profits of a firm is distributed among the partners according to deed of partnership. But in the case of company, distribution of profit is optional as the company may or may not declare dividends.
- (d) Liability: In firm, the liability of partners is unlimited but in a company, liability is always limited to the amount of shares or guarantee.
- (e) Property: Property of firm is joint estate of all the partners whereas in a company, property belongs to company and not of shareholders.
- (f) Transfer of share: In the case of partnership transfer of a partner's right is not possible without the consent of all the partners, though his interest can be assigned to a third party who has a right to share in profits but has no other rights, but in the case of a public company, share are transferable and quoted on stock exchange.
- (g) Management: In partnership management is by partners, but in a company, Board of Directors do the management, shareholders only attend in general meetings to vote.

(h) Number of members in partnership is minimum two and maximum 20 (in banking it is 10) but the case of a private company the minimum is two and maximum 50 excluding past and present employees. And in the case of a public company, it is 7 and no restriction on the maximum.

Q. 44

Briefly explain the difference between Partnership and Co-ownership. (5 marks; 1996 - May)

Answer:

Partnership and Co-ownership:

- 1. Mode of creation: Partnership is the result of an agreement. Co- ownership may or may not arise from agreement; and it may also arise by status.
- 2. Business: Necessary for partnership. Co-ownership can exist without business.
- 3. Nature of Interest: Partnership involves community of interest whereas co-ownership may not necessarily involve any such interest.
- 4. Transfer of interest: A partner cannot transfer his share to a stranger without the consent of the other partners. A co-owner can.
- 5. Number of Members: In partnership, the number of partners cannot exceed the statutory limit. In co-ownership there is no limit on maximum number.
- 6. Authority of Members: A partner is the agent of his co-partners. A coowner is not the agent of the other co-owners.
- 7. Partition of Property: A partner can not sue for the partition of partnership property in specific but he can sue his co-partners for the dissolution of the firm and accounts. A coowner can sue for the partition of the property.
- 8. Lien for expenses: A partner has a lien on the partnership property for expenses incurred by him on such property on behalf of the firm; a coowner has no such lien.

Q. 45

Briefly explain the difference between Partnership and Club. (5 marks; 1996 - Nov)

Answer:

A partnership and a Club: The two can be distinguished as below:

- 1. Definition/Meaning: A club is an association of persons formed with the object not to earn profit, but to promote some beneficial purposes such as improvement of health or providing recreation for the member etc. A partnership on the other hand is an association of persons also, but formed for earning profits from a business carried on by all or any one of them acting for all. These persons share the profit so earned as per their agreement.
- 2. Relationship: Persons forming a club are called members, while persons forming a partnership are called partners. Members of a club are not an agent for the other member's while a partner is an agent for other partners.
- 3. Interest in the property: A member of a club has no interest in the property of the club in the manner a partner has in the property of the firm.
- 4. Dissolution: A member leaving a club shall not affect the existence of the club, while retirement of a partner from the firm does effect the existence of the firm.

Q. 46

Briefly explain the difference between Partnership and an Association. (5 marks; 1997 - May)

Answer:

Distinction between a Partnership and an Association: The two terms can be distinguished on the following basis:

- (i) Meaning: Partnership means and involves setting up relation of agency between two or more persons who have entered into a business for gains, with the intention to share the profits of such a business. An association is a body of persons who have come together for mutual benefit such as resident's association of a particular area or for rendering service to the society such as a charitable or religious society say a dispensary or a temple etc.

- (ii) Sharing of profits: A partnership is set up to share the profits of a business, while an association is not set up for sharing the profits. The intention of the association is not to carry on a business by the members of the association for earning profits.
- (iii) Mutual Agency Trust: A partnership is based on mutual trust and is carried on by mutual agency, which is not so in the case of an association.
- (iv) Dissolution: Retirement or death of a particular may dissolve a firm but retirement or death of a member of an association does not dissolved the association.

Q. 47

Briefly explain the difference between Partnership and Hindu undivided family.

(5 marks; 1998 - May)

Answer:

Following are the differences between Partnership and Joint Hindu Family:

1. Creation: The relation of partnership is created necessarily by an agreement, whereas Joint Hindu Family is established by law. A person becomes a member of a Joint Hindu Family by birth.
2. Death: Death of a partner brings about dissolution of partnership. But the deaths of a member of a Joint Hindu Family does not give rise to dissolution of the family business.
3. Management: In a Joint Hindu Family, only karta has the right to manage the business. In partnership, all the partners have the right to take the part in the management of the firm.
4. Liability: The liability of partners in a partnership concern is unlimited, joint and several. The liability of members of a Joint Hindu Family except the Karta is limited only to the extent of their share in the business of the family.
5. Calling for accounts: On the partition of joint Hindu Family a member is not entitled to ask for the accounts of the family business. But a partner can bring a suit against the firm for accounts on the acquisition of the firm.
6. Governing Law: A partnership is governed by the Indian Partnership Act, 1932, while Joint Hindu Family is governed by Hindu Law.
7. Minor's Position: A minor can be a member of a Hindu Joint Family, but a minor can not be a partner in a firm. However, he can be admitted to the benefits of partnership with the consent of all the partners.

Q. 48

Briefly explain the difference between Sleeping partner and nominal partner.

(5 marks; 1998 - Nov)

Answer:

Sleeping Partner and Nominal Partner: A sleeping partner is one who is neither an active partner nor known to outsiders. In reality Tie is a partner in the firm. He contributes his share of capital and gets his share of profits, but he does not take active part in the conduct of the business of the firm. He is liable to the third parties for all the acts of the firm, whether his existence is known to the third parties at the time of making the contract.

A Nominal Partner is one who has no real interest in the business of the firm. He is not entitled to share the profits and also dose not contribute any capital. He also does not take part in the conduct of the business off the firm. He lends his name only and his name is used in the firm like an actual partner and is liable for all acts of the firm.

Q. 49

Sharing in the profits is not conclusive evidence in the creation of partnership.

(5 marks; 1995 - Nov)

Answer:

Evidence of Partnership: Partnership, generally, is an agreement (contract) between two or more competent persons to carry on some business and distribute/share the profits of such business.

Section 6 of the Indian Partnership Act prescribes the test to determine the existence of partnership. To determine whether a group of persons is a firm and its members are partners or not, their real relation must be determined on the basis of relevant facts. [Moore v. Daris (1879) 11 Ch. D. 261]. The parties to a partnership contract do not become partners simply on the basis that they have been described, in the deed, as partners. [Abdulla v. Alladia (1927) 8 Lahore, 310].

Sharing in the profits of the firm is a prima facie evidence of establishment of partnership but it is not a conclusive proof. As per the provision of Section 4 of the Indian Partnership Act, sharing of profits is not the sole determining fact. Other tests are also required to be applied. [Cox v. Hicman], A person may, in many ways share in the profits of a business without being a partner. A creditor sharing in the profits does not ipso facto become a partner.

Explanation II of Section 6 of the Indian Partnership Act also makes it clear that a creditor is not a partner. Similarly a servant, an agent, widow or child of the deceased partner, may receive a share in the profits. But they do not become partner. Thus, the real thing to be seen in such cases is whether they are participating in the business of the firm in the capacity of partners and represent each other in the said capacity. [Malomach & Co. v. Court of Wards (1872) LR 2 CP 419],

Q. 50

Law of partnership is an extension of law of agency.

(5 marks; 1998 - Nov)

Answer:

Law of partnership is an extension of law of agency: The concluding portion of the definition of partnership as given in Section 4 of the Act is very important for this quotation as it says that the business may be carried on "by all or any of them for all". Thus, it is clear that the Act does require that the business should be carried on by all or it may be carried on by any of them on behalf of all of them. This clearly establishes the implied agency, the partner who is conducting the affairs of the business is considered as agent of the remaining partners. The relationship between partners is governed by the law of agency.

Section 18 of the Partnership Act provided, "Subject to the provisions of this Act, a partner is the agent of the firm for the purposes of the business of the firm".

In carrying on the business of the firm, partners act as agents as well as principals. While the relation between the partners inter se is that of principals, they are agents of one another in relation to third parties for purposes of business-of the firm.

Every partner has a two-fold character, he is an agent of the other partners (because other partners are bound by his acts) and also he himself is the principal (because he is bound by the acts of other partners). The liability of one partner for the acts of his co-partners is in truth the liability of a principal for the acts of his agent. This concept of mutual agency is, in fact, the true test of the existence of partnership. This relationship of principal and agent distinguishes a partnership business from co-ownership, Joint Hindu family business as well as an agreement to share profits of the business.

From the above we can conclude that the law of partnership is an extension of the law of principal and agent.

Q. 51

Who may be partner of a firm?

(5 marks; 1998 - Nov)

Answer:

Section 4 of the Indian Partnership Act, defines partnership. This definition lays stress on an agreement between persons. These persons should be those, who are competent to contract as per provisions of S. No. 11 of the Indian Contract Act i.e., these persons must have capacity to contract, meaning by they are capable of entering into a valid contract.

Section 11 defines capacity to contract as follows:

"Every person is competent to contract who is of the age of majority according to the law to which he is subject, and who is of sound mind, and is not disqualified from contracting by any law to which he is subject." Those who do not have capacity to contract can not be a partner. However, a minor under Section 30 of the Indian Partnership Act can be admitted to the benefits of the partnership firm with the consent of all the partners."

Thus to be a partner, a person must be (1) a major, (2) of sound mind, and (3) should not be disqualified from contracting by any law.

Q. 52

True test of partnership is mutual agency.

(5 marks; 1999 - May)

Answer:

According to Section 4 of the Indian Partnership Act, 1932, three elements of the firm appear from the definition of the partnership. They are - (i) there must be an agreement entered into by all the persons concerned (ii) the agreement must be to share the profits of a business; and (iii) the business must be carried on by all or any of the person concerned, acting for all, All these elements must be present before a group of persons can be held to be partners.

The third element shows that the business must be carried on by the partners or some of them acting for all. This element very clearly brings out the fundamental principle that partners when carrying on the business of the firm are agents as well as principals; an implied agency flows from their relationship with the result that every partner who conducts the business of the firm is in doing so deemed in law to be the agent of all the partners. The essence of a partnership is that each of the partners is the agent of the others for the purpose of carrying on the partnership business. This test is known as the test of mutual agency and is the most distinctive test of partnership. Failure by one partner to take part in the management of the business does not have the result that he is not carrying on business as an partner.

Thus sharing the profits of a business though an essential element, would not be in itself sufficient to constitute partnership, Besides sharing the profits of a business it is also necessary to show that the business was conducted on his behalf. Therefore, the true test of partnership is mutual agency rather than sharing profits. If this element is lacking there will be no partnership.

Q. 53

Explain Partnership by holding out.

(5 marks; 1999 - Nov)

Answer:

Partnership by holding out (Section 28 Indian Partnership Act, 1932):

When a person represents himself or knowingly permits himself to be represented as a partner in a firm when in fact he is not, he is liable like a partner in the firm to anyone who on the faith of such representation has given credit to the firm. In the case of partnership by holding out some affirmative conduct by the principal is necessary.

Q. 54

The true test of partnership is "mutual" agency between the partners.

(5 marks; 2000 - May)

Answer:

The true test of partnership is mutual agency rather than sharing of profits. If this element of mutual agency is absent then there will be no partnership. The prima facie evidence of partnership is mutual agency. Every partner carrying on the business is the principal as well as an agent of other partners. So, the act of one partner done on behalf of firm, binds all the partners. Section 4 of the Indian Partnership Act, 1932 says is the relation between persons who have agreed to share the profits of a business carried on by all or any of them acting for all. Thus an implied agency flows from their relationship as partners with the result that every person who conducts the business of the firm is in doing so, deemed in law to be the agent of all the partners. (Section 18).

Q. 55

Partnership is an association of persons, who have agreed to share the profits of a business carried on by all or any one of them acting for all. (5 marks; 2001 - Nov)

Answer:

This statement deals with the definition of partnership as laid down by Section 4 of the Indian Partnership Act, 1932. The definition lays down the essential elements which must be fulfilled for making a partnership. Accordingly,

1. There must be an agreement between the persons associating to form a firm.
2. The agreement must be to carry on a business i.e. there must be a business.
3. The agreement must be to share the profits of the business, equally or in agreed proportion.

However, sharing of profits is only a prima facie test of partnership since there may be persons who share profits and yet may not be termed as partners e.g. a widow of a deceased partner or a loan creditor getting a share of profits over and above the interest charged by him.

4. The business must be carried in by all or it may be carried by one of them on behalf of all. This element establishes a relationship of mutual agency between the persons known to be partners of the business firm. It is the agency relationship which binds all the partners to each other. Partnership is primarily an extension of the law of agency.

Q. 56

True test of partnership is the existence of mutual agency among the partners and not the sharing of profits. (5 marks; 2002 - May)

Answer:

True Test of Partnership: In order to determine whether there exists a partnership among the partners, the definition given in Section 4 of the Indian Partnership Act, 1932 is used as a test, i.e. one must look to the agreement between them. If the agreement is to share the profits of a business, and the business is carried on by all or any of them acting for all, there is partnership, otherwise not. In determining whether a group of persons is or is not a firm or whether a person is or is not a partner in a firm, regard shall be had to the real relation between the parties, as shown by all relevant facts taken together.

The difficulty arises when there is no specific agreement constituting partnership among the partners, or the agreement is such as does not specifically speak of partnership. In such a case one has to determine the real relation between the partners as shown by all relevant facts taken together (Section 6) such as written or verbal agreement, real intimation and conduct of the partners, other surrounding circumstances, etc.

The sharing of profits is prima facie a powerful evidence of partnership but the fact that there is sharing of profit between some persons will not automatically make them partners. Therefore, receipt by a person of a share of the profits of a business or of a payment contingent upon the earning of profits or varying with the profits earned by a business, does not of itself make him a partner with the persons carrying on the business. Thus there is no partnership on the basis of sharing of profits only.

The true test of partnership as laid down in the leading case of Cox vs. Hickman is mutual agency. Each partner carrying on the business is the principal as well as agent of other partners, so the act of one partner done on behalf of the firm binds all the partners. If the element of mutual agency relationship exists between the parties constituting a group formed with a view to earn profits by running a business, it can be said that there is partnership.

Q. 57

Partner by Holding out.

(5 marks; 2002 - Nov)*Answer:

Partner by Holding out: Section 28 of the Indian Partnership Act, 1932 provides for the meaning of the term, 'Partner by Holding Out'. It states:

1. Any one who by words spoken or written or by conduct represents himself, or knowingly permits himself to be represented, to a partner in a firm, is liable as a partner in that firm, to any one who has on the faith of any such representation given credit, to the firm, whether the person representing himself or represented to be a partner does or does not know that the representation has reached the person so giving credit.
2. Where after a partner's death the business is continued in the old firm name, the continued use of that name or of the deceased partner's name as a part thereof shall not of itself make his legal representative or his estate liable for any act of the firm done after his death.

Thus, holding out means holding responsible a person who is not a partner in the real sense in a firm, but has represented himself as a partner, or has knowingly permitted himself to be represented, is to be treated to a partner of the firm to anyone, who on the faith of such representation has given credit to the firm. He shall also be liable to such creditors for payment.

The representation referred above may be express or implied. It may be written or may be even by conduct. Form of representation is immaterial for such purpose.

Q. 58

What is the conclusive evidence of partnership? State the circumstances when partnership is not considered between two or more parties.

(4 marks; 2018 - May)*Answer:

The business must be carried on by all the partners or by anyone or more of the partner acting for all. This is the cardinal principle of the partnership law. An act of one partner in the course of the business of the firm is in fact an act of all partners. It may be noted that the true test of partnership is mutual agency rather than sharing of profits. If the element of mutual agency is absent, then there will be no partnership.

Sharing of profits is an essential element to constitute a partnership, but it is only a prima facie evidence and not conclusive evidence. Conclusive evidence of existence of partnership is only mutual agency.

The receipt of profit share by one person of a business, does not itself make him a partner with the persons carrying on the business. Such cases are:

1. by a servant or agent as remuneration.
2. by a widow or child of a deceased partner, as annuity.
3. by a lender of money to persons engaged or about to engage in any business.
4. by a previous owner or part owner of the business.

Q. 59

"Whether a group of persons is or is not a firm, or whether a person is or not a partner in a firm." Explain the mode of determining existence of partnership as per The Indian Partnership Act 1932?

(4 marks; 2019 - June)*Answer:*Mode of Determining Existence of Partnership:

In determining whether a group of persons is or is not a firm, or whether a person is or is not a partner in a firm regard shall be had to the real relation between the parties, as shown by all relevant facts taken together.

For determining the existence of partnership, it must be proved:

1. There was an agreement between all the persons concerned.
2. The agreement was to share the profits of a business, and
3. The business was carried on by all or any of them acting for all.

1. Agreement: Partnership is created by agreement and not by status.

2. Sharing of Profits: Sharing of profit is an essential element to constitute a partnership. But, it is only a prima-facie evidence and not conclusive evidence. Although the right to participate in profits is a strong test of partnership, yet the relationship is there or not, depends upon the whole contract between the parties.

3. Agency: Existence of mutual agency is the cardinal principal of partnership law, and is very much helpful in reaching a conclusion in this regard. Each partner carrying on the business is the principal as well as agent of other partners. So, the act of one partner done on behalf of the firm, binds all the partner.

If the elements of mutual agency relationship exist between the parties constituting a group formed with a view to earn profits by running a business, a partnership may be deemed to exist.

“Business carried on by all or any of them acting for all”. Discuss the statement under the Indian Partnership Act, 1932.

(4 marks; 2021 – Jan)

Answer:

Existence of Mutual Agency which is the cardinal principle of partnership law, is very much helpful in reaching a conclusion in this regard. Each partner carrying on the business is the principal as well as an agent of other partners. So, the act of one partner done on behalf of firm, binds all the partners. If the elements of mutual agency relationship exist between the parties constituting a group formed with a view to earn profits by running a business, a partnership may be deemed to exist.

Q. 64

Define partnership and name the essential elements for the existence of a partnership as per the Indian Partnership Act, 1932. Explain any two such elements in detail. (3+3 = 6 marks; 2021 - Dec)

Answer:

Definition of 'Partnership' (Section 4)

As per the Partnership Act, 1932 mentioned in section 4 'Partnership' is the relation between persons who have agreed to share the profits of a business carried on by all or any of them acting Jor all.

Elements of Partnership:

The definition of the partnership contains the following five elements which must co-exist before a partnership can come into existence.

- (i) Partnership is an association of two or more persons.
- (ii) The partnership must be a result of an agreement entered into by all persons concerned.
- (iii) Partnership is organized to carry on some business.
- (iv) The agreement must be to share the profits of the business.
- (v) The business must be carried on by all or any of them acting for all.

Explanation of any two elements in detail are as follows.

- (i) Association of two or more persons: Partnership is an association of 2 or more persons. Again, only persons recognized by law can enter into an agreement of partnership. Therefore , a firm since it is not a person recognized in the eyes of law cannot be a partner. Again, a minor cannot be a partner in a firm , but with the consent of all the partners, may be admitted to the benefits of partnership. The Partnership Act is silent about the maximum number of partners but section 464 of the Companies Act, 2013 has now put a limit of 50 partners in any association / partnership firm.
- (ii) Agreement: It may be observed that partnership must be the result of an agreement between two or more persons. There must be an agreement entered into by all the persons concerned. This element relates to voluntary contractual nature of partnership. Thus the nature of the partnership is voluntary and contractual. An agreement from which relationship of partnership arises may be express. It may also be implied from the act done by partners and from a consistent course of conduct being followed, showing mutual understanding between them. It may be oral or in writing.

Q. 65

"Sharing in the profits is not conclusive evidence in the creation of partnership". Comment.

(4 marks; 2021 - Dec)

Answer:

Evidence of partnership: Partnership, generally is an agreement between two or more competent persons to carry on some business and distribute / share the profits of such business.

Section 6 of the Indian Partnership Act prescribes the test to determine the existence of partnership. To determine whether a group of persons is a firm and its members are partners or not, their relation must be determined on the basis of relevant facts. [Moore Vs. Daris (1879) 11 Ch. D261]

The parties to a partnership contract do not become partners simply on the basis that they have been described, in the deed, as partners, [Abdulla vs. Madia (1927) 8 Lahore, 310]

Sharing in the profits of the firm is a prima facie evidence of establishment of partnership but it is not a conclusive proof. As per the provision of section 4 of the Indian Partnership Act, sharing of profits is not the sole determining fact. Other tests are also required to be applied. [Cox Vs. Hicman]. A person may, in many ways share in the profits of a business without being a partner. Explanation II of section 6 of the Indian Partnership Act also makes it clear that a creditor is not a partner. Similarly a servant, an agent, widow or child of the deceased partner may receive a share in the profits. But they do not become partner. Thus, the real thing to be seen in such cases is whether they are participating in the business of the firm in the capacity of partners and represent each other in the said capacity. (Malomach & Co Vs. court of . wards (1872) [R 2 CP 419]

Q. 66

What do you mean by 'Partnership for a fixed Period' as per the Indian Partnership Act, 1932?

- (v) A and B, co-owners share between themselves the rent derived from a piece of land.
- (vi) A and B buy commodity X and agree to sell the commodity with sharing the profits equally.

(6 marks; 2021 - Dec)

Answer:

The definition of the partnership contains the following five elements which must co-exist before a partnership can come into existence:

- (a) Partnership is an association of two or more persons.
- (b) The partnership must be a result of an agreement entered into by all persons concerned.
- (c) Partnership is organized to carry on some business.
- (d) The agreement must be to share the profits of the business.
- (e) The business must be carried on by all or any of them acting for all.

In the given situations if they satisfy any of the following conditions then they will be called as a partnership. Also if 'they' satisfy the true test of partnership condition i.e., Agreement, sharing of profit and Agency.

- (i) A and B jointly own a car which they used personally on Sundays and holidays and let it on hire as taxi on other days and equally divide the earnings creates an agreement between them for sharing of profits and mutual agency. Hence, it is a partnership.
- (ii) Two firms each having 12 partners combine by an agreement into one firm is a partnership as they satisfy the above mentioned basic conditions.
- (iii) A and B, co-owners agree to conduct the business in common for profit is a partnership as it is satisfying the basic conditions to form a partnership.
- (iv) Some individuals form an association with an object of charity do not amount to become a partnership as they have created a Not-for-profit organization which does not carry the basic requirements of agreement between them, sharing of profits and mutual agency. Hence, it is not a partnership.
- (v) A and B, co-owners share between themselves the rent derived from a piece of land is not a partnership as it is lacking the mutual agreement between them.
- (vi) A and B bought commodity X without an agreement only to share profits equally does not amount to a partnership.

(ii) Incorrect: Section 11 Clause (2) of the Indian Partnership Act says that “Notwithstanding anything contained in Section 27 of the Indian Contract Act, 1872, such contracts may provide that a partner shall not carry on any business other than that of the firm while he is a partner”. In view of this the contract in question is valid and the statement is incorrect.

Q. 115

Write short note on “Liability of an incoming partner”.

(5 marks; 1997 - May)

Answer:

An incoming partner is not liable for any act of the firm done prior to his admission as a partner. This is because the old partners were not the agents of the new partners at the time when they acted. By a mutual agreement, the new partners may agree with the old partners to be liable for the past liabilities of the firm. However, the creditors of the firm cannot sue the new partners for their past debts because there is no privity of contract between the creditors and the new partner. Similarly, the acts of the old partner can not be ratified by the new partner because he was not in existence as a principal at the time when acts were done. He is liable for the acts of the old firm only if the new firm assumes the liabilities of the old firm and the creditors accept the new firm as their debtor and discharge the old firm from his liability.

Q. 116

Write short note on “Right to remuneration of a partner”.

(5 marks; 1998 - Nov)

Answer:*Right to remuneration of partner:

The general rule is: [No partner is entitled to receive any remuneration in addition to his share in the profits of the firm for taking part in the business of the firm. But this rule can always be varied by an express agreement, or by a course of dealings, in which event the partner will be entitled to remuneration. Thus a partner can claim remuneration even in the absence of a contract, when such remuneration is payable under the contained usage of the firm. Similarly, a partner on whom the whole conduct of the business has been cast by reason of the other partner’s wilful neglect of the business to which the latter ought to attend, can claim compensation for the undue labor and trouble being imposed upon him] (Krishnamachariar vs. Sankara saha 1920).

Q. 117

Write short note on “Minor in partnership”.

(5 marks; 1999 - Nov)

Answer:

Minor in Partnership: A minor cannot become a partner, as he is not competent to contract. But if all the partners agree, he can be admitted to the benefits of partnership. Such minor has a right to his agreed share of the profits; he cannot take part in management, and he can have access to inspect and copy the accounts of a firm but not to book of the firm. On attaining majority, he has to elect whether he wants to continue as a partner or not within a period of 6 months of his attaining majority. He fails to give such notice he shall become a partner in the firm on the expiry of the said six months. If the minor becomes a partner of his own willingness, his position is as follows:

- (a) His rights and liabilities as a minor will continue upto the date on which he becomes a partner.
- (b) He becomes personally liable to third parties for all acts of the firm done since he was admitted to benefits of partnership.
- (c) His share in the property and profits of the firm remains the same as to which he was entitled as a minor.

Q. 118

Q. 119

When can a partner be expelled?

(5 marks; 1994 - Nov)

Answer:

According to the provisions of Section 33 of Indian Partnership Act a partner can not be expelled from a firm by any majority of the partners. As such the law as a central rule gives no power to partners to expel a partner. This rule is subject to certain exceptions.

Exceptions:

- (i) Where it is provided in the Partnership Act.
- (ii) Where it is by an order of the Court, for misconduct etc.
- (iii) Where it is warranted by dissolution of the firm.

However, the expulsion is subject to the following conditions;

- (a) The right to expel a partner is available by an express agreement between the partners.
- (b) The power must have been exercised by a majority of partners in good faith.
- (c) The expelled partner was given reasonable notice and opportunity to explain his position and to remove the cause of his expulsion. (Carmichael vs. Evans 1904).

The position of the expelled partner is same as that of a retiring partner.

Q. 120

Comment on the following:

A partner is an agent of the firm as well as of all the other partners.

(5 marks; 1995 - May)

Answer:

A partner is an agent of the firm as well as of all the other partners: The concluding portion of the definition of partnership as given in Section 4 of the Partnership Act says that the business may be carried on by all or any of them acting for all. This clearly establishes the implied agency, the partner who is conducting the affairs of business is considered as the agent of the remaining partners.

In carrying on the business of the firm, partners act as agents as well as principals. While the relation between the partners interest is that of principals, they are agents of one another in relation to third parties for the purpose of the business of the firm.

Section 19(1) of the Partnership Act provides that "the act of a partner which is done to carry on, in the usual way, business of the kind carried on by the firm, binds the firm." From this it is clear .that every partner has the implied authority to bind the firm provided they relate to the business of the firm and are done by him in the name of the firm and in the usual course of the business of the firm. In partnership every partner has a two-fold character, he is an agent of the other partners (because other partners are bound by his acts) and also he himself is the principal (because he is bound by the acts of other partners). The liability of one partner for the acts of his co-partners is in fact the liability of a principal for the acts of his agent. This concept of mutual agency is, in fact, the true test of existence of partnership.

Q. 121

Discuss the rights of a partner in a firm.

(10 marks; 1995 - May)

Answer:

The mutual rights and duties of the partners of a firm may be determined by contract between the partners, and such contract may be expressed or implied by a course of dealing. In the absence of any express agreement among partners, their rights and duties are governed by the Partnership Act.

Rights of the partners in partnership firm are discussed hereunder:

- (i) Participation in management [(Section 12 (a))]: Every partner has a right to take part in the conduct of the business.
- (ii) Right to be consulted: Any difference arising in connection with the business may be decided by a majority of the partners and every partner has a right to express his opinion before the matter is decided.
- (iii) Access to books [(Section 12 (d))]: A partner has a right to have access to and inspect and copy any of the books of the firm.
- (iv) Sharing of profits [(Section 13 (b))]: Partners are entitled to share equally in the profit earned.
- (v) Interest on capital [(Section 13 (c))]: A partner is entitled to interest on advance made by him over and above his capital at the rate of 6% per annum. However, where the partnership agreement provides for the payment of interest at a certain rate such interest shall be payable only out of profits if any, earned by the firm.
- (vi) Making use of Partnership property [(Section 15)]: Every partner is entitled to use the property of the firm exclusively for the purpose of the business of the firm.
- (vii) Indemnification [(Section 13 (c))]: A partner is entitled to be indemnified by the firm in respect of payments made and liabilities incurred by him under certain circumstances.
- (viii) Agent of the firm [(Sections 18 and 19)]: Because of the agency relationship every partner has implied authority to bind the firm by his own act in the conduct of the business of the firm.
- (ix) Dissolution of the firm [(Section 43, 44 and 46)]: A partner is entitled to dissolve the firm under certain conditions. A partner has a right to have the business wound up after dissolution.
- (x) Authority in emergency [(Section 21)]: A partner has authority in an emergency to do all such acts as required for the purpose of protecting the firm from loss.
- (xi) Retirement [(Section 32)]: Every partner has a right to retire from the partnership firm subject to the nature of partnership.
- (xii) Not to be expelled [(Section 33 (1))]: Every partner has a right to continuance in the partnership. No partner can be expelled except in good faith.
- (xiii) No new partner to be introduced [(Section 31 (1))]: Every partner has a right to prevent admission of a new partner to the firm.
- (xiv) Carrying on competing business [(Section 36)]: Unless otherwise agreed, an outgoing partner may carry on a business competing with that of the firm and may advertise such business. But he can not use the name and representation of the firm.
- (xv) Sharing profits by outgoing partner [(Section 37)]: An outgoing partner can claim subsequent profits or interest at the rate of 6% p.a. If final accounts have not been settled.
- (xvi) Share in the partnership property: On the dissolution of the firm every partner or his representative has a right to have the property applied in the payment of debts and liabilities of the firm and to have surplus distributed among the partners.

Q. 122

Point out the circumstances where a partner cannot exercise his implied authority.

(10 marks; 1995 - Nov)

Answer:

Limitation on Implied Powers of Partners: A partner is deemed to be an agent of the firm so far as the business of the firm is concerned (Section 18 of the Indian Partnership Act). In view of this, acts of a partner which are done for the purpose of running the business in usual way, bind the firm and the authority of a partner to do such acts is known as implied authority [Higgins v. Beucamp (1914) All E.R. 937], This implied authority is available to every partner of the firm and need not be reduced to writing in the deed of partnership.

The exercise of implied authority must be in accordance with the provisions of Section 19. Section 19 points out that implied authority can be exercised only in relation to those acts which have a direct relation with the business of the firm. Further, the manner in which the authority is exercised must be similar to that which is required for the business to be carried on by the firm. Further, Sections 19(2) and 20 of the Indian Partnership Act impose certain limitations on the implied authority of a partner. In view of these provisions, a partner cannot exercise his implied authority in relation to the following acts:

1. Reference of firm's disputes to arbitration
2. Opening bank account for the firm in his own name
3. To compromise fully or partly in a suit or to abandon any claim
4. To withdrawn proceedings, or part thereof, instituted in the Court on the part of the firm
5. To admit any liability in a proceedings against the firm
6. To acquire immovable property for the firm
7. To transfer immovable property of the firm
8. To participate in any partnership for the firm.

A partner can do any of the above acts provided he is expressly authorised to do that or the usage or custom of the trade permits them. For example, a partner may open a bank account on behalf of the firm in his own name if he is expressly authorised to do so by all the partners of the firm.

Section 20 provides that the implied authority of partner may be decreased or increased through contract. But if such restrictions are imposed on the implied authority of a partner by mutual agreement they will not be binding on third parties dealing with the firm unless they have knowledge of the restrictions.

Q. 123

When is the firm liable for the acts of a partner?

(5 marks; 1995 - Nov)

Answer:

Liability of the firm: Apart from the liability of the partners in the firm sometimes a firm may also be held liable in the following ways:

- (i) Where, by the wrongful act or omission of a partner acting in the ordinary course of the business of a firm, or with the authority of his partners, loss or injury is caused to any third party, or any penalty is incurred, the firm is liable therefore to the extent as the partner (Section 26).
- (ii) Where a partner acting within his apparent authority receives money or property from a third party and misapplies it, or [Section 27 (1)].
- (iii) Where a firm in the cause of its business receives money or property from a third party, and the money or property is misapplied by any of the partners while it is in the custody of the firm, the firm is liable to make good the loss [Section 27(2)].

Q. 124

What are the rights and duties of a minor in relation to partnership business?

(10 marks; 1996 - May)

Answer:

Rights and Duties of a minor in relation to partnership:

A minor in real terms is not a partner in a partnership firm. His minority is a disqualification for him to become a partner, since an agreement with a minor is void ab-initio. But Section 30 of the Indian Partnership Act provides that though a minor cannot be a partner in a firm, he with the consent of all the partners for the time being, may be admitted to the benefits of partnership by an agreement executed by his guardian on his behalf with the other partners. Section 30 states that rules, which govern the rights and liabilities of a minor admitted to the benefits of partnership.

These are:

1. A minor has a right to his agreed share of the profits and share of the property of the firm.
2. He has a right to have access to, inspect and copy the accounts of the firm. *
3. He can sue the partners for accounts or for payment of his share. But he can exercise his right only when he severs his connection with the firm and not otherwise. The amount of his share in such a case shall be determined as upon a dissolution.
4. The minor is not liable personally to third parties for the debts of the firm, but his liability is limited only upon his share in the partnership assets and profits.
5. The minor is not entitled to take part in the conduct of the business as he has no representative capacity to bind the firm.
6. On attaining majority or on knowing that he had been admitted to the benefits of partnership, whichever date be later, the minor must decide within six months whether he would or would not like to become a partner in the firm. He has to give public notice of his decision. If he does not give public notice, to this effect, he is treated to be a partner in the firm.
7. When a minor elects to remain as a partner, or fails to give public notice of not remaining as a partner in the firm, he comes personally liable to the third parties for all the debts and obligations of the firm with retrospective effect i.e. from the date of his being admitted to the benefits of partnership.
8. Where the minor elects not to be a partner in the firm, his rights and liabilities continue to be those of a minor up to the date of his giving public notice and shall not be liable for any acts of the firm done after the date of the public notice.
9. If after attaining majority but before electing to become a partner the minor represents or knowingly permits himself to be represented as a partner in the firm, he will be personally liable to the person who has on the faith of such representation granted credit to the firm on the ground of 'holding out'.

Q. 125

Explain the rights of an outgoing partner.

(5 marks; 1996 - May)

Answer:

Rights of an Outgoing partner: Under Sections 36 and 37 of the Partnership Act, an outgoing partner enjoys the following rights:

1. An outgoing partner may carry on business competing with that of the firm and he may advertise such business but subject to a contract to the contrary, he cannot use the name of the firm or represent himself as carrying on the business of the firm or solicit customers of the firm he has left. [Section 36 (1)]. However, the partner may agree with his partners that on his ceasing to be so, he will not carry on a business similar to that of the firm within a specified period or within a specified local limit.
2. On the retirement of a partner he has the right to receive his share of the property of the firm, including goodwill.

3. An out going partner, when the continuing partners carry on the business of the firm with the property of the firm without any final settlement of account, with him, is entitled to claim from the firm such shares of the profits made by the firm, since he ceased to be a partner as attributable to the use of his shares of the property of the firm. In the alternative, he can claim interest at the rate of 6% per annum on the amount of his share in firm's property (Section 37).

4. If by a contract between the partners, an option has been given to the surviving partners to purchase the interest of the out going partner and the option is duly exercised, the out going partner will not be entitled to any further share or the profits.

Q. 126

Comment on the following:

Implied authority of a partner can be extended or restricted.

(5 marks; 1996 - Nov)

Answer:

Implied authority of partner can be extended or restricted: Section 20 of the Indian Partnership Act authorises the partners of a firm to extend or restrict the implied authority but only by a contract between them. In spite of such restriction if a partner does, on firm's behalf, any act which falls within his implied authority, the firm will be bound unless the person with whom he is dealing is aware of the restriction or does not know or believe the partner to be a partner.

Thus, a third party is not affected by such a limitation of a partner's implied authority unless he has actual notice of it. To take an example, A is a partner of a firm. He borrows from B ₹ 1,000 in the name of the firm but in excess of his authority and utilises the same in paying off the debts of the firm. Here, the fact that the firm has contracted debts suggests that it is a trading firm and as such it is within the implied authority of A to borrow money for the business of the firm.

This implied authority may be restricted by an agreement between him and other partners. Now if B, the lender is unaware of this restriction imposed on A, the firm will be liable to pay the money to B. On the contrary, if B is aware of this restriction, the firm will be absolved of its liability to repay the amount to B.

One important point in this connection is that the restriction or extension of implied authority must be done with the consent of all the partners. Any one partner, or even a majority of the partners, cannot restrict or extend the implied authority.

Q. 127

What are the rights of transferee of a Partner's Share?

(10 marks; 1996 - Nov)

Answer:

Rights of transferee of a Partner's Share: No person can be introduced as a partner in a firm without the consent of all the partners. Therefore, a partner cannot by transferring his own interest make anyone else a partner in his stead with his co-partners if they do not agree. According to Section 29 of the Partnership Act, 1932, a share in a partnership is transferable like any other property, but as the partnership relationship is based on mutual confidence, the assignee of a partner's interest by sale, mortgage or otherwise cannot enjoy the same rights and privileges as the original partner. The rights of a transferee are:

1. During the continuance of partnership: He is entitled to receive the share of the profits of the transferring partner and he is bound to accept the profits as agreed to by the partners i.e. he cannot challenge the accounts.
2. (a) On dissolution of the firm or on retirement of the transferring partner he is entitled to receive the share of the assets of the firm to which the transferring partner was entitled and
(b) for the purpose of ascertaining the share to an account as from the date of dissolution.

The Supreme Court has held that the assignee will enjoy only the rights to receive the share of the profits of the assignor and account of profits agreed to by other partners [Narayanappa Vs. Krishnappa (1966) 2 M.L.J. S.C. 60],

Q. 128

Comment on the following:

“The relationship of arises from an agreement and not from status.” (5 marks; 1997 - May)

Answer:

A partnership is the result of a contract and cannot arise by status is sufficiently emphasised by Section 4 of the Indian Partnership Act itself by use of word “partnership is the relation between the persons who have agreed to share the profits of a business”. It is clear from the definition that the partnership is of contractual nature. It springs from an agreement. The same point is further stressed by the opening words of Section 5 that the relation of partnership arises from contract and not from status.

Unlike in the case of sole proprietorship and joint Hindu Family business, the legal heirs do not automatically become partners on the death of a partner. A fresh agreement will have to be made.

Thus from the above it is clear that partnership always arises out of a contract and not from status.

Q. 129

What is meant by the term, ‘property of a partnership firm’? (5 marks; 1997 - May)

Answer:

Normally, the partners by an agreement are free to determine as to what shall be the property of the firm and what shall be treated as a separate property of one or more of the partners. But when there is no such agreement and in order to know whether a certain property is the property of the firm or not it has to be ascertained from the source from which the property has been acquired the purpose for which it was acquired, and the manner in which it has been dealt with. According to Section 14 of the Partnership Act, when there is no contract to the contrary, the property of the firm includes:

- (i) All properties, rights and interests originally bring to the stock of the firm.
- (ii) The property acquired by purchase or otherwise by or for the firm.
- (iii) The property acquired with the money belonging to the firm.
- (iv) The goodwill of the business of the firm.

However, if a partner’s property is used for the purchase of the business of the firm, it does not automatically becadse the property of the firm. It can become to property of the firm if the partners have an intention to manage it so. For example, a piece of land which has bought in the name of one partner but is paid for any the firm shall be deemed to be the property of the firm unless there is an intention to the contrary.

Q. 130

Comment on the following:

Notice to an acting partner is the notice to the firm. (5 marks; 1997 - Nov)

Answer:

Notice to an acting partner:

Section 24 of the Partnership Act, 1932 lays down that the notice to a partner, who habitually acts in the business of the firm of any matter relating to the affairs of the firm operates as notice to the firm, except in the case of a fraud on the firm committed by or with the consent of that partner.

The rule embodied in this section is an instance of the application of the general principals of agency to partnership. Accordingly, the notice to one is equivalent to the notice to the rest of the partners of the firm, just as a notice and not to an agent is notice to his principal. This notice must be actual and not constructive. It must be received by a working partner and not by a dormant or sleeping partner. It must further relate to the firm’s business. Only then it would constitute a notice to the firm. Notice to a clerk or agent of the firm operates as notice to the firm.

But the provisions of this section would not lie in the case of fraud, whether active or tacit. Thus the knowledge of a partner as to a particular defect in the goods which he is buying for the firm will be knowledge of the firm, although the other partners are, in fact, not aware of the defect. The only exception is in the case of fraud. If, therefore, the purchasing partner, in collusion with seller, has conspired to conceal the existence of the defect from the other partners, the rule will not operate and the other partners would be entitled on the defect being discovered by them, to reject the goods.

Q. 131

What are the rights and duties of a partner after a change in the constitution of the firm?

(5 marks; 1997 - Nov)

Answer:*Rights and duties of a partners after a change in the constitution of the firm (Section 17):

A change in the constitution of the firm may be in one of the four ways, namely:

- (i) Where a new partner or partners come in;
- (ii) Where one partner or partners go out;
- (iii) Where the partnership concerned carries on business other than the business of the firm;
- (iv) Where the partnership business is carried on after the expiry of the term fixed for the purpose.

This section lays down the following provisions as regards to rights and duties after the change in the constitution of the firm:

- (a) Change in the constitution of the firm: Where a change occurs in the constitution of a firm, the mutual rights and duties of the partners in the reconstituted firm remain the same as they were immediately before the change, as far as may be.
- (b) Business continued after expiration of the term: Where a firm constituted for a fixed term continues to carry on business after the expiry of that term, the mutual rights and duties of the partners remain the same as they were before the expiry, so far as they may be consistent with the incidents of Partnership at will; and
- (c) In case of additional undertaking: Where a firm constituted to carry out one or more adventures or undertakings carries out other adventures or undertakings the mutual rights and duties of the partners in respect of the other adventures or undertakings are the same as those in respect of the original adventures or undertakings. But the above provisions are however subject to the contract between the partners.

Q. 132

Comment on the following;

“The power to expel partner must be exercised in good faith”.

(2 marks; 1998 - May)

Answer:

The power to expel partner must be exercised in good faith: A partner may not be expelled from a firm by a majority of partners except in exercise, in good faith, of powers conferred by the contract between the partners. It is thus, essential that:

- (i) The power of expulsion must have existed in a contract between the partners;
- (ii) The power has been exercised by a majority of the partners; and
- (iii) It has been exercised in good faith.

If all these considerations are not present, the expulsion is not deemed to be in bonafide interest of the business of the firm.

The test of good faith as required under section 33(1) includes three things:

- (a) That the expulsion must be in the interest of the partnership.
- (b) That the partner to be expelled is served with a notice.
- (c) That he is given an opportunity of being heard. If a partner is otherwise expelled, the expulsion is null and void. The only remedy, when a partner misconducts in the business of the firm is to seek judicial dissolution.

The provisions of Section 32 regarding retirement of a partner are also apply to an expelled partner as if he was a retired partner [Section 22(2)].

Q. 134

Explain clearly the meaning of implied authority of a partner in a partnership firm. State the matters for which a partner does not have implied authority. (10 marks; 1999 - May)

Answer:

Meaning of Implied Authority of a Partner: The authority of a partner means the capacity of a partner to bind the firm by his act. This authority may be express or implied. Where the authority to a partner to act is expressly conferred by an agreement, it is called express authority. But where there is no partnership agreement or where the agreement is silent, 'the act of a partner which is done to carry on, in the usual way, business of the kind carried on by the firm, bind the firm'. [Section 19(1) Indian Partnership Act, 1932],

The authority of a partner to bind the firm by his acts is called implied authority. It is subject to the following conditions:

1. The act done by the partner must relate to the normal business of the firm.
2. The act must be such as is done within the scope of the business of the firm in the usual way.
3. The act must be done in the name of the firm, or in any other manner expressing or implying an intention to bind the firm (Section 22).

Matters for which no Implied Authority is available to a Partner:

1. To submit a dispute relating to the business of the firm to arbitration.
2. To open a bank account on behalf of the firm in his own name.
3. Compromise or relinquish any claim or portion of a claim by the firm.
4. Withdraw a suit or proceeding filed on behalf of the firm.
5. Admit any liability in a audit or proceeding against the firm.
6. Acquire immovable property on behalf of the firm.
7. Transfer immovable property belonging to the firm, or
8. Enter into partnership on behalf on the firm (Section 19(2)).

Q. 135

Describe the position of a minor, who has been admitted to the benefits of partnership, on attaining majority. (5 marks; 1999 - May)

Answer:

Position of a Minor in Partnership: Under Section 11 of the Indian Contract Act, 1872, a minor's agreement is void. In view of this a minor and a major cannot enter into an agreement of partnership. Thus, a person who is minor may not be a partner in a firm but under Section 30 of the Indian Partnership Act, 1932, he may be admitted to the benefits of partnership with the consent of all the partners for the time being.

Section 30 of the Indian Partnership Act provides that the minor who has been admitted to the benefits of partnership, has to decide whether he shall remain a partner or shall leave the firm and this decision is to be taken by him within six months of his attaining majority, or his obtaining knowledge that he had been admitted to the benefits of partnership, whichever date is later. If he decides to sever his connection with the firm, he must give a public notice of his such intention. If he does not give such public notice, it must be presumed that he has opted to become a partner in the firm.

If the minor becomes a partner of his own willingness or by his failure to give the public notice within specified time, his rights and liabilities are as follows:

1. He becomes personally liable to third parties for all acts of the firm done from the date when he was admitted to the benefits of the firm.
2. His share in the property and the profits of the firm remains the same to which he was entitled as a minor.

If the minor decides to sever his connection with the firm, his rights and liabilities shall be as follows:

- (i) His rights and liabilities continue to those of a minor up to the date of giving public notice.
- (ii) His share shall not be liable for any acts of the firm done after the date of the notice.
- (iii) He shall be entitled to sue the partners for his share of the property and profits.

Q. 136

Explain the position of a person who had been admitted to the benefits of partnership as a minor, after attaining majority. (5 marks; 2000 - May)

Answer:

Position of a minor in partnership after attaining majority: Partnership is a relation resulting from a contract, and a minor's agreement is altogether void. A minor, being incompetent to contract, cannot become a partner. But he can be admitted to the benefits of an already existing partnership, if all the partners agree to admit him. Such a minor is not personally liable nor his separate property and profits will be liable.

Within six months of his attaining majority or when he comes to know of his being so admitted, whichever date is later, he has to elect whether he wants to continue his relation and become a full fledged partner or sever his connection with the firm. He may give a public notice of his election to continue or discontinue, but if he fails to give any public notice within this period, he will be deemed to have elected to become a partner in the firm. A minor who thus becomes a partner, will become personally liable for all debts and obligations of the firm incurred since the date of his admission to the benefits of the partnership.

Q. 137

Briefly answer of the following:

Transferee of a partner's interest cannot exercise the rights of the transferring partner.

(5 marks; 2000 - Nov)

Answer:

Section 29 the Indian Partnership Act, 1932, states the rights of transferee of a partner's share. A share in a partnership is transferable like any other property, but as the partnership relation is based upon mutual confidence, the assignee of a partner's interest by sale, mortgage or otherwise cannot enjoy the same rights and privileges as the original partner. The Supreme Court in Narayanappa v. Krishnappa has held that the assignee will enjoy only the rights to receive the share of the profits of the assignor and account of profits agreed to by other partners.

The rights of such a transferee are:

1. During the continuance of partnership, such transferee is not entitled to:
  - (a) Interfere with the conduct of the business;
  - (b) Require accounts or
  - (c) Inspect books of the firm.

He is only entitled to receive the share of the profits of the transferring partner and he is bound to accept the profits as agreed to by the partners, i.e. he cannot challenge the accounts.

2. On the dissolution of the firm or on the retirement of the transferring partner, the transferee will be entitled, against the remaining partners:

- (a) To receive the share of the assets of the firm to which the transferring partner was entitled, and
- (b) For the purpose of ascertaining the share, to an account as from the date of the dissolution.

Thus, transferee of a partner's interest cannot exercise the rights of the transferring partner.

Q. 138

Discuss the rights of a Partner in a Partnership Firm.

(10 marks; 2000 - Nov)

Answer:

Discuss the rights of a Partner in a Partnership Firm:

Where there is no specific agreement or where the agreement is silent on a certain, the relations of partners to one another as regards their rights are governed by the provisions of the Indian Partnership Act, 1932 as contained in Sections 9 to 17.

These are:

- 1. Right to take part in business: Subject to any contract between the partners, every partner has right to take part in conduct of the business of the firm. [Section 12 (a)]
- 2. Right to be consulted: Every partner has an inherent right to be consulted in all matters affecting the business of the partnership before any decision is taken by the partners. Where there is any difference of opinion among the partners as to ordinary matters connected with the business, it may be settled, subject to contract between the partners, by a majority of the partners. [Section 12 (c)]
- 3. Right of access to account: Subject to contract between the partners, every partner has a right to have access to and inspect and copy any of the books of the firm. [Section 12 (d)].
- 4. Right to share in profit: In the absence of any agreement, the partners are entitled to share equally in the profits earned and are liable to contribute equally to the losses sustained by the firm. [Section 13 (b)]
- 5. Right to interest on capital: The partnership may contain a clause as to the right of the partners to claim interest on capital at a certain rate. Such interest, subject to contract between the partners, is payable only out of profits, if any, earned by the firm. [Section 13 (c)]
- 6. Right to interest on advances: Where a partner makes, for the purposes of the business of the firm any advance beyond the amount of capital, he is entitled to interest on each advance at the rate of 6 percent per annum. [Section 13 (d)]
- 7. Right to be indemnified: Where a partner incurs any liability in the ordinary course of the partnership business, or in an emergency, for the purpose of protecting the firm from loss, the firm must indemnify such partner. [Sections 13 (e) and 21]
- 8. Right to the use of partnership property: Subject to contract between the partners, the property of the firm must be held and used by the partners exclusively for the purposes of the business of the firm. No partner has a right to treat it as his individual property. [Section 15]
- 9. Right of partner as agent of the firm: Every partner for the purposes of the business of the firm is the agent of the firm. And subject to the provisions of the Indian Partnership Act, the act of a partner which is done to carry on, in the usual way, business of the kind carried on by the firm, binds the firm. [Sections 18 and 19]
- 10. No new partner to be introduced: Every partner has a right to prevent the introduction of new partner unless he consents to that or unless there is an expression in the contract permitted such introduction [Section 31 (1)]
- 11. No liability before joining: A person who is introduced as a partner into the firm is not liable for any act of the firm done before he became a partner [Section 31 (2)]
- 12. Right to retire: A partner has a right to retire with the consent of all the other partners, or in accordance with an express agreement between the partners, or where the partnership is at will, by giving notice to all the other partners of his intention to retire. [Section 32 (1)].
- 13. Right not to be expelled: A partner has a right not to be expelled from the firm by any majority of the partners, save in the exercise, in good faith of powers conferred by the contract between the partners. [Section 33 (1)]

14. An outgoing partner can claim subsequent profits or interest @6% per annum till final accounts are settled.

Q. 139

What are the liabilities of an outgoing Partners?

(5 marks; 2000 - Nov)

Answer:

An outgoing partner or a retiring partner continues to be liable to third party for acts of the firm after his retirement until public notice of his retirement has been given either by himself or by any other partner. But the retired partner will not be liable to any third party if the letter deals with the firm without knowing that the former was a partner. [Sections 32 (3) and (4) Indian Partnership Act, 1932]. A

The liability of a retired/outgoing partner to the third parties continues until a public notice of his retirement has been given. Regarding his liability for the acts of the firm done before his retirement, he remains liable for the same, unless there is an agreement made by him with the third party concerned and the partners of the reconstituted firm. Such an agreement may be implied by course of dealings between the third party and the reconstituted firm after he had knowledge of the retirement [Section 32(2)]

Q. 140

Briefly answer of the following:

What are the legal provisions relating to expulsion of a partner under the Indian Partnership Act?

(5 marks; 2001 - May)

Answer:

According to Section 33 of the Indian Partnership Act, 1932 a partner may be expelled from partnership subject to the following three conditions:

- (i) The power of expulsion of a partner should be conferred by the contract between the partners.
- (ii) The power should be exercised by a majority of the partners.
- (iii) The power should be exercised in good faith.

If all these conditions are not present, the expulsion is not deemed to be in the bonafide interest of the business of the firm.

The test of good faith is:

- (a) That the expulsion must be in the interest the partnership.
- (b) That the partner to be expelled is served with a notice.
- (c) That he is given an opportunity of being heard.

Irregular expulsion: Where the expulsion of a partner takes place without the satisfaction of the conditions given above, the expulsion is irregular. The expelled partner may in such a case either (i) claim reimbursement as a partner or (ii) sue for the refund of his share of capital and profits in the firm. An irregular expulsion is wholly ineffectual and inoperative. The expelled partner, in such a case, does not cease to be a partner.

Regular expulsion: Where a partner is expelled subject to the satisfaction of the conditions as above, his expulsion would be regular.

The rights and liabilities of an expelled partner are the same as those of a partner [Section 33 (2)].

Q. 141

What constitutes Partnership property or Property of the firm?

(5 marks; 2001 - Nov)

Answer:

Partnership property consists of the following:

1. All property and rights and interests in property originally brought into the stock of the firm or acquired by purchase or otherwise, by or for the firm, or for the purpose and in the course of the business of the firm; and includes also the goodwill of the business. (Section 14).

2. The property and rights and interests on property acquired with many belonging to the firm and deemed to have been acquired for the firm. (Section 14).
3. The property of the firm held and used by the partners exclusively for the purpose of the firm's business. (Section 15 Indian Partnership Act, 1832).

Q. 142

Explain clearly the meaning of the term "Authority of a partner". State the acts which fall within the 'Implied Authority' of a partner. (10 marks; 2002 - May)

Answer:

Meaning: The Authority of a partner means the capacity of a partner to bind the firm by his acts. This authority may be express or implied. Where the authority to a partner to act is expressly conferred by an agreement, it is called express authority.

But where there is no partnership agreement or where the agreement is silent, the authority conferred on a partner by the provision is silent, the authority conferred on a partner by the provisions of Section 19 of the Indian Partnership Act is called implied authority.

Implied authority covers those acts of partners which fulfill the following conditions:

1. The act done by the partner must relate to the normal business of the firm. [Section 19(i)]
2. The act must be such as is done within the scope of the business of the firm in the usual way.
3. The act must be done in the name of the firm, or in any other manner expressing or implying an intention to bind the firm. (Section 22).

Acts falling within the implied authority of a partner: In a trading firm, i.e., a firm which exists for its existence on the buying and selling of goods, the implied authority of a partner has been held to include.

7. Drawing, accepting, indorsing bills and other negotiable instruments in the name of the firm.
8. Pledging any goods of the firm for the purpose of borrowing money.
9. Employing a solicitor to defend an action against the firm for goods supplied.

Q. 144

Briefly answer of the following:

The liability of a retired partner to third parties continuing after his retirement.

(5 marks; 2002 - Nov)

Answer:

Goods forming subject matter of the contract of sale may be classified as under:

I. Existing Goods

- (a) Specific goods
- (b) Unascertained goods.
- (c) Ascertained goods.

II. Future Goods*III. Contingent Goods.

Existing Goods are those goods which are in actual existence at the time of contract of sale.

The seller is the owner of goods or he has the possession of such goods. Existing goods may be of the following three types:

- (i) Specific goods: Goods which have either been identified and agreed by the parties at the time of contract of sale.
- (ii) Unascertained goods: are those not specifically identified at the time of contract of sale. They are described by the description or sample only.
- (iii) Ascertained goods: are those identified only after the formation of a contract of sale. When unascertained goods are identified and agreed upon by the parties, the goods are called Ascertained goods.
- (iv) Future goods: are those in existence at the time of contract of sale. These goods are to be acquired or produced by the seller after the contract of sale is made. It is an agreement to sell and not sale.
- (v) Contingent goods are like future goods. The acquisition of the goods by the seller depends upon the uncertain contingencies which may or may not happen, e.g. goods will be supplied if ship arrives.

If he does not, then his share is not liable for any acts of the firm after the date of the public notice served to that effect.

(II) The liabilities of a minor partner:

(i) Before attaining majority:

(a) The liability of the minor is confined only to the extent of his share in the profits and the property of the firm.

Q. 146

What is the provision related to the effect of notice to an acting partner of the firm as per Indian Partnership Act 1932? (2 marks; 2019 - June)

Answer:

The notice to a partner, who habitually acts in business of the firm, on matters relating to the affairs of the firm, operates as a notice to the firm except in the case of a fraud on the firm committed by or with the consent of that partner. Thus, the notice to one is equivalent to the notice to the rest of the partner's of the firm, just as a notice to an agent is notice to his principal. The notice must be actual and not constructive. It must be received by working partner and not by sleeping partner. It must further relate to the firm's business. Only then it would constitute a notice to the firm.

Q. 147

Discuss the provisions regarding personal profits earned by a partner under the Indian Partnership Act 1932? (2 marks; 2019 - June)

Answer:

According to the Indian Partnership Act, 1932, subject to contract between the partners:

- (a) If a partner derives any profit for himself from any transaction of the firm, or from the sue of the property or business connection of the firm or the firm name, he shall account for that profit and pay it to the firm.
- (b) If a partner carries on any business of the same nature as and competing with that of the firm, he shall account for and pay to the firm all profits made by him in that business.

Q. 148

X, Y and Z are partners in a Partnership Firm. They were carrying their business successfully for the past several years. Spouses of X and Y fought in ladies club on their personal issue and X's wife was hurt badly. X got angry on the incident and he convinced Z to expel Y from their partnership firm. Y was expelled from partnership without any notice from X and Z. Considering the provisions of the Indian Partnership Act, 1932, state whether they can expel a partner from the firm. What are the criteria for test of good faith in such circumstances? (6 marks; 2018 - May)

Answer:

A partner may not be expelled from a firm by any majority of the partners, except in exercise of good faith of power conferred by contract between the partners. If all these conditions are not present, the expulsion is not deemed to be in bonafide interest of the business of the firm.

The test of good faith as required includes three things:

- (a) The expulsion must be in the interest of the partnership.
- (b) The partner to be expelled is served with a notice.
- (c) He is given an opportunity of being heard.

If a partner is otherwise expelled, the expulsion is null and void.

Having regard to above we can say that expulsion of partner 'Y' by X & Z is not in accordance with the provision of Indian Contract Act and thus not valid.

Q. 149

Mr. A, Mr. B and Mr. C were partners in a partnership firm M/s ABC & Co., which is engaged in the business of trading of branded furniture. The name of the partners was clearly written along with the firm name in front of the head office of the firm as well as on letter-head of the firm. On 1st October, 2018, Mr. C passed away. His name was neither removed from the list of partners as stated in front of the head office nor from the letter-heads of the firm. As per the terms of partnership, the firm continued its operations with Mr. A and Mr. B as partners. The accounts of the firm were settled and the amount due to the legal heirs of Mr. C was also determined on 10th October, 2018. But the same was not paid to the legal heirs of Mr. C. On 16th October, 2018, Mr. X, a supplier supplied furniture worth ₹ 20,00,000 to M/s ABC & Co. M/s ABC & Co. could not repay the amount due to heavy losses. Mr. X wants to recover the amount not only from M/s ABC & Co., but also from the legal heirs of Mr. C.

Analyse the above situation in terms of the provisions of the Indian Partnership Act, 1932 and decide whether the legal heirs of Mr. C can also be held liable for the dues towards Mr. X.

(3 marks; 2018 - Nov)

Answer:

According to the facts of this case the situation existent clearly indicates the application of Section 37 of the Indian Partnership Act, 1932 according to which where any member of a firm has died or otherwise ceased to be partner and the surviving or continuing partners carry on the business of the firm without any final settlement of the accounts as between them and the outgoing partner or his estate, then in the absence of a contract to the contrary, the outgoing partner or his estate is entitled at the option of himself or his representatives to such share of the profits made since he ceased to be a partner as may be attributable to the use of his share of the property of the firm or to interest at the rate of six percent per annum on the amount of his share in the property of the firm.

In this case since there has been no decisive settlement of accounts between the heirs of Mr. C and Mr. A & Mr. B so it's pretty clear that the interest of the heirs of Mr. C is still existent in the profits and property of the firm and Mr. X wants to recover the amount not only from M/s ABC & Co. but also from the legal heirs of Mr. C he is justified in claiming such a recovery and his claim is legal and just according to the provisions of Section 37.

Q. 150

Mr. M, Mr. N and Mr. P were partners in a firm, which was dealing in refrigerators. On 1st October, 2018, Mr. P retired from partnership, but failed to give public notice of his retirement.

After his retirement, Mr. M, Mr. N and Mr. P visited a trade fair and enquired about some refrigerators with latest techniques. Mr. X, who was exhibiting his refrigerators with the new techniques was impressed with the interactions of Mr. P and requested for the visiting card of the firm. The visiting card also included the name of Mr. P as a partner even though he had already retired. Mr. X supplied some refrigerators to the firm and could not recover his dues from the firm. Now, Mr. X wants to recover the dues not only from the firm, but also from Mr. P.

Analyse the above case in terms of the provisions of the Indian Partnership Act, 1932 and decide whether Mr. P is liable in this situation. (3 marks; 2018 - Nov)

Answer:

According to the facts of this case it can be easily concluded that the contention of Mr. X for recovery of his dues from all the partners including Mr. P is quite justified and legal on ground of the provision under Section 32 of the Indian Partnership Act that states a retiring partner continues to be liable to third party for acts of the firm after his retirement until public notice of his retirement has been given. In this case no such notice has been given by Mr. P of his retirement and so he cannot escape the liability incurred by the firm in its business dealing with Mr. X.

Q. 151

He may give public notice of his election to continue or repudiate but if he fails to give any public notice within the period stated above, he will be deemed to have elected to become a partner in the firm. Since, then he will be liable as other partner to the third parties for all acts of the firm done since he was admitted to the benefits of-partnership. In the given case.

- (i) X will be liable to all third parties if he failed to give public notice after attaining majority.
- (ii) Yes, Mr, L a supplier to the firm, can recover his debt from x.

Q. 153

M, N and P were partners in a firm. The firm ordered JR Limited to supply the furniture. P dies, and M and N continues the business in the firm's name. The firm did not give any notice about P's death to the public or the persons dealing with the firm. The furniture was delivered to the firm after P's death, fact about his death was known to them at the time of delivery. Afterwards the firm became insolvent and failed to pay the price of furniture to JR Limited. Explain with reasons:

- (i) Whether P's private estate is liable for the price of furniture purchased by the firm?
- (ii) Whether does it make any difference if JR Limited supplied the furniture to the firm believing that all the three partners are alive?

(6 marks; 2021 - Jan)

Answer:

(i) Liability of estate of deceased partner (Sec.35 of Indian Partnership Act, 1932) Ordinarily, the effect of the death of a partner is the dissolution of the partnership, but the rule in regard to the dissolution of the partnership, by death of partner is subject to a contract between the parties and the partners are competent to agree that the death of one will not have the effect of dissolving the partnership as regards the surviving partners unless the firm consists of only two partners. In order that the estate of the deceased partner may be absolved from liability for the future obligations of the firm, it is not necessary to give any notice either to the public or the persons having dealings with the firm.'

Fact of the Case:

Only order was placed during the life time of Mr. P but no delivery of furniture was made during his lifetime.

Applying the above Provision:

Since as there was no debt due in respect of goods in P's lifetime so his estate will not be held liable for the payment of price of furniture to J.R. Limited.

Further death of partner do not require any public notice.

- (ii) It will not make any difference even if. JR Limited supplied the furniture to the firm believing that all the three partners are alive since after the death of any partner his estate is not liable for any act done by firm after his death.

And death of partner do not require public notice also.

Conclusion:

- (i) In this case, Mr. Das does not have any option for grievance redressal as per provisions of the Act.

Mr. A, Being a very senior partner of aged 78 years transfers his share in the firm to his son Mr. Prateek, a Chartered Accountant. Mr. B and Mr. C were not interested that Mr. Prateek join them as partner in M/S ABC Associates. After some time, Mr. Prateek felt that the books of accounts were displaying only a small amount as profit despite a huge turnover. He wanted to inspect the hook of accounts of the firm arguing that it is his entitlement as a transferee. I Ibwever, the other partners believed that he cannot challenge the books of accounts. Can Mr. Prateek, be introduced as a partner if his father wants to get a .retirement? As an advisor, help them resolve the issues applying the necessary provisions from the Indian Partnership Act, 1932.

(6 marks; 2022 - June)

Answer:

1. As per the ' Indian Partnership Act,-1932,
  - (i) A share in a partnership is transferable like any other property,
  - (ii) But as the partnership relationship is based on mutual confidence,

(iii) The assignee of a partner interest by sale, mortgage or otherwise cannot enjoy the same rights and privileges as the original partner.

2. The rights of such transferee are as follows:

(i) When the firm is continuing in business-

(a) Transferee is not entitled

- to interfere with the conduct of the business
- to require account, or
- to inspect the books of the firm.

(b) Transferee is only entitled to receive the share of profits of the transferring partner and he is bound to accept the profits as agreed to by the partners (ie. he cannot challenge the account.)

On retirement of the transferring partner or on dissolution of the firm-

(a) Transferee is entitled to receive the share of the assets of the firm to which the transferring partner was entitled.

(b) To ascertain his share, he is entitled to an account as from the date of the dissolution or retirement as the case may be. Hence, we can say that Mr. Prateek cannot be introduced as a partner in the firm as other partners have not agreed for the same. However, Mr. A can transfer his interest to Mr. Prateek. But Mr. Prateek cannot enjoy all the rights of a partner. Therefore, Mr. Prateek cannot challenge the books of accounts.

Q. 176

Comment on

(a) A retiring partner is required to give a public notice under the Partnership Law.

(5 marks; 1994 - Nov)

Answer:

A retiring partner is required to give a public notice under the partnership law: The law imposes a duty on the retiring partner to give public notice of his retirement. Public notice of this kind raises a presumption that those dealing with the firm including past and present customers have come to know that a particular partner has retired.

Sec. 32(4) provides that notice of retirement can be given either by the retired partner himself or by any partner of the continuing firm or by the firm itself. In the case of a registered firm, the notice must be given to three places, namely, the Registrar of Firms, the Official Gazette and at least one vernacular newspaper circulating in the district where the firm has its place or principal place of business. Where the firm is not registered, it is enough that the matter is announced in at least one vernacular newspaper circulating in the district where the firm has its place or principal place of business.

If the retiring partner fails to give such a notice then he continues to be liable for the acts of the acts of the firm even after his retirement and similarly, the firm will be bound by the acts of the retired partner done after retirement. This is based on the principle of holding out.

A retired partner will not be liable to any third party who deals with the firm without knowing that he was a partner. It is for this reason that no public notice need be given when a dormant or sleeping partner retires.

Q. 177

State briefly the consequences of non-registration of a partnership firm. (10 marks; 1994 - Nov)

Answer:

Consequences of Non-Registration of the Firm: Partnership is the result of an agreement between two or more persons. It need not necessarily be registered. Registration is optional and there is no penalty for non registration of the firm. Yet Section 69 of the Partnership Act imposes certain limitations on an unregistered firm, and these impediments compel a firm to get itself registered.

Following consequences will result from the non-registration of the firm:

- (i) No suit by Partners: A partner of an unregistered firm can not sue the firm or any of his present or past co-partners for the enforcement of any right arising from a contract conferred by the partnership act.
- (ii) No suit by a Firm: A firm can not sue a third party for the enforcement of any right arising from a contract (Puranmal Ganga Ram Vs. Central Bank of India, 1993).
- (iii) No right of set off: An unregistered firm or any partner thereof cannot claim a set off in a proceeding instituted against the firm by a third party to enforce a right arising from a contract. This right of set-off, however, is not affected if the claim of set-off is for less than M 00 in value.

Exceptions: Non-registration of a firm does not, however, affect the following rights, namely:

- (a) The right of third parties to sue the firm or any partner.
- (b) The right of partners to sue for the dissolution of the firm or for the form or for the accounts of a dissolved firm or for the realisation of the property of a dissolved firm.
- (c) An Official Receiver or Assignee of a Court acting for an insolvent partner of an unregistered firm may bring a suit for the realisation of the property of an insolvent partner.
- (d) The right of firm or partners of firm having no place of business in India.
- (e) The right to sue or claim a set-off if the value of suit does not exceed MOO.

- (f) Non-registration will not affect the enforcement of rights arising otherwise than out of a contract, e.g., for an injunction against wrongful infringement of a trade mark, trade name or patent of the firm.
- (g) A partner can bring a suit for damages for misconduct against another partner.

Q. 178

Comment on following:

- (a) Dissolution of a partnership is different from the dissolution of a firm. (5 marks; 1995 - May)

Answer:

Dissolution of partnership is different from the dissolution of a firm:

According to Indian Partnership Act there is a firm distinction between dissolution of firm and dissolution of partnership. Dissolution of the firm may not necessarily mean dissolution of a partnership as in the case of dissolution of a partnership the firm may continue with some of the remaining partners. According to Section 39, the dissolution of partnership between all the partners of a firm is called the “dissolution of the firm”. The words “between all the partners” as stated in this Section are very important. This means that the firm is said to be dissolved only when each and every member of the firm ceases to carry on the business in partnership. Thus, where one or more partners cease to be partners in the firm while other remain, as in the case of retirement or expulsion of a partner, the partnership is dissolved but the firm may not be dissolved, the remaining partners may continue to carry on the business of the firm.

The follows that the dissolution of a firm necessarily involves the dissolution of partnership whereas dissolution of partnership does not necessarily involve the dissolution of a firm.

Q. 179

When shall a retired partner be discharged from his liabilities for the acts of the firm before retirement? (5 marks; 1995 - May)

Answer:

Liability of a retiring partner: The retiring partner remains liable to the creditors for the acts of the firm done before and up to the date of his retirement. The retiring partner is also liable to third parties for all transactions of the firm begun but unfinished at the time of his retirement. On retirement of a partner, his co-partners may agree to release him from such debts as were existing up to the date of his retirement. But even then the retiring partner continues to be liable to creditors. A retiring partner can be released only if (a) the remaining partners agree to release him and a due notice about his retirement is given; (b) the creditor has expressly or impliedly agreed to release the retiring partner and to accept the reconstituted firm as his debtor.

Example: A, B and C are partners and D is their creditor, B retires. A and C agrees to release B from the liability. D also agrees with B and the reconstituted firm of A and C to release B. B is discharged from liability to D. The law imposes a duty on the retiring partner to give public notice of his retirement. If the retiring partner fails to give such a notice then he continues to be liable for the acts of the firm even after his retirement and similarly, the firm will be bound by the acts of the retired partner done after retirement. This is based on the principle of holding out.

A retired partner will not be liable to any third party who deals with the firm without knowing that he was a partner. It is for this reason that no public notice need be given when a dormant or sleeping partner retires.

Q. 180

Comment on the following:

(5 marks; 1996 - May)

Answer:

Non-registration of partnership: The Indian Partnership Act does not make the registration of firm compulsory nor does it impose any penalty for nonregistration. Section 69 of the Partnership Act, however, gives rise to certain disabilities on the ground of non-registration which are as follows:

1. The firm or any other person on its behalf cannot bring an action against the third party for the breach of contract entered into by the firm, unless the firm is registered and the persons suing are or have been shown in the register of firms as partners in the firm.
2. If an action is brought against the firm by a third party, then neither the firm nor the partner can claim any set-off, if the suit be valued for more than ₹ 100 or pursue other proceedings to enforce the rights arising from any conduct.
3. A partner of an unregistered firm is precluded from bringing legal action against the firm or any person alleged to be or to have been a partner in the firm. But such a person may sue for dissolution of the firm or for accounts and realisation of his share in the firm's property where the firm is dissolved.

Non-registration of a firm does not affect the right of third parties against the firm or its partners or the power of an official assignee, Receiver of Court under the Presidency Towns Insolvency Act, 1920 to realise the property of an insolvent partner.

Q. 181

What is the procedure of giving public notice of any matter in respect of Partnership Firms?

(5 marks; 1996 - Nov)

Answer:

Procedure of public notice: In every case where the public notice of any matter in respect of partnership firms is required to be given under the Partnership Act, 1932, it must be given by publication in the official gazette and in at least one vernacular newspaper circulating in the district where the firm of which it relates has its place or principal place of business.

In the case of registered firm, apart from the aforesaid notification, a notice is also required to be served on the Registrar of firms under Section 63 where the matters relate to (a) the retirement or expulsion of a partner, or (b) dissolution of the firm, or (c) the election, on attaining majority, to be or not to be a partner, by a person who as a minor was admitted to the benefit of partnership.

If notice of retirement is published only in local newspaper but not given to Registrar of firms and in Government Gazette, it is not sufficient to absolve retiring partner from liability to third parties.

Q. 182

Define 'Partnership' and state the procedure for its registration.

(10 marks; 1997 - May)

Answer:

Partnership is the relation between persons who have agreed to share the profits of a business carried on by all or any one of them acting for all. (Section 4).

The above definition of the Partnership given by the Indian Partnership Act, lays down three important elements:

- (i) It must be a result of an agreement between two or more persons;
- (ii) The agreement must be to share the profits of the business; and
- (iii) The business must be carried on by all or any of them acting for all.

All the above elements must co-exist before a partnership can come into existence. Thus existence of an agreement, a business, sharing of profits and mutual agency form a core part of the existence of a partnership. Procedure for Registration: The firm has to file a statement in the prescribed form either in person or by post with the prescribed fee, with the Registrar of the Firms of the area in which the firm is situated or is to be situated.

The Statement is to state the following particulars:

- (i) The firm's name.
- (ii) The principal place of business.
- (iii) The name of its other places of business.
- (iv) The date of joining of each partner.
- (v) The names in full and the permanent addresses of the partners, and
- (vi) The duration of the firm.

When the Registrar is satisfied that the above mentioned provisions have been complied with, he shall record an entry of this statement in the register (called the Register of Firms) and shall file the statement.

The registration shall be completed only when the firm receives a certification of Registration. However, registration is deemed to be complete as soon as the application in the prescribed form and with the prescribed fee with necessary details concerning the particulars of the partnership is delivered to the Registrar. The recording of an entry in the Register of firms is a routing duty of Registrar.

Q. 183

Explain the meaning of 'dissolution of a partnership firm'. When a dissolution of a firm takes place? (10 marks; 1997- Nov)

Answer:

Dissolution of a firm means the discontinuation of the jural relation existing between all the partners of the firm. But when only one of the partners retires or becomes incapacitated from acting as a partner due to death, insolvency or insanity, the partnership, i.e. the relationship between such a partner and others is dissolved, but the rest may decide to continue. In such cases, there is in practice no dissolution of the firm. The particular partner goes out, but the remaining partners carry on the business of the firm. In the case of dissolution of firm, on the other hand, the whole firm is dissolved. The partnership terminates as between each and every partner of the firm.

Section 39 of the Indian Partnership Act, defines it as follows:

"The dissolution of partnership between all the partners of a firm is called the dissolution of the firm". Thus, the business is stopped and the relations between all the partners come to an end.

When a dissolution of a firm takes place?

Dissolution of a firm may take place in the following manner (Sections 39-44):

1. As a result of any agreement between all the partners, this is called dissolution by agreement.
2. By the adjudication of all the partners, or of all the partners but one, as insolvent, this is known as compulsory dissolution.
3. By the business of the firm becoming unlawful, this is known as compulsory dissolution.
4. As per the agreement, upon happening of any of the following contingencies:
  - (a) Efflux of time;
  - (b) Completion of the venture for which it was entered into;
  - (c) Death of a partner;
  - (d) Insolvency of partner.

In case of death of a partner, the number of the partners if do not exceed two, the firm is to be dissolved. In case the number of partners is more than two, the firm may continue even after the death of one partner, provided other partners agree to do so.
5. By a partner giving notice of his intention to dissolve the firm, in case of partnership at will and the firm being dissolved as from the date mentioned as from the date of the communication of the notice; and
6. By intervention of court in case of:
  - (i) a partner becoming of unsound mind;
  - (ii) Permanent incapacity of a partner;
  - (iii) Misconduct of a partner affecting the business;
  - (iv) wilful persistence breach of agreement by a partner;
  - (v) Transfer or sale of the whole interest of partner;
  - (vi) Improbability of the business being carried on save at a loss;
  - (viii) The court being satisfied on other equitable grounds that the firm should be dissolved.

Q. 184

What will be the consequences in relations of partners of a partnership firm resulting from?

- (i) Insolvency of partner, and
- (ii) Death of a partner?

(5 marks; 1998 - May)

Answer:

Consequences of Insolvency and death of a partner:

- (i) Insolvency of a partner (Section 34): When a partner in a firm is adjudicated and insolvent. He ceases to be a partner on the date of the order of adjudication whether or not the firm is thereby dissolved. His estate (which thereupon vests in the official assignee) ceases to be liable for any act of the firm done after the date of the order, and the firm also is not liable for any act of such a partner after such date (whether or not under a contract between the partners the firm is dissolved by such adjudication).
- (ii) Death of a partner (Section 35): Where under a contract between the partners the firm is not dissolved by the death of a partner, the estate of a deceased partner is not liable for any act of the firm done after his death (Section 35).

Ordinarily, the effect of the death of a partner is the dissolution of the partnership, but the rule in regard to the dissolution of the partnership by death of a partner is subject to a contract between the parties and the partners are competent to agree that the death of one will not have the effect of dissolving the partnership as regards the surviving partners unless the firm consists of only two partners [Commissioner of Income Tax v. G.S Mill, AIR (1966) S.C. 24].

Section 35 deals with the situation where the firm continues its business without dissolution and lays down that, in such a case, the estate of a deceased partner is not to be held liable for any act of the firm done after his death. Proviso to Section 45 lays down an incidental rule applicable to a case where the death of a partner has caused dissolution of the firm.

In order that the estate of a deceased partner may be absolved from liability for the future obligations of the firm, it is not necessary to give any notice either to the public or the person having dealings with the firm.

Q. 185

State the matters for which a partner of partnership firm required to give 'Public Notice' under the provision of the Indian Partnership Act, 1932. State also the consequences for not giving a public notice where it is required to be given under the Partnership Act. (10 marks; 1998 - Nov)

1. On the retirement or expulsion of a partner from a registered firm.
2. On the dissolution of a registered firm.
3. On the election to become or not to become a partner in a registered firm by a minor on his attaining majority.

Consequences of not giving public notice as required above;

1. If a minor admitted to the benefits of partnership under Section 30 fails to give public notice within 6 months of his attaining majority or of his obtaining knowledge that he had been admitted to the benefits of partnership, whichever date is later, that he has elected to become or not to become a partner in the firm, he shall become a partner in the firm on the expiry of the said 6 months and is liable as a partner of the firm.
2. If a retiring partner does not give a public notice of the retirement from the firm under Section 32, he and the other partners shall continue to be liable as partners to third parties for any act done by any of them which would have been an act of the firm if done before the retirement.
3. If in case of expulsion of a partner from the firm a public notice is not given, the expelled partner and the other partners shall continue to be liable to third parties dealing with the firm as in the case of a retired partner. (Section 33).

4. If a public notice is not given on dissolution of a registered firm, the partners shall to be liable to third persons of any act done by any of them which would have been an act of the firm if done before the dissolution (Section 45). When public notice is given of the dissolution of a firm, no partner shall have authority to bind the firm except for certain specific purposes as given in Section 47. According to this section, after the dissolution of a firm, the authority of each partner to bind the firm and their mutual rights and obligations of the partners shall continue:

Q. 186

Explain briefly of the following:

Dissolution of partnership may or may not involve dissolution of firm. (5 marks; 1999 - Nov)

Answer:

Dissolution of partnership may or may not involve dissolution of firm:

The Indian Partnership Act, 1932 makes a distinction between the dissolution of partnership and dissolution of firm. Section 39 of the Act provides that the dissolution of partnership between all the partners of a firm is called the dissolution of the firm. Dissolution of partnership involves change in the relation of partners but it does not end the partnership. For example, where X, Y and Z were partners in a firm and X died or retired, the partnership firm would come to an end. If Y and Z agree to continue the business, the partnership between X, Y and Z would come to an end, although the firm of Y and Z continue in the firm. So the dissolution of a partnership may or may not include the dissolution of the firm, but the dissolution of the firm necessarily means the dissolution of the partnership as well. On the dissolution of partnership, the business may be carried on by the remaining constituted firm but on the dissolution of firm, all business must be stopped, the assets of the firm realised and distributed among the partners.

Q. 187

Is registration of a partnership firm necessary? Discuss the effects of non-registration of a firm.

(10 marks; 1999 - Nov)

Answer:

The registration of a firm is not compulsory. But an unregistered firm suffers from certain disabilities and so registration is necessary.

The effects of non-registration as provided in Section 69 of the Indian Partnership Act, 1932 are:

- (b) No suit can be filed on behalf of an unregistered firm against any third party for the purpose of enforcing a right arising from a contract.
- (c) An unregistered firm or any partner thereof cannot claim setoff in a suit instituted against the firm by a third party to enforce a right arising from a contract.

But the non-registration of a firm does not attract the following rights:

- (i) The right of a third party to sue the firm or any other partner.
- (ii) The right of a partner to sue for dissolution of firm or for accounts of a dissolved firm or any right or power to realise the property of a dissolved firm.
- (iii) The power of official assignee or receiver to realise the property of an insolvent partner.
- (iv) The rights of firms having no place of business in India.

Consequence of non-registration (Section 69):

Under the English Laws, the registration of firms is compulsory. Therefore, there is a penalty for non-registration of. firms. But the Indian Partnership Act, does not make the registration of firms compulsory nor does it impose any penalty for non-registration. However, under Section 69, non-registration of partnership given rise to a number of disabilities which we shall presently discuss. Q. 199

M/S XYZ & Associates, a partnership firm with X, Y, Z as senior partners were engaged in the business of carpet manufacturing and exporting to foreign countries. On 25th Aug. 2016, they inducted Mr. G an expert in the field of carpet manufacturing as their partner. On 10th Jan. 2018, Mr. G was blamed for unauthorized activities and thus expelled from the partnership by united approval of rest of the partners.

- (i) Examine whether action by the partners was justified or not?
- (ii) What should have the factors to be kept in mind prior expelling a partner from the firm by other partners according to the provisions of the Indian Partnership Act, 1932?

(6 marks; 2019 - June)

Answer:

A partner may not be expelled from a firm by a majority of partners except in exercise, in good faith of powers conferred by contract between the partners. It is, thus, essential that:

- (i) The power of expulsion must have existed in a contract between the partners.
- (ii) The power has been exercised by a majority of the partners, and
- (iii) It has been exercised in good faith.

If all these conditions are not present the expulsion is not deemed to be done in bonafide interest of the business of the firm.

If a partner is otherwise expelled, the expulsion is null and void.

Thus, action taken by partner in expelling partner G is valid.

Q. 201

Mr. R is an Indian citizen, and his stay in India during the immediately preceding financial year is for 130 days . He appoints Mr. S, a foreign citizen, as his nominee, who has stayed in India for 125 days during the immediately preceding financial year. Is Mr. R eligible to be incorporated as a One - Person Company (OPC) ? If yes, can he give the name of Mr. S in the memorandum of Association as his nominee? Justify your answers with relevant provisions of the Companies Act, 2013. (3 marks; 2022 - June)

Answer:

In this case Mr. R is eligible to be incorporated as a One-Person- Company (OPC), since his stay in India is for a period of atleast 120 days (he actually stayed for 130 days) during the proceeding financial year.

However Mr. R cannot give the name of Mr. S in the memorandum of-association as his nominee even though his stay in India during proceeding financial year is of atleast 120 days (actually he stayed for 125 days), since Mr. S is not an Indian Citizen, which is a statutory requirement.

Q. 202

Who is a Partner by "Holding Out" or "Estoppels"?

(2 marks; 2013 - Dec)

Answer:

If any person behaves and/or poses or presents in such a way that others consider him to be a partner, he will be held liable to those persons who have been misled, suffered or lent finance to the firm on assumption that he is a partner. Such a person is known as "Partner by Holding out or Estoppels." He is not a true partner and he is not entitled to any share in the profit in the firm.

Q. 203

What tests would apply for determining the existence of partnership? Discuss.

(3 marks; 2015 - June)

Answer:

As must be clear from the discussion of various elements of partnership, there is no single test of partnership.

For example, in one case there may be sharing of profits but may not be any business, in the other case there may be business but there may not be sharing of profits, in yet another case there may be both business and sharing of profits but the relationship between persons sharing the profits may not be that of principal and agent. And in either case, therefore, there is no partnership.

- Thus, all the essential elements of partnership must coexist in order to constitute a partnership.
- To emphasize this fact, Section 6 expressly provides that "in determining whether a group of persons is or is not a firm or whether a person is or is not a partner in a firm, regard shall be given to the real relation between the parties, as shown by all relevant facts taken together."
- Thus, the existence of partnership has to be determined with reference to the real intention of the parties, which must be gathered from all the facts of the case and the surrounding circumstances.

Q. 204

State your views on the following:

(a) A partner is not an agent of other partners in a partnership firm.

Q. 205

What are the rights of outgoing partners?

(9 marks; 2017 - June)

Answer:*Rights of outgoing partners

Section 36 provides that an outgoing partner may carry on a business competing with that of the firm. He may advertise such business, but, subject to contract to the contrary, he may not:

- Use the firm name;
- Represent himself as carrying on the business of the firm; or
- Solicit the custom of persons who were dealing with the firm before he ceased to be a partner.

Section 37 provides that in case where a partner has died or ceased to be a partner, the surviving and continuing partners may carry on the business of the firm with the property of the firm without any final settlement of accounts as between them and the outgoing partner or the estate of deceased partner. In the absence of a contract to the contrary, the outgoing partner or the representative of the deceased partner is entitled at the option:

- to such share of the profits made since he ceased to be a partner as may be attributable to the use of his share of the property of the firm; or
- To interest at 6% per annum on the amount his share in the property of the firm.

Where an option is given to surviving or continuing partners to purchase the interest of a deceased or outgoing partner and the same is duly exercised, the estate of the deceased partner or the outgoing partner is not entitled to any further or other share of profits. But if any partner, assuming to act in exercise of the option, does not, in all material respects comply with the terms, he is liable to account under the provisions of this section.

Q. 206

A, B and C were partner in a firm of drapers. The partnership deed authorized the expulsion of a partner when he was found guilty of flagrant breach of duty. A was convicted of travelling without ticket. On this ground, he was expelled by the other partners B and C. Is the expulsion justified?

(3 marks; 2014 - June)

Answer:

Yes, the expulsion is justified. In this case, the partnership deed authorized expulsion on the ground of flagrant breach of duty. Doing an act which brings a partner within the penalties of criminal law is flagrant breach of duty. Also, the expulsion decision was taken by majority of partners (Carmichel Vs. Evans (1904) 90 LT573).

Q. 207

A, B, C are partners in a firm. As per terms of the partnership deed, A is entitled to 20% of the partnership property and profits. A retires from firm and dies after 15 days. B, C continue business of the firm without settling accounts. What are the rights of A's legal representatives against the firm under the Indian Partnership Act, 1932?

(3 marks; 2014 - Dec)

Answer:

Section 37 of the Indian Partnership Act, 1932 provides that where a partner dies or otherwise ceases to be a partner and there is no final settlement of account between the legal representatives of the deceased partner or the firms with the property of the firm, then in the absence of a contract to the contrary, the legal representatives of the deceased partner or the retired partner entitled to claim either.

- (a) such shares of the profits earned after the death or retirement of the partner which is attribute to the use of his share in the property of the firm; or
- (b) Interest at the rate of 6 per cent per annum on the amount of his share in the property.

Based on the aforesaid provisions of the Section 37 of the Indian Partnership Act, 1932 in the given problem, A's representative, at his option, can claim:

- (i) the 20% shares of profits (as per the partnership deed); or

Q. 208

Answer the questions:

- (a) Rohit and Anurag are partners in a firm. They borrowed a sum of ₹ 10,000 from Parul. Later on, Rohit becomes insolvent but his assets are sufficient to payback the loan. Parul compels Anurag for the payment of entire loan. Referring to the provisions of the Indian Partnership Act, 1932, examine the validity of Parul's claim and decide as to who may be held liable for the above loan. (3 marks; 2015 - June)
- (b) Arun, Varun and Tarun started a Kirana business in Chennai on 1st January, 2012 for a period of five years. The business resulted in a loss of Rs. 20,000 in the first year, Rs. 25,000 in the second year and Rs. 35,000 in the third year, Varun and Tarun wish to dissolve the firm while Arun wants to continue the business. Advise Varun and Tarun. (2 marks; 2015 - June)

Answer:

(a) The present problem is concerned with the contractual liability of the Partners. As stated in the Section 25 of the Indian Partnership Act, 1932, in partnership the liability of the partners is unlimited.

- The share of each partner in the partnership property along with his private property is liable for the discharge of partnership liabilities.
- The liability of the partners is not only unlimited but is also stated that a partner is both jointly and severally liable to third parties.
- However, every partner is liable jointly with other partner and also severally for the acts of the firm done while he is a partner.
- On the basis of above provisions, Parul can compel Anurag for the payment of entire loan. Anurag must pay the said loan and then he can recover the share of Rohit's loan from his property.

(b) As per provisions of Sec. 44(f) of Indian Partnership Act, 1932, Varun and Tarun are advised to make a petition to the Court for the dissolution of the firm on the ground that the firm cannot be carried on except at a loss. Since the firm was constituted for fixed term of five years it cannot be dissolved without the consent of all the partners and as such Varun and Tarun cannot compel Arun to dissolve the firm.

Q. 209

Akash, Ashish and Anil were partners in a firm. By his willful neglect and misconduct Anil caused serious loss to the business of the firm. After several warnings to Anil, Akash and Ashish passed a resolution expelling Anil from the firm. By another resolution they admitted Abhishek as a partner in place of Anil. Anil objects to his expulsion as also to the admission of Abhishek. Is he justified in his objections? (3 mark; 2015 - Dec)

Answer:

A partner may be expelled from a firm by majority of the partners only if,

- (a) The power to expel has been conferred by contract between the partners, and
- (b) Such a power has been exercised in good faith for the benefit of the firm.

The partner who is being expelled must be given reasonable notice and opportunity to explain his position and to remove the cause of his expulsion.

Yes, Anil is justified in his objections.

In the absence of an express agreement authorizing expulsion, the expulsion of a partner is not proper and is without any legal effect. [Section 33(1)] Anil's objection to the admission of Abhishek is also justified as a new partner can be admitted only with the consent of all the partners.[Section 31 (i)]

Q. 210

Mayur and Nupur purchased a taxi to ply it in partnership. They had done business for about a year when Mayur, without the consent of Nupur, disposed of the taxi. Nupur brought an action, to recover his share in the sale proceeds. Mayur's only defence was that the firm was not registered. Will Nupur succeed in her suit? (3 marks; 2015 - Dec)

Answer:

As per Section 69(3) of Indian Partnership Act, the term set off may be defined as the adjustment of debts by one party due to him from the other party who files a suit against him. It is another disability of the partners and of an unregistered firm that it cannot claim a set-off when a suit is filed against it.

Yes, Nupur will succeed in her suit. As the business had been closed on the sale of the taxi, the suit in the question is for claiming share of the assets of a dissolved firm.

Section 69(3) specially protects the right of a partner of an unregistered firm to sue for the realization of the property of a dissolved firm.

Q. 211

ABC & Co., a firm consists of three partners A, B and C having one-third share each in the firm. According to A and B, the activities of C are not in the interest of the partnership and thus want to expel C from the firm. Advise A and B whether they can do so quoting the relevant provisions of the Indian Partnership Act. (5 marks; 2016 - June)

Answer:

Expulsion of a partner (Sec. 33):

Expulsion of a partner is another event necessitating reconstitution of a firm. A partner may be expelled from a firm if the following conditions are satisfied:

- (a) Expulsion should be as per the express provisions in the agreement;
- (b) Power of expulsion should be exercised by majority of partners;
- (c) Expulsion should be in good faith.

Only when all the above three conditions are satisfied a partner can be expelled from a firm.

As stated above expulsion should be in good faith. The test of good faith may be:

- (i) Expulsion is in the interest of the firm
- (ii) Expelled partner has been given notice
- (iii) An opportunity of being heard has been afforded to the partner. Thus, in the given case A and B the majority partners can expel the partner only if the above conditions are satisfied and procedure as stated above has been followed. Further the invalid expulsion of a partner does not put an end to the partnership and it will be deemed to continue as before.

Q. 212

X and Y were partners carrying on a banking business. X had committed adultery on several women in the city and his wife had left on this ground. Y applied to the court for dissolution of the firm on this ground. Will he succeed? (5 marks; 2016 - Dec)

Answer:

As per Section 44(c) of Indian Partnership Act, 1932 sometimes, a partner is guilty of misconduct. When the Court is satisfied that the misconduct adversely affect the partnership business the Court may allow the dissolution of the firm. Y will not succeed. In this case, though X is guilty of misconduct but his misconduct does not have any adverse affect on their business as bankers [Snow v. Milform (1868) 18 LT142].

In the above case, the Court observed that how can it be said that a man's money is less safe because one of the partner commits adultery. It was further observed that in those cases where the moral conduct of a partner would affect the firm business, it can be a ground for dissolution of the firm, e.g. where a medical man had entered into partnership with another and it was found that his conduct was very immoral towards some of his patients, the firm can be dissolved on the ground of misconduct by the partner.

Q. 9

Explain Doctrine of 'Indoor Management' under the Companies Act, 2013. Also state the circumstances where the outsider cannot claim relief on the ground of 'Indoor Management'. (6 marks; 2021 - Jan)

Answer:

Doctrine of Indoor Management: The Doctrine of Indoor Management is the exception to the doctrine of constructive notice. The aforesaid doctrine of constructive notice does in no sense mean that outsiders are deemed to have notice of the internal affairs of the company.

For instance, if an act is authorised by the articles or memorandum, an outsider is entitled to assume that all the detailed formalities for doing that act have been observed. This can be explained with the help of a landmark case The Royal British Bank vs. Turquand. This is the doctrine of indoor management popularly known as Turquand Rule.

Facts of The Royal British Bank vs. Turquand

Mr. Turquand was the official manager (liquidator) of the insolvent Cameron's Coal Brook Steam, Coal and Swansea and Loughor Railway Company. It was incorporated under the Joint Stock Companies Act, 1844. The company had given a bond for £ 2,000 to the Royal British Bank, which secured the company's drawings on its current account. The bond was under the company's seal, signed by two directors and the secretary. When the company was sued, it alleged that under its registered deed of settlement (the articles of association), directors only had power to borrow up to an amount authorized by a company resolution.

A resolution had been passed but not specifying how much the directors could borrow.

Held, it was decided that the bond was valid, so the Royal British Bank could enforce the terms. He said the bank was deemed to be aware that the directors could borrow only up to the amount resolutions allowed. Articles of association were registered with Companies House, so there was constructive notice. But the bank could not be deemed to know which ordinary resolutions passed, because these were not registrable. The bond was valid because there was no requirement to look into the company's internal workings. This is the indoor management rule, that the company's indoor affairs are the company's problem.

Exceptions to the doctrine of Indoor Management:

Thus, you will notice that the aforementioned rule of Indoor Management is important to persons dealing with a company through its directors or other persons. They are entitled to assume that the acts of the directors or other officers of the company are validly performed, if they are within the scope of their apparent authority. So long as an act is valid under the articles, if done in a particular manner, an outsider dealing with the company is entitled to assume that it has been done in the manner required.

The above mentioned doctrine of Indoor Management or Turquand Rule has limitations of its own. That is to say, it is inapplicable to the following cases, namely:

(a) Actual or constructive knowledge of irregularity: The rule does not protect any person when the person dealing with the company has notice, whether actual or constructive, of the irregularity.

In Howard vs. Patent Ivory Manufacturing Co. where the directors could not defend the issue of debentures to themselves because they should have known that the extent to which they were lending money to the company required the assent of the general meeting which they had not obtained.

Likewise, in Morris vKansseen, a director could not defend an allotment of shares to him as he participated in the meeting, which made the allotment. His appointment as a director also fell through because none of the directors appointed him was validly in office.

(b) Suspicion of Irregularity: The doctrine in no way, rewards those who behave negligently. Where the person dealing with the company is put upon an inquiry, for example, where the transaction is unusual or not in the ordinary course of business, it is the duty of the outsider to make the necessary enquiry.

The protection of the "Turquand Rule" is also not available where the circumstances surrounding the contract are suspicious and therefore invite inquiry. Suspicion should arise, for example, from the fact that an officer is purporting to act in matter, which is apparently outside the scope of his authority. Where, for example, as in the case of Anand Bihari Lai vs. Dinshaw & Co. the plaintiff accepted a transfer of a company's property from its accountant, the transfer was held void. The plaintiff could not have supposed, in absence of a power of attorney that the accountant had authority to effect transfer of the company's property.

Similarly, in the case of Haughton & Co. v. Nothard, Lowe & Wills Ltd. where a person holding directorship in two companies agreed to apply the money of one company in payment of the debt to other, the court said that it was something so unusual "that the plaintiff were put upon inquiry to ascertain whether the persons making the contract had any authority in fact to make it." Any other rule would "place limited companies without any sufficient reasons for so doing, at the mercy of . any servant or agent who should purport to contract on their behalf."

(c) Forgery: The doctrine of indoor management applies only to irregularities which might otherwise affect a transaction but it cannot apply to forgery which must be regarded as nullity. Forgery may in circumstances exclude the 'Turquand Rule'. The only clear illustration is found in the Ruben v Great Fingall Consolidated. In this case the plaintiff was the transferee of a share certificate issued under the seal of the defendant's company. The company's secretary, who had a fixed the seal of the company and forged the signature of the two directors, issued the certificate.

The plaintiff contended that whether the signature were genuine or forged was a part of the internal management, and therefore, the company should be stopped from denying genuineness of the document. But it was held, that the rule has never been extended to cover such a complete forgery.

Ravi Private Limited has borrowed Rs. 5 crores from Mudra Finance Ltd. This debt is ultra vires to the company. Examine, whether the company is liable to pay this debt? State the remedy if any available to Mudra Finance Ltd.?

(4 marks; 2018 - May)

Answer:

When an act is performed, which though legal in itself, is not authorized by the object clause of the memorandum, or by the statute, it is said to be ultra- vires the company, and hence null and void. This is known as “Doctrine of ultra-vires”.

The impact of the doctrine of ultra-vires is that a company can neither be sued on an ultra-vires transaction, nor can sue on it. If you enter into a transaction which is ultra-vires the company, you cannot enforce it against the company.

If you have lent money to the company on such a transaction, you cannot recover it from the company. But, if the money has not been expended, then lender may bring an injunction order on the Co. to stop it from parting from it. This is because company does not becomes owner of it. However, if the money has been used, then lender slips into the shoes of the debtor paid - off and consequently can recover his loan to that extent.

In the given case, the transaction is ultra-vires and hence the company Ravi Private Limited is not liable to pay the debt. Mudra Finance Ltd. may bring an injunction order on Ravi Pvt. Ltd. to stop it from parting with the funds.

Q. 16

A company registered under Section 8 of the Companies Act, 2013, earned huge profits during the financial year ended on 31st March, 2018 due to some favourable policies declared by the Government of India and implemented by the company. Considering the development, some members of the company wanted the company to distribute dividends to the members of the company. They approached you to advise them about the maximum amount of dividend that can be declared by the company as per the provisions of the Companies Act, 2013. Examine the relevant provisions of the Companies Act, 2013 and advise the members accordingly. (4 marks; 2018 - Nov)

Answer:

According to the facts of this case there exists a situation in which certain members of a Section 8 company have approached a person for seeking relevant and informed advice on the amount of dividend that can be distributed amongst them from the pool of profits made over a financial year by a company registered under Section 8.

The first and foremost thing in this case that such members need to be educated about is the definition and objects of a Section 8 company which clearly states that “ a Section 8 company is formed to promote the charitable object of commerce, art, science, sports education, research, social welfare, religion, charity, protection of environment, etc, and a section 8 company intends to apply its profit in - (1) promoting its objects (2) - prohibiting the payment of any dividend to its members.

Now when it is clearly evident that a section 8 company is not statutorily bound to pay dividends to its members unlike a public or private company then automatically the demand of the members for dividend stands invalid and cannot be enforced on the company.

A credit period of one month was allowed to Mr. X, Before the due date Mr. X went to the company and wanted to repay the amount due from him. The Lender agreed and provided the above said loan. Later on Sound Syndicate Ltd. refused to repay the money borrowed on the pretext that no resolution authorizing such loan have been actually passed by the company and the lender should have enquired about the same prior providing such loan hence company not liable to pay such loan.

Analyse the above situation in terms of the provisions of Doctrine of Indoor Management under the Companies Act, 2013 and examine whether the contention of Sound Syndicate Ltd. is correct or not?

(4 marks; 2019 - June)

Answer:

As per the doctrine of Indoor Management, outsiders are entitled to assume that all the detailed formalities for doing an act authorised by the articles, have been observed. Outsider, is not at all required to inquire into the internal affair of the company. In case of The Royal British Bank Vs. Turquand, this doctrine was clearly explained. The bond signed by the director and secretary on behalf of the company, was held to be valid and bank was not required to inquire whether any ordinary resolution was passed or not. This is the Indoor Management rule, that the company's indoor affair are company's problem.

In the given case, the articles of the company, authorise the director to borrow on behalf of the company. Mr. Liddle a director borrowed money but, later on company denied its liability to repay on the pretext that no resolution was so passed and lender should have enquired about the same prior to providing the loan.

Held, the contention of Sound Syndicate Ltd. is not correct, as the outsider is not obligate^ to enquire into the internal affair of the company.

Answer:

As per Companies Act, 2013 a OPC cannot convert voluntarily into any kind of company unless two years have expired from the date of incorporation, except where the paid up share capital is increased beyond fifty lakh rupees or its average annual turnover during the relevant period exceeds two crore rupees.

In the given case Mr. Anil formed OPC on 16th April, 2018 and turnover for first financial year ending is about Rs. 2.25 crore. He wants to voluntarily convert it into a private limited company.

Held, Mr. Anil can do so as the threshold limit of turnover is crossed, thus the OPC can be converted into Private Limited Company even before expiry of two years from incorporation.

A, an assessee, had large income in the form of dividend and interest. In order to reduce his tax liability, he formed four private limited company and transferred his investments to them in exchange of their shares. The income earned by the companies was taken back by him as pretended loan. Can A be regarded as separate from the private limited company he formed? (3 marks; 2019 - Nov)

Answer:

The facts of the given case are similar to that Of "Dinshaw Manackjee Petit", it was held that the company was not a genuine company at all but merely the assessee himself disguised under the legal entity of a limited company. The assessee earned huge income by way of dividends and interest. So he opened some companies and purchased their shares in exchange of his income by way of dividend and interest. This income was transferred back to assessee by way of loan. The Court decided that the private companies were a share and the corporate veil was lifted to decide the real owner of the income

Thus, A cannot be regarded as separate from the private limited company he formed.

ABC Limited has allotted equity shares with voting rights to XYZ Limited worth Rs. 15 Crores and issued Non-Convertible Debentures worth Rs. 40 Crores during the Financial Year 2019-20. After that total Paid-up Equity Share Capital of the company is Rs. 100 Crores and Non-Convertible Debentures Stands at Rs. 120 Crores.

Define the Meaning of Associate Company and comment on whether ABC Limited and XYZ Limited would be called Associate Company as per the provisions of the Companies Act, 2013? (4 marks; 2020 - Nov)

Answer:

Associate Company:

Section 2(6) of the Companies Act, 2013:

Associate company in relation to another company means a company in which that other company has a significant influence, but which is not a subsidiary company of the company having such influence and includes a joint venture company.

Significant influence means control of atleast 20% of the total share capital of a business decisions under an agreement:

In the given case, ABC Ltd. is not an associate company. We will ignore the non-convertible portion and we will see the convertible portion which is also not stated thus we will do  $(15/100) \times 100 = 15\%$  Thus not touching 20% hence, it is not an associate company.

Q. 23

ABC Limited was registered as a public company.

There were 245 members in the company. Their details are as follows:

(Including 10 joint holders holding shares jointly in the name of father and son)

The Board of directors of the company propose to convert it into a private company. Advice whether reduction in the number of members is necessary for conversion. (4 marks; 2021 - Jan)

Answer:

According to section 2(68) of the Companies Act, 2013, "Private company" means a company having a minimum paid-up share capital as may be prescribed, and which by its articles, except in case of One Person Company, limits the number of its members to two hundred.

However, where two or more persons hold one or more shares in a company jointly, they shall, for the purposes of this clause, be treated as a single member. It is further provided that -

(A) Persons who are in the employment of the company; and

(B) Persons who, having been formerly in the employment of the company, were members of the company while in that employment and have continued to be members after the employment ceased,

Shall not be included in the number of members.

In the instant case, Total No. of Members of ABC Ltd. will be counted as follow:

1. Directors & their relatives -	190
2. Others (10 Couple) (10x1) -	10
	200

Since No. of member do not exceed 200. Therefore, there is no need for reduction in the number of members.

AK Private Limited has borrowed ₹ 36 crores from BK Finance Limited. However, as per memorandum of AK Private Limited the maximum borrowing power of the company is ₹ 30 crores. Examine, whether AK Private Limited is liable to pay this debt? State the remedy, if any available to BK Finance Limited.

(4 marks; 2021 - Dec)

Answer:

When an act is performed, which though legal in itself, is not authorized by the object clause of the memorandum, or by the statute, it is said to be ultra-vires the company, and hence null and void. This is known as " Doctrine of ultra vires".

The Impact of the doctrine of ultra vires is that a company can neither be sued on an ultra-vires transaction, nor can sue on it. If an individual enter into a transaction which is ultra vires the company, he/she cannot enforce it against the company.

If an individual have lent money to the company on such a transaction, He/She cannot recover it from the company. But if the money has not been expended, then lender may bring an injunction order on the company to stop it from parting from it. This is because company does not become owner of it. However, if the money has been used, then lender slips into the shoes of the debtor paid -off and consequently can recover his loan to that extent. In the given case, the transaction is ultra vires and hence the company AK Private Limited is not liable to pay the debt. BK Finance Limited may being injunction order on AK Pvt .Ltd. to stop it from parting with the funds.

BC Private Limited and its subsidiary KL Private Limited are holding 90,000 and 70,000 shares respectively in PQ Private Limited. The paid-up share capital of PQ Private Limited is ₹ 30 Lakhs (3 Lakhs equity shares of ₹ 10 each fully paid).

Analyse with reference to provisions of the Companies Act, 2013 whether PQ Private Limited is a subsidiary of BC Private Limited. What would be your answer if KL Private Limited is holding 1,60,000 shares in PQ Private Limited and no shares are held by BC Private Limited in PQ Private Limited?

(3 marks; 2021 - Dec) Also: RTP Dec 23

Answer:

Holding and subsidiary companies are relative terms. A subsidiary company in relation to any other-company means a company in which the holding company-

- (i) Controls the composition of the board of director, or
- (ii) Exercises or controls more than one-half of the total share capital either at its own or together with, one or more of its subsidiary companies.

If KL Pvt. Ltd. holds 160,000 shares in PQ Ltd. no shares are held by BC Pvt. Ltd. then KL Pvt. Ltd. will be the holding company of PQ Pvt. Ltd. and PQ Pvt. Ltd. will be subsidiary company of KL Pvt. Ltd.

The Articles of Association of Aarna Limited empowers its managing agents to borrow loans on behalf of the company. Ms. Anika, the director of the company, borrowed ₹ 18 Lakhs in name of the company from Quick Finance Limited , a non - banking finance company. Later on, Aarna Limited refused to repay the money borrowed on the pretext that no resolution authorizing such loan have been actually passed by the company and therefore the company is not liable to pay such loan. Decide whether the contention of Aarna Limited is correct in accordance with the provisions of the Companies Act, 2013? (4 marks; 2022 - June)

Answer:

According to the doctrine of Indoor management:

- (a) Outsider are safely entitled to assume that everything has been done properly, as far as the internal compliance and procedures by the company are concerned.
- (b) In other words, we can say that this doctrine says that everything that was required to be done by the company, will be assumed by the outsiders to have been done properly. This doctrine aims to protect the outsider against the company.

In the above case, Quick Finance Ltd. which is an outsider, hence, it need not enquire whether the necessary resolution was passed properly or not by the company. Even it no resolution was actually passed for authorizing the loan, company would be held liable to repay the loan .

In the light of above, we can say that contention of Aarna Ltd, is not correct.

Mr. R, a manufacturer of toys approached MNO Private Limited for supply of raw material worth ₹ 1,50,000/-. Mr. R was offered a credit period of one month. Mr. R went to the company prior to the due date and met Mr. C, an employee at the billing counter, who convinced the former that the payment can be made to him as the billing-cashier is on leave.

Mr. R paid the money and was issued a signed and sealed receipt by Mr. C. After the lapse of due date, Mr. R received a recovery notice from the company for the payment of ₹ 1,50,000/-.

Mr. R informed the company that he has already paid the above amount and | being an outsider had genuine reasons to trust Mr. C who claimed to be an employee and had issued him a receipt.

The Company filed a suit against Mr. "R for non-payment of dues. Discuss the fate of the suit and the liability of Mr. R towards company as on current date in consonance with the provision of The Companies Act 2013? Would your answer be different if a receipt under the company seal was not issued by Mr. C after receiving payment? (4 marks; 2022 - Dec)

Answer:

Doctrine of Indoor Management: The Doctrine of Indoor Management is the exception to the doctrine of constructive notice. The doctrine of constructive notice does not mean that outsiders are deemed to have notice of the internal affairs of the company for instance, if an act is authorised by the articles or memorandum, an outsider is entitled to assume that all the detailed formalities for doing that act have been observed.

The Doctrine of Indoor Management is important to persons dealing with a company through its directors or other persons. They are entitled to assume that the acts of the directors or other officers of the company are validly performed, if they are within the scope of their apparent authority. So long as an act is valid under the articles, if done in a particular manner, an outsider dealing with the company is entitled to assume that it has been done in the manner required.

In the given question, Mr. R has made payment to Mr. C and he (Mr. C) gave the receipt of the same to Mr. R.

Thus, it will be rightful on part of Mr. R to assume that Mr. C was also authorised to receive money on behalf of the company.

Hence, Mr. R will be free from liability for payment of goods purchased from MNO Private Limited, as he has paid amount due to an employee of the company.

It is affirmed means the answer would be different if a receipt under the company seal was not issued by Mr. C after receiving payment.

In this situation the company will be held liable and Mr. C can not escape from the liability.

Mr. Anil formed a One Person Company (OPC) on 16 April, 2018 for manufacturing electric cars. The turnover of the OPC for the financial year ended 31 March, 2019 was about 2.25 crores. His friend Sunil wanted to invest in his One Person Company (OPC), so they decided to convert it voluntarily into a private limited company. Can Anil do so, as per the provisions of The Companies Act, 2013. (4 marks; 2022 - Dec)

Answer:

The State Government of X, a state in the country is holding 48 lakh shares of Y Limited. The paid-up capital of Y Limited is ₹ 9.5 crore (95 lakh shares of ₹ 10 each). Y Limited directly holds 2,50,600 shares of Z Private Limited which is having share capital of ₹ 5 crore in the form of 5 lakh shares of ₹ 100 each. Z Private Limited claimed the status of a subsidiary company of Y Limited as well as a Government company. Advise as a legal advisor, whether Z Private Limited is a subsidiary company of Y Limited as well as a Government company under the provisions of the Companies Act, 2013?

According to Section 2(45) of the Companies Act, 2013, Government Company means any company in which not less than 51% of the paid-up share capital is held by-

- (i) the Central Government, or
- (ii) by any State Government or Governments, or
- (iii) partly by the Central Government and partly by one or more State Governments, and the section includes a company which is a subsidiary company of such a Government company.

As per Section 2(87) of the Companies Act, 2013, “subsidiary company” in relation to any other company (that is to say the holding company), means a company in which the holding company—

- (i) controls the composition of the Board of Directors; or
- (ii) exercises or controls more than one-half of the total voting power either at its own or together with one or more of its subsidiary companies.

In the instant case, the State Government of X, a state in the country is holding 48 Lakh shares in Y Limited which is below 51% of the paid up share capital of Y Limited i.e. 48.45 Lakh shares (51% of 95 Lakh shares). Hence Y Limited is not a Government Company.

Further, Y Limited directly holds 2,50,600 shares in Z Private Limited, which is more than one-half of the total shares of Z Limited i.e. 2,50,000 shares (50% of 5 Lakh shares). Thus, the Company controls more than one-half of the total voting power of Z Limited. Hence Z Private Limited is a subsidiary of Y Limited.

Therefore, we can conclude that Z Private Limited is a subsidiary of Y Limited but not a Government Company since Y Limited is not a Government Company.

Narendra Motors Limited is holding 5,05,000 shares in Shah Auto Private Limited. Shah Auto Private Limited claimed the status of Government Company. Advise as legal advisor, whether Shah Auto Private Limited is government company under the provisions of Companies Act, 2013?

According to the provisions of Section 2(45) of Companies Act, 2013, Government Company means any company in which not less than 51% of the paid-up share capital is held by-

- (i) the Central Government, or (ii) by any State Government or Governments, or
- (iii) partly by the Central Government and partly by one or more State Governments, and the section includes a company which is a subsidiary company of such a Government company.

According to Section 2(87), “subsidiary company” in relation to any other company (that is to say the holding company), means a company in which the holding exercises or controls more than one-half of the total voting power either at its own or together with one or more of its subsidiary companies.

By virtue of provisions of Section 2(87) of Companies Act, 2013, Shah Auto Private Limited is a subsidiary company of Narendra Motors Limited because Narendra Motors Limited is holding more than one-half of the total voting power in Shah Auto Private Limited. Further as per Section 2(45), a subsidiary company of Government Company is also termed as Government Company. Hence, Shah Auto Private Limited being subsidiary of Narendra Motors Limited will also be considered as Government Company.

ABC Limited has allotted equity shares with voting rights to XYZ Limited worth ₹ 15 crores and convertible preference shares worth ₹ 10 crores during the financial year 2022-23. After that the total share capital of the company is ₹ 100 crores.

Comment on whether XYZ Limited would be called an Associate Company as per the provisions of the Companies Act, 2013? Also define an Associate Company.

Associate company [Section 2(6) of the Companies Act, 2013] in relation to another company, means a company in which that other company has a significant influence, but which is not a subsidiary company of the company having such influence and includes a joint venture company.

The expression “significant influence” means control of at least twenty per cent of total voting power, or control of or participation in business decisions under an agreement.

The term “joint venture” means a joint arrangement whereby the parties that have joint control of the arrangement have rights to the net assets of the arrangement.

In the instant case, ABC Limited has allotted equity shares with voting rights to XYZ Limited worth ₹ 15 crore and convertible preference shares worth ₹10 crore during the financial year 2022-23 out of the total share capital of ABC Limited of ₹ 100 crore.

Since XYZ Limited is holding only 15% significant influence (₹ 15 crore equity shares with voting rights) in ABC Limited, which is less than twenty per cent, XYZ Limited is not an Associate company of ABC Limited.

Important Note:

It can be assumed that the convertible preference shareholders are having voting rights and due to this, XYZ Limited is holding overall 25% paid up share capital in ABC Limited (with voting rights). Hence, XYZ limited is having significant control over ABC Limited and therefore XYZ is an Associate company of ABC Limited.

(b) Explain the concept of ‘Corporate Veil’. Briefly state the circumstances when the corporate veil can be lifted as per the provisions of the Companies Act, 2013.

Corporate Veil: Corporate Veil refers to a legal concept whereby the company is identified separately from the members of the company. Due to this, members of a company are shielded from liability connected to the company's actions.

Lifting of Corporate Veil: The following are the cases where company law disregards the principle of corporate personality or the principle that the company is a legal entity distinct and separate from its shareholders or members:

- (1) To determine the character of the company i.e. to find out whether co-enemy or friend: It is true that, unlike a natural person, a company does not have mind or conscience; therefore, it cannot be a friend or foe. It may, however, be characterised as an enemy company, if its affairs are under the control of people of an enemy country. For this purpose, the Court may examine the character of the persons who are really at the helm of affairs of the company.
- (2) To protect revenue/tax: In certain matters concerning the law of taxes, duties and stamps particularly where question of the controlling interest is in issue. Where corporate entity is used to evade or circumvent tax, the Court can disregard the corporate identity.
- (3) To avoid a legal obligation: Where it was found that the sole purpose for the formation of the company was to use it as a device to reduce the amount to be paid by way of bonus to workmen, the Supreme Court upheld the piercing of the veil to look at the real transaction.
- (4) Formation of subsidiaries to act as agents: A company may sometimes be regarded as an agent or trustee of its members, or of another company, and may therefore be deemed to have lost its individuality in favour of its principal. Here the principal will be held liable for the acts of that company.
- (5) Company formed for fraud/improper conduct or to defeat law: Where the device of incorporation is adopted for some illegal or improper purpose, e.g., to defeat or circumvent law, to defraud creditors or to avoid legal obligations.

Whether the ABC Private Limited can avail the status of a Small Company in accordance with the provisions of the Companies Act, 2013? Also discuss the meaning of a Small Company.

Small Company: Small Company as defined under Section 2(85) of the Companies Act, 2013 means a company, other than a public company—

- (i) paid-up share capital of which does not exceed ₹ 4 crore or such higher amount as may be prescribed which shall not be more than ₹ 10 crore; and
- (ii) turnover of which as per profit and loss account for the immediately preceding financial year does not exceed ₹ 40 Crore or such higher amount as may be prescribed which shall not be more than ₹ 100 crore:

Exceptions: This clause shall not apply to:

- (A) a holding company or a subsidiary company;

In the Flower Fans Private Limited, there are only 5 members. All of them go in a boat on a pleasure trip into an open sea. The boat capsizes and all of them died being drowned. Explain with reference to the provisions of Companies Act, 2013:

- (i) Is Flower Fans Private Limited no longer in existence?
- (ii) Further is it correct to say that a company being an artificial person cannot own property and cannot sue or be sued?

(i) Perpetual Succession – A company on incorporation becomes a separate legal entity. It is an artificial legal person and have perpetual succession which means even if all the members of a company die, the company still continues to exist. It has permanent existence.

The existence of a company is independent of the lives of its members. It has a perpetual succession. In this problem, the company will continue as a legal entity. The company's existence is in no way affected by the death of all its members.

(ii) The statement given is incorrect. A company is an artificial person as it is created by a process other than natural birth. It is legal or judicial as it is created by law. It is a person since it is clothed with all the rights of an individual. Further, the company being a separate legal entity can own property, have banking account, raise loans, incur liabilities and enter into contracts. Even members can contract with company, acquire right against it or incur liability to it. It can sue and be sued in its own name. It can do everything which any natural person can do except be sent to jail, take an oath, marry or practice a learned profession. Hence, it is a legal person in its own sense.

ABC Limited was into sale and purchase of iron rods. This was the main object of the company mentioned in the Memorandum of Association. The company entered into a contract with Mr. John for some finance related work. Later on, the company repudiated the contract as being ultra vires. With reference to the same, briefly explain the doctrine of “ultravires” under the Companies Act, 2013. What are the consequences of ultravires acts of the company?

Doctrine of ultra vires: The meaning of the term ultra vires is simply “beyond (their) powers”. The legal phrase “ultra vires” is applicable only to acts done in excess of the legal powers of the doers. This presupposes that the powers in their nature are limited. It is a fundamental rule of Company Law that the objects of a company as stated in its memorandum can be departed from only to the extent permitted by the Act, thus far and no further. In consequence, any act done or a contract made by the company which travels beyond the powers not only of the directors but also of the company is wholly void and inoperative in law and is therefore not binding on the company. On this account, a company can be restrained from employing its fund for purposes other than those sanctioned by the memorandum. Likewise, it can be restrained from carrying on a trade different from the one it is authorised to carry on.

The impact of the doctrine of ultra vires is that a company can neither be sued on an ultra vires transaction, nor can it sue on it. Since the memorandum is a “public document”, it is open to public inspection. Therefore, when one deals with a company one is deemed to know about the powers of the company. If in spite of this you enter into a transaction which is ultra vires the company, you cannot enforce it against the company. An act which is ultra vires the company being void, cannot be ratified even by the unanimous consent of all the shareholders of the company.

Hence in the given case, ABC Limited cannot enter into a contract outside the purview of its object clause of Memorandum of Association as it becomes ultra vires and thus null and void.

According to doctrine of Indoor Management, persons dealing with the Company are presumed to have read the registered documents and to see that the proposed dealing is not inconsistent therewith, but they are not bound to do more; they need not enquire into the regularity of internal proceedings as required by Memorandum and Articles. This was also decided in case of Royal British Bank Vs. Turquand.

In the instant case, XYZ Private Limited have taken loan from reputed bank for ` 10,00,000 by passing Board Resolution while Special Resolution was necessary for such amount. BOD gave an undertaking to bank that Special Resolution has been passed for such loan. The bank on believing on such undertaking lends the money. On demanding the repayment of loan, company denied the payment as act was ultra vires to company.

On the basis of provisions of doctrine of indoor management, the bank can claim the amount of his loan from the company. The bank can believe on the undertaking given by board and no need to enquire further.

Jagannath Oils Limited is a public company and having 220 members. Of which 25 members were employee in the company during the period 1st April 2006 to 28th June 2016. They were allotted shares in Jagannath Oils Limited first time on 1st July 2007 which were sold by them on 1st August 2016. After some time, on 1st December 2016, each of those 25 members acquired shares in Jagannath Oils Limited which they are holding till date. Now company wants to convert itself into a private company. State with reasons:

- (a) Whether Jagannath Oils Limited is required to reduce the number of members.
- (b) Would your answer be different if above 25 members were the employee in Jagannath Oils Limited for the period from 1st April 2006 to 28th June 2017?

According to Section 2(68) of Companies Act, 2013, “Private company” means a company having a minimum paid-up share capital as may be prescribed, and which by its articles,—

- (i) restricts the right to transfer its shares;
  - (ii) except in case of One Person Company, limits the number of its members to two hundred:
- Provided that where two or more persons hold one or more shares in a company jointly, they shall, for the purposes of this clause, be treated as a single member:
Provided further that—

- (A) persons who are in the employment of the company; and
- (B) persons who, having been formerly in the employment of the company, were members of the company while in that employment and have continued to be members after the employment ceased, shall not be included in the number of members; and

(iii) prohibits any invitation to the public to subscribe for any securities of the company;

(a) Following the provisions of Section 2(68), 25 members were employees of the company but not during present membership which was started from 1st December 2016 i.e. after the date on which these 25 members were ceased to the employee in Jagannath Oils Limited. Hence, they will be considered as members for the purpose of the limit of 200 members. The company is required to reduce the number of members before converting it into a private company.

(b) On the other hand, if those 25 members were ceased to be employee on 28th June 2017, they were employee at the time of getting present membership.

Hence, they will not be counted as members for the purpose of the limit of 200 members and the total number of members for the purpose of this sub-section will be 195. Therefore, Jagannath Oils Limited is not required to reduce the number of members before converting it into a private company.

A, B and C has decided to set up a new club with name of ABC club having objects to promote welfare of Christian society. They planned to do charitable work or social activity for promoting the art work of economically weaker section of Christian society. The company obtained the status of section 8 company and started operating from 1st April, 2017 onwards.

However, on 30th September 2019, it was observed that ABC club was violating the objects of its objective clause due to which it was granted the status of section 8 Company under the Companies Act 2013.

Discuss what powers can be exercised by the central government against ABC club, in such a case?

Section 8 of the Companies Act, 2013 deals with the formation of companies which are formed to promote the charitable objects of commerce, art, science, education, sports etc. Such company intends to apply its profit in promoting its objects. Section 8 companies are registered by the Registrar only when a license is issued by the Central Government to them.

Since ABC Club was a Section 8 company and it was observed on 30th September, 2019 that it had started violating the objects of its objective clause. Hence in such a situation the following powers can be exercised by the Central Government:

(i) The Central Government may by order revoke the licence of the company where the company contravenes any of the requirements or the conditions of this sections subject to which a licence is issued or where the affairs of the company are conducted fraudulently, or violative of the objects of the company or prejudicial to public interest, and on revocation the Registrar shall put 'Limited' or 'Private Limited' against the company's name in the register. But before such revocation, the Central Government must give it a written notice of its intention to revoke the licence and opportunity to be heard in the matter.

(ii) Where a licence is revoked, the Central Government may, by order, if it is satisfied that it is essential in the public interest, direct that the company be wound up under this Act or amalgamated with another company registered under this section. However, no such order shall be made unless the company is given a reasonable opportunity of being heard.

(iii) Where a licence is revoked and where the Central Government is satisfied that it is essential in the public interest that the company registered under this section should be amalgamated with another company registered under this section and having similar objects, then, notwithstanding anything to the contrary contained in this Act, the Central Government may, by order, provide for such amalgamation to form a single company with such constitution, properties, powers, rights, interest, authorities and privileges and with such liabilities, duties and obligations as may be specified in the order.

An employee Mr. Karan signed a contract with his employer company ABC Limited that he will not solicit the customers after leaving the employment from the company. But after Mr. Karan left ABC Limited, he started up his own company PQR Limited and he started soliciting the customers of ABC Limited for his own business purposes.

Corporate Veil: Corporate Veil refers to a legal concept whereby the company is identified separately from the members of the company.

The term Corporate Veil refers to the concept that members of a company are shielded from liability connected to the company's actions. If the company incurs any debts or contravenes any laws, the corporate veil concept implies that members should not be liable for those errors. In other words, they enjoy corporate insulation.

Thus, the shareholders are protected from the acts of the company.

However, under certain exceptional circumstances the courts lift or pierce the corporate veil by ignoring the separate entity of the company and the promoters and other persons who have managed and controlled the affairs of the company. Thus, when the corporate veil is lifted by the courts, the promoters and persons exercising control over the affairs of the company are held personally liable for the acts and debts of the company.

The following are the cases where company law disregards the principle of corporate personality or the principle that the company is a legal entity distinct and separate from its shareholders or members:

- (i) To determine the character of the company i.e. to find out whether co-enemy or friend.
- (ii) To protect revenue/tax
- (iii) To avoid a legal obligation
- (iv) Formation of subsidiaries to act as agents
- (v) Company formed for fraud/improper conduct or to defeat law

Based on the above provisions and leading case law of Gilford Motor Co. Vs Horne, the company PQR Limited was created to avoid the legal obligation arising out of the contract, therefore that employee Mr. Karan and the company PQR Limited created by him should be treated as one and thus veil between the company and that person shall be lifted. Karan has formed the only for fraud/improper conduct or to defeat the law. Hence, he shall be personally held liable for the acts of the company.

A transport company wanted to obtain licences for its vehicles but could not obtain licences if applied in its own name. It, therefore, formed a subsidiary company and the application for licence was made in the name of the subsidiary company. The vehicles were to be transferred to the subsidiary company. Will the parent and the subsidiary company be treated as separate commercial units? Explain in the light of the provisions of the Companies Act, 2013.

If the subsidiary is formed to act as agent of the Principal Company, it may be deemed to have lost its individuality in favour of its principal. The veil of Corporate Personality is lifted and the principal will be held liable for the acts of subsidiary company.

The facts of the case are similar to the case of Merchandise Transport Limited vs. British Transport Commission (1982), wherein a transport company wanted to obtain licences for its vehicles but could not do so, if applied in its own name. It, therefore, formed a subsidiary company, and the application for the licence was made in the name of the subsidiary. The vehicles were to be transferred to the subsidiary company. Held, the parent and the subsidiary were held to be one commercial unit and the application for licences was rejected.

Hence, in this case the parent and the subsidiary company shall not be treated as separate commercial units.

ABC Pvt Ltd, has been overstating expenditures in their Profit & Loss account for the past few years. On Inquiry, it was found that the mere purpose was to avoid tax. However, there was no fraudulent intentions. Should the corporate veil of the company be lifted? Kindly justify.

Corporate veil refers to the concept that members of a company are shielded from liability connected to the company's action. It is the legal concept whereby the company is identified separately from the members of the company. However, under the below circumstances, the company law disregards the principle of corporate personality.

- To determine the character of the company
- To protect revenue/tax
- To avoid a legal obligation
- Formation of subsidiaries to act as agents
- Company formed for fraud/improper conduct.

In the given scenario, though the intention of the company was not fraudulent to defeat law, it had the intention of avoiding taxes and protecting revenue.
Hence, corporate veil should be lifted and the principles of corporate personality will be disregarded.

A Company registered under Section 8 of the Companies Act, 2013, has been consistently making profits for the past 5 years after a major change in the management structure. Few members contented that they are entitled to receive dividends. Can the company distribute dividend? If yes, what is the maximum percentage of dividend that can be distributed as per provisions of the Companies Act, 2013? Also, to discuss this along with other regular matters, the company kept a general meeting by giving only 14 days' notice. Is this valid?

A company registered under Section 8 of the Companies Act, 2013 is prohibited from the payment of any dividends to its members.

Hence in the given case, the contention of the members to distribute dividend from the profits earned is wrong.

Also, Section 8 company is allowed to call a general meeting by giving 14 days instead of 21 days.

Nolimit Private Company is incorporated as unlimited company having share capital of ` 10,00,000. One of its creditors, Mr. Samuel filed a suit against a shareholder Mr. Innocent for recovery of his debt against Nolimit Private Company. Mr. Innocent has given his plea in the court that he is not liable as he is just a shareholder. Explain, whether Mr. Samuel will be successful in recovering his dues from Mr. Innocent?

Section 2(92) of Companies Act, 2013, provides that an unlimited company means a company not having any limit on the liability of its members. The liability of each member extends to the whole amount of the company's debts and liabilities, but he will be entitled to claim contribution from other members. In case the company has share capital, the Articles of Association must state the amount of share capital and the amount of each share. So long as the company is a going concern the liability on the shares is the only liability which can be enforced by the company. The creditors can institute proceedings for winding up of the company for their claims. The official liquidator may call the members for their contribution towards the liabilities and debts of the company, which can be unlimited.

On the basis of above, it can be said that Mr. Samuel cannot directly claim his dues against the company from Mr. Innocent, the shareholder of the company even the company is an unlimited company. Mr. Innocent is liable upto his share capital. His unlimited liability will arise when official liquidator calls the members for their contribution towards the liabilities and debts of the company at the time of winding up of company.

Once a cheque is issued by the drawer, he is bound by it to discharge and merely because he issued a notice for stoppage of payment, it will not preclude an action under sec 138. Hence, the drawer of cheque will be liable for offence u / s 138 for dishonour of cheque.

Leading Cases: Modi Cements Ltd. Vs Kuchil Kumar Nandi.

Question-2

2018 - May [2] (d) Bholenath drew a cheque in favour of Surendar. After having issued the cheque, Bholenath requested Surendar not to present the 2 cheque for payment and gave a stop payment request to the bank in respect of the cheque issued to Surendar. Decide, under the provisions of The Negotiable Instruments Act, 1881 whether the said acts of Bholenath constitute an offence? (4 marks)

Answer

(d) Dishonour of cheque: The facts of the case are some what similar to Modi Cements Ltd vs. Kuchil Kumar Nandi. In this case, the Supreme Court held that once a cheque is issued by the drawer, a presumption, under Section 139 of the Act, follows and merely because the drawer issues a notice thereafter to the drawer or to the bank for stoppage of payment, it will not preclude on action under Section 138. This Section is a penal provision in the sense that once a cheque is drawn on an account kept by the drawer with his banker for payment of any amount of money to some other person from out of that account for the discharge of in whole or in part of any debt or other liability. The cheque is returned by the bank unpaid due to insufficiency of amount to honour cheques or the amount exceeding the arrangement made with the bank. 2018 Nov [6] (d) What are the circumstances under which a bill of exchange can be dishonoured by non-acceptance? Also, explain the consequences if a cheque gets dishonoured for insufficiency of funds in the account. (5 marks)

Answer

Dishonour by non-acceptance (Section 91, the Negotiable Instrument Act, 1881):

A bill may be dishonoured either by non-acceptance or by non-payment. A dishonour by non-acceptance may take place in any of the following circumstances:

An instrument is dishonoured by non-payment when the party primarily liable i.e. the acceptor of a bill, the maker of a note or the drawee of a cheque, make default in payment. Question-4

2019-May [2] (d) Explain the concept of 'Noting', 'Protest' and 'Protest for better security' as per the Negotiable Instruments Act, 1881. (3 marks)

Answer:

Noting:

As per Sec. 99 of the Negotiable Instruments Act, 1881, when a promissory note or bill of exchange has been dishonoured by non- acceptance or non-payment the holder may cause such dishonour to be noted by a notary public upon the instrument, or upon a paper attached thereto, or partly upon each.

Such note must be made within a reasonable time after dishonour, and must specify the date of dishonour, the reason, if any assigned for such dishonour, or if the instrument has not been expressly dishonoured, the reason why the holder treats it as dishonoured, and the notary's charges.

Protest:

As per Sec. 100 of the Negotiable Instrument Act, 1881, when a promissory note or bill of exchange has been dishonoured by non- acceptance or non-payment the holder may within a reasonable time, cause such dishonour to be noted and certified by a notary public. Such certificate is called a protest.

Protest for better Security:

When the acceptor of a bill of exchange has become insolvent, or his credit has been publicly impeached, before the maturity of the bill, the holder may within a reasonable time, cause a notary public to demand better security of the acceptor, and on its being refused may, within a reasonable time cause such facts to be noted and certified as aforesaid. Such certificate is called a protest for better security.

Question-5

2019-May [3] (c) (ii) A Bill of Exchange was made without mentioning any time for payment. The holder added the words "on demand" on the face of the instrument. Does this amount to any material alteration? Explain. (2 marks)

Answer:

As per the provisions of the Negotiable Instruments Act, 1881, material alteration means the alterations in the material part of the instrument resulting in the alteration in the basic parts of the nature and legal effects of the instruments and the liabilities of the parties.

A bill of Exchange was made without mentioning any time for payment. The holder added the words "on demand" on the face of the instrument. As per the provisions of the Negotiable Instruments Act, 1881, this is not a material alteration as a bill of exchange where no date of payment is specified will be treated as payable on demand. Hence, adding the words "on demand" does not alter the business effect of the instrument.

Question-6

2021 - July [3] (c) Examine the following cases with respect to their validity. State your answer with reasons.

(i) A bill of exchange is drawn, mentioning expressly as 'payable on demand'. The bill will be at maturity for payment on 04-01-2021, if presented on 01-01-2021.

(ii) A holder gives notice of dishonor of a bill to all the parties except the acceptor. The drawer claims that he is discharged from his liability as the holder fails to give notice of dishonour of the bill to all the parties thereto.

(4 marks)

Answer:

(i) Payable on demand means, it should be payable whenever the holder chooses to present it to the drawee. This statement is not valid as no days of grace are allowed in the case of bill payable on demand.

(ii) As per section 93 of the Negotiable Instruments Act, 1881, notice of dishonor must be given by the holder to all parties other than the maker or the acceptor or the drawee whom the holder seeks to make liable. Accordingly, notice of dishonour to the acceptor of a bill is not necessary. Therefore, claim of drawer that he is discharged from his liability on account of holder's failure to give notice to all the parties thereto, is invalid.

Question-7

2014-May[5] (a) (i) A' issued a cheque for 5000/- to b, b did not present the cheque for payment within reasonable period. The Bank fails. However, when the cheque was ought to be presented to the bank there was sufficient fund to make payment of the cheque. Now B demands payment for A decided the liability of A under the Negotiable Instruments Act, 1881.

(4 marks)

Answer

Provision:

According to Sec. 84 of the Negotiable Instruments Act, 1881, where a cheque is not presented for payment within a reasonable time of its issue and the drawer suffers actual damage through the delay because of the failure of the bank, he is discharged to the extent of such damage. If at any time the bank fails, the drawer had the full amount of the cheque with the banker for the payment of the cheque, he will be discharged in full. In knowing what is a reasonable time regard shall be paid to the nature of the instrument the usage of trade and of banker and the facts of the particular case.

Thus by using the above provision to the given problem as the payee has not presented the cheque to the drawer's bank within a reasonable time when the drawer had funds to clear the cheque and the drawer has suffered actual damage, then the drawer is discharged from the liability.

Present case:

As per the provisions mentioned above since B has not presented the cheque on time (when he had funds to clear the cheque) A stands discharged. Thus, B cannot demand payment from A. A is not liable.

Question-8

2014 - Nov [5] (a) (ii) S by inducing T obtains a Bill of Exchange from him fraudulently in his (S) favour. Later, he enters into a commercial deal and endorses the bill to U towards consideration to him (U) for the deal. U takes the bill as a Holder-in-due-course. U subsequently endorses the bill to S for value, as consideration to S for some other deal. On maturity the bill is dishonoured. S sues T for the recovery of the money. With reference to the provisions of the Negotiable Instruments Act, 1881 decide whether S will succeed in the case or not.

(4 marks)

Answer:

Provision:

The problem stated in the question is based on the provisions of the Negotiable Instrument Act, 1881 as contained in Sec. 53. The section provides once a negotiable instrument passes through the hands of a holder in due courses, it gets cleared of its defects provided the holder was himself not a party to the fraud or illegality which affected the instrument in some stage of its journey. Thus any defect in the title to the transferor will not affect the rights of the holder in due course even if he had knowledge of the prior defect provided he is himself not a party to the fraud. (Sec. 53)

Thus applying above provisions it is quite clear that S who originally induced T in obtaining the bill of exchange in question fraudulently, cannot succeed in the case. The reason is obvious as S himself was a party to the fraud.

Question-9

2015-May [5] (a) (ii) note in favour of 'R' Negotiable Instruments 'P', a major and 'Q', a minor executed a promissory Note with reference to the provisions of the Act, 1881, the validity of the promissory note and whether it is binding on 'P' and 'Q'. (4 marks)

Answer:

Provision:

Minor being a party to a negotiable instrument: Every person who is competent to enter into a contract has the right to incur liability by making, drawing, endorsing, accepting, delivering and negotiating the negotiable instruments (Sec. 26).

An agreement with a minor is void, so he cannot bind himself by becoming a party to a negotiable instrument. But the instrument can be drawn or endorsed as to bind all other parties.

Present Case:

'P', a major and 'Q', a minor executed a promissory note in favour of 'R'. Examine with reference to the provisions of the Negotiable Instruments Act, 1881, the validity of the promissory note and whether it is binding on 'P' and 'Q'.

Thus, by view Sec. 26, the promissory note executed by P and Q is valid even though a minor is a party to it. Q being minor is not liable, but his immunity from liability does not absolve the other joint promisor, namely P from liability.

Question-10

2015-Nov [5] (a) (i) Mr. A is the payee of an order cheque. Mr. B steals the cheque and forges Mr. A's signature and endorses the cheque in his own favour. Mr. B then further endorses the cheque to Mr. C, who takes the cheque in good faith and for valuable consideration. Examine the validity of the cheque as per the provisions of the Negotiable Instruments Act, 1881 and also state whether Mr. C can claim the privileges of a Holder-in-Due course? (4 marks)

Answer:

Provisions: A forged NI is a nullity. Forgery confers no title. A holder of forged instrument acquires no title. Thus in case of forged endorsement, the person claiming under forged endorsement even if he is a holder in due course cannot acquire rights of holder in due course.

Present Case: Therefore, Mr. C acquires no title on the cheque.

Question-11

2016-Nov [5] (a) (i) Discuss with reasons, in the following given conditions, whether 'M' can be called as a "holder" under the Negotiable Instruments Act, 1881:

(1) 'M', the payee of the cheque, who is prohibited by a court order from receiving the amount of the cheque.

(2) 'M' the agent of 'Q', is entrusted with an instrument without endorsement by 'Q' who is the payee. (4 marks)

Answer:

Person to be called as a holder: As per section 8 of the Negotiable instruments Act, 1881, 'holder' of a Negotiable Instrument means any person entitled in his own name to the possession of it and to receive or recover the amount due thereon from the parties thereto.

On applying the above provision in the given cases-

1. 'M' is not a 'holder' because to be called as a 'holder' he must be entitled not only to the possession of the instrument but also to receive the amount mentioned therein.

2. No, 'M' is not a holder. While the agent may receive payment of the amount mentioned in the cheque, yet he cannot be called the holder thereof because he has no right to sue on the instrument in his own name.

Question-12

2016-Nov [5] (a) (ii) 'F' by inducing 'G' obtains a Bill of Exchange from him fraudulently in his (F) favour. Later, he enters into a commercial deal with 'H' and endorses the Bill to him (H) towards consideration for the deal. 'H' takes the bill as a holder-in-due-course. 'H' subsequently endorses the bill to 'F' for value as consideration to 'F' for some other deal. On maturity the bill is dishonoured. 'F' sues 'G' for the recovery of the money. With reference to the provisions of the Negotiable Instruments Act, 1881, explain whether 'F' will succeed in this case. (4 marks)

Answer:

The problem stated in the question is based on the provisions of the Negotiable Instrument Act, 1881 as contained in Sec. 53.

The section provides once a negotiable instrument passes through the hands of a holder in due course, it gets cleared of its defects provided the holder was himself not a party to the fraud or illegality which affected the instrument in some stage of its journey. Thus any defect in the title to the transferor will not affect the rights of the holder in due course even if he had knowledge of the prior defect provided he is himself not a party to the fraud. (Sec. 53)

Thus, applying above provisions it is quite clear that F who originally induced G in obtaining the bill of exchange in question fraudulently, cannot succeed in the case. The reason is obvious as F himself was a party to the fraud.

Question-13

2017-Nov [5] (a) (ii) 'E' is the holder of a bill of exchange made payable to the order of 'F'. The bill of exchange contains the following endorsements in blank:

First endorsement 'F',

Second endorsement 'G',

Third endorsement 'H' and

Fourth endorsement 'I'

'E' strikes out, without I's consent, the endorsements by 'G' and 'H'. Decide with reasons whether 'E' is entitled to recover anything from 'I' under the provisions of Negotiable Instruments Act, 1881. (4 marks)

Answer:

Provisions:

The question asked above is based on the provision of Sec. 40 of the Negotiable Instruments Act, 1881.

Accordingly, where the holder of a Negotiable Instrument without the consent of the endorser destroys or impairs the endorser's remedy against a prior party the endorser is discharged from liability to the holder to the same extent as if the instrument had been paid at maturity.

Present Case:

E' is the holder of a bill of exchange made payable to the order of 'F'. The bill of exchange contains the following endorsements in blank:

First endorsement 'F'

Second endorsement 'G'

Third endorsement 'H'

Fourth endorsement 'I'

'E' strikes out, without I's consent, the endorsement by 'G' and 'H'.

Thus if the endorsements of 'H' and 'G' are struck out without the consent of 'I', 'E' will not be entitled to recover anything from 'I', the reason being that as between 'H' and 'I' 'H' is the principal debtor and 'I' is the surety. If 'H' is released by the holder under Sec. 39 of the Act, 'I' being surety will be discharged. In this given problem, the rule may be stated thus that when the holder without the consent of the endorser impairs the endorser's remedy against a prior party, the endorser is discharged from liability to the holder.

Question-14

2018-May [2] (c) Mr. V draws a cheque of ₹ 11,000 and gives to Mr. B by way of gift.

State with reason whether:

(1) Mr. B is a holder in due course as per the Negotiable Instrument Act, 1881?

(2) Mr. B is entitled to receive the amount of ₹ 11,000 from the bank?

(4 marks)

Answer:

Holder in due course:

In the words of Section 8 of the Negotiable Instruments Act, 1881, 'Holder in due course' means any person who for consideration became the possessor of the negotiable instrument, if payable to bearer, or the payee or indorsee thereof, if payable to order, before the amount mentioned in it becomes payable and without having sufficient cause to believe that defect existed in the title of the person from whom he delivered his title.

The Consideration to be fulfilled by the person named holder in due course are as follows:

1. He must be a holder
2. He must have become the holder of the instrument before its maturity.
3. The instrument must be received by the holder in good faith.
4. He must have become the holder for valuable consideration.
5. The instrument must be complete and regular on the face of it.

Present Case:

1. Mr. B is not a holder in due course as he does not get the cheque for value and consideration.
2. Although not a holder in due course yet Mr. B is a holder. This title is from the bank on whom the cheque is drawn.

Question-15

2018-May [6] (d) State the rules laid down by the Negotiable Instruments Act, 1881 for ascertaining the date of maturity of a bill of exchange.

(5 marks)

Answer:

The maturity of a bill of exchange or promissory note is the date on which it falls due. The question of maturity becomes important where a bill or note is payable at fixed period after sight. A note or bill not payable on demand, at sight or on presentment is at maturity on the third day after the day on which it is payable. Three days are allowed as days of grace (Sec. 22). In case of a note or bills payable on demand at sight on presentment, no. days of grace are allowed.

Question-18

2019-May [1] (C) (e) Ram purchases some goods on credit from Singh, payable within 3 months. After 2 months, Ram makes out a blank cheque in favour of Singh, signs and delivers it to Singh with a request to fill up the amount due, as Ram does not know the exact amount payable by him. Singh fills up fraudulently the amount larger than the amount payable by Ram and endorses the cheque to Chandra in full payment of Singh's own due. Ram's cheque is dishonoured. Referring to the provisions of the Negotiable Instruments Act, 1881, discuss the rights of Singh and Chandra. (3 marks)

Answer:

Sec. 44 of the Negotiable Instruments Act, 1881 is applicable in this case. According to Section 49 of this Act, Singh who is a party in immediate relation with the drawer of the cheque is entitled to recover from Ram only the exact amount due from Ram and not the amount entered in the cheque. However, the right of chandra, who is a holder for value, is not adversely affected and he can claim the full amount of the cheque from Singh.

Question-19

2019-May [3] (c) (i) 'M' draws bill on 'N'. 'N' accepts the bill without any consideration. The bill is transferred to 'O' without consideration. 'O' transferred it to 'P' for ₹ 10,000. On dishonor of the bill, 'P' sued 'O' for recovery of the value of ₹10,000. Examine whether 'O' has any right to action against M and N? (2 marks)

Answer:

Section 43 of the Negotiable Instruments Act, 1881 provides that a negotiable instrument made, drawn, accepted, endorsed or transferred without consideration, or for a consideration which fails, creates no obligation of payment between the parties to the transaction.

But if any such party has transferred the instrument with or without endorsement to a holder for a consideration, such holder, and every subsequent holder deriving title from him, may recover the amount on due on such instrument from the transferor for consideration or any prior party thereto.

Present Case:

In the problem, M has drawn a bill on N and N accepted the bill without consideration and transferred it to O without consideration. Later on in the next transfer by O to P is for ₹10,000. According to provisions of the aforesaid Section 43, the bill ultimately has been transferred to P with consideration. Therefore, P can sue any of the parties i.e. M, N and O, as P arrived a good title on it being taken with consideration. So P can sue on O. for recovery of ₹ 10,000.

Further, the prior parties before P i.e. M, N and O have no right of action inter se because first part of Section 43 clearly lays down that a negotiable instrument, made, drawn, accepted, endorsed or transferred without consideration, or for a consideration which fails, creates no obligation of payment between the parties to the transaction prior to the parties who receive it on consideration. So O has no right to action against M and N.

Question-20

2019 - Nov [1] (c) (d) 'A' draws a bill amounting ₹ 5,000 of 3 month's maturity period on 'B' but signs it in the fictitious name of 'C'. Bill is payable to the order of 'C' and it is duly accepted by 'B'. 'D' obtains the bill from 'A' and thus becomes its 'Holder-in-Due course. On maturity 'D' presents bill to 'B' for payment. Is 'B' bound to make the payment of the bill? Examine it referring to the provisions of the Negotiable Instruments Act, 1881.

(3 marks)*Answer:

This problem is based on the provision of Section 42 of the Negotiable Instruments Act, 1881. In case a bill of exchange is drawn payable to the drawer's order in a fictitious name and is endorsed by the same hand as the drawer's signature, it is not permissible for the acceptor to allege as against the holder in due course that such name is fictitious. Accordingly, B cannot avoid payment by raising the plea that the drawer C is fictitious. The only condition is that signature of C as drawer and as endorser must be in the same handwriting.

Question-21

2019-Nov [2] (d) Mr. X is the payee of an order cheque. Mr. Y steals the cheque and forges Mr. X signature and endorses the cheque in his own favour. Mr. Y then further endorses the cheque to Mr. Z, who takes the cheque in good faith and for valuable consideration. Examine the validity of the cheque as per provisions of the Negotiable Instruments Act, 1881 and/ also state whether Mr. Z can claim the privileges of holder-in-due-course. (3 marks)

Answer

As per Section 8 of the Negotiable Instruments Act, 1881 holder of a Negotiable Instrument means any person entitled in his own name to the possession of it and to receive or recover the amount due thereon from the parties thereto.

According to Sec.9 of Negotiable Instruments Act, 1881 holder in due course means any person who for consideration becomes the possessor of a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque if payable to bearer or the payee or endorsee thereof, if payable to order, before the amount in it became payable and without having sufficient cause to believe that any defect existed in the title of the person from whom he derives his title.

Present Case:

As Z in this case prima facie became a processor of the bill for value and in good faith before the bill became payable, he can be considered as a holder in due course.

But where a signature on the negotiable instrument is forged, it becomes a nullity. The holder of a forged instrument cannot enforce payment thereon. In the event of the holder (z) being able to obtain payment in spite of forgery, he cannot retain the money. A holder in due course is protected when there is defect in the title. But he derives no title when there is entire absence of title as in the case of forgery, Hence, Z cannot receive the amount on the bill.

Question-22

2019-Nov [3] (c) State whether the following alteration is material alteration under the provisions of the Negotiable Instruments Act, 1881. A promissory note was made without mentioning any time for payment. The holder added the words "on demand" on the face of the instrument. (4 marks)

Answer:

Provision:

An alteration is material which in any way alters the operation of the instrument and affects the liability of parties thereto. Any alteration is material (a) which alters the business effect of the instrument if used for any business purpose; (b) which causes it to speak a different language in legal effect from that which it originally spoke or which changes the legal identity or character of the instrument.

Present Case:

A Promissory note was made without mentioning any time for payment. The holder added the words "on demand" on the face of the instrument. As per Section 87 of the Negotiable Instruments Act, 1881 this is not a material alteration as a promissory note where no date of payment is specified will be treated as payable on demand. Hence, adding the words "on demand" does not alter the business effect of the document.

Question-23

2020 Nov [1] (d) State with reasons whether each of the following instruments is an Inland Instrument or a Foreign Instrument as per The Negotiable Instruments Act, 1881:

(i) Ram draws a Bill of Exchange in Delhi upon Shyam a resident of Jaipur and accepted to be payable in Thailand after 90 days of acceptance.

(ii) Ramesh draws a Bill of Exchange in Mumbai upon Suresh a resident of Australia and accepted to be payable in Chennai after 30 days of sight.

(iii) Ajay draws a Bill of Exchange in California upon Vijay a resident of Jodhpur and accepted to be payable in Kanpur after 6 months of acceptance.

(iv) Mukesh draws a Bill of Exchange in Lucknow upon Dinesh a resident of China and accepted to be payable in China after 45 days of acceptance. (4 marks)

Answer:

As per Sections 11 and 12, Inland Instrument means, any instrument drawn in or made in India and either payable in, or drawn upon any person Resident in India shall be deemed to be an Inland Instrument.

Any Instrument [Foreign] not so drawn, made or made payable shall be deemed to be foreign Instrument.

Following are the answers as to the nature of the Instruments:

- i. In first case, Bill is drawn in Delhi by Ram on a person (Shyam), a resident of Jaipur (though accepted to be payable in Thailand after 90 days) is an Inland instrument.
- ii. In second case, Ramesh draws a bill in Mumbai on Suresh resident of Australia and accepted to be payable in Chennai after 30 days of sight, is an Inland instrument.
- iii. In third case, Ajay draws a bill in California (which is situated outside India) and accepted to be payable in India (Kanpur), drawn upon Vijay, a person resident in India (Jodhpur), therefore the Instrument is a Foreign instrument.

Question-24

2020 - Nov [3] (d) Vikram accepts a Bill of Exchange for ₹50,000 which is an accommodation bill drawn by A on 1st January 2020 to be payable at Mumbai on 1 July 2020. A transfers the bill to B on 1st February 2020 without any consideration. B further transfers it to C on 1st March 2020 for value. Then C transfers it again to D on 1st April 2020 without consideration.

D holds the bill till maturity and on the due date of payment he presented the bill for payment but the bill is dishonoured by Vikram.

Discuss the rights of A, B, C and D to recover the amount of this bill as per the provisions of The Negotiable Instruments Act, 1881. (3 marks)

Answer:

As Per Section 8 Holder means a person who has a right to hold and who is entitled to Receive / Recover the amount due thereon from the Parties thereto.

- His Rights and Title are dependent on the transferors.
- He has Right to demand and Receive but does not have a Right to Sue.

As Per section 9, Holder in due course means a person who receive instrument, for a consideration. Before maturity and in a good faith.

- His Right and Title are independent on the transferor.
- He has Right to Demand & Receive and also have a Right to Sue.

Again according to section 43 of the Negotiable Instruments Act, 1881, a negotiable instrument made, drawn, accepted, indorsed, or transferred without consideration, or for a consideration which fails, creates no obligation of payment between the parties to the transaction. But if any such party has transferred the instrument with or without endorsement to a holder for consideration, such holder, and every subsequent holder deriving title from him, may recover the amount due on such instrument from the transferor for consideration or any prior party thereto.

In view of the above provisions, A and B have no right to recover the bill amount. But, C, being a holder for consideration and the subsequent party 2D have right to recover the amount of the bill.

Question-25

2020 - Nov [5] (a) (ii) Ram draws a cheque of 1 lakh. It was a bearer cheque. Ram kept the cheque with himself. After some time Ram gives this cheque to Shyam as a gift on his birthday. Decide whether Shyam is having a valid title over the cheque and whether Shyam is a holder in due course or not in relation to this cheque as per the Section 9 of the Negotiable Instruments Act 1881. (3 marks)

Answer:

Bearer instrument where the name of the payee is blank or where the name of payee is specified the words" or bearer" or where the last endorsement is 27 blank.

Such instrument can be negotiated by mere delivery.

So, in the given case, Ram draws a cheque of 1 lakhs. It was a bearer cheque, Ram kept the cheque with himself. After some time Ram give that cheque to Shyam as a gift on his birthday.

So, based on above mentioned provision, Shyam is having a valid title as bearer cheque can be negotiated by mere delivery. So, he has a valid title of that bearer cheque as per the provision of Negotiable Instrument Act, 1881.

(ii) A promissory note cannot be made payable to the bearer (Section 31 of Reserve Bank of India Act, 1934). Only the Reserve Bank or the Central Government can make or issue a promissory note 'payable to bearer'.

Question-27

2021 - Jan [1] {C} (d) Referring to the provisions of the Negotiable Instruments Act, 1881, examine the validity of the following:

A Bill of Exchange originally drawn by R for a sum of 10,000 but accepted by S only for 7,000. (3 marks)

Answer:

Provision:

As per the provisions of Section 86 of the Negotiable Instruments Act, 1881, if the holder of a bill of exchange acquiesces in a qualified acceptance, or one limited to part of the sum mentioned in the bill, or which substitutes a different place or time for payment, or which, where the drawees are not partners, is not signed by all the drawees, all previous parties whose consent is not obtained to such acceptance are discharged as against the holder and those claiming under him, unless on notice given by the holder they assent to such acceptance.

Explanation to the above section states that an acceptance is qualified where it undertakes the payment of part only of the sum ordered to be paid. In view of the above provisions, the bill, which has been drawn by R for 10,000/-, has been accepted by S only for 7,000/-. It is a clear case of qualified acceptance, which may either be rejected by R or he may give assent to the acceptance of ₹7,000/- only.

Question-28

2021-Jan [2] (d) A promissory note specifies that three months after, A will pay 10,000 to B or his order for value received. It is to be noted that no rate of interest has been stipulated in the promissory note. The promissory note falls due for payment on 01.09.2019 and paid on 31.10.2019 without any interest. Explaining the relevant provisions under the Negotiable Instruments Act, 1881, state whether B shall be entitled to claim interest on the overdue amount? (3 marks)

Answer:

When no rate of interest is specified in the instrument:

As per the provisions of Section 80 of the Negotiable Instruments Act, 1881, when no rate of interest is specified in the instrument, interest on the amount due thereon shall, notwithstanding any agreement relating to interest between any parties to the instrument, be calculated at the rate of eighteen per centum per annum, from the date at which the same ought to have been paid by the party charged, until tender or realization of the amount due thereon, or until such date after the institution of a suit to recover such amount as the Court directs.

Present Case:

In the given question, the promissory note falls due for payment on 1.9.2019 and was paid on 31.10.2019. The note does not mention any rate of interest, hence interest will be charged @ 18% p.a.

Thus, B shall be entitled to claim interest on the overdue amount for the period from 01.09.2019 to 31.10.2019, @ 18% p.a.

Question-29

2021-Jan [3] (c) Gireesh, a legal successor of Ripun, the deceased person, signs a Bill of Exchange in his own name admitting a liability of ₹ 50,000 i.e. the extent to which he inherits the assets from the deceased payable to Mukund after 3 months from 1st January, 2019. On maturity; when Mukund presents the bill to Gireesh, he (Gireesh) refuses to pay for the bill on the ground that since the original liability was that of Ripun, the deceased, therefore, he is not liable to pay for the bill. Referring to the provisions of the Negotiable Instruments Act, 1881 decide whether Mukund can succeed in recovering 50,000 from Gireesh. Would your answer be still the same in case Gireesh specified the limit of his liability in the bill and the value of his inheritance is more than the liability?

(4 marks)

Answer:

Liability of a legal representative (Section 29 of the Negotiable Instruments Act, 1881): A legal representative of a deceased person, who signs his name on a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque is liable personally thereon unless he expressly limits his liability to the extent of the assets received by him.

Thus, in the absence of an express contract to the contrary, the liability of a legal representative is unlimited.

However, a legal representative may, by an express agreement, limit his liability to the extent of the assets received by him. In the light of the stated provision, Mukund can succeed in recovering 50,000 from Gireesh as he has admitted liability of 50,000 i.e. to the extent of the assets received by him from the Ripun, the deceased.

Yes, the limit of liability specified in the bill by Gireesh, will remain same even if value of his inheritance is more than the liability, in case he specified the liability by an express agreement.

Question-30

2021 July [1] {C} (d) A signs his name on blank cheque with 'not negotiable crossing' which he gives to B with an authority to fill up a sum of 3,000 only. But B fills it for 5,000. B then endorsed it to C for a consideration of ₹ 5,000 who takes it in good faith. Examine whether C is entitled to recover the full amount of the instrument from B or A as per the provisions of the Negotiable Instruments Act, 1881.

(3 marks)

Answer:

Provision:

As per Section 130 of the Negotiable Instruments Act, 1881, a cheque marked "not negotiable" is a transferable instrument. The inclusion of the words 'not negotiable' however makes a significant difference in the transferability of the cheques i.e., they cannot be negotiated. The holder of such a cheque cannot acquire title better than that of the transferor.

Present Case:

A gave to B the blank cheque with 'not negotiable crossing'. B had an authority to fill only a sum of 3,000 but he filled it up ₹5,000. This makes B's title defective. B then endorsed it to C for consideration of ₹ 5,000.

Thus, as per above stated facts and provision, C is not entitled to recover the full amount from A or B as C cannot acquire a title better than that of the transferor (B).

Question-31

2021 - July [2] (d) Mr. Harsha donated 50,000 to an NGO by cheque for sponsoring the education of one child for one year. Later on he found that the NGO was a fraud and did not engage in philanthropic activities. He gave a "stop payment" instruction to his bankers and the cheque was not honoured by the bank as per his instruction. The NGO has sent a demand notice and threatened to file a case against 32 Harsha. Advise Mr. Harsha about the course of action available under the Negotiable Instruments Act,

(3 marks)

Answer:

As per the facts stated in the question Mr. Harsha after having issued the cheque, inform the bank not to honour the cheque for payment and as well gave a stop payment request.

Section 138 of the Negotiable Instruments Act, 1881, is a penal provision in the sense that once a cheque is drawn on an account maintained by the drawer with his banker for payment of any amount of money to another person out of that account for the discharge in whole or in part of any debt or liability is informed by the bank unpaid either because of insufficiency of funds to honour the cheques or the amount exceeding the arrangement made with the bank, such a person shall be deemed to have committed an offence.

However, any cheque given as gift or donation, or as a security or in discharge of a mere moral obligation, would be considered outside the purview of section 138.

Here, the cheque is given as a donation for the sponsoring child education for 1 year and is not legally enforceable debt or other liability on Mr. Harsha. Therefore, he is not liable for the donated amount which is not honoured by the bank to the NGO.

Question-33

2021-Dec [2] (d) A is a payee and holder of a bill of exchange. He endorses it in blank and delivers it to B. B endorses it in full to C or order. C without endorsement transfers the bill to D. State giving reasons whether D, as bearer of the bill of exchange, is entitled to recover the payment from A or B or C. (3 marks)

Answer:

According to Sec. 49 of the Negotiable Instruments Act, 1881, the holder of a negotiable instrument indorsed in blank may- without signing his own name, by writing above the endorser's signature a direction to pay to any other person as endorsee, convert the indorsement in blank into an indorsement in full; and the holder does not thereby incur the responsibility of an endorser.

According to Sec. 55, if a negotiable instrument, after having been indorsed in blank, is indorsed in full, the amount of it cannot be claimed from the endorser in full, except by the person to whom it has been indorsed in full, or by one who derives title through such person.

Present Case:

D as the bearer of the Bill of Exchange, is entitled to receive payment or to sue drawer, acceptor, or A who indorsed the bill in blank, but he cannot sue B or C.

Question-34

2021-Dec [3] (c) Referring the provisions of the Negotiable Instruments Act, 1881 give the answer of the following:

(i) A promissory note was made without mentioning any time for payment. The holder added the words 'on demand' on the face of the instrument. Whether this may be treated as material alteration in the instrument?

(ii) Ankit draws a cheque for ₹2,000 and hands it over to Shreya by way of gift. Whether Shreya is a holder in due course? (4 marks)

Answer:

(i) Material alteration: An alteration is material which in any way alters the operation of the instrument and affects the liability of parties thereto.

Any alteration is material

(a) which alters the business effect of the instrument if used for any business purpose; 3 ^ 4

(b) which causes it to speak a different language in legal effect from that which it originally spoke or which changes the legal identity or character of the instrument.

The following alteration are specifically declared to be material: any alteration of

(i) the date,

- (ii) the sum payable,
- (iii) the time of payment,
- (iv) the place of payment, or the addition of a place of payment.

A promissory note was made without mentioning any time for payment. The holder added the words "on demand" on the face of the instrument. As per the above provision of the Negotiable Instruments Act, 1881 this is not a material alteration as a promissory note where no date of payment is specified will be treated as payable on demand. Hence, adding the words "on demand" does not alter the business effect of the instrument.

(ii) Person to be called as a holder: As per section 8 of the Negotiable Instruments Act, 1881 'holder' of a Negotiable Instrument means any person entitled in his own name to the possession of it and to receive or recover the amount due thereon from the parties thereto.

Person holder in due course: Holder in due course means any person who for consideration became the possessor of a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque (if payable to bearer) or the payee or endorsee there of (if payable to order) before the amount mentioned in it became payable, and without having sufficient cause to believe that any defect existed in title of the person from whom he derived his title.

In the given case, Ankit draws a cheque for ₹ 2,000 and hands it over to Shreya by way of gift. Hence, Shreya can be termed as a holder because she has a right to possession and to receive the amount due in her own name.

But she cannot be termed as a holder in due course.

Question-36

2022 - May [2] (d) Healthcare Services Limited (the Bidder), bids the tender, floated by Super Care Hospital (the Tenderer), attaching a cheque dated 01.04.2021 for 5,00,000/- towards earnest money deposit. Since the tender process was extended, the Tenderer returned the cheque expiring on 30.06.2021 to the Bidder for its resubmission after having revalidated by changing the date of the cheque to 01.07.2021. Accordingly, the revalidated cheque was resubmitted by the Bidder to the Tenderer. The cheque presented by the Tenderer to the banker. It was dishonoured by the bank. Examine, whether, the cheque altered with a new date shall be deemed a valid cheque binding the Bidder for payment as per The Negotiable Instruments Act, 1881? (3 marks)

Answer:

As per the provisions of the Negotiable Instrument Act, 1881, the parties who has agreed to be liable on the original instrument cannot be made liable on the new contract contained in the altered instrument to which they never consented.

The party who consents to the alteration as well as the party who makes the alteration are disentitled to complain such alteration e.g. the drawer of the cheque himself altered the date of the cheque for validating or re- validating the same instrument, he cannot take advantage of it by saying that the cheque becomes void as there was a material alteration thereto.

It is always open to a drawer to voluntarily re-validate a negotiable instrument including cheque.

So, from the above provisions, in this case, the cheque altered with a new date shall be a valid cheque binding the bidder for the payment.

Question-37

2022 May [3] (c) 'A' draws a cheque ₹ 5,000 in favour of 'B'. 'A' had sufficient funds in his bank account to meet it, when the cheque ought to be presented in the bank. #### Question-40

2022 - Nov [3] (c) A bill of exchange was drawn by Mr. G on Mr. H for *50,000 towards the value of goods purchased by Mr. H from Mr. G. Mr. H accepted the bill and returned it back to Mr. G. After that Mr. G handed over the bill to his supplier Mr. K to settle the amount of a transaction. On the due date, Mr. K presented the bill before Mr. H for payment. Mr. H denied to make payment and the bill was dishonoured. After five days of the date of dishonour of the bill, Mr. K gave a written notice of dishonour by post with acknowledgment to Mr. G without knowing the fact that Mr. G had passed away one day back. After one month, thereafter, Mr. K claimed the amount from Mr. L, the only son of Mr. G, who was the only legal representative of Mr. G; Mr. L contended that the notice of dishonour was neither served to him nor he had received the notice of dishonour which was sent by Mr. K addressing to his father and therefore, he is not liable for the amount of the bill. Referring to the relevant provisions of the Negotiable Instruments Act, 1881, advise Mr. K, whether the contention of Mr. L is tenable.

Would your answer differ in case Mr. L contended that even though he received the notice of dishonour addressed to his father, since it was not addressed to him, he is not liable for the amount of the bill? (4 marks)

Answer:

As per Sec. 92 of the Negotiable Instrument Act, 1881, when a promissory Note, bill of exchange or cheque is dishonoured by non - payment or non acceptance, a notice of dishonour must be given by the holder or by a person liable for the instrument. As per Sec.97 of the Negotiable Instruments Act 1881, when the party to whom the notice of dishonour is dispatched is dead, but the party dispatching the notice is ignorant of his death, the notice is sufficient.

Facts of the case: A bill of exchange was drawn by Mr. G on Mr. H for *50,000 towards the value of goods purchased by Mr. H from Mr. G. Mr. H accepted the bill. After that, Mr. G handed over the bill to his supplier Mr. K to settle the amount of the transaction, on the due date, Mr. K presented the bill before Mr. H for payment. Mr. H refused to make payments, and the bill was dishonoured. After five days after the dishonour of the bill, Mr. K gave written notice of dishonour by post with acknowledgment to Mr. G without knowing the fact that Mr. G had passed away one day back. After one month, Mr. K claimed the amount from Mr. L, the only son of Mr. G, who was the only legal representative of Mr. G. Mr. L contended that the notice of dishonour was neither served to him nor he had received the notice of dishonour which was sent by Mr. K addressing to his father and therefore he is not liable for the amount of the bill.

Conclusion: In the present case, the contention of Mr. L is not valid as Mr. K did not have knowledge of Mr. G's death, and still, he gave a notice of dishonour addressed to Mr. G, so, the notice is valid, and Mr. L is liable for the amount.

In case Mr. L contended that he received the notice of dishonour addressed to his father, Mr. L will still be liable for the amount.

Answer

Negotiation by indorsement [Section 48 of the Negotiable Instruments Act, 1881]: Subject to the provisions of section 58, a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque payable to order, is negotiable by the holder by indorsement and delivery thereof. As per the given provision, as R does not become the holder of the cheque as the negotiation was not completed by delivery of the cheque to him. So, R cannot recover cheque, though endorsed in his favour.

Question-42

Mr. X draws a cheque in favour of Mr. R for payment of his outstanding dues of ` 5,00,000 on 26/07/2022 with date of 1/08/2022. At the time of issuing cheque, he was having sufficient balance in his account, but on 29/07/2022 he made payment for his taxes, now his bank account is left with only ` 4,50,000. So, Mr. X requested Mr. R not to present the cheque for payment, but he did not accept his request. So, Mr. X instructed the bank to stop payment of cheque issued for dated 01/08/2022 in favour of Mr. R. Decide, under the provisions of the Negotiable Instruments Act, 1881 whether the said acts of Mr. X constitute an offence? (3 marks)

Answer

As per the facts stated in the question, Mr. X (drawer) issued the cheque to Mr. R for outstanding dues of ` 5,00,000 on 26/07/2022 with the postdated cheque of 1/08/2022. But on 29/07/2022, he made payment for his taxes and left with bank balance of ` 4,50,000.

Mr. X requested Mr. R not to present the cheque for payment. Later, he gave a stop payment request to the bank in respect of the cheque issued to Mr. R

Where any cheque drawn by a person for consideration is returned by the bank unpaid because of the amount of money standing to the credit of that account is insufficient to honour the cheque such person shall be deemed to have committed an offence and shall be punishable. (Section 138)

Once a cheque is issued by the drawer, a presumption under section 139 of the Negotiable Instruments Act, 1881 follows and merely because the drawer issues a notice thereafter to the drawee or to the bank for stoppage of payment, it will not preclude an action under section 138.

Also, section 140 of the Negotiable Instruments Act, 1881, specifies absolute liability of the drawer of the cheque for commission of an offence under section 138 of the Act. Section 140 states that it shall not be a defence in a prosecution for an offence under section 138 that the drawer had no reason to believe when he issued the cheque that the cheque may be dishonoured on presentment for the reasons stated in that section.

Accordingly, the act of Mr. X, for stop payment constitutes an offence under the provisions of the Negotiable Instruments Act, 1881.

(4 Marks)*Answer

Person to be called as a holder: As per section 8 of the Negotiable Instruments Act, 1881 'holder' of a Negotiable Instrument means any person entitled in his own name to the possession of it and to receive or recover the amount due thereon from the parties thereto.

On applying the above provision in the given cases—

(iii) No, B is not a holder. While the agent may receive payment of the amount mentioned in the cheque, yet he cannot be called the holder thereof because he has no right to sue on the instrument in his own name.

Question-44

Calculate the date of maturity of the following bill of exchange explaining the relevant rules relating to determination of the date of maturity, as provided in the Negotiable Instruments Act, 1881.

(i) The bill of exchange drawn on 21/06/2023. Date of maturity of a bill payable 100 days after date.

(ii) A bill of exchange drawn on 20/04/2023 is payable twenty days after sight and the bill is presented for acceptance on 30/04/2023. (4 Marks)

Answer

According to section 22 of the Negotiable Instruments Act, 1881, the maturity of a promissory note or bill of exchange is the date at which it falls due. Every promissory note or bill of exchange (which is not expressed to be payable on demand, at sight or on presentment) is at maturity on the third day after the day on which it is expressed to be payable.

Section 25 provides, when the last day of grace falls on a day which is public holiday, the instrument is due and payable on the next preceding business day.

(i) As per section 24, in calculating the date at which a promissory note or bill of exchange made payable at certain number of days after date or after sight or after a certain event is at maturity, the day of the date, or of presentment for acceptance or sight, or of protest for non-acceptance, or on which the event happens, shall be excluded. A bill which is payable after sight is in the nature of time instrument.

Hence, in this case, the period of 100 days will start from 22nd June, 2023.

Month	No. of days in month to make 100 days
June	9
July	31
August	31
September	29

Thus, 100 days will end on 29th September, 2023. After 3 days of grace period are added to the bill of exchange, it falls due on 2nd October, 2023 which is a public holiday.

Accordingly, the date of maturity of the bill of exchange will fall due on 1st October, 2023 (i.e. the next preceding business day.)

(ii) In this case, the day on which the bill of exchange is presented for acceptance is to be taken into consideration i.e. 30th April, 2023. The period of 20 days will start from 1st May, 2023 and will end on 20th May, 2023. Being a time instrument payable after sight is allowed three days grace period as per section 22. Accordingly said bill will become mature, after 3 days of grace period to the due date, therefore, bill will be said to be matured on 23rd May, 2023.

Examine the liability of the Mr. Rama in this case. (4 Marks)

Answer

According to section 85(1) of the Negotiable Instruments Act, 1881, where a cheque payable to order purports to be indorsed by or on behalf of the payee, the banker is discharged by payment in due course. The banker, in other words, can debit his customers account even though the indorsement by the payee might turn out to be forgery or the indorsement might have been placed by the payee's agent without his authority.

According to section 14 of the Negotiable Instruments Act, 1881, when a negotiable instrument is transferred to any person with a view to constitute the person holder thereof, the instrument is deemed to have been negotiated. Thus, there is a transfer of ownership of the instrument.

In the given case, the cheque is transferred to Mr. SN Dhawan by Mr. Rama whereby Mr. SN Dhawan becomes the holder in due course and the ownership of the cheque is transferred to him. The banker can debit Mr. Rama's account even though the indorsement by the payee is forged. Since, the account of Mr. Rama has already been debited, and ownership of the cheque towards payment of the purchase price of the electric watch was transferred to Mr. SN Dhawan he (Mr. Rama) does not have any further liability in this case.
